The annual parish meeting of Grace church was held last night at the parish house, at which time vestrymen and wardens for various terms were elected. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector, presided, and in connection with the business of the evening he took occasion to thank the retiring members of the vestry for their efficient service in the past. The condition of the parish was reported to be satisfactory in every way.

These vestrymen and wardens were elected:

Vestrymen—Three years, Orville G. Waring, W. T. Pelletier, George S. Clay; two years, G. M. Holstein, J. Paul Nolting, E. F. Feickert; one year, F. W. Iredell, Marion S. Ackerman, William Palmer Smith. Wardens—two years, Howard Fleming; one year, W. T. Gough. Delegates to dioscean convention—John B. Dumont, Howard Fleming, George S. Clay; alternates, J. Paul Nolting, A. W. Kleinecke and E. F. Feickert.

With one exception all of the vestrymen and wardens were re-elected at the parish meeting of the Church of the Holy Cross last night. That exception was in the retirement of Frank Harrington, who declined to serve another year. Edwin S. Hooley was chosen in his place. Rev. George A. Warner, rector, presided at the meeting and there was the reception of the annual reports all showing the parish to be in fine condition, financially and spiritually. The extensive improvements underway, were stated to be progressing satisfactorily.

Dr. J. H. Carman was elected senior warden and Charles L. Nichols junior warden. The vestrymen elected are as follows: William L. Saunders, Everett Murray, Herbert Langford, Wesley Hegeman and Edwin S. Hooley. The delegates will be elected later.

The parish meeting of St. Stephen's church will be held Thursday night for the election of vestrymen and wardens and reception of reports.

The annual parish meeting of the Church of the Heavenly Rest is held in the spring of the year instead of at Advent.

HUNTER WAS INDISCREET.

Discharged his Gun in the Air and Cop Said He Might Have Shot an Angel.

Fred Randolph and Eldridge Cline, colored, went hunting near South Plainfield, yesterday, and somewhere along the route hit up a little booze. They were feeling pretty good at 6:30 last night as they were on their way home down Plainfield avenue and between Sherman avenue and Randolph road, Randolph pointed his gun in the air and let 'er go. Patrolman Flatley was nearby and placed the shooter under arrest on the ground that he was not only violating a city ordinance but might have shot an angel.

In the city court, this morning, Randolph expressed regret at having been so indiscreet and in view of recent good behavior Judge Runyon suspended sentence with a warning.

ALBERTO BUCCINI'S FINE ART EXHIBITION

Alberto Puccini, who is a frequent visitor to this city, where he has many friends, today opened an exhibition and sale of rural and decorative paintings and art silks at No. 347 Fifth avenue, New York, displaying one of the finest collections seen in that city this year. The exhibition will continue until Saturday night, and Mr. Buccini's local friends are invited to inspect it.

The choice paintings are figural, ornamental and floral and are especially designed for use in religious edifices, public buildings and private homes. The art silks are designed for the embellishment of private chambers and include a great and most attractive variety.

In his announcement, the exhibitor states: "In giving this exhibition of mural and decorative paintings the artist, Alberto Buccini, has in mind to acquaint the critical art taste of America with the latest European development in interior artistic decorative work. The artist is eminently fitted by his training and skill to execute this work. He has studied under his father, Eduardo Buccini, one of Italy's foremost artists, and other eminent artists of Europe, and in the leading acadamies in Paris, Rome and London."

COLD WAVE AND SNOW COMING FROM WEST

A cold wave is reported coming out of the West, and if the promise of the Weather Man is fulfilled Plainfielders will be going about tonight or to-morrow morning at latest with overcoat collars turned up and there will be a boom in woolen underwear and storm doors.

The disturber of existing conditions is a northwestern storm that late last night had got as far as Lake Superior, and in the wake of this storm is an area of high pressure, which is being driven toward the Middle Atlantic States by old Boreas. The outlook, the Weather Man says, is for snow or a cold sleet storm by tonight.

In anticipation of the coming of bad weather storm warnings were ordered displayed on the Atlantic Coast from the Delaware Breakwater to Eastport, Me.

There is the promise, however, that following the cold wave is an erratic section of warm wave headed this way, which may help out the snow removal man.

TO TEST ACKERMAN LAW IN THE COURTS

Counsel for Mayor Wittpenn, of Jersey City, was not able to get before the Supreme Court at Trenton yesterday the mandamus proceedings by which it is sought to compel City Clerk Fagan to send to the mayor the civil service ordinance passed by the board of aldermen on October 30. Counsel hoped that the case might be rushed through the Supreme Court so that it might be argued before the Court of Errors this term, but this can hardly be done now.

The city clerk is holding the ordinance that the matter may be presented to the court and the constitutionality of the whole Ackerman civil service law may be raised so that the court can pass on it. What the nature of the defense to the writ of mandamus is counsel yesterday declined to state.

NURSES ASSOCIATION MEETING HERE TODAY.

The Nurses Association of the State of New Jersey will hold its semi-annual meeting this afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium Amendments to the constitution is the principal business to come before the body.

Among the interesting speeches will be one by Miss L. L. Dock, of New York, on the conditions in almshouses. Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, of the First M. E. church, is to deliver the address of welcome and Dr. H. D. Corbusier will talk on sanitary work in the Philippines, also giving an account of the Boxer uprising in China as affecting the nurses stationed there.

School Trustees Meeting.

The North Plainfield Board of Education held its regular monthly meeting last night, transacting regular routine business. Nothing of importance came up for discussion.

Miss Marietta Sinclair, of Brooklyn, has returned home after a visit with friends here.

EXCISE MEN CONFERRING

State Commission Again in Session at Chairman Fisk's Office.

GETTING REPORT IN SHAPE.

Understood That Plan For a Uniform License Fee of $1,000 Has Been Given Up.

The State Excise Commission is holding a conference here today at the office of Mayor Charles J. Fisk. While the report to be presented to Governor J. Franklin Fort is practically completed, there yet remains much to be done to get it in the proper shape for presentation with a proposed law covering all of the recommendations of the commission. The task has been a long and tedious one and in consequence the report is expected to be volumnious. While no definite ideas can be learned as to the probable cost of this work, a conservative estimate places the figures at between $12,000 and $15,000. The commission has required the services of detectives and others in search of data, all of which has been expensive.

The members of the commission here today include Chairman C. J. Fisk, Peter Backes, John Howe, J. Kearney Rice, Caleb V. H. Wittbeck and George Smith. The other member, T. Frank Appleby, is in Europe.

A greater part of the day is being devoted to a consideration of a law which will combine the recommendations to be presented to the Legislature on December 15. This draft, it is said, was prepared by Mr. Backes and is being carefully gone over by the other members.

While little is known or can be learned regarding the forthcoming report, it is said that the recommendations will include elective excise boards in the different municipalities the salaries to be paid by those municipalities. It is further hinted that a provision will seek to prohibit wholesalers from selling in less quantity than a case and that there will be restrictive measures prohibiting a wholesale dealer in one place from selling in another town or city of the State.

Considerable time has been given to the consideration of a uniform license, and it is understood that the commission has given up the idea of making that fee $1,000, but that it will be a graded license fee according to the size of the municipality.

The report is now in the rough and no time can be lost in getting it into shape for presentation to Governor Fort if it is to be done on December 15. That is imperative as the essential features of the report will be a part of the Governor's annual message.

SHE WANTS WOMEN COPS IN BAYONNE

To demand that women be appointed to the police force of Bayonne, Mrs. Julia Goldzier, one of the leading advocates of women's rights, will appear before the Bayonne Common Council tomorrow night. Mayor Garven and the members of the Council have agreed to give her a hearing. She has agreed that she will not talk too long on the subject, but in a concise manner state exactly what she wants done. She will be accompanied by her husband and several women interested in the matter. Mr. Goldzier, who is a New York lawyer, will also speak in favor of women policemen.

Several months ago Mrs. Goldzier wrote letters to Mayor Garven and the Bayonne Common Council asking that women be appointed to the police force, but in each instance the letters were pigeon-holed.

FEW FROM PLAINFIELD ON THE PETIT JURY.

A new jury was drawn yesterday by Sheriff Kirkland, in the Union County Quarter Sessions Court, to serve in the various county courts for the rest of the term. Following is part of the list:

Plainfield—Abram Hart, Jabez C. Gilbert, August L. C. Marsh, Garrett T. Dunham, Gilbert B. Fletcher, Harry Drier, E. D. Middlekauf, Lester B. Harris, William H. Drayton.

Fanwood—Anthony Wahl, Frederick Schmidt, John F. Miller.

Thomas Hendry Improved.

Thomas Hendry, of West Fourth street, who has been seriously ill with blood poisoning of the knee for the past two weeks, is greatly improved today and is resting easily at his home. It was due to prompt medical aid on the part of Dr. P. B. Cregar that Mr. Hendry was saved from an operation.

"MARY JANE'S PA" A BIG THEATRICAL EVENT

One of the most interesting events of the local theatrical season takes place tonight at the New Plainfield theatre when Henry W. Savage will present Henry E. Dixey in a new play from the pen of Edith Ellis entitled "Mary Jane's Pa." The piece goes into the Garden theatre, New York, for an extended run beginning Thursday night.

Mr. Savage himself arrived in Plainfield this afternoon to witness tonight's performance. With him came a number of the members of his executive staff.

None of the leading entertainers on the stage today combines in his magnetic personality quite such a generous amount of fun-making ability as Mr. Dixey. The new play by Miss Ellis has been well tried and promises one of the fine dramatic successes of the season. It is the latest work of that talented writer of laughter making stage stories. One critic says: "It is as good if not better than anything George Ade ever handed out with an Indiana background." The scenes are laid in a little western town where Portia Perkins, who is Mary Jane's "Ma," is running a newspaper. Hiram Perkins, played by Mr. Dixey, is Mary Jane's "Pa." He is one of those whimsical "literary fellows," a good-for-nothing chap who deserted his family years ago and has tramped it all over the world. Like Enoch Arden, he came back home when Portia hoped never to see him again But she couldn't let him starve, so Hiram is given a job as man servant on condition that he keep his identity concealed. Even his own children, Mary Jane and Lucille, don't know him. The idea is a novel conception for comedy and the story is told in three interesting acts that contain a happy mingling of fun and serious action. "Pa" is finally regenerated through Mary Jane, who falls in love with his rice puddings and the vagabond wins back his wife and the respect of the community. In the leading role Mr. Dixey is said to have one of the best roles of his long career. A score of quaint characters is employed in the telling of the story, giving a delightful picture of life in a western town. Anne Sutherland has the role of Portia Perkins and the rest of the excellent company is the same that appear in New York later in the week.

TRAVELED 22,000 MILES WITH WILD WEST SHOW

Traveling over 22,000 miles in thirty weeks, Miss Adele vonOhl, of this city, returned home yesterday, enthusiastic about her wonderful experiences as a member of Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show. After exhibiting for three weeks last May at Madison Square Garden, the show traveled through Pennsylvania, and then jumped to the Eastern States going as far north as Maine, thence to the middle States as far as St. Louis. Retracing its steps to Springfield, Mass., the show then exhibited through New York State, Canada and Detroit, Wisconsin, Michigan, Denver and Leadville, Col., and then took the famous trip through the Rockies.

Miss vonOhl appeared at every performance on her celebrated pony "Aristocrat," who executes many wonderful stunts, including the cake walk, that of jumping three feet in the air from a standing position and many tricks which the owner describes as of the high school variety. Everywhere both rider and animal received a great ovation.

While in Salt Lake City, Miss vonOhl visited the famous Mormon Tabernacle, and had the experience of meeting a young woman who in a day or two was to marry a Mormon. Other places visited included Idaho, Washington, Oregon, California, as well as Nevada and Arizona. In the latter State the show appeared in a town that is 150 feet below the level of the sea, and Miss vonOhl was the guest of Charles Meadows, the wealthiest man in Arizona, at a bull's head feast.

From Arizona Miss vonOhl went to Texas, where she had her picture taken in one of the large rings, where bull fights are held. Then a trip was taken through the Southern States, as far as Memphis, where the show closed. Col. Cody has shipped his live stock to Coatesville, Pa., for the winter, while he himself will spend the time on his ranch in Wyoming. Miss vonOhl returned with many valuable relics, including a number obtained from Indians. While in Texas she just missed by one day one of the greatest bull fights of recent times.

Miss Ida Ayres, of Somerville, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Laing, of Watchung avenue.

ARTHUR PECK'S TALK

SOME FINE VIEWS SHOWN.

Boston Man Addresses the Monday Afternoon Club at the Hartridge Building.

A large and enthusiastic audience greeted Arthur K. Peck, of Boston, yesterday at the Hartridge School auditorium, where he gave a lecture of absorbing interest on "Custer and the Indian Lands," before the Monday Afternoon Club. His remarks were beautifully illustrated with colored pictures shown by a stereopticon.

Beginning with some outposts of civilization, exhibiting pre-historic animals whose remains are found on our continent and wonderful geological formations. Mr. Peck showed some curious resemblances between the wonders of foreign travel and the rock formations of the far west, among them a castle on the Rhine, the Bridge of Sighs and the Sphinx. The wild lands where the Indians roamed and the home of buffaloes were clearly pictured and an interesting tale told by him of the Indian reservations, the conflict between the natives and the cow boys and the encounters between the United States troops and the Indians, resulting in the massacre in 1876 of General Custer with 260 men. The tepees of the Sioux, their chief, Sitting Bull, the mounted horsemen, the pictured stream and battle field gave a vivid representation of the scenes of the fearful massacre. Later the national cemetery that marked the resting place of the slain heroes was shown.

The lecture concluded with views beautiful beyond description of the marvels of Colorado, the Yellow Stone Park, Inspiration Point in the temple of the Almighty, and the grand canyons of the Colorado river in Arizona propesying that in days to come more travelers who now seek pleasure on foreign shores will turn their feet to the wonders of their own beautiful land.

Prior to the lecture an hour's discussion on next year's program occupied the club, Mrs. James W. De Graff, a vice-president presiding in Mrs. Maxson's place, illness detaining her at home.

PIERCE BOOM WORRIES SOUTH JERSEY LEADERS

The rapid strides made by the boom of Assemblyman Carlton B. Pierce, of Union, for majority leader of the next House, has begun to worry David Baird and his advisers. The caucus will be held tomorrow. While the selection of Assemblyman John D. Prince, of Passaic, as Speaker, is reasonably sure, it is by no means certain that Griffith W. Lewis, of Burlington, the machine candidate for leader, will have a walkover.

Much pressure has been brought to bear on Assemblyman William Smalley, of Somerset, who is an enthusiastic supporter of Mr. Pierce, to get him to drop the Union Assemblyman, but without avail. Mr. Smalley thinks that Mr. Pierce could fill the position of leader much better than Lewis.

Isaac T. Nichols, one of the two Cumberland County Assemblymen, it was announced yesterday, will vote for Mr. Pierce. Ex-Governor E. C. Stokes lives in Cumberland county, and is said to be backing Lewis for the leadership, and the loss of Nichols is said to have caused a considerable jar.

The caucus today will be held in the Assembly chamber. Captain "Jim" Parker has no opponent for clerk of the House; neither has Upton S. Jeffreys as his assistant, nor William Swann for sergeant-at-arms. Owing to the large number of Republican members there will be a rearrangment of the minor places.

Has Opened Law Offices.

Borough Recorder Charles M. Dolliver, who has been connected with the law firm of Reed & Coddington, announces that he has opened offices for the general practice of law at 148 East Front street.

Aid Society Sale.

MRS. LEVIS BRINTON DIES IN CALIFORNIA

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Levis Brinton at her home in San Diego, Cal., on Friday, November 25. As the wife of Rev. Joseph Stockbridge, who was for half a century a chaplain in the U. S. Navy and whose grave is in Hillside cemetery. She was well known here. She was one of the earliest members of the Park Avenue Baptist church under the pastorate of Rev. Robert Lowry and was a beloved and active member there. She was the first president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and was active in establishing the Holly Tree Inn.

After the death of Dr. Stockbridge his widow removed to California for the benefit of an invalid son's health, and there in the extreme south of the State she met and married Levis Brinton, who was a member of a prominent family in Pennsylvania.

In her beautiful home on the shore of the grand Pacific, Mrs. Brinton had the pleasure of welcoming some of her old Plainfield neighbors, but while deeply interested in the old home she never saw it again.

Many of the friends to whom she was much attached and who were coworkers with her in various good works had preceded her to the Spirit Land.

BOOKLYNITE BUYS F. W. MORSE RESIDENCE

Frank W. Morse, through Albert Lederer, real estate broker, has sold his handsome residence, at 601 Central avenue, and a strip of land adjoining in the rear, to L. K. Strouse, formerly of Brooklyn, but now residing on Crescent avenue, and he will take possession as soon as the deeds are passed. Mr. Strouse is the secretary and treasurer of the Baker, Voorhees Company, law book publishers of New York. The strip of land purchased in the rear of the property will be used for an automobile garage. Mr. Morse has not definitely decided on plans for the future, but he expects to remain a resident of the city.

Mr. Lederer has also closed another deal, whereby he has sold a valuable piece of land adjoining of that of Mr. Morse on Central avenue to New York parties and a $10,000 residence will be erected there within a short time.

OFFFICERS OF GUARD UNDER ORDERS HERE

Major William B. Martin, commanding the Second Battalion, Second Regiment, N. G. N. J., of which battalion Company K, of this city is a member, is under waiting orders pending the outcome of the trouble between the strikers and the authorities at the National Fire-Proofing Company at Keasbey, near Perth Amboy.

Brigadier-General Dennis F. Collins, who is in command of the Second Brigade of the State troops, has visited the camp of the guardsmen in Perth Amboy, accompanied by Major Robert Patterson, of Elizabeth, one of his staff; Major William B. Martin, Lieutenant Peterson, of Company K, of this city, and Dr. Stevens, of Elizabeth. The General said that while there has been no order calling out the local troops, yet the officers are under waiting orders and should the occasion arise that additional troops will be needed Companies C and I, with the Second Battalion, will be ordered to the scene.

It is understood that as the orders now stand preparations are being made for the local companies to be mobilized at short notice and, if a call is made, dispatched to the scene on a special train.

The Second Brigade, which is under the command of Major Martin, is composed of companies C and I, of Elizabeth, Company K, of Plainfield and Company M, of Somerville.

Public Invited to H. S. Lecture.

Principal Ira W. Travell is planning a series of lectures to be held in the High School auditorium and to which the public will be invited. The first of these will probably be given either Tuesday or Wednesday of next week at 10 o'clock in the morning, and the speaker will be Briston Adams, of the United States Forest Service Department of Agriculture. His subject will be "A Prodigal Nation," dealing with the question of forest preservation, and will be illustrated with colored stereopticon views.

WOUNDED BY A BURGLAR

William Messerschmidt Shot by Intruder With Whom He Grappled.

BULLET EMBEDDED IN LEG.

Assailant Makes His Escape, But Police Dragnet Spread Later Yields Two Prisoners.

Grappling with a burglar who he pounced upon in the hallway of George Ballentyne's home on Washington street at 12:30 this morning, William Messerschmidt, a boarder in the place, clung to the intruder until forced to release his hold by getting a bullet in the fleshy part of the left leg. His assailant gave bare warning that unless he was let go he would shoot and the words were followed by the report of a pistol. Messerschmidt fell backward as the leaden missile entered his body while the burglar made his escape by way of a dining room window through which he had entered.

The cries of the wounded man roused the people in the house and calls were sent for the police. Several officers were quickly on the scene but there was practically nothing to give them a clue as to the identity or whereabouts of the intruder. Messerschmidt could only say that he was a white man and not a foreigner.

A police dragnet was spread from headquarters by means of the call boxes and within an hour two prisoners were caught. Patrolman McDonald picked up John Jones, colored, at the North Avenue station and Roundsman Higgins arrested George Webb, white, on Watchung avenue. Both gave Williamsport, Pa., as their residing place but they denied knowing each other. Jones carried a loaded pistol in the upper outside pocket of his coat. The prisoners were arraigned before Judge Runyon this morning but at the request of Chief Kiely were remanded until tomorrow.

In his story of the shooting as given to the police, Messerschmidt stated that he was unable to sleep well last night and at 12:10 decided to get up. He took a seat near a window looking toward the corner of Sixth and Washington streets when he noticed two men talking in the shadow of a tree. After several moments of conversation they started toward the house, to all purposes intending to pass by in the direction of Fifth street and he thought nothing more of the occurrence.

A little less than twenty minutes later as Messerschmidt was still sitting at the window enjoying a smoke, he heard a noise as though someone was in the hallway directly opposite his room. Without any thought of placing himself in danger, he jerked the door open just as the man was bending down to examine the knob. Messerschmidt asked what he wanted and then grappled with him without uttering another word until the stranger exclaimed:

"Let me go or I'll shoot."

The householder didn't have time to heed the warning if he had any intention of doing so as the pistol was fired the next instant.

Messerschmidt's room is on the second floor but the burglar was downstairs and out of the window before Mr. Ballentyne and the members of his family could do anything to stop him. The former called for the police and Dr. Tomlinson was summoned to attend the injured man. The bullet has not yet been extracted but the physician does not fear any serious results.

Mrs. James Ballentyne, Mr. Ballentyne's mother, heard a noise in the dining room just previous to the shooting but thought it was Mr. Messersmith getting a drink of water. She also heard the stairs creaking and ascribed it to him in returning to his room. Burned matches were found all over the dining room and lower hall, showing that the intruder had searched about before going upstairs. His finger prints were found on the window sill where he entered and they show that he had been riding on a coal train. Chief Kiely had them photographed this morning and they will furnish an excellent identification.

A search of the rooms in the lower part of the house showed that the intruder failed to take any valuables with him.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Henry E. Dixey in his new play, "Mary Jane's Pa," will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tonight.

The current theatrical season is one remarkably free of real dramatic successes, in fact the positive "hits" might easily be counted upon the fingers of one hand, but even of this limited number there is one standing out dominant as the season's absolute sensation, "Paid In Full," by Eugene Walter, now in its second year at the Astor theatre, New York. The play was also seen in Chicago for five months at the Grand Opera House, and its reception there was equal to that given it in New York. "Paid In Full" will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night, with a special company under the direction of Wagenhals and Kemper. When presented in New York and Chicago the play was acclaimed by all the critics of both these cities as the most daring and original conception of years. Mr. Walter had a story to tell and he told it with frankness and directness which won for him a triumph. "Paid In Full" is in four acts, treating in a remarkably daring and original fashion of a great issue in the moral life of our country today. It is a real flesh and blood play and has won the unending esteem of all New York and Chicago playgoers. A distinguished cast and a perfectly flawless production will be seen in this city, and the indications are that "Paid In Full' will be greeted here by a brilliant and appreciative audience.

The cast for "The Dollar Mark," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night, is a distinguished one since it includes the following Metropolitan actors: Aubrey Boucicault, Fuller Mellish, Douglas Gerarde, Herbert Prior, George Macintyre, Edmond Mortimer, Edward Fowler, Raphiel Newman, Sidney Blair, Dorothy Chester, Ina Brooks, Agnes Mapes, Adelaide Cumming and others. The production was staged by Frank Hatch, eminent among New York's stage managers, while the startling effects of the Radium Screen were conceived and extended by two of the most noted scientists of the country.

For Embroiderers.

Many clever amateur needle women would design and mark their own linen, but do not know how to transfer patterns or make the transfer powder. Here is a suggestion:

Take a teaspoonful of talcum powder and add to it finely powdered rosin, about one fourth of a teaspoonful. It can be pounded to a powder with a small hammer. Mix the two and apply to the paper pattern with an old powder puff or soft tooth brush; rub the powder off the pattern, place a clean cloth upon the paper and press with an iron. The design will be a perfect white outline. Charcoal and rosin make a suitable powder for white or light fabrics.

The Parvenu.

A stout over-dressed woman sat talking to a friend. She said:

"Yes, since John came into his money we have a nice country house, horses, cows, pigs, hens, and—"

"That must be charming," broke in the other. "You can have all the fresh eggs you want and—"

"Oh, well," hastily interrupted the first speaker, "of course, the hens can lay if they like to, but in our position it isn't at all necessary."—Harper's Weekly.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

FOOTBALL.

There can be no question about Harvard's claim to first rank, even though the margin is a small one on her hard earned victories over Yale and Dartmouth. As to Pennsylvania's claim, one cannot go behind the scores—Harvard, 17; Carlisle, 0; Pennsylvania, 6; Carlisle, 6—even if these scores are worthy of little consideration because of different conditions. Further than that the Harvard eleven, in my opinion, showed a better welded and more concentrated attack and a defence that was more solidified.

In the matter of finish experts also prefer Yale and Dartmouth to Pennsylvania, and at the present writing would feel disposed to predict a victory for both over the Quakers, if games were possible. Inasmuch, however, as the three teams are closely matched, so far as can be judged, and Pennsylvania came through the season without defeat, it seems only fair to give the eleven the fruits of its record in the ranking. Yale is placed over Dartmouth because Harvard crossed the latter's goal line and only scored against Yale by a goal from the field. From this point on there will be a greater difference of opinion.

Cornell was not far behind Pennsylvania, in spite of a rather one-sided score last Thursday, and in the opinion of experts deserves fifth place. Princeton's record of defeats by Yale and Dartmouth and tie games with Lafayette, Syracuse and West Point was an inglorious one, but the team was stronger than the record shows, and on its play against Yale would almost surely defeat the teams behind it.

The Navy played slightly better football than the Army up to and, one might say, through the game on Saturday, but West Point won, and well deserves her place. Brown held Harvard to a close score and outplayed Yale in a tie game, but Yale, in my opinion, was then in the midst of a slump and Brown was beaten by Pennsylvania and Lafayette. Syracuse had a strong, well balanced team and deserves tenth place, from my viewpoint, even though beaten by Colgate. Of the others Amherst finished strongly and defeated Williams, which had a good record. Colgate deserves particular credit. Pennsylvania State played clever football against the stronger elevens, while Fordham took a higher place than ever before and had a fast, capable team.

GOLF.

Rumor has it that the nominating committee of the United States Golf Association is preparing practically to clean the State so far as the list of officials is concerned. In other words, when the ticket is presented only a few of the names of the present officers and executive committeemen will be included in the findings. Furthermore, it is understood that the West will have the scantest kind of a representation, all of which will give the dissatisfied element in the Chicago district a chance for another protest.

Herbert Jaques, of Boston, has been mentioned as the likely successor to Daniel Chauncey, of New York, who is now completing his second term as president. Silas H. Strawn, of Chicago, has been retained as one of the vice-presidents, but Alexander Britton, of Washington, will probably have a successor. W. Fellowes Morgan, of New York, the secretary, remains on the ticket, but Samuel Y. Heebner, the long serving treasurer, has declined to run again. Mr. Heebner has held the office for the last eight years.

Of the committeemen it is understood that J. D. Cady, of Moline, Ill., and C. F. Thompson, of Quitman, Miss., are to be dropped. In commenting on this a Westerner declares these men have proved themselves too progressive to suit those in control of the United States Golf Association affairs. It is not known whether Leighton Calkins, of Plainfield, will be retained or not.

Another change decided on is the meeting place. When the association delegates gather in executive session in January it will be at Sherry's instead of Delmonico's, and if recent assertions of certain golfers are to be believed the Western representatives are going to make a vigorous plea for what they term "their rights." One threat made the other day was that it would not be long before a number of Western clubs would resign from the parent organization.

A New Name.

A man who had been playing golf with a clergyman heard him swear two or three times under his breath. Suspecting the lapse he could not be sure of it until one monosyllable came out with unmistakable clearness. After he had finished the match a friend of his said: "I saw you playing just now with the Rev. Mr. Dash; of what denomination is he?" "Some people say he is a Baptist," replied his late opponent, "but I should call him a Profanitarian."—Scottish-American.

GIRLS' HOME HEAD ADMITS USING STRAP

Mrs. Mansell, the Superintendent, and President Fay of the Board of Trustees of the State Home for Girls, were witnesses before the Crimes and Dependency Commission at Trenton yesterday, when the inquiry into the charges of cruelty in the home was begun. Mrs. Mansell described the "meditation rooms," and insisted that they were not dungeons. One, she said, was a light and the other a dark room, but both were well ventilated. She declared that she is in favor of doing away with the dark room. Insubordinate girls were confined in the light room one night, but there was one girl, she said, who had to be kept there five days and nights.

"Are there rats in the dark room?" asked a Commissioner.

Mrs. Mansell replied that there were rats in the building.

The witness admitted that a strap was used, and said that when a girl was unusually violent Koehler, the engineer, was called in to hold the victim down while the lash was applied. The Superintendent agreed in the future to keep an accurate account of punishments visited on the girls under her care.

President Fay surprised the commission by telling it that though he had held office four years he did not know of the "light meditation room," and as to corporal punishment he thought the strap was kept for moral effect only.

The commission visited the 'dark room," and found it up under the slope of the roof with no windows except a two-foot opening leading into the main attic, also very dark. The door is guarded with iron bars and the lock covered with tin. The light room is a wire screen cage partly lighted and partly ventilated.

Catherine B. Abbey, Secretary of the Charities Aid Society of Burlington county, testified as to a shocking state of moral depravity in the almshouse there.

The Rev. Thomas J. Moran, of the Catholic Protectory at Arlington, said he believed in corporal punishment, and practiced it in his institution.

Dr. Britton D. Evans of the Morris Plains Asylum, one of the alienists in the Thaw trial, said that he was in favor of the repeal of all the detention laws of the State and a comprehensive system enacted which would put an end to corporal punishment and binding of prisoners.

THE FORUM.

THE TRIBUNE'S POLICY.

Editor, The Daily Press:

I read on the front page of yesterday's issue your reproduction of the glorious editorial "roast" which I received from the New York Tribune, and far from feeling downcast I am quite elated that my protest should have moved the Tribune to such depths.

The attitude of the Tribune shows its strong adherence to the dogma of journalistic inerrancy. The cheerful withdrawal of an editorial aspersion is without precedent, and an editor who would take such a step would be censured by all other journalists.

If a disputant happens to be in the right, he must be answered so as to appear in the wrong, and to an editor this is particular easy. If it is deemed necessary to notice the disputant at all, he must be punished, and the safer course is to make him appear ridiculous.

The chief aim of a newspaper is to maintain its prestige. The word "prestige" is very apt, for its original meaning is "illusion," although today it has come to mean something like "reputation." The maintenance of illusions which are dear to the public and useful to the newspapers, is necessary, and the newspaper is bound to "save its face." The editor's safest course is to voice what seems to him to be the general feeling of his readers, and it would be most dangerous for him to try to formulate a judgment. The Tribune in its efforts to please the old-fashioned element among its readers, has gone the limit in exaggerating the mortality due to automobiles. If a horse out in Zenia, Ohio, takes fright at an automobile, runs away, and upsets a baby carriage, the Tribune announces in bold type on its front page, "Baby Killed by Automobile; Driver Escapes in the Dark." Then follows an editorial on the deadly automobile.

Readers of the Tribune will remember how some sixteen years ago the Tribune came out every day for a year with a powerful editorial—"The Deadly Trolley," declaring that the trolley car should not, could not, and would not ever be allowed upon the streets, and that if it were the resulting carnage would soon depopulate the towns and cities. Every one of those three hundred and sixty-five editorials are now being repeated by the mere substition of automobile for trolley.

The Tribune editors undoubtedly "know their business," and so long as their readers like that sort of thing, that's the sort of thing they intend to give them.

STATE LAWS REVISION COMMITTEE TO REPORT.

The three men appointed by Governor Fort under authority granted at the last session of the Legislature to revise the State laws and combine under general heads the statutes covering the big subjects, will make an extensive report to the Governor in the course of a few weeks. The Governor will transmit the report to the incoming Legislature in January. Joseph L. Munn, of East Orange; former Governor George T. Wetrs, of Jersey City, and Allan Strong, of New Brunswick, are the commissioners.

Speaking of the progress made by his appointees, the Governor recently had this to say:

"I am informed that much more has been accomplished in the work of revision than had been anticipated and I am expecting a number of important bills from the three men who have been at work during the last half year or more."

Mr. Munn said last night that the practice act and all its supplements and amendments had been revised and whipped into shape for the consideration of the Legislature, as had the abatement act. Both of these acts, so interesting and important from the viewpoint of the legal profession, and indirectly vital to popular interests, will be submitted to the Legislature for re-enactment in simplified language.

Several years will probably be required for the completion of the work. The commissioners serve without any fixed term. Their compensation is $300 per month each. They replaced the old commission that had been created a number of years ago with very limited powers.

RAILROAD TAX MONEY NOT YET FOR PEOPLE

Although under the law the counties of the State are entitled to receive their apportionment of railroad taxes from the main stem sources by November 1, the fact that these taxes have not all been collected may make necessary the passage by the coming legislature of another enabling act before the State treasurer can pay out the proportion of moneys now in his hands.

The situation is similar to that which existed last year over the distribution of the 1906 tax, which should have been paid to the counties on November 1, 1907. The State comptroller then was advised that owing to litigation large amounts of tax moneys had not been paid, and that he had no authority to make partial payments to the counties. Then the Legislature passed an enabling act directing him to pay out the partial portions in his possession, but this act does not apply to the sums received since.

Of the 1906 main stem taxes there remains $300,000 due, the Pennsylvania Railroad owing $198,000 of this amount. The courts have recently decided against the railroads and they will have to pay up. November 1 has passed and they have not done so. Of the 1907 taes only about $25,000 is still unpaid, but this is sufficient to hold up the apportionment of about $2,250,000 pending legislative action.

SENATOR COLBY IN OHIO.

The fact that Senator Everett Colby was defeated for re-election has not in any way lessened his popularity as a public speaker. # IT WAS ONLY 180 YEARS

While on a recent visit with friends in the beautiful hills of Hunterdon county, it was the writer's pleasure to be shown a great variety of keepsakes, and being a native of New England his attention was especially directed to a newspaper entitled "The New England Journal." It was the original sheet, eight by twelve inches in size, printed on both sides, published in Boston April 8, 1728. Below the heading it contained the following prospectus printed as here shown, omitting the old-fashioned s:

"There are measures concerting for rendering this paper yet more universally esteemed and useful in which 'tis hop'd the Public will be gratifi'd and by which those Gentlemen who desire to be improv'd in History, Philosophy, Poetry, &c., will be greatly advantaged, we will take the liberty at this time to insert the following Passage of History.

"London, Ot. 28, 1727. On Wednesday last, a Patent pass'd the Seals, constituting the Rt. Hon. the Lord St. George, Vice Admiral of the Province of Cannaught, in the Kingdom of Ireland.

"The beginning of this week, Dr. John Friend and Dr. Alexander Stewart were introduced to their Majestics, and had the Honor to kiss their Hands on being appointed Physician in Ordinary to the Queen.

"We hear that the Charity Children of St. Mary le Bow are to have a stand built under the steeple of that Church, over against the Balcony, where the Royal Family are to be next Monday, and they are to sing an hymn there in Honor to their Majesties.

Mr. Henry Ord was last week sworn one of the Masters of the Exchequer in the room of Mr. Lancaster, deceased.

"The Rev. Dr. Knight and the Rev. Dr. Waterland were yesterday unanimously chosen Proctor's for the Diocese of London, in the ensuing Convocation.

"London, Oct. 31, 1727. On Sunday last died Mr. Wilcocks, under Treasurer to the Honorable Society of the Middle Temple.

"At the Review last Saturday a General Officer, alighting from his Horse, had the misfortune to have his pocket picked of Bank notes to the value of 200 l.

"On Saturday last the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Pourfret kiss'd their Majasty's Hands on being appointed Master of the House to the Queen."

"Cambridge, Nov. 2, 1727. This day Dr. Colebatch and Mr. Perkins were chosen Proctors for the Diocese of Ely, in the ensuing Convocation by the greatest number of the Clergy that hath been known to appear upon such an occasion.

"London, Nov. 11, 1727. Three men of war of the 6th Rate are going to be put in commission.

"The Fever which raged here and in the country is very much abated both as to its Frequency and Fatality; but they write from Amsterdam that for 5 weeks their Burials have amounter eo 600 per week, they are now risen to 700 and 'tis reckon'd they had 40,000 Persons lying sick in that City.

"The most Violent Storm in Naples that ever was known has Destroyed Houses, Bridges, Men, Women and Children in great numbers out of 500 Inhabitants in one Village only six escaped.

The folowing are a few items selected from the Home News:

"Custom House, Boston, Apr. 6, 1728. Entered Inwards. Benj. Thornedien from Long Island, Moses Chaille from Maryland, John Coles from Virgania, John Gerald, Benj. Kent, Nath. Lewis and Thomas Belsher from the Bay of Honduras, and Josiah Jones from North Carolina.

"Cleared Out. Quite a number are reported for New York, Ne wJersey, South Carolina, Barbados and New Foundland.

"Burials in the Town of Boston, since our last issue. Five White, One Black.

"Baptised in the several Churches. Nine."

The following are selected from the advertisements:

"Choice New Coffee to be sold by Arthur Savage at his house in Brattle Street, Boston, for Eight Shillings per Pound.

"A very likely Negro Woman who can do Household Work and is fit either for Town or Country services, about 22 years of age, to be sold. Inquire of the Printer hereof.

"A very likely Negro Girl, about 13 or 14 years of age, speaks good English, has been in the Country some years, to be sold. Inquire of the Printer hereof."

If there is coffee left over from breakfast, pour it off from the grounds and save until an hour before dinner or lunch, when it is put into a double boiler and a cupful of minutes tapioca added. Cook until clear, and just before serving add a half cup of sugar and a good-sized lump of butter. Serve hot, with either plain or whipped cream on it.

High Diplomacy.

Mrs. Gramercy—You look all tired ed out.

Mrs. Park—No wonder. It's so trying to find out from your friends what they'd like to have for Christmas without conveying the impression that they may expect it from you.—Smart Set.

The open season for pike and pickerel closed yesterday.

Mrs. Pearl De Leon, of 144 Broadway, Paterson, stumbled and fell downstairs in her home yesterday afternoon. The fall resulted in a bad fracture of the ankle bones.

The patrons at the Baker House, Vineland, were given a genuine surprise last evening when John Alexander Barre, one of the proprietors, announced his marriage to Miss Estelle Manville, who had come to the hotel as a patron last July.

Mrs. Elmer Ewing Green, wife of Judge Green, of the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals, is confined to her home in Trenton, suffering from injuries and shock sustained in a fall while shopping in a store, her shoe having caught on a splinter.

Joseph McDermott of 191 Jackson street, Paterson, was eating an apple yesterday, a proceeding which a stray dog watched with interest. Finally the animal made a leap for the apple and got Joseph's hand between its jaws. Joseph had the wounds cleaned and cauterized at St. Joseph's Hospital.

BIG HOLIDAY SHOW.

New Being Made at Hahne & Co.'s Mammoth Emporium.

For the fifty-first time in its history the great Hahne & Co. store makes a magnificent holiday display, the present one being, doubtless, greater than any that has preceded it, because of more thorough organization, more complete stocks and greater variety. With many notable achievements in the way of holiday displays to guide by, the great Broad street emporium has endeavored this year to surpass itself. That it has done so will likely be conceded by the most critical. Hundreds of thousands of people will visit this store between now and Christmas. People flock here from towns within a radius of fifty miles. The Hahne & Co. establishment is so fully abreast of metropolitan methods that few New Jersey folks find it necessary to go to New York to do holiday shopping. With its fields of furniture, its upholstery stock, its showing of Oriental and demestic rugs, its toy store, its wearing apparel departments, its jewelry and silverware store, its candy store, and its basement full of art wares, chinaware, cut glass and household utensils, and its splendid grocery store, the Hahne & Co. establishment brings to the people of New Jersey practically everything in a gift way that could be thought of. Stocks now are at their very best, and no one can profit by delay in purchasing. Santa Claus will be at the big store every day now until Christmas, and will distribute toys free to his little visitors. The children are invited to write letters to Santa Claus telling him what they want.

An opportunity will be given to anyone desiring to unite with the First Baptist church to meet the pastor and deacons at the church tomorrow night previous to the prayer meeting.

The Sisters of Mercy of St. Joseph's church, who formerly held a sale of fancy articles at St. Gabriel's Academy on Jackson avenue, will hold a similar affair at the convent on Manning avenue, two weeks previous to Christmas.

The BRASS BOWL

By LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

(Copyright 1907, The Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

"This lady is one of Mr. Bannerman's clients, and in great trouble." The self-styled Maitland laid his hand in a protecting gesture over the fingers on his arm; and pressed them cruelly. "I think we will go up, thank you. If Bannerman's not in, I can 'phone him. I've a pass-key."

The watchman appeared satisfied; Maitland's social standing was guaranty enough.

"All right, sir. Step in."

The girl made one final effort to hang back. Anisty's brows blackened. "By God!" he told her in a whisper. "If you dare . . .!"

And somehow she found herself at his side in the steel cage, the gate's clang ringing loud in her ears. The motion of the car, shooting upwards with rapidly increasing speed, made her slightly giddy. Despite Anisty's supporting arm she reeled back against the wall of the cage, closing her eyes. The man observed this with covert satisfaction.

As the speed decreased she began to feel slightly stronger; and again opened her eyes. The floor numbers, black upon a white ground, were steadily slipping down; the first she recognized being 19. The pace was sensibly decreased. Then with a slight jar the elevator stopped at 22.

"Yous know the way?"

"Perfectly," replied Anisty. "Two flights up—in the tower."

"Right. When yous wants me, ring."

The car dropped like a plummet, leaving them in darkness—or rather in a thick gloom but slightly moderated by the moonlight streaming in at windows at either end of the corridor. Anisty gripped the girl more roughly.

"Now, my lady! No shennanigan!"

A futile, superfluous reminder. Temporarily at least she was become as wax in his hands. So complex had been the day's emotions, so severe her nervous tension, so heavy the tax upon her stamina, that she had lapsed into a state of subjective consciousness, in which she responded without purpose, almost dreamily to the suggestions of the stronger will.

Wearily she stumbled up the two brief flights of stairs leading to the tower-like cupola of the sky-scraper; two floors superimposed upon the roof with scant excuse save that of giving the building the distinction of being the loftiest in that section of the city—certainly not to lend any finishing touch of architectural beauty to the edifice.

On the top landing a door confronted them, its glass panel shining dimly in the darkness. Anisty paused, unceremoniously thrusting the girl to one side and away from the head of the staircase; and here fumbled in a pocket, presently producing a jingling bunch of keys. For a moment or two she heard him working at the lock and muttering in an undertone—probably swearing—and then, with a click, the door swung open.

The man thrust a hand inside, touched an electric switch, flooding the room with light, and motioned the girl to enter. She obeyed passively, thoroughly subjugated, and found herself in a large and well-furnished office, apparently the outer of two rooms. The glare of electric light at first partly blinded her; and she halted instinctively a few steps from the door, waiting for her eyes to become accustomed to the change.

Behind her the door closed softly; and there followed a thud as a bolt was shot. An instant later Anisty caught her by the arm and, roughly now and without wasting speech, hurried her into the next room. Then, releasing her, he turned up the lights and, passing to the windows, threw two or three of them wide; for the air in the room was stale and lifeless.

"And now," said the criminal in a tone of satisfaction, "now we can talk business, my dear."

He removed his overcoat and hat, throwing them over the back of a convenient chair, drew his fingers thoughtfully across his chin, and, standing at a little distance, regarded the girl with a shadow of a saturnine smile softening the hard line of his lips.

She stood where he had left her, as if volition was no longer hers. Her arms hung slack at her sides and she was swaying a trifle, her face vacant, eyes blank; very near the breaking-down point.

The man was not without perception; and recognized her state—one in which, he felt assured, he could get very little out of her. She must be strengthened and revived before she would or could respond to the direct catechism he had in store for her. In his own interest, therefore, more than through any yielding to motives of pity and compassion, he piloted her to a chair by a window and brought her a glass of clear cold water from the filter in the adjoining room.

The cold, fresh breeze blowing in her face proved wonderfully invigorating. She let her head sink back upon the cushions of the easy, comfortable leather chair and drank in the clean air in great deep draughts, with a sense of renewing vigor, both bodily and spiritual. The water helped, too; she dabbled the tip of a ridiculously small handkerchief in it and bathed her throbbing temples. The while, Anisty stood over her, waiting with discrimination if with scant patience.

What was to come she neither knew nor greatly cared; but, with an instinctive desire to postpone the inevitable moment of trial, she simulated deadly languor for some moments after becoming conscious of her position; and lay passive, long lashes all but touching her cheeks—in which now a faint color was growing—gaze wandering at random out over a dreary wilderness of flat rectangular roofs, livid in the moonlight, broken by long, straight clefts of darkness in whose depths lights gleamed faintly. Far in the south the sky came down purple and black to the horizon, where a silver spark glittered like a low-hung star—the torch of Liberty.

"I think," Anisty's clear-cut tones, incisive as a razor edge, crossed the listless trend of her thoughts, "I think we will now get down to business, my lady!"

She lifted her lashes, meeting his masterful stare with a look of calm inquiry. "Well?"

"So you're better now? Possibly it was a mistake to give you that rest, my lady. Still, when one's a gentleman-cracksman—!" He chuckled unpleasantly, not troubling to finish his sentence.

"Well?" he mocked, seating himself easily upon an adjacent table. "We're here at last, where we'll suffer no interruptions to our little council of war. Beyond the watchman, there's probably not another soul in the building; and from that window there it is a straight drop of 24 stories to Broadway, while I'm between you and the door. So you may be resigned to stay here until I get ready to let you go. If you scream for help, no one will hear you."

"Very well," she assented mechanically, turning her head away with a shiver of disgust. "What is it you want?"

"The jewels," he said, bluntly. "You might have guessed that."

"I did—"

"And have saved yourself and me considerable trouble by speaking ten minutes ago."

"Yes," she agreed, abstractedly.

"Now," he continued, with a hint of anger in his voice, "you are going to tell."

She shook her head slightly.

"Oh, but you are, my lady." And his tone rasped, quickened with the latent brutality of the natural criminal. "And I know that you'll not force me to extreme measures. It wouldn't be pleasant for you, you know; and I promise you I shall stop at nothing whatever to make you speak."

BOWLING.

A meeting of the Fraternal Bowling League will be held at Campbell's alleys tonight, when all arrangements for the start will be made. It is planned to begin next Monday night and the schedule committee will present a schedule for adoption and the prize list made up.

The Armright Bowling team will meet a team from Rahway tomorrow night in the first half of a home and home series, at Campbell's alleys.

A rolling ball gathers the strikes.

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, has entered a team in the Knights of Columbus League, composed of teams from Newark, Jersey ity, Hoboken, Elizabeth, New Brunswick and Plainfield. The local Knights will roll their home games at Campbell's alleys.

LEAL'S BASKETBALL TEAM DEFEATS THE BUSINESS MEN.

The Leal's basketball team played their first game of the season yesterday afternoon, defeating the Business Men at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium by the score of 11 to 10. It was a rough and tumble game throughout. C. Lawrence did all of the scoring for Leal's, while Jarvis and Doane made all of the goals for the Business Men.

The line-up:

| BUSINESS MEN. | LEALS. |
|---|---|
| Listman | R. Lawrence forward. |
| Doane | Dallas forward. |
| Dunning | C. Lawrence centre. |
| Jarvis | Campbell guard. |
| Adams | Rushmore guard. |

Goals from field: C. Lawrence, 5, Jarvis, 3; foul goals: Doane, 4; C. Lawrence, 1.

Hunt Club Schedule for December.

The Watchung Hunt Club, Lewis E. Waring, master, and L. G. Timpson, secretary, has announced that the hounds will meet during December as follows: Saturday, December 5, Colonia, railroad station, 3 p. m.; Wednesday, December 9, Kennels, 6:45 a. m.; December 12, Dog Tavern, 2:45 p. m.; Wednesday, December 16, Kennels, 6:45 a. m.; Saturday, December 19, Mt. Pleasant School-house, 2:45 p. m.; Wednesday, December 23, Kennels, 6:45 a. m.; Friday, December 25, New Market Pond, 10:30 a. m.; Saturday, December 26, Kennels, 2:45 p. m.; Wednesday, December 30, Oak Tree, 2:45 p. m. The above hunts will be held, weather permitting.

Enthusiasts Want Game Played.

There is some talk heard about P. H. S. cancelling its game with Holy Cross Club on Saturday. This would be a mistake for there are too many people interested in the outcome of such a contest. The game should be played if for no other reason than that P. H. S. has defeated North Plainfield and N. P. H. S. has defeated Holy Cross. The result of the contest between P. H. S. and Holy Cross would decide the city championship. Owing to the death of Fred Gray, president of the Holy Cross Club, the game could not be played last Saturday, but there is no valid excuse why P. H. S. should not meet the church boys this week.

TROLLEY JUMPS TRACK; TRAFFIC TIED UP AN HOUR.

The rear trucks of a trolley car jumped from the track at Embree Crescent, near Westfield, at 5:40 last night, jolting and frightening the passengers, and tieing up traffic for more than an hour. The screaming of two women almost started a panic, in which there would have been serious injury had it not been for the coolness of the crew and some of the other men aboard. A man standing on the back platform was thrown to the ground, brusing him badly.

After investigating the matter thoroughly the officials were unable to find the cause of the accident, there being no defects either in the trucks or rails.

GREET REV. J. Y. BROEK

Pastors and Laity Welcome Trinity's New Head at Church Reception.

FOUR HUNDRED ARE PRESENT.

Rev. Dr. Herring and Rev. Mr. Goodrich Among Those Who Welcomed New Pastor to His Local Field.

The members of Trinity Reformed church and congregation, also the pastors, wives and members of other churches of the city and borough, to the number of about four hundred, gathered at the church last night to extend a welcome to the new pastor, Rev. John Y. Broek, and become better acquainted with him. It was a delightful occasion in which pastor and people joined heartily, indicating the perfect harmony and Christian spirit that prevails and promises earnest work for the future.

The Sunday-school rooms, where the reception was held, were attractively decorated for the occasion, there being a pleasing arrangement of palms and flowers about the platform, while crepe streamers of orange and white colors, were suspended from the ceiling reaching in all directions.

The affair was under the direction of the Ladies' Christian Work Society, and every member, assisted by the young people of the church, aided in making it a great success. Rev. John Y. Broek, the pastor, was assisted in receiving and being introduced to his people by the elders of the church and their wives, all being present except Elder George L. Van Emburgh, who is detained at home by illness. The greeting on the part of pastor and people was a hearty one, giving assurances of united support and co operation in church work.

There were several features that combined to make the reception one of great pleasure. During the evening Miss S. Etta Raybert and F. S. Cutter, of the church quartet, sang two delightful selections. The presence of several other pastors of the city was another feature enjoyed by Pastor Broek. Elder Robert Clark, Jr., called upon Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, to say a few words, and in doing so he extended a hearty welcome to Mr. Broek to the Plainfield Ministers' Association. He said that he was glad that the members of Trinity church had chosen a pastor and leader, and he considered it a pleasant duty to welcome him and wish him God-speed and great success in his work.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, who was introduced as one who had always been near to Trinity church, added a few words of welcome to those of Dr. Herring. He said that Trinity had always been blessed with fine pastors. He recalled the pastorate of Rev. Dr. Raymond, relating an amusing incident in his service here. He said that he met him one Sunday night after service and inquired what made him look discouraged. He replied that his wife had told him that his sermon that evening was a stupid one. He did not believe, he said, that Mr. Broek would have the same experience as he has no wife to criticize his sermons.

Mr. Goodrich also paid loving tribute to Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck and his long service. He said that Dr. Schenck always seemed a holier member of the local clergy than the rest of them and he referred affectionately to his admirable Christian qualities. He also welcomed Pastor Broek to Plainfield and the ministers' association.

The whole evening was practically devoted to sociability and it was long after 10 o'clock when the affair terminated. The pleasing decorations were the work of a committee comprising Mrs. Jacob Beckman Mrs. George W. Cole, Mrs. L. B. VanCamp, Mrs. Henry Van Name and Mrs. L. M. Dunavan. In looking after the refreshments and other features of the reception all of the members of the Ladies' Christian Work Society assisted. During an intermission ice cream, cake and coffee were served.

Among the pastors and their wives present were Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Goodrich, Rev. and Mrs. Edwin Shaw, Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, Rev. A. C. Nickerson, Rev. J. W. Musson, Rev. and Mrs. N. W. Squires, Rev. W. E. Honeyman and wife and Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Finn.

ITALIANS FIERCE COMBAT

Quarreling Over Game of Cards, Two Foreigners Slash Each Other.

BOTH IN THE HOSPITAL.

Importo's Throat Is Cut, While Delbene Receives Wounds in Shoulders—Must Answer for Assault.

Tomaso Importo and Salvatore Delbene, of the Italian colony at Fanwood, engaged in a stiletto duel yesterday afternoon and are now in Muhlenberg Hospital. Importo's throat was cut, while his companion received many stab wounds in the shoulders. Both were greatly exhausted from loss of blood before medical aid could be summoned.

Marshal Logan of Fanwood, found the men near the Loizeaux Lumber Company's yards, and with the assistance of Peter Ritter took them to the hospital. It was found that none of the wounds would prove fatal. Delbene was able to leave the institution today, and was immediately placed under arrest. Importo will be detained there for possibly two weeks, but he too will be held by the authorities as soon as he is able to leave. While he suffered an ugly cut in the throat it was not deep.

The two Italians had been playing cards and drinking beer all the afternoon and toward night they were in a hilarious and boisterous mood. Suddenly a dispute arose over the game, one of the men accusing the other of cheating. The charge was resented and instantly the men were facing each other with stiletto in hand. The men clinched and while in this position, Importo's throat was cut, and Delbene's shoulders were terribly lacerated with repeated stabbings. The latter succeeded in breaking away from his companion and ran out of the house, with Importo closely following on his heels.

With blood gushing from their wounds the men ran a distance of a quarter of a mile to the Loizeaux Lumber Company yards, where they fell from exhaustion. Friends sought Dr. F. W. Westcott, but he was away from home and then Marshall Logan arranged to have the men taken to Muhlenberg Hospital at once. The Italians were in a semi-conscious condition when they reached the hospital and it was believed at the time that both would die.

In the meantime two other Italians were arrested and placed in the lock-up of Fanwood where they are being held as witnesses. Some say that they were indirectly responsible for the trouble, but thus far the authorities have ben unable to get the men to talk.

Early in the afternoon, Importo, accompanied by several Italian friends, visited the grocery store of Sheelen Brothers of Fanwood and made some puhchases. The men were in a jolly mood and those who saw them believed that they had been drinking. Importo has been employed in a gang on the New Jersey Central, while Delbene has had no employment. The former is twenty-four years old, while Delbene is twenty-one years of age. They have both been members of the Italian colony at Fanwood for a long time.

Changes in the Lighting System.

It is understood that whether the Councilmanic light committee is successful or not in installing any number of arc lights in the city in the near future, there will undoubtedly be radical changes in the lighting of the business section. Merchants on West Front street have petitioned the Common Council to install arc lights on that thoroughfare, the desire being to make it more metropolitan. At present the main business streets of the city are practically illuminated at night by the merchants, several big lamps being installed from time to time. They think that it is about time the city undertook some share of the expense and no doubt efforts will be made in that direction before long.

Alaska Missionary to Meet.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue church will be held in the church parlor on Friday afternoon, December 4, at 3:30 o'clock. An address will be made by Rev. S. R. Spriggs, who has spent nine years as missionary and teacher at Point Barrow, Alaska, the most remote northerly station under the charge of the Women's Home Mission Board of the Presbyterian church.

Lecture at Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Francis DuBois will lecture on "The Heart, Lung and Digestive Organs," in the Y. W. C. A. rooms Thursday night at 8 o'clock. The lecture is the second of a series to be given by different prominent physicians on the care of the body.

LEWIS DEFEATS PIERCE

Passaic County Man Wins Leadership of the Lower House at Caucus.

JOHNSON IS JOURNAL CLERK.

Professor Pierce Chosen as Speaker of House—Senator to Hold Caucus on December 15.

Republicaan members of the Assembly met in caucus in the Assembly chamber at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and decided upon the House officers for the next session of the Assembly. Griffith Lewis, of Burlington county, was elected chairman of the caucus by a vote of 28 to 12 over Assemblyman Pierce, of Union. This makes Mr. Lewis the Republican floor leader.

Professor John D. Prince, of Passaic county, was selected as the Republican candidate for speaker over Assemblyman William P. Martin, of Essex, by a vote of 37 to 4. Mr. Martin is one of the "new idea" Republicans, and his candidacy was advocated in an earnest speech by Assemblyman Blauvelt, of Passaic, and other new idea Republicans, who said that a failure to elect Mr. Martin would be recognized as a surrender upon the part of the Republicans to the corporations.

Officers elected without any opposition were: Journal clerk, George H. Johnson, of Scotch Plains; assistant journal clerk, Lewis R. Williams, of Trenton; supervisor of bills, George A. Glover, of Essex; first assistant supervisor of bills, Charles E. Heritage, of Gloucester; second assistant supervisor of bills, Walter H. Percell, Essex; sergeant-at-arms, William R. Swan, Essex; first assistant sergeant-at-arms, William S. Dey, Middlesex; second assistant sergeant-at-arms, Paul T. Ludlam, Cumberland; bill clerk, Richard J. Chaplin, Morris; assistant bill clerk, Enoch S. Clunting, Cape May.

Then the caucus named the following steering committee to fill the minor positions: Gibbs, Camden; Voorhees, Middlesex; Clark, Essex; Poole, Monmouth; Ward, Bergen; Burpo, Passaic; Ginnelley, Mercer; Otto, Hudson; Keffer, Atlantic.

The steering committee will probably not report until after the caucus of the senators, which will occur in the State House December 15.

COLONEL SAVAGE BUYS A TWENTY-FIVE CENT SEAT

Colonel Henry W. Savage, New York's big theatrical manager, came out from the city, last night, to witness his new production, "Mary Jane's Pa," at the New Plainfield theatre. While standing in the lobby he noticed a three sheet poster on the wall announcing Treasurer Sam W. Cunninham's benefit tomorrow night and he turned to the box office window where that worthy was handing out pateboards.

"Say, Sam," he said to him, "that 'Paid in Full' is a good show and as it's your benefit I'll buy a gallery seat."

The New Plainfield's treasurer was in the colonel's employ for five years but never knew him as a "kidder" so he looked at him incredulously.

"I mean it," Mr. Savage said earnestly; "hand it out."

A ticket for the "lid" worth twenty-five cents was shoved through the window opening and a twenty dollar gold certificate was passed back.

"Never mind the change," the colonel said as he started to move away; "if I can't attend the performance I'll keep this ticket as a souvenir and think of Sam Cunningham whenever I look at it."

Dr. Grenfell's Lecture.

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell whose life of manly courage and practical Christianity in his heroic work among the deep sea fishermen of Labrador has awakened international interest will lecture in the Plainfield High School auditorium on Tuesday, December 22, on his life and work on that desolate coast. Dr. Grenfell is a doctor of medicine not a doctor of divinity. An Oxford man with broad outlook, fertile in resource and adventurous in spirit he might have chosen any of many advantageous vocations.

Kitchen Shower at Hope Chapel.

A novel entertainment and social in the nature of a kitchen shower will be given at Hope chapel tonight, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. All persons who attend are requested to bring an article which can be used in the chapel kitchen. All members of the chapel are invited. Refreshments will be served and a social time enjoyed.

ALLEN GETS SIX YEARS

Picked Up Here Recently, He is Sentenced for Jobs Done in This City Six Years Ago.

GRANT PLEADS NON VULT.

Johnson, Another Negro, Who Attempted to Kill His Wife, Pleads Guilty to Charge.

Thomas Allen, colored, who was arrested here about two weeks ago by Roundsman Higgins was sentenced by Judge E. S. Atwater in the Union county court, this morning to six years in State Prison at hard labor. The sentence was on two indictments one for entering the home of Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh, on West Eighth street, and the other for entering the Netherwood Station, both acts being committed six years ago.

Allen appeared without counsel, but he made a strong plea in his own behalf. He admitted that he was a burglar, but explained that when sentenced from Mercer county for burglaries committed in that county, he was given to understand, that he would not be called upon to answer to other charges. He failed to state, however, that these charges were to be dropped provided he remained away from Plainfield, which he did not do. When arrested here by Roundsman Higgins, Allen had in his possession a full set of burglar's tools, showing that he was still working the old business.

Thomas Johnson, colored, of this city, who recently attempted to kill his wife, was arraigned this morning on a charge of assault with intent to kill. He also appeared without counsel. He entered a plea of guilty, admitting to the court that he tried to kill his wife. He was remanded for sentence on December 9.

John Scoggs, of Fanwood, who was charged with carrying concealed weapons and threatening to shoot, was placed in charge of the probation officer for one year with instructions to pay $2 a month to the probation officer. His counsel, W. G. DeMeza appeared in his behalf, making a strong plea for leniency.

Richard J. Grant, who traveled about Plainfield representing himself to be a piano tuner and charged with obtaining money under false pretences, entered a plea of non-vult. He was remanded for sentence on Wednesday, December 9.

RUNAWAY HORSE CRASHES THROUGH STORE WINDOW

A spirited horse belonging to W. W. Warnock, the baker, ran away on Park avenue at 8 o'clock this morning and inside of five minutes furnished more excitement than ten ordinary mishaps of the kind. It occasioned about $200 worth of damage before it was captured.

The animal took fright at a flying piece of paper opposite Willett's shoe store and started off at break-neck speed before the driver, Clarence Zimmer, could stop it. At the Front street corner, it was unable to turn and plunged headlong into the big front window of Schwed's clothing store, scattering dummies in all directions. Zimmer jumped from the wagon and tried to catch the horse, as did several other men, but it backed out of its own accord and then started off again. It went down West Front street, smashing a couple of bicycles on the way, and collided with George Henry's milk wagon in front of the postoffice. The Warnock vehicle was thrown on the front end and held the runaway down. Henry escaped injury.

The Warnock horse was badly cut by the window glass and it was thought at first it would have to be killed. Dr. Herbert arrived within a few minutes and after checking the flow of blood found the animal could be brought around. The wagon was only slightly damaged.

Bigelow in Columbia Law School.

L. H. Bigelow, captain of the Yale football team in 1907, and head coach this season, entered the Columbia University Law School yesterday. He intends to practice in New York when he completes his legal education. He does not know whether he will be able to take a hand in the coaching of the Yale team next year, as the course at Columbia begins late in September, just at the beginning of the football season.

City Committee Meets.

The Republican City Committee met last night with W. S. Angleman in the chair. Reports of the recent election were submitted. Another meeting will be held on Tuesday night.

WANT SUNDAY OPENING

Excise Commission Divided on Important Phrase of Its Recommendations.

MAY BE MINORITY REPORT.

Rumor Has it That Whitpeck is firm for Opening Saloons on Sunday Afternoons.

Newark, Dec. 2.—When the State Excise Commission, of which Mayor Fisk, of Plainfield, is chairman, meets there tomorrow, the fight for Sunday opening will be renewed. It has become known that at least one of the commissioners is strongly in favor of Sunday opening during certain hours, so far as serving liquor with meals at hotels is concerned. This man is alleged to be Mr. Whittpeck, but he will neither affirm nor deny the report.

When the commissioners read over the prospective report at Mayor Fisk's office, in Plainfield yesterday, according to a story current here both Commissioners Whitpeck and Howe took a decided stand against the views of Commissioner Backes, who was supported by Commissioner Fisk, that no liquor should be sold on Sunday. Mr. Whitpeck, it is said, took the ground that the excise business should be conducted on Sunday afternoons but he received, it is rumored, no support except from Mr. Howe who later changed his position to conform with the report.

Originally the commissioners agreed against Sunday opening and this leads to the belief that if Mr. Whitpeck renews his efforts in that direction there will be a minority report. If such is the case, however, it is likely to be confined to that single phase of the report, although there is some authority for the assertion that both Whitpeck and Howe do not entirely agree with other details.

According to a story going the rounds here, both Commissioners Fisk and Backes insist that there be no recommendation favoring Sunday selling under any conditions or at any places. Commissioner Rice is said to hold that same view.

According to a report from Newark, the commission will recommend local boards of excise to be composed of from three to five members.

TWENTY-FIVE OBJECT TO ASSESSMENTS

The Somerset County Board of the Equalization of Taxes convened at the North Plainfield Council Chambers yesterday afternoon to receive complaints of taxpayers. Of the appeals made by twenty-five property-owners of the borough from what they believed to be excessive assessments only one was allowed. It was that of Charles Wetzel. It was admitted that in his case there was an error and as the amount involved was small, it was allowed.

The appeals for reductions ranged from $100 to $200 from the assessments levied, and the highest one was for $1,000. The board listened attentively to every complaint and the arguments presented for a reduction of assessments. The complete list of those who made appeals is as follows:

Mary O'Connor, J. V. E. Vanderhoef, William Kaeding, Jacob Keller, E. J. Coe, Mrs. M. Weinberger, John Abbott, Silas Coddington, William Dunham, Patrick Duffy, Charles Wetzel, Susan A. Bright, Frederick L. Dealaman, Peter K. Dilts, E. M. French, M. J. Long, William Pasch, W. J. Buttfield, James Tappen, E. S. Hooley, Mabel B. Hooley, Lucy B. Hooley, Thomas B. Brooks, Charles W. McCutchen, W. J. Buttfield (five appeals).

A communication from former assessor E. M. French was filed by the board.

Lecture on Athens.

An illustrated lecture on "Athens and the Elensinian Mysteries" will be given Monday night, December 16, at the First Baptist church, by L. V. F. Randolph, under the auspices of the Men's Club of the church. Mr. Randolph spent some time in Atheas last winter, and also visited the site Elensis. His lecture will deal with both present day Athens and its life in ancient times. All of the Men's Clubs in the various churches of Plainfield and the members of the ancient history classes of the local high school are invited to attend.

Sesame Club Meeting.

The Sesame Club will meet with Mrs. Foster, 331 East Seventh street, on Thursday morning. The subject will be "Carlyle."

HOLD BURGLAR SUSPECT

Negro Arrested After Messerschmidt Shooting Fails to Clear Himself.

FINGER PRINTS POINT TO HIM.

Comparison of His Own With Those on Ballentyne Window Sill Shows a Sameness, Expert Declares.

John Jones, the negro captured by Patrolman McDonald yesterday morning, following the shooting of William Messerschmidt by a burglar he grappled with at his home on Washington street, failed to stand up under Chief Kiely's quizzing as to his presence in this city. He was unable to give a good account of himself and this morning was arraigned before Judge Runyon on a technical charge of carrying concealed weapons, a revolver having been found in his coat pocket. He was held in $200 bail for the grand jury.

The finger prints on the window sill at George Ballentyne's residence where Messerschmidt boards, were photographed yesterday and Chief Kiely had them compared with those of Jones made by William Banker, who has charge of the Bertillion system at the Rahway reformatory. Mr. Banker declared that the two are identical. Messerschmidt stated that the man who shot him was white, but he might easily have been mistaken if Jones is his assailant, as the latter is very light in color. The hallway where the two men grappled was quite dark at the time and in his excitement it is not unusual that the victim gained a wrong impression.

Jones, who is twenty-nine years old, says he came from Williamsport, Pa., Sunday to visit Henry Alexander, of Cottage place, at present serving a term in jail for coal stealing. When he found that he was away he went to the home of a married woman friend, he says, and remained there until just before he was arrested at the depot. When the chief asked for the name of his friend so that she could be secured to corrobate his statement he refused to give it, saying that it would compromise her. He was warned that he was in a tight position and that she would be protected, but he steadfastly refused to give the information.

George Webb, the white man who was caught in the police dragnet, was released this morning, his statement to the police being satisfactory. He also claimed Williamsport as his home, but denied knowing Jones. He is a mechanic and said that he came here looking for work.

Messerschmidt is resting easily today. He was operated on this morning for the removal of the bullet. It entered the fleshy part of the left leg and took a downward course. Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, the physician in charge, who removed the bullet, does not anticipate any complications.

N. P. H. S. ATHLETES USE DEBELE HALL FOR GYM.

The pupils of the North Plainfield High School now have a place for their gymnasitc exercises, basketball practice, etc. The Board of Education has engaged Debele's Hall on Chatham street to be used for athletic purposes five afternoons and two evenings each week. Heretofore the basketbal teams have been handicapped by not having a place to practice. They will now have a hall for this purpose and also for holding inter-class contests

At stated times boys and girls who are not members of any team will have the opportunity of free play.

George Webster, the tackle of Manual Training, will be the basketball coach for the boys. The coach for the girl's team has not yet been selected.

BOROUGH TAXPAYERS MAKE A BIG 'KICK'

Warm Time at County Board Hearing When Personalities are Exchanged.

ASSESSMENTS ARE UNJUST.

E. S. Hooley, N. B. Smalley and Others Give "Tart" Talks—Officials Make Answer.

The Somerset County Board for the Equalization of Taxes held an open meeting in the North Plainfield council chambers, last night, for the purpose of having a full discussion of the recent increase in valuations throughout the borough. It was attended by a big crowd of citizens that included many of the best known and wealthiest residents of the district and the objection to the raise in assessments was most pronounced. Men like Edwin S. Hooley, William J. Buttfield, B. A. Hegeman, Jr., and Harold Serrell protested against the jump in tax values and called upon the board to make a material reduction. Plain speaking marked every step of the proceedings, former Mayor Netwon B. Smalley, a member of the equalizing body, making the request in an introductory address that everyone give their views without mincing matters.

The full taxation board, composed of P. V. E. VanDoren, Stewart Kenney and Mr. Smalley, presided over the session, with the former mayor acting as chairman because of his residence in North Plainfield. In opening the meeting he said it had been called for the purpose of getting the property owners views on what he called an absurd raise in valuations and that he and his colleagues wanted everyone to be heard. He continued on to explain to a certain extent just how the valuations in North Plainfield had been almost doubled the past year while those in other parts of the county had not been increased in proportion. He spoke from the standpoint of a citizen who was decidedly opposed to the assessor's proceeding and continuing on said:

"The argument for this change in valuations came directly from Mayor Townsend and Borough Counsel Charles A. Reed. They appeared before the county board and asked that it be done. The board disagreed declaring there were portions of the county taxed enough and that it was not seeking money that did not belong to it. However, that agitation has resulted in North Plainfield getting a far greater raise than any other municipality. The assessor should have been conservative last May if for no other reason than the general depression that existed throughout the country at that time. If the question of annexation has anything to do with it whatever, to my notion it would be a weak argument to have the county line changed with such a load hanging over us. The law says property must be assessed at its true value and what it could be sold at when the valuation is made. I doubt if ten per cent of the property in this borough could have been sold at its true value when the assessor made his rounds. And now I say again that the responsibility for this controversy in North Plainfield rests with those who started that agitation and they can't get away from it. Reed is the power behind the throne. The board is going to settle this matter according to its best judgment and will try to correct all evils so far as it lies in its power. We are open to suggestions, the good ones wil be accepted and the bad ones cast off."

Edwin S. Hooley took the floor immediately after the former mayor concluded speaking and his address was not only "plain" but full of "hot shot." He implied at the outset that the increase in valuations was a plan on the part of Mr. Reed to swing around the anti-annexationists and that those who opposed this measure in other years were the men who received the brunt of the raise.

"Did Saunders or Townsend get it?" he asked; "no, but Hooley and McCutchen did because Reed wants to swing them around. Assessor Cooley convicts himself by his own figures."

"At this juncture Mr. Hooley was interrupted by Mayor Townsend who stated that he explained his part in the agitation several times and that it was hardly necessary to go over it

The Upholstery Store Full of Useful Gifts.

LACE CURTAINS

As the years go by people are turning more and more away from the merely fancy, novel things to gifts that are both useful and ornamental, so the Upholstery Store has become the Mecca of hundreds who seek gifts that are lasting and always in evidence.

Take lace curtains, for instance. Here is a collection unsurpassed by any store in New Jersey, and what better could you give to wife or married daughter or other relative or worthy friend than lace curtains? What is more beautiful—more useful?

Lace Curtains for parlors, dining-rooms, libraries, bedrooms, in a variety of patterns that almost bewilder one, and in a range of qualities that will bring them within the reach of any purse—$1.25 to $150 a pair.

PORTIERES

And what will prove more acceptable than a pair of portieres?

In such a stock as this, where there are so many kinds and such a wide range of patterns and colorings one can find full play for taste, and can readily adjust the gift to the requirements of the purse.

Regular prices run from $3.50 to $70 a pair.

There are many special things in Portieres—some that we are selling at just about half price. You should see these.

DRAFT SCREENS

Every kind of screen you can think of is here, and a good many kinds that you couldn't think of. Such a variety seems beyond reason, for who would want so many to pick from? Who couldn't find more than enough to suit them in half this variety

Screens with fillings of burlap, denim, tapestry, cretonne, silk and silkoline; screens that are almost all wood; screens with fillings of leather; screens with picture tops, fine for libraries, living rooms and dens; screens especially suited for dining rooms—3 and 4-fold, 4 ft. 6 to 6 feet high; prices ranging from $1.19 to $30.

LAMBREQUINS

There was a time when lambrequins and piano scarfs were more or less tabooed, but they are coming again with a rush, and why shouldn't they? For they not only protect the piano but add to the furnishings of the room. These are nice for mantels, also, and are in such wide variety as to make selection easy and pleasurable—lambrequins of silk, satin, velour, damask and silkoline, at prices ranging from 69c to $27.50.

LACE BED SETS

Here is something nice—something few think of giving and yet will be immensely appreciated by the careful homekeeper. They are particularly nice for dressing up the bed in the guest room.

Lace Bed Sets with valance for metal bed, or straight for wood beds, in a variety of patterns most pleasing. Beautiful things with Renaissance centres and fine medallion effects—some simple enough, others very elaborate; prices ranging from $2.75 to $75.

MATERIALS FOR FANCY WORK

We present immense lines of figured china silk—fine for covering sofa pillows, making lambrequins, covering comfortables, making shopping bags or filling screens, at 60c to $2 a yard.

Cretonnes, both imported and domestic, in the greatest possible variety of patterns and colorings, at prices ranging from 12½c to 30c.

FOOTBALL.

Now that the college football season of 1908 is over, for the end came on Saturday when the Army team defeated the Navy at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, it remains to make a ranking. If any two critics agree it will be surprising, as a proper basis for comparison is almost impossible to find. The leading teams were so well matched and comparative scores are so misleading that any ranking must amount to an invidual opinion on impressions of inherent strength formed in watching the various teams in practice. In point of fact, much must be considered beyond mere scores, as the various elevens have not been entirely consistent, some reaching their top form earlier than others and then going back—the Navy being a leading example. Of the leading elevens, Harvard and Pennsylvania are the only ones which came through the season without a defeat.

The Navy played a tie game with Harvard, and the Carlisle Indians with Pennsylvania, but otherwise both teams played steady, consistent and winning football. Yale, Dartmouth and Cornell had much the same record, with one defeat and one tie game each. Yale was beaten by Harvard and had a tie with Brown; Dartmouth was beaten by Harvard and had a tie with Williams; Cornell was beaten by Pennsylvania and had a tie with Chicago. Every other eleven of those considered tasted defeat more than once.

BASEBALL.

By the end of the week baseball men who direct the destinies of the various big and little teams, will be in New York to attend the annual meetings of the American and National Commission and the conference between the belligerent minor leagues, the Eastern and the American Association. A call has been issued by President P. T. Powers, of the Eastern League, for a meeting of both minor leagues at the Victoria Hotel Saturday to back up the demands that will be made by their joint committee to the National Commission that day.

President Powers says that he wants to have all of the sixteen minor league club owners on hand so that in case any delicate question arises they can render assistance. These minor leagues are going to make a bold bid for recognition. They want to work independently of all the other minor leagues and feel that they are entitled to equal rights with the two major leagues. They even ask that they receive a membership in the National Commission, the supreme court of baseball.

While there is no doubt that the Eastern League and the American Association have not made an unfair request that they operate in a class above all of the other minor leagues it is the opinion of baseball men that they have no just claim upon membership in the commission and that the commission will therefore turn them down. If the two minor leagues are permitted to classify themselves exclusively it is believed that the other minor leagues will be up in arms. Meanwhile the story will not down that in case of a general turndown the Eastern League and the American Association will go it alone as baseball outlaws or that the best cities in each circuit will join hands in forming a new major league in which event there would be a red hot baseball war. With this minor league question absorbing the attention of the commission it will not be until some time next week that the supreme court of baseball will hand down a verdict in the case of the Chicago Cubs' relations with ticket speculators during the recent world's series.

This matter has been thoroughly investigated by the commission, and it is said that there may be some sensational developments. "Mr. Murphy may not believe that any of his employees were of assistance to the speculators," says President Ban Johnson, a member of the commission, "but I imagine he will change his mind when the decision is read. It would be unfair for me to outline the decision in advance, but I can give the assurance that it will not be based on hearsay evidence." In Chicago the story is going the rounds that there is much ill feeling among Chance and other members of the Cubs toward Murphy over this ticket business. It is said that the Chicago players believe that because of the botch they were deprived of thousands of dollars, and for that reason they intend to hold Murphy and the Chicago club up for increased salaries next season. Three Fingered Brown and Orville Overall, the star pitchers, are quoted as saying that they will not play ball next season unless Murphy gives each a fat bankroll.

Millville's Medical Society is preparing to wage war on the venders of what are known as "rattler" oysters. These oysters, the physicians say, are picked from the refuse piles of the oyster shippers along Maurice river, or from scows which may have been tied up for several days, when the bivalves fatten on bad water. The venders then open them and peddle them about the streets here in tin kettles at reduced prices.

TAXPAYERS MAKE A 'KICK'

again. He said he was before the taxation board in the interests of North Plainfield and he wanted the members to consider the question as put before them by the Councilmen appointed for the purpose. Then, turning directly to Mr. Hooley, he said:

"You can't afford to keep your position in this matter."

"You can't," said Mr. Hooley.

"You're wrong. I had nothing to do with it. There's the assessor over there—"

"I wouldn't take his word," Mr. Hooley interjected.

"Well, just the same I had nothing to do with your assessment," said the mayor and he sat down.

"I don't know that you had anything to do with the assessor's books," Mr. Smalley exclaimed direct to the mayor, "but you persisted in this raise and I hold it to you."

Mr. Hooley then resumed by saying that of the increase in taxes in North Plainfield this year, Charles W. McCutchen, W. J. Buttfield and himself had gotten practically all of it.

"Where did you get your information?" asked Mr. Saunders.

"From the assessor's books."

"Well, let me say right now that my tax is now $365, more than it ever was before. As a matter of fact, I came here tonight to complain and I disclaim any responsibility for this increase."

Mr. Reed secured the floor at this juncture and stated that any charge that he and Assessor Cooley were in cahoots in the raise of valuations was ridiculous, adding that they hadn't agreed on anything in ten years.

"No, not in public," said Mr. Hooley.

"This talk about my being the power behind the throne," resumed Mr. Reed, ignoring the interruption, "is amusing to me. I knew nothing about any agitation for an increase in valuations until Mayor Townsend made his statement. He asked my opinion about it after explaining his views with reference to the benefits to be derived from the railroad taxes and other matters and I thought it was all right. I went to Somerville with Mr. Smalley to discuss the increase for the benefit of the county and the members agreed with him in doubling values."

"We did not," exclaimed Messrs Smalley, Stewart and Van Doren in unison. An argument followed as to whether they did nor whether they didn't and it was eventually dropped without any conclusion being reached. Resuming his statement, Mr. Reed said:

"I put it up to the board about the railroad tax and as a result of the recommendation, North Plainfield got a raise of 44 per cent. and the rest of the county 18 per cent. We have a member of that board, (referring to Smalley) and he knows how that raise got there; the assessor gives figures subject to the board and is guided by them. If there is a change it's not my funeral—I'm not on the board."

Mr. Smalley again took the floor as the borough counsel concluded and speaking more to him than to the gathering, he said:

"Mr. Reed's assertion that the raising of values would give up more money is foreign to the fact. I disagreed with him right there at the meeting and we frowned on his proposition from the first. I say now in regard to his part that his natural tendency for the past few years has been to increase values and expenses and create dissatisfaction. It was so in my term of office and it is so now. His recommendations resulted in Assessor Cooley taking things in a different light than ever before. If it hadn't been for the agitation of the men mentioned, this dissatisfaction would never have accurred."

The former mayor's remarks were followed by a few minutes of cross-fire talk between himself, Mr. Reed, W. L. Saunders and Mr. Hooley at the end of which Mr. Hooley again took the floor with a copy of tax assessments and other figures in his hand, from which he read.

"My increase in assessments this year," he said, "has been 344.41 per cent, Mr. Buttfield's 121.60, Mr. McCutchen's 76.26 and Mr. Saunders' 37.25. I don't see why I should pay ten times as much as Mr. Saunders and five times as much as Colonel John F. Wilson. Mayor Townsend last year paid taxes on $8,100 worth of property; this year on $11,000 and yet his percentage is the same as that of Mr. Saunders. It is remarkable that in the assessments of all the men who wanted annexation there has not been a variation of five per cent."

"Mr. Hooley made a palace out of his house within the past year," said Mr. Saunders, jumping to his feet; "while I added but $2,000 worth of improvement to mine."

"I am not kicking about the assessment," retorted Mr. Hooley, "I can pay my taxes but I don't see why one or two should do it all. I believe before we go to Somerville we ought to have a few funerals right here."

Henry C. White said he believed the citizens were getting at the trouble in the wrong way. He declared the vital question was not as to who started the agitation but to take cognizance of the petition put before the board for the increase.

Assessor Cooley explained his position. He declared that he had no wish to shirk any responsibility for the increases and that he would tell why he had made them. He cited the instructions given him by the county board to assess everyone on a fair and equal basis and how he had sought to live up to the law. He expressed doubt if there was a piece of property that was assessed at a figure that it was ever sold for and declared that there were other districts in the county that were not assessed properly. He said he had increased the figures on Mr. Hooley because he had found his house greatly enlarged and a great many valuable horses and carriages in his stables.

"How about your own assessment, though?" asked Mr. Hooley, "I don't know whether you found any improvements to include because I didn't go to your place and look at your cows and baths."

Mr. Cooley said he had increased his own assessment about thirty per cent.

Mayor Smalley took exception to the assessor's statement relative to asking the board to go around with him, declaring that his books were all made up before the members accepted his invitation. This Mr. Cooley denied, adding that only one-tenth of his assessments had been put down.

W. J. Buttfield, who had hitherto refrained from speaking, stated that the borough was being used as a football. He declared that the investigation showed that the assessor was not acting in good faith, whether from ignorance or carlessness he didn't know.

"In going over the tax books," he continued, "I have found many inequalities and Mr. Cooley's personal assessment compared with others shows it. The figures show that he pays on only $3,000 worth of personal property. I say he is not doing his duty."

Councilman Woolston followed him for a brief talk during which he said Mayor Townsend had looked up the law relating to the increased assessments because last year the borough was above the legal rate in taxation. He declared that North Plainfield was not assessed too much, wherein Mr. Kenney, of the board, agreed with him.

"The main kick," said Mr. Kenney, "always seems to be that the borough is not getting a proportionate return from the county for what it pays out. It's the same everywhere; Somerville has the same complaint. The money is generally spent in building roads and bridges in the rural districts."

Somebody chimed in to say, "yes, mostly Bridgewater township in which Somerville is located," but Mr. Kenney made no reply.

Harold Serrell took occasion to cite some tax assessments in his neighborhood and they were presented in the form of an objection to his own. Mayor Smalley told him that that was a matter that the board was responsible for and his figures would be considered if he presented them in the usual way.

"I am glad to hear Mr. Smalley say that," exclaimed Mayor Townsend, "because if he is responsible in the Serrell case he is responsible for the county."

Former Mayor Hegeman was the last speaker to make any sort of an address and he was "plain" from the outset. He asserted that North Plainfield's position is very humiliating, that through the mayor and the assessor the citizens had "been done by the rubes in the county." He asked Mr. Cooley direct if he didn't know that by raising the values forty per cent. he was laying himself liable to something and that if he didn't know the assessors elsewhere in the county would not follow suit.

"If this board will give us relief from the position we have placed ourselves in," Mr. Hegeman concluded, "we will have something to be thankful for."

There was more or less general conversation after this, during which there were several "plain" statements made and not a little personal talk. The chairman put an end to it by declaring that unless someone wanted to say something direct to the board the meeting was adjourned. No one spoke up.

The church parlors, where the affair is being held, is elaborately decorated with attractive booths and a profusion of palms and flowers.

MANUAL TRAINING PROVES POPULAR

The demand in the borough schools for manual training is such that the Board of Education has decided to open the rooms two evenings each week and to employ an assistant to Mr. Webster, who is instructor in that department. The lighting facilities are inadequate and electric lights are to be installed at once.

It is intended to give there additional opportunities to pupils who are particularly interested in the work, but who cannot attend in the afternoon. At present the benches in the day class is overcrowded.

The interest in manual training work among the pupils is widespread and the Board of Education wishes to take advantage of this interest to train pupils in mechanical lines.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Harper's Weekly, in speaking of Eugene Walter's play, "Paid in Full," says: "The third act of the American play, 'Paid in Full,' which is presented at the Astor theatre, is one for which the author, Mr. Eugene Walter, deserves much commendation. The play, from beginning to end, is extremely well done both by playwright and company, and 'with interest' might well be added to the title as an expression of what the audience derives from it. The play deals with humble persons; humble, that is, in comparison with the 'high society' folk one is accustomed to see strutting through the measures of social drama. The reason for calling attention to Mr. Walter's third act is, that he has made it just what it should be, quick, alert, full of interest, and a striking climax, of the play. After seeing it there was a reasonable suspicion that a fourth act might spoil the drama, at least might destroy the force of the third. However, Mr. Walter's fourth act does not mar his play in any way; if anything, it adds in accentuating the strength of the one which preceded it." "Paid In Full" will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night, as the annual testimonial to Treasurer Sam W. Cunningham. Wagenhals and Kemper promise a fine production and a notable cast of players. The play is in its second year in New York and has also to its credit a run of over five months in Chicago.

Messrs. Conness & Edwards, whose company of players made such a splendid showing last week in "Raffles," have arranged a splendid feast of amusement for the patrons of the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night, when they will produce the everlasting successful comedy-drama, "Blue Jeans," by Joseph Arthur. This play ran for two entire seasons in New York, and for twelve years has broken all records "on the road." That "Blue Jeans," notwithstanding its many sensational scenes and situations, is a comedy drama cannot be questioned. It has stood the test of time because of its intense heart interest, because it abounds in pathos and humor. It delights ladies, pleases children, and is attractive to young and old alike. Messrs. Conness & Edwards have certainly spared no expense to give a satisfactory presentation of this great play, one of the four principal features of which will be a practical saw-mill in actual operation—sawing lumber in full view of the audience. Theatre-goers who attend the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night will say that no stage effect has surely ever reached such a degree of intense and thrilling realism as this famous scene.

"The Dollar Mark," a new play with scenes laid in and about New York city, by G. S. Beck, a newspaper man, will be given at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night. The piece is in a prologue and three acts, having for its theme the greed of gold. The motif being the acquisition of tainted money, the piece is said to sound a big popular note. The devil of gold is one of the central characters, while one of the sensational effects is produced by means of radium screen unfolding in the second act. A notable cast has been selected. Aubrey Boucicault, Fuller Mellish, Douglas Gerard, Dorothy Chester and Ina Brooks will assume important roles. The play has been staged by Frank Hatch and will be offered under the personal direction of J. Jay Daley.

JOE WEBER'S FUNMAKERS PLEASE CAPACITY AUDIENCE.

Actor-Manager Joe Weber and his merry company of sixty people drove dull care away at the New Plainfield theatre, Monday, when local playgoers saw them at home for the first time in a travesty of the familiar Weber-fieldan type. A clever satire on the popular successes, "The Merry Widow," "The Devil" and "The Witching Hour," formed the groundwork for three hours of fun furnished by such capital mirth-provokers as Blanche Ring, Lillian Fitzgerald, Grace Griswold, Charles J. Ross, Walter Jones, Al Hart and Mr. Weber. In addition there was a stunning chorus and costumes that made all the women folks sit up and take notice. The men also paid close attention.

Miss Ring carries a large part of the show on her pretty shoulders and she more than added to the favorable impression she made here in "Dolly Dollars" two years ago. She was delightful in her part as a merry widow and her singing captivated the entire house. She induced, or rather allowed, the gallery to join with her in the rendition of the new song success, "Yip," which scored a home run of a hit. It promises to rival her earlier introduction, "Waltz Me Around Again, Willie."

The theatre was filled to its capacity and at the close of the performance the audience was unanimous in its verdict of "fine."

SIX COTTAGES DESTROYED BY FIRE AT HOPATCONG.

Fire broke out among the cottages at Castle Rock Park, near Nolan's Point, Lake Hopatcong, shortly before 7 o'clock Sunday morning. The flames destroyed Rock cottage, Sand Nook cottage and four smaller summer homes on the shores of the lake, notwithstanding the efforts of the Nolan's Point fire department.

It was fortunate that the fire did not break out several hours earlier, as then a number of other cottages would surely have been destroyed, while the buildings belonging to the Silk City Outing Club of Paterson, popularly known as "Camp Six," would have been wiped out completely. As it was there was soon a band of willing fire-fighters on the scene and they did their utmost to prevent a further spread of the flames. It was largely due to their efforts that "Camp Six" was saved, for a number of times blazing embers were carried to the buildings of the camp only to be extinguished by the members of the bucket brigade. It is estimated that the loss will be about $3,000. The cottages had been closed for the winter, and it is not known how the fire originated.

Engineer Scalded in Cab.

George L. Robinson, twenty-four years of age, of No. 302 Elm street, Newark, an engineer employed on the Central Railroad of New Jersey, was badly scalded yesterday by the bursting of a tube in the locomotive he was driving. Robinson was in the cab when the tube burst and he was enveloped in the steam and hot water. He was hurried to St. James' Hospital, where it was said he may not live.

Taxpayers File Appeal.

More than two hundred property owners filed appeals in Bayonne yesterday with the Hudson County Board of Taxation. The appeals were mostly on small properties. Several city officials were among those who had their taxes raised. Mayor and Prosecutor Pierre Garven will have to pay $50 more this year in taxes than last year. He did not file an appeal.

CASKET WENT ASTRAY, BURIAL WAS DELAYED.

Because the casket containing the body was lost in transit, the interment of Mrs. Isabel McCabes took place Sunday afternoon in Evergreen cemetery, Basking Ridge, instead of on Saturday, as originally planned. Mrs. McCabe died on Wednesday of apoplexy at her home in Newburg, N. Y. The body was shipped from Newburg Saturday morning. Her daughter planned to accompany it. She reached Basking Ridge but the casket was not on the train.

After several hours the casket was located in the baggage-room of an express company in Hoboken, where it was being held because of some misunderstanding over the express charges. The company was ordered to ship it at once, and it reached Basking Ridge at 7:40 p. m. Saturday, where it was taken in charge by a local undertaker.

Many friends from New York, Newburg, Bernardsville and the village were present at the burial. Mrs. McCabe was sixty-seven years old. Her sister, Mrs. Frank Dunster, and one brother, Robert Stantial, reside at Basking Ridge.

WARNS LOAN ASSOCIATIONS.

Excess Building Association Stock a Danger, Jersey Official Says.

Unless the danger of the practice is speedily realized and the managers act accordingly, it will be necessary, according to David O. Watkins, State Commissioner of Banking and Insurance, that the Legislature enact a law limiting the amount of prepaid or paid-up stock to be issued by any single building and loan association. The Commissioner takes this position in his annual report, which was given out at Trenton yesterday, condemning the managers of associations who issue prepaid stock in excess of the amounts realized.

The prepaid stock issued last year shows an increase of 24 per cent., the total amount being $2,094,740. In the year before the increase was 38 per cent. This class of stock is not issued generally by the associations, although the number of the latter doing so are increasing at a rate regarded by Commissioner Watkins as inconsistent with prudent management.

The Commissioner reports 491 building and loan associations in the State, an increase of thirty for the year. One association went out of business. The total number of members of the local associations has reached 156,306, a gain for the year of 12,420, or nearly 8 per cent. Nearly 25 per cent., or 39,173, are borrowers. The gross assets of the associations aggregate $73,518,234, a gain of $5,715,827 for the year. There were 61 foreclosures during the year, an increase of 10 over the year before.

SEARCH FOR MONEY IN COAL.

Some one Hid the Engineer's $1,065 —$830 Recovered.

Tons of coal are being shoveled and sifted by a large gang of men at the Aeolian factory in Garwood in an effort to find several hundred dollars supposed to have been hidden there by a man who found $1,065 lost by the chief engineer of the plant on Saturday. Already $830 has been recovered.

William Van Buskirk is the engineer, and he carried $1,065 in bills in a pocket-book on Saturday morning. The pocket-book dropped from his pocket, and though he found it later, the money had been removed.

County Detective Galatian was called in, and, convinced that the money had been concealed, he ordered the employes to turn over the coal.

WILL NOT GO WEST.

So Mrs. Brosman Fails to Compel Husband to Support Her.

Declaring dramatically that she would rather starve than give up her children or go West with her husband, Mrs. Walter Brosman ruled herself out of court at Trenton yesterday morning, when she complained before Police Justice Harris, charging her husband with non-support.

Brosman was arrested because he told his wife he would not support her or the children unless they accompanied him to Michigan, where he is now employed. The wife declares that she will not follow her husband West, nor will she permit the children to do so.

Old Newark Police Exonerated.

Judge Ten Eyck quashed yesterday the indictments for nonfeasance in office found against former Police Commissioners Krueger, Gardner and Castle and a number of patrolmen of Newark. This action was taken on motion of Prosecutor Mott, who informed the court that there was no evidence against the accused. The indictments were found two years ago.

E. F. C. Young Has Relapse.

E. F. C. Young, president of the First National Bank, of Jersey City, has suffered a relapse and is in a serious condition. He has been confined to his home for several weeks. His condition was somewhat improved a day or two ago, and he was thought to be on the road to recovery. His physicians and relatives fear that the end is not far off.

By LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

No answer; in absolute indifference, she felt, lay her strongest weapon. She must keep calm and self-possessed, refusing to be terrified into a quick and thoughtless answer.

"This afternoon," he said, harshly, "you stole from me the Maitland jewels. Where are they?"

"I shall not tell."

He bent swiftly forward and took one of her hands in his. Instinctively she clenched it; and he wrapped his strong hard fingers around the small white fist, then deliberately inserted a hard finger joint between her second and third knuckles, slowly increasing the pressure. And watched with absolute indifference the lines of agony grave themselves upon her smooth unwrinkled forehead, and the color leave her cheeks, as the pain grew too exquisite. Then, suddenly discontinuing the pressure, but retaining her hand, he laughed shortly.

"Will you speak, my lady, or will you have more?"

"Don't," she gasped, "please—"

"Where are the jewels? Will you?"

"No."

"Have you given them to Maitland?"

"No."

"Where are they?"

"I don't know."

"Stop that nonsense unless— Where did you leave them?"

"I won't tell—I won't. Ah, please, please!"

"Tell me!"

"Never. Ah-h!"

An abrupt and resounding hammering at the outer door forced him to leave off. He dropped her hand with an oath and springing to his feet drew his revolver; then, with a glance at the girl, who was silently weeping, tears of pain rolling down her cheeks, mouth set in a thin pale line of determination, strode out and shut the door after him.

As it closed the girl leaped to her feet, maddened with torture, wild eyes casting about the room for a weapon of some sort, of offense or defense; for she could not have endured the torture an instant longer. If forced to it, to fight, fight she would. If only she had something, a stick of wood, to defend herself with. But there was nothing, nothing at all.

The room was a typical office, well but severely furnished. The rug that covered the tile floor was of rich quality and rare design. The neutral-tinted walls were bare, but for a couple of steel engravings in heavy wooden frames. There were three heavily upholstered leather arm-chairs and one revolving desk-chair; a roll-top desk, against the partition wall, a waste-paper basket, and a flat-topped desk; or table. And that was all.

Or not quite all, else the office equipment had not been complete. There was the telephone!

But he would hear! Or was the partition sound-proof?

As if in contradiction of the suggestion, there came to her ears very clearly the sound of the hall door creaking on its hinges, and then a man's voice, shrill with anger and anxiety.

"You fool! Do you want to ruin us both? What do you mean—"

The door crashed to, interrupting the protest and drowning Anisty's reply.

"I was passing," the new voice took up its plaintive remonstrance, "and the watchman called me in and said that you were telephoning for me—"

"Damn the interfering fool!" interrupted Anisty.

"But what's this insanity, Anisty? What's this about a woman? What—" The new-comer's tones ascended a high scale of fright and rage.

"Lower your voice, you ass!" the burglar responded, sternly. "And—"

He took his own advice; and for a little time the conference was conducted in guarded tones that did not penetrate the dividing wall save as a deep rumbling alternating with an impassioned squeak.

But long ere this had come to pass the girl was risking all at the telephone. Receiver to ear she was imploring central to connect her with Ninety-eight-nine Madison. If only she might get Maitland, tell him where the jewels were hidden, warn him to remove them—then she could escape further suffering by open confession.

"What number?" came central's languid query, after a space. "Did you say nine-ought-nine-eight?"

"No, no, central. Nine-o-eight-nine Madison, please, and hurry—hurry!"

"Ah, I'm ringin' 'em. They ain't answered yet. Gimme time. There they are. Go ahead."

"Hello, hello!"

"Pwhat is ut?"

Her heart sank; O'Hagan's voice meant that Maitland was out.

"O'Hagan—is that you? Tell Mr. Maitland—"

"He's gawn out for the noight an'—"

"Tell him, please—"

"But he's out. Ring up in the marnin'."

"But can't you take this message for him? Please—"

The door was suddenly jerked open and Anisty leaped into the room, face white with passion. Terrified, the girl sprang from the desk, carrying the instrument with her, placing the revolving chair between her and her enemy.

"The brass bowl, please—tell him that," she cried clearly into the receiver.

And Anisty was upon her, striking the telephone from her grasp with one swift blow and seizing her savagely by the wrist. As the instrument clattered and pounded on the floor she was sent reeling and staggering halfway across the room.

As she brought up against the flat-topped desk, catching its edge and saving herself a fall, the burglar caught up the telephone.

"Who is that?" he shouted, imperatively, into the transmitter.

Whatever the reply, it seemed to please him. His brows cleared, the wrath that had made his face almost unrecognizable subsided; he even smiled. And the girl trembled, knowing that he had solved her secret; for she had hoped against hope that the only words he could have heard her speak would have had too cryptic a significance for his comprehension.

As, slowly and composedly, he replaced the receiver on its hook and returned the instrument to the desk, a short and rotund figure of a man, in rumpled evening dress and wearing a wilted collar, hopped excitedly into the room, cast at the girl one terrified glance out of eyes that glittered with excitement like black diamonds, set in a face the hue of yeast, and clutched the burglar's arm.

"Oh, Anisty, Anisty!" he cried, piteously. "What is it? What is it? Tell me!"

"It's all right," returned the burglar. "Don't you worry, little man. Pull yourself together." And laughed.

"But what—what—" stammered the other.

"Only that she's given herself away," chuckled Anisty; "beautifully and completely. 'The brass bowl,' says she—thinking I never saw one on Maitland's desk!—and 'O'Hagan, and who the divvle are you?' says the man on the other end of the wire, when I ask who he is."

"And? And?" pleaded the little man, dancing with worry.

"And it means that my lady here returned the jewels to Maitland by hiding them under a brass ash-receiver on his desk—ass that I was not to know! You are 'cute, my lady!" with an ironic salute to the girl, "but you've met your match in Anisty."

"And," demanded the other as the burglar snatched up his hat and coat, "what will you do, Anisty?"

"Do?" — contemptuously. "Why, what is there to do but go and get them? We've risked too much and made New York too hot for the two of us, my dear sir, to get out of the game without the profits."

"But I beg of you—"

"You needn't"—grimly. "It won't bring you in any money."

"But Maitland—"

"Is out. O'Hagan answered the 'phone. Don't you understand?"

"But he may return!"

"That's his lookout. I'm sorry for him if he does." Anisty produced the revolver from his pocket, and twirled the cylinder significantly. "I owe Mr. Maitland something," he said, nodding to the white-faced girl by the table, "and I shouldn't be sorry to—"

"And what," broke in the new-comer, "what am I going to do meanwhile?"

"Devil the bit I care! Stay here and keep this impetuous female from calling up police headquarters, for a good guess. Speaking of which, I think we had best settle this telephone business once and for all."

The burglar turned again to the desk and began to work over the instrument with a small screw-driver which he produced from his coat pocket, talking the while.

"Our best plan, my dear Bannerman, is for you to come with me, at least as far as the nearest corner. You can wait there, if you're too cowardly to go the limit, like a man. I'll get the loot and join you, and we can make a swift hike for the first train that goes farthest out of town. A pity, for we've done pretty well, you and I, old boy; you with your social entree and bump of locality to locate the spoils, me with my courage and skill to lift 'em, and an equitable division. Oh, don't worry about her, Bannerman! She's as deep in it as either of us, only she happens to be sentimental, and an outsider on this deal. She won't blab. Besides, you're ruined anyway, as far as New York's concerned. Come along. That's finished; she won't send any important messages over that wire to-night, I guess.

"My dear young lady!" Rising and throwing the overcoat over his arm, he waved his hat at her in sardonic courtesy. "I can't say it has been a pleasure to know you, but—you have made it interesting, I admit. And I bid you a very good night. The charwoman will let you out when she comes to clean up in the morning. Adieu, my dear!"

The little man bustled after him, bleating and fidgeting; and the lock clicked.

She was alone—utterly and forlornly alone—and had lost—lost all, all that she had prized and hoped to win, even—even him.

She raised fluttering, impotent white hands to her temples, trying to collect herself.

In the outer room a clock was ticking. Unconsciously she moved to the doorway and stood looking for a time at the white, expressionless dial. It was some time—a minute or two—before she deciphered the hour.

Ten minutes past two! Ah, the lifetime she had lived in the past 70 minutes! And the futility of it all!

CHAPTER XV.

The Price.

Slowly Maitland returned to the study and replaced the lamp upon his desk; and stood briefly in silence, long fingers stroking his well-shaped chin, his face a little thin and worn-looking, a gleam of pain in his eyes. He sighed.

So she was gone!

He laughed a trace harshly. This surprise was nothing more than he might have discounted, of course; he had been a fool to expect anything else of her, he was enjoying only his just deserts both for having dared to believe that the good in human nature (particularly in woman's nature) would respond to decent treatment, and for having acted on that asinine theory.

So she was gone, without a word, without a sign!

He sat down at the desk, sidewise, one arm extended along its edge, fingers drumming out a dreary little tune on the hard polished wood; and thought it all over from the beginning. Nor spared himself.

Why, after all, should it be otherwise? Why should she have stayed? Why should he compliment himself by believing that there was aught about him visible through the veneer acquired in a score and odd years of purposeless existence, to attract a young and pretty woman's heart?

He enumerated his qualities specifically; and condemned them all. Imprimis, he was a conceited ass. A fascinating young criminal had but to toss her head at him to make him think that she was pleased with him, to make him forget that she was what she was and believe that, because he was willing to stoop, she was willing to climb. And he had betrayed himself so mercilessly! How she must have laughed in her sleeve all the time, while he pranced and bridled and preened himself under her eyes, blinded to his own idiocy by the flame of a sudden infatuation—how she must have laughed!

Undoubtedly she had laughed; and, measuring his [illegible] of his shallowness—had d[illegible] to use him to her ends. Why not? It had been her business, [illegible] duty, to make use of him in order to accomplish her plundering. And because she had not dared to ask him for the jewels when he left her in the morning, she had naturally returned in the evening to regain them, very confident, doubtless, that even if surprised a second time, she would get off scot-free. Unfortunately for her, this fellow Anisty had interfered. Maitland presumed cynically that he ought to be grateful to Anisty. The unaccountable scoundrel! Why had he returned?

How the girl had contrived to escape was, of course, more easy to understand. Maitland recalled that sudden clatter of hoofs in the street, and he had only to make a trip to the window to verify his suspicion that the cab was gone. She had simply overheard his concluding remarks to the cabby, and taken pardonable advantage of them. Maitland had footed the bill. She was welcome to that, however. He, Maitland, was well rid of the whole damnable business. Yes, jewels and all!

What were the jewels to him? Beyond their sentimental associations, he did not hold them greatly in prize. Of course, since they had been worn by his mother he would spare no expense or effort to trace and re-collect them, for that dim sainted memory's sake. But in this case, at least, the traditional usage of the Maitlands would never be carried out. It had been faithfully observed when, after his mother's death, the stones had been removed from their settings and stored away; but now they would never be reset, even should he contrive to reassemble them, to adorn the bride of the Maitland heir. For he would never marry. Of course not.

Maitland was young enough to believe, and to extract a melancholy satifcation from, this.

Puzzled and saddened, his mind harked back forever to that carking question: Why had she returned? What had brought her back to the flat? If she and Anisty were confederates, as one was inclined at times to believe—if such were the case, Anisty had the jewels, and there was nothing else of any particular value so persistently to entice such expert and accomplished burglars back to his flat. What else had they required of him? His peace of mind was nothing that they could turn into cash; and they seemed to have reaved him of nothing else.

PARK CLUB BOWLERS WALLOP ELIZABETHANS

The Park Club bowling team continued its good work, last night, when it took three games from the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A., in the Central Journal Bowling League tournament. The games were rolled on the alleys of the Elizabeth team. The Parks took the first game by a score of 837 to 801, the second by a score of 935 to 823 and the third by a score of 881 to 789. Every member of the Park team rolled a good score, Barlow, Ball and Long each put up a 202, while Daniel was high man with a 203. He also rolled 192 in the second game.

Corbet rolled high score for his team, putting up a 200 in the second game. The other scores were good, but they could not touch those rolled by their opponents, who seemed to work like veterans even though not accustomed to the alleys. The scores:

NURSES IN SESSION HERE

Members of New Jersey State Association Gather in Semi-Annual Convention.

DR. CORBUSIER MAKES ADDRESS

Miss L. L. Dock, of New York, After Investigating Tour Tells of Alms House Conditions.

The New Jersey State Nurse's Association held its semi-annual meeting yesterday afternoon at Y. M. C. A. Hall. Nurses from all parts of the State were present. The convention was addressed by Miss Levinia L. Dock, of the Henry Street Settlement in New York. Her subject was "The Sanitary Conditions in our Almhouses." She has made a tour of the country investigating the public institutions of this class, and her talk was listened to with much interest.

Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, of the First M. E. church, delivered the address of welcome, in which he praised the unselfish devotion of the successful nurse in the practice of her profession.

An interesting talk on hospital work in the Philippines was given by Dr. H. D. Corbusier, mentioning the improved conditions under which the nurses and medical staff of the army now work as compared to what it formerly was. He said that the discoveries that have been made, of medicines and methods for counteracting the effects and preventing the yellow fever, small pox, malaria and other contagious diseases, has made the climate of the tropics fairly healthful instead of deadly as heretofore.

The speaker told of his personal experiments while there with the effects of the sun on the nervous system of the human body. The first effect of the direct rays of the sun, he said, was to over stimulate, to be followed after a few weeks by extreme depression, calling for the use of stimulants and in many cases ending in suicide.

This power of the sun, said he, has been overcome to a great extent by the wearing of red, the crimson rays having the effect of stopping the penetrating chemical rays of the sun. This method is also being used in India, where many cases of sunstroke have been prevented. The United States government has ordered 5,000 suits of red underwear and an equal number of red hat linings for the use of the soldiers on the islands.

Dr. Corbusier produced colored stereopticon pictures on a screen, showing scenes of the Boxer uprising in China. He said that there was a scarcity of nurses in China at that time and the few who were there were under a severe strain. Congress has been urged to further increase the corps, which is still inadequate.

The session adjourned after a five hours' session to meet again in May. Newark will probably be the next meeting place.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR THE BOWLING TOURNEY

Arrangements for the opening of the fraternal Bowling League were completed last night at a meeting held at Campbell's alleys.

Representatives were present from seven organizations and in the drawing for the first week's schedule the Elks and Miantonomo Tribe of Red Men are to be the contesting teams on the opening night which is to be next Monday.

The Saengerbund and Wetumpka Tribe of Red Men will meet on Wednesday, December 9, and the Plainfield Bicycle Club and the Woodmen of Westfield will bring the week's bowling to an end on Friday, December 11.

COURT WATCHUNG CHOOSES OFFICERS

The members of Court Watchung, Independent Order of Foresters, elected officers last night, afterwards turning the meeting into a smoker. There was a large attendance, as there always is at these affairs. Some excellent vocal selections were a part of the entertainment provided, William Kenyon presiding at the piano.

The officers elected were: Court deputy, John R. Naylor; court physician, Dr. M. L. Clawson; junior past chief ranger, Charles S. Hayes; chief ranger, John M. Lewin; vice-chief ranger, John Knight, Jr.; recording secretary, George E. Volk; financial secretary, James D. MacNab; treasurer, A. M. Vanderbeek; orator, Charles A. Hering; senior woodward, Dr. M. L. Clawson; junior woodward, H. L. Black; senior beadle, N. J. R. Chandler; junior beadle, Thomas B. Dickinson; trustees, W. L. Black and Chas. S. Hayes; finance committee, John Knight, Jr., and Charles A. Hering; apothecaries, Dudley S. Miller and Peter B. Hodge.

These candidates were instructed and will be installed January 5, 1909, when another smoker will be held.

TERMINAL READY JAN. 1

Central's Liberty St. Station Will Stand as a Monument to Jos. O. Osgood.

IT IS A HANDSOME STRUCTURE.

Work Started September 23, 1904, and the Difficult Task is Now About Finished.

From the present outlook, the Jersey Central's new passenger terminal on Liberty street, New York, will be ready for occupancy about January 1. When completed it will be one of the most handsome and substantial structures in the country. It will stand as a monument to the engineering skill of Joseph O. Osgood, of this city, who is chief engineer of the Jersey Central.

The general design of the new building follows the ironic type, the front elevation being rendered in copper. So far as possible the entire structure has been made fireproof, wood being used only for the trim of the windows, for which quartered oak has been chosen to harmonize with the massive high-backed settees. The walls of the main waiting rooms on both the ground floor and the second floor giving access to the upper decks of ferryboats, will be done in artistically moulded plaster with a deep wainscoting of Istrian marble.

One of the great advantages that passengers will gain in the new terminal will be the bridge across West street connecting the upper floor with exits and entrance from Liberty street, concrete piers for the span having already been laid.

The task of erecting the new terminal without interrupting the great daily tide of incoming and outgoing traffic, has been a long and arduous one and beset with not few difficulties for Chief Engineer Joseph O. Osgood, of the Central, and G. F. Morse, engineer in charge of the works. The first step was the demolition of old Pier 14, adjoining the old passenger station on the south and the building of a new pier 300 feet long and renumbered 11 was started September 23, 1904. At the end of this pier, which will later be extended 50 feet and used for freight—a temporary ferry slip was installed. This was begun in the following November, and as soon as boats could tie up to the bridge, slip No. 2, adjoining on the north, was placed out of commission and the erection of a platform for a new and permanent slip in its place was undertaken. By the middle of the following May, the present makeshift ferry house was ready for use and the old structure was abandoned. Simultaneously, dredging for the foundation of the bulkhead wall, a necessary support of the new station and slips, was started, and by July, the filling in with broken stone—the initial stratum of the bulkhead foundation—was wel under way.

Some idea of the stalwartness of this formation may be gathered from the fact that more than 21,000 cubic yards of crushed stone was dumped among piles, 35 to 75 feet in length, and driven to solid rock. On this substantial basework was built the bulkhead wall containing 44 blocks of reinforced concrete, weighing 50 tons each, and resting on piles cut off 16 feet below low water mark. To set these blocks and level up the foundation on this massive abutment, it was necessary to employ relays of divers and the task was slow and tedious. By November, 1906, however, the bulkhead was finished, and the permanent foundation of the new ferry house was started. Something like 2,000 piles were used in the foundation which was completed June 3d last, and on July 18, the fire-proofing of the walls and steel work of the superstructure was in order. As the staunch metal frame gradually rose higher and more cross girders were set in place, the heat-resisting hollow bricks kept pace with the growng steel work until the entire ground floor has been enclosed, the second floor is well advanced, and half of the roof has been put on. In the meantime the side "racks" of both of the permanent slips have been extended some fifty feet farther into the river, the reconstruction of these and the new clusters at the ends, consuming in the neighborhood of a thousand piles exclusive of those driven for the foundation and another thousand used onl ytemporarily.

BOARD OF HEALTH MAKES MONTHLY REPORT

With the exception of typhoid fever, the number of cases of communicable disease reported to the Board of Health during November was unusually low, as shown by the following statistics presented at the December meeting of the board, last night:

Scarlet fever, 1; diphtheria, 1; measles, 1,; typhoid fever, 9; tuberculosis, 4; a total of sixteen. One death from diphtheria was reported, two from typhoid fever and four from tuberculosis.

Since June last, but two cases of scarlet fever and three of diphtheria were reported, considered a remarkable record for five months. One of the two deaths from typhoid fever was a patient in Muhlenberg Hospital brought there from Westfield, and had no connection whatver with Plainfield.

During the month thirty-two samples of milk were collected and analyzed and the quality was found to be good. Eight samples of cream were analyzed. These applications were granted by the board: To sell milk, B. C. Firstbrook, W. J. Dealaman and R. H. Keenan; to collect garbage, John Anderson, F. Brown; to remove dead animals, James B. Guttridge; to collect offal, James B. Guttridge. The following plumbers' bonds were ordered filed: Peter S. Peterson, Martin J. Whalen and George F. Giles & Company. ## S. A. OFFICERS' FAREWELL

Capt. and Mrs. Hopkins Given Reception Following Col. Damon's Lecture.

A LARGE CROWD ATTENDS.

"Darkest America' Subject of Illustrated Talk on Tenement Life Conditions.

Salvation Army hall was filled last night with friends of Captain and Mrs. Arthur Hopkins, who made their last public appearance in Plainfield before taking up their work in Boston. Both the Captain and his wife made farewell speeches, expressing their regrets in leaving their many friends here. They had spent seventeen months in this field, but being soldiers were obliged to obey the command to march on.

Captain Hopkins asked all to clap their hands who were in favor of him leaving his wife behind. The clapping was so vociferous that the electric lights flickered and later went out entirely. After the meeting the couple was surrounded by their admirers and were given a farewell that left no doubt as to the high regard in which they are held in Salvation Army circles in Plainfield.

Colonel Alex. Damon, of New York, delivered his famous lecture, "Darkest America," illustrated with stereopticon views, showing scenes in the tenement districts of New York.

For eighteen years Colonel Damon has been associated with Salvation Army work in large cities; he, therefore, speaks as one having experience with the problems discussed. He stated that there are single blocks in New York city with from two to three thousand people living in them, that Army workers had found six to eight persons living in one room.

The audience shuddered as he stated that there were two hundred thousand (200,000) rooms in New York city without a single window in them, and 125,000 more rooms without windows across the river in Brooklyn.

Child life in the slums was dealt with, and everyone in the audience was convinced before the subject was finished, that a dark side of American life had been considered. To bring light to this dark side, the Salvation Army has opened, in many of the large cities, Slum Nurseries, where the children of the poor mothers are cared for during the day while the mothers go to work. These nurseries make it unnecessary for the mothers to lock up their little ones in their slum homes during the hours they are away. Thousands of the little waifs and strays of slumdon are cared for by the Army every year.

The problem of the fallen woman was mentioned. It is estimated that there are 300,000 such unfortunates in the United States. Society has branded them as lost, but the Salvation Army believes that there is hope for them, and with a large force of especially trained women officers they undertake the work of rescuing and saving them. The Army conducts 22 Rescue Homes located in the large cities of this country.

In spite of the fact that the colonel spoke very rapidly it was not possible for him to mention in detail all the branches of work that are being operated to bring light to the dark sections of our land. He merely mentioned in passing that the Army is operating three colonies at the present time: one in Cleveland, one in Colorado and the other in California.

The Army carries on an extensive work among prisoners, undoubtedly doing the greatest prison work of any organization in the United States. They receive discharged prisoners and give them a chance to start once more on the path of right.

The majority of people have been under the impression that the Army's principle work was to stand upon the street corner, beat a drum, and to preach to the motley crowd that stood about the open-air service, but the people who attended the lecture last night had their eyes opened as to the magnitude of the work that is being carried on by this great organization which has its work established, not only in this country, but in fifty-four countries and colonies of the world.

Mayor McClellan One of the Speakers

The quarterly meeting and banquet of the New York Commandery of the Military Order Loyal Legion was held at Delmonico's, New York, last night. Among the speakers following the banquet was Mayor Geo. B. McClellan, who was given a great ovation. Among the Plainfield members attending were Rev. Dr. W. C. Hubbell, Dr. F. S. Wells, Captain S. C. Peck, Captain M. C. Dobbins and Walter C. Dobbins.

PROCTOR'S TO OPEN ON SATURDAY NIGHT

Managers Proctor and Sanderson announce that their palatial amusement hall will be formally opened on Saturday night, when two public performances will be given. In order to accommodate the expected crowd of "first nighters" one performance will be given at 7 o'clock and another two hours later. So attractive has the place been made at a large cost that few would today recognize it as old Music Hall.

Mayor Fisk and the city officials as well as a large number of other invited guests will inspect the new amusement palace tomorrow night. It will be purely a social function and admission will be limited to the invited guests.

HIS TOOTHACHE REMEDY LANDS FARMER IN JAIL

John Bennett, a teamster with an aching tooth, came over from Warrenville yesterday in search of a dentist. He had borrowed fifty cents, the price of the molar extraction, and after a long walk, holding down the jumping nerve with both hands, he arrived in the outskirts of the borough, but could not get past a saloon there until he had taken just one drink. There is not much difference between forty cents and half a dollar, only a ten cent drink, but the dentist maintained that Wednesday was not bargain day at his place, and it took exactly fifty cents to start the machinery.

Back to the saloon went John determined to kill the nerve in his own way. Every time he took a drink he built a sideboard around the glass with his grasp high above the rim. At 11 o'clock last night he was sleeping peacefully in the front yard of the Somerset street school. Marshal Pope found him there and transferred him to a bed at police headquarters. This morning he explained the matter to Recorder Dolliver and was released on a suspended sentence, and went straight home. The nerve was quite dead.

FAITH CHAPEL TO BECOME A CHURCH

Following several conferences held from time to time, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss and the board of deacons of the First Baptist church, met last night with Rev. J. W. Musson and the board of deacons from Faith chapel to further discuss the question of granting to the members of Faith chapel the right to establish an independent church. Since the founding of the chapel it has been a branch of the First Baptist church and any action has been necessary through concurrence on the part of the church. The chapel has continued to grow in membership and influence under the efficient pastorate of Rev. Mr. Musson and there is now no question whatever as to the ability of the members to maintain and independent church.

Details concerning such action were discussed thoroughly last night and the next step will be to bring the matter before the First Baptist church for a vote, which it is believed will be unanimously in favor of the proposition. The members of Faith chapel have an excellent property on East Third street, with a well-appointed building suitable for carrying on religious work there. Rev. Mr. Musson has been doing an excellent work in this field and both he and his members feel that the time has arrived when an independent church should be established. The details of the proposition will now be put in shape to present to the First Baptist church within a short time.

The First Baptist church is in entire sympathy with the plan and has given assurance of support and cooperation in carrying it out in a way that will be satisfactory to Faith chapel. While the chapel would be independent cordial relations would exist between the two organizations as at the present time.

Cook's Trial Next Tuesday.

Harold W. Cook, the borough young man indicted by the Grand Jury on a young girl's charge, pleaded not guilty before Judge Atwater, yesterday afternoon, and trial was set down for next Tuesday. His bail was ordered reduced from $2,000 to $1,000.

League Sociable at Grace M. E.

The Epworth League, of Grace M. E. church, will meet in the chapel tomorrow night to transact the regular monthly business, after which games and refreshments will be enjoyed.

ELKS HAVE GOOD TIME

An Evening of Fun Marks Observance of Lodge's Fifth Anniversary.

JUDGE RUNYON PRESIDES.

Annual Memorial Service to be Held Sunday Night at the Theatre. Dr. Crowther to Speak.

One of the most enjoyable socials yet conducted by Plainfield lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., was given last night in celebration of the fifth anniversary of its organization. It was held in the club rooms in the theatre building and was attended by practically the entire membership together with many visiting Elks.

Judge William N. Runyon, who was the first exalted ruler of the lodge and who served for two terms, presided during the evening in his customary efficient manner. At the outset he made a witty and appropriate address in which he told of the institution of 885 in the midst of a snowstorm five years ago and then traced its growth up to the present time. A majority of the charter members were in attendance. Following the judge's address a program was rendered that comprised monologues and impersonations by William Sandford, of New York; card tricks by Charles Thomas of Elizabeth; vocal solos by Harry Blimm, and violin selections by P. A. Paroubek. Harry Wetton, the well-known instrumentalist, presided at the piano.

At the conclusion of the program an excellent lunch was served by Timbo, and the celebrants enjoyed themselves in various ways until after midnight.

The affair was arranged by a committee composed of Fred H. Firstbrook, chairman; John H. Nicol, William Doud and John Conway.

The lodge will hold its annuel memorial service in the New Plainfield theatre next Sunday night. Dr. Frank Crowther, of Perth Amboy, will make the principal address and a quartet will furnish musical numbers. The Somerville lodge of Elks wil lattend in a body.

READS A PAPER ON "OUR MOSLEM SISTERS."

Mrs. Reuben Knox read an interesting paper on "Our Moslem Sisters" before the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, whose meeting was held yesterday afternoon in the lecture room. Reviewing the life of Mahomet and the establishment of his religion that has nearly 300,000,000 fo'lowers, Mrs. Knox described the sad condition of the women under the domination of a religion that crushes and degrades its devotees. She told further of the seclusion to which the Moslem women are domoed, of which the veil they wear is a symbol and the loveles lives they lead, love being left out of both the religion and morality of Mahammedans.

Christian education, Mrs. Knox claimed, was the hope of the Moslem women for that elevates and inspires.

Mrs. Flanders followed with extracts from the Koran and an account of the Woman's College in Constantinople, where Christinity is making changed lives for the students. Mrs. McNabb also read some interesting items about Moslem women. The paper was preceded by an impressive devotional service conducted by Rev. J. W. Musson, the theme being "Elijah and Value of Prayer."

FANWOOD KITTENS WIN AT SYRACUSE EXHIBITION.

Miss S. Louise Mygrant, of Fanwood, who is attending the Syracuse Cat Club show at Syracuse, N. Y., has wired home the news that all four of her kittens have secured prizes.

"Beverly," a Persian smoke, was awarded second prize in the kitten class and second in the novice class, while her "Lady Lou," another Persian smoke, took the third prizes in the same classes. "Kito," a shaded silver Persian, captured a second and a third prize, and Miss Dolly Dollars, a tortoise shell and white, was the second best kitten in her class.

This is the first show in which Miss Mygrant has had entries and she went there an entire stranger. She is said to be one of the youngest cat fanciers in the country, and as she is starting out with a good stock, gives promise of being one of the most successful. Hafiz Cattery, the name she has chosen for her place, will be a familiar one in the exhibitions of the future.

Miss Carrie Reed, of Pittston, is spending a few days with friends in this city.

HERBERT S. BROKAW JOINS THE BENEDICTS

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Fanny B. Huntington, daughter of the late John H. Huntington, of Troy, N. Y., and Herbert S. Brokaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Brokaw, of Grove street. The ceremony took place in the First Baptist church, Troy, on November 25, Rev. Dr. G. P. Perry, the pastor, officiating. Immediately after the wedding the couple left on an extended trip, including Washington, and they are now spending a few days with the groom's parents here, where on Tuesday night a reception was given to them. The affair was attended by a large number of friends.

Mr. Brokaw is a graduate of Rensselear Polytechnic Institute, Class '08. Since that time has been on the staff of engineers connected with the New York State Engineering Department, and at present is located at Rochester, N. Y., where he is looking after large canal work. Mr. and Mrs. Brokaw will continue to make their home at Rochester for the present.

BURGLAR SUSPECT SAYS FRIEND TALKED TO MUCH

A colored man describing himself as George Williams, of Philadelphia, called at police headquarters, yesterday afternoon, and told Chief Kiely that he was a friend of John Jones, the negro arrested as a suspect after the Messerschmidt shooting Sunday night. He was asked where Jones lived and replied his home is in Philadelphia where he has a wife. The prisoner was brought out from his cell and when Chief Kiely put the same question to him, he said he lived in New York, although previously claiming Williamsport, Pa., as his abiding place.

"Why, this man says you live in Philadelphia; how do you explain that?"

"I don't attempt to explain it at all," Jones replied cooly, "only this man talks too much."

Williams was plainly flustrated by the charge of voluminous speech and tried to keep still but later made a couple of other breaks that showed he is not as "wise" to police methods as the prisoner is. After Jones admitted that he knew the visitor the latter said he had been to see a Plainfield lawyer about defending him.

"What's the use of spending money on lawyers?" the suspect asked. "These people caught me dead to rights with a revolver in my pocket and I'll plead guilty to that charge. Beyond that they haven't anything against me."

After Jones had been taken back, Williams continued to talk to Chief Kiely, appearing anxious to discuss the prisoner's position and his chances for gaining freedom.

"It's customary," he said, "to put up the bail bond in a case like this and then get your man out of the State, isn't it?"

"Sure," the chief replied, with a faint suspicion of a smile, "you bring around the $200 cash security the judge has demanded and you can have the prisoner."

Williams went away unconscious of the fact that he had put the police doubly on their guard and they will see that Jones doesn't get out on the bail fixed. It can be increased at any time, but it will probably not be necessary as the prisoner was taken to Elizabeth this morning and will be given a chance to plead before Judge Atwater at once, having asserted that he doesn't care to go before the grand jury.

BRIGHT YOUNG GIRL A VICTIM OF TYPHOID.

Miss Jennie May Hummer, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hummer, of Codington avenue, died early this morning after an illness with typhoid fever. She was first stricken two weeks ago and her condition was serious almost from the outset. Several days ago it became critical and her death was not unexpected.

Miss Hummer was a member of Grace M. E. Sunday-school and had a wide circle of friends by all of whom she was greatly beloved. She was of a bright and sunny disposition and the parents have the sympathy of all in their bereavement. She is survived by two brothers and a sister, all younger.

The funeral will be held at the parents' residence Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

COMMISSION IS DIVIDED

Excise Probers Stand Five to Two Against Allowing Any Sunday Sales.

HITCH ALSO OVER THE FEES.

Whitbeck and Howe Disagree With Others Over Certain Features of Proposed Report.

Taking the view that some of the proposed recommendations are altogether too severe and that the report as framed does not correspond with the understanding of a fortnight ago, when all was harmony, Commissioners Whitbeck and Howe made it plain at the State excise commission meeting here today that they would not agree to sign the document in its present shape. Whitbeck, it is reported, takes the stand that hotels should be allowed to serve liquor to bone fide guests with meals after 1 o'clock on Sundays. His views are said to be shared by Mr. Howe.

The majority of the commissioners, however, are strongly opposed to the sale af liquor on Sundays under any circumstances or at any places. Commissioners Fisk and Backes are pronounced in their attitude against "letting down the bars" for Sunday opening of any sort. Commissioners Rice and Smith are said to share their ideas and it is expected that Commissioner Appleby, who is in Europe, will join with the majority on this question. In fact Mr. Appleby stated sometime ago that he would.

The commission, therefore, stands five to two on this question and if the division continues, it will mean that there may be a minority report. In any event, Whitbeck and Howe will at least go on record as opposed to this feature of the report, which is said to have been drawn up by Messrs. Fisk and Backes.

Another subject for disagreement, it is reported, concerns a general minimum license fee in the larger ciites. It is understood the majority of the commissioners placed the figure at $1,000 and that Messrs. Backes and Fisk incorporated it in the report. This brought a generous sized kick, it is alleged, from Commissioner Howe who believes the fee entirely too high.

Some of the commissioners expressed themselves formally today as against any Sunday business whatever. Judge Rice made this announcement for publication:

"Personally, I see no objection to taking a drink on Sunday any more than on any other day, and I like to have something with my meals then as well as on week days, but, as to recommending a law for the general opening up of saloons for the sale of liquor on Sundays, I am strongly opposed to it. The people of the State, as far as I can gather from where we have been, as a class, do not want it. Those that do want it are people engaged in the sale of liquor and make money by its sale on Sunday, which is their best day. I do not think that the policy of the State for the observance of the Sabbath, which has been in existence for over a century should be changed, so that a few persons may make money out of what has been heretofore a desecration of the Sabbath."

This statement was shown to both Commissioner Backes and Commissioner Fisk. They said: "We fully concur with Judge Rice and under no circumstances will be subscribe to a recommendation permitting the sale of liquor or opening of saloons on Sunday or any part of the day."

Kitchen Shower at Hope Chapel.

The kitchen shower which was held at Hope chapel, last night, was largely attended and many articles were received which will be of use in the chapel kitchen. ## SPORTS HERE AND THERE

FOOTBALL.

The Carlisle Indian football team yesterday elected Little Boy captain, in place of Emil Hauser. Little Boy's real name is Scott Porter. He is a Cheyenne and lives in Oklahoma.

Frank McLain, son of Congressman McLain, from Mississippi, was last night elected captain for next year's Vanderbilt University football team. He played centre on this year's eleven.

The football season is not over yet, it seems, as the University of Pittsburg and Washington and Jefferson will lock horns in the Smoky City on Saturday.

Fullback Ver Wiebe of the Harvard eleven is working his way through college. He says he has earned money by mowing lawns, shoveling snow, selling soap, working as a brakeman on the Boston and Maine Railroad, doing clerical work, teaching night school and singing in a church choir. Ver Wiebe says that when he graduates he will take up railroading, beginning at the bottom and trying to work his way to the top.

BASEBALL.

It was learned Tuesday that when the National Commission hands down a decision net week in relation to the Chicago Club ticket scandal which arose over the playing of the world's series last fall, it will be found that in future the price of admission for world's championship games will be cut in half; also that the commission will have exclusive charge of the sale of all tickets. It is said that the prices will be finally fixed at $1, 75c, 50c and 25c, which will be welcome news to the fans who have been forced to pay exorbitant rates in past series. President Murphy of the Chicago Cubs is already on record with a protest against this scheme and says that he does not see how the commission can assume control of the business end of the games.

The pot is boiling over in the Pittsburg club. A minority stockholder is on the trail of Barney Dreyfuss and other directors of the club who have indorsed the notes of Secretary Locke for $275,000 in payment for the new ball park to be built in the Smoky City. The minority stockholder wants to know why Dreyfuss instead of Locke, a former newspaper man, was not named as the real purchaser of the plant. An application for an injunction has been denied, but a suit in equity will be heard in court in a few weeks. Dreyfuss control's 70 per cent. of the Pittsburg club and is also said to be the real owner of a majority of the stock in the Boston and Philadelphia clubs of the National League.

If President Ebbets of the Brooklyn club wants Bill Dahlen to manage his team next season it is said that Dovey of the Boston Nationals will ask him to give up Tim Jordan in exchange. Ebbets still insists that Dovey some time ago promised to hand over Dahlen gratis, but as neither the Boston nor the Brooklyn magnate has ever been guilty of such a policy it looks as if there would be nothing doing unless Jordan is allowed to go to the Hub team. Two years ago McGraw was anxious to buy Jordan's release from Brooklyn, but the big first baseman fell off in his play so much last season that he no longer commands the attention of McGraw or any other big league club manager, barring Dovey, who has made up his mind to let the veteran Dan McGann out.

In Milwaukee and Kansas City it is asserted positively that Clark Griffith will manage the Kansas City American Association team next year and that George Tebeau stole a march on Hewenn, the Milwaukee owner, also Herrmann of Cincinnati when he secured the old fox's services. Griffith and Tebeau, however, have not yet made a formal announcement of the deal.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Several new shops started to work at the glass factories of T. C. Wheaton Company, at Millville, yesterday. Orders are arriving steadily and the prospects for a long season's run are bright.

Mrs. Annie Connolly, of 246 Straight street, Paterson, was found in her room yesterday, suffering from the effects of illuminating gas. A leak in the supply pipes in her room caused the accident.

A jury in the case of Catherine Singer against the Public Service Corporation to recover damages for the killing of her husband by a trolley car, rendered a verdict of no cause of action, in Camden yesterday afternoon

State Senator Harry D. Leavitt, of Trenton, resigned as member of the Trenton Board of Education because of pressure of business. Mayor Madden at once named Barton T. Fell, a well-known business man, for the place.

The parents of Jacob Vanderclock, aged seven years, of 132 Montgomery street, and Cornelius Vanderclock, aged twelve, of 43 Butler street, both of Paterson, reported to the police of that city yesterday that the two boys had run away and had gone out into the world to make their fortunes.

Thrown from a carriage by a scared horse at Seventh and Pine streets, Camden, yesterday, Mrs. Charles Schafer, thirty-four years old, and Mrs. Frederick Shafer, thirty-one years old, both of Oaklyn, sustained bruises to the head, arms and body. They were cared for at Cooper Hospital.

Rev. Dr. William A. Laurie, aged seventy-three years, and for thirty years pastor of the Presbyterian church of Bellefonte, Pa., died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Samuel F. Eldredge, Cape May, Monday night after an illness of several weeks. His body will be buried at Bellefonte, Pa.

Mayor Lincoln, of Gloucester, has received notice from the State Board to appear before that body at Trenton next Tuesday to show why his city persists in polluting the Delaware river with sewage. He will refer the matter to the Council tomorrow evening, so that it will receive proper attention.

In tearing down a portion of the old A. S. Barber property on Broad street, Woodbury, carpenters found a number of very old coins of various denominations. The house, one of the oldest in the city, had long been occupied by the late A. S. Barber, editor and publisher of the Gloucester County Constitution.

Fire of mysterious origin destroyed the fine home of Thomas McCoy, at Cloverdale, a mile north of Millville, early yesterday morning. The family escaped in their nightclothes, barely saving a piano and a few articles from the parlor. The loss will exceed $2,600, partially covered by insurance. Mr. McCoy was to have sold the house yesterday.

Mainland farmers, who have organized to fight official orders against gathering of garbage from Atlantic City hotels, won a victory yesterday, when police failed to make any arrests under the order of Mayor Stoy that arrests be made every garbage collector except those employed by the local reduction plant. They declare they will continue to collect until a test case is made.

Residents of Bayonne are to make a lively fight for a new postoffice to replace the small one in West Eighth street, which is too small to meet the steadily increasing business. At a meeting of citizens yesterday a committee was appointed to join with committees from the Board of Trade and Civic Club to go to Washington and endeavor to have Congress make an appropriation for a federal building in Bayonne.

Horse thieves attempted wholesale raids in the vicinity of Clayton yesterday morning before daybreak. Two fine horses were stolen from Patrick Magnuson, living on the Franklinville and Freis Mill road. As tracks were visible in the sandy roads, Magnuson traced the horses as far as Janvier. About the same time the horse and buggy of Collector Broadwater was also stolen, and it is reported that a horse was also taken from the stables of Alfred Downs.

LENTZ HAS MEASURE FOR SUNDAY SALOONS

The enthusiastic greeting that Major Lentz gave to Frederick E. Otto, the lone Republican Assemblyman from Hudson, on Tuesday at Trenton, was said by his friends to be due to the fact that he was one of those whom the major counted on to support a bill he has prepared to bring about the opening of saloons on Sunday. The major has not yet given the bill to the public It is stowed away in his safe, ready to be introduced in the Assembly at the psychological moment.

The bill calls for a referendum vote on whether saloons shall be open on Sunday during certain hours. It takes in no other phase of the liquor question. Instead of having the vote taken on the regular Election Day in November, the major would have the people vote on it in April, so as to take the question out of the regular campaign, and incidentally, as one politician remarked, "to give the saloonkeepers a chance to spend a little money."

Thirty-one votes are necessary to pass a bill in the Assembly. Lentz feels that if the Republican leaders do not take kindly to his measure he can count on not less than eleven Democratic votes for his bill, and thinks that there will be no difficulty in getting the twenty Republicans necessary to send the measure to the Senate.

If the major's Sunday opening bill passes the House it will probably be killed in the Senate, although the advocates of Sunday saloon opening assert that they have the eleven votes necessary to pass it in the upper house.

There are eight Democrats in the Senate who are expected to vote for this measure. It will also have the support of at least two Republicans, Wilson, of Atlantic, and Hand, of Cape May. Who the other Republican Senator is has not been told.

In the last campaign in Essex county Major Lentz was the head of the Liberal League, which, it is said, sent out Republican ballots with Democratic pasters over the names of Morgan, Colby and Martin.

STRIKERS GO BACK; TROOPS WITHDRAWN

The cold snap following the introduction of the strike-breakers on Tuesday, yesterday gave the finishing touches to the strike started ten days ago by the clay workers of the National Fireproofing Company. Yesterday morning, when the 7 o'clock whistles blew at the three plants, the men were swarming about the gates, clamoring for work. At 9 o'clock, after two hours' continuance of the object lesson of the strike-breakers at work, the old employes were taken on again, and the Bergoff Detective Agency help shipped home.

Fully 95 per cent. of the old hands are now at work. At the Raritan plant, out of 250 on strike, all but six went back this morning. At the Standard, which had 136 men on the pay roll at the time the strike came, 130 were taken on, and at the Perth Amboy plant 100 out of a poscible 120 went to work.

Before noon yesterday the special deputies, the guards and the police were withdrawn, and the work was resumed on a peace footing. But six guards are now left to preserve a formality of protection for a few days more.

The resumption of work will allow the company to get out at once at least $100,000 of rush orders for New York, which either have been held up entirely or filled only after considerable delay by the Point Murray and the Lorillard plants.

The largest plants now tied up by the strike are the Ostrander Fire Brick Company, which employs 160 men, and the Perth Amboy Fire Brick Company, which has about 125 on its payroll. These men are pretty sure to go to work today.

FLOWERS THAT WILL BE A JOY FOREVER.

Everyone can have a lily bed if they so desire.

In making the bed remember that most of the lilies like rich, light soil and are impatient of too much moisture. Therefore the bed should be raised so that it sheds water, and the top soil can be rounded

Use plenty of thoroughly rotted manure in the compost, but see that it does not come direct in contact with the bulb, which should be set in a handful of sand.

There should also be room for the lilies to grow, and they should be set where it is not necessary to move them frequently.

The various Japanese lilies are not imported early. Therefore it is well to cover the place where they are to be planted with manure so that the ground does not freeze too hard for planting before their arrival.

It is a good rule to plant lilies three times the depth of the bulb Planted deep they are less easily injured by alternate thawing and freezing.

Among the Japanese lilies the speciosum varieties are very beautiful and easily grown. The speciosum rubrum, with its pods of rich crimson, and speciosum album, with white and green bands, are particularly lovely.

Another good Japanese lily is the auratum with its golden bands; while in pink lilies the krameri is charming and a luxurian grower.

Most of us know the trumpet-shaped lilium longiflorum with its waxy white petals; but not so familiar is lilium gigateum, which grows to a great height and bears large clusters of creamy flowers tinged with purple.

With the candidum lily, which should have been set in August, as it makes a fall growth of leaves, the flaming tiger lily and the showy lilium superbum or Turk's cap or swamp lily, one can have wide choice in hardy lilies for next season's garden.

Remember that now is the time to plant them and that money spent in good bulbs will bring delightful returns next summer. By judicious selection one can have lilies of some kind blooming from July to September.

HAVE YOU PLENTY OF CLOSET ROOM?

Very few houses have enough closet space to satisfy the average housewife. So she must needs look about her for a method of creating closets and cupboards out of next to nothing at all.

A clever woman who spent her summers in a bungalow where closets were scarce, solved the problem of keeping her skirts and blouses in a safe place away from dust by making two boxes to hold them.

First she selected a box four feet long, two feet wide and about two feet high. On one side of this she fitted hinges to the bottom of a small catch fastener in the centre of the front at the top, making a door which opened out and down.

The back corners she nailed securely with cleats, then tacked an old quilt, folded many times, on top of the box.

This she covered with pretty figured denim, fastening it on the edges with brass-headed tacks. She heaped cushions on it, making a pretty, comfortable window seat.

Inside at the ends were nailed, the length of the ends, small strips of wood one-half inch square. On these were placed three thin boards, which slid in and out on them, forming shelves.

Thus she could keep the skirts separate, so they would not become crushed.

The shirtwaist box was fashioned in the same manner, a box three feet long being used.

Little bags made of bits of fancy ribbon and filled with her favorite sachet powder, which were tacked at intervals inside, gave a refreshing faint perfume to the blouses.

Such boxes will be found useful in many houses as a place in which to keep clothes or articles of household use.—Philadelphia Press.

HINT TO HOME DRESSMAKER.

The home dressmaker is always discouraged when it comes to hemming a plaited skirt. The plaits, for some unknown reason, take it into their heads to hang at different lengths, so that the foot line when finished is bound to be uneven.

The best way to secure an even edge is to baste the plaits full length after the seams have been stitched and the bands sewed and the hooks and eyes put on. Then turn up the hem as in a plain gored skirt and press. After removing the bastings, turn the hem in the single material according to the crease first made.

A skirt turned up in this way may easily have the braid sewn on before the hem it stitched. This does away with all hard work and extra pinning.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Piscataway Township Committee was represented at a hearing before the State Railroad Commission at the State House, Trenton, on Tuesday in reference to the grade crossing at Lincoln known as the Cedar avenue crossing. This is considered one of the most dangerous crossings in the State owing to the fact that the Lehigh Valley and the Jersey Central lines run parallel at this point. The crossing is obstructed on one side by a sharp curve and on the other by a woods. The commissioners postponed recommending gates as the Lehigh Valley counsel asked permission to file a brief before any recommendation is made. The township was represented at the hearing by Judge W. A. Coddington, of Plainfield.

Assemblymen Rene P. F. von Mindon and William P. Voorhees, of this district, attended the Republican caucus at the State House at Trenton on Tuesday. William P. Voorhees was made a member of the steering committee of the Assembly.

William B. La Rue, collector of taxes of Piscataway district, was at his office in the store of Manning Brothers today for the purpose of collecting taxes.

A wheel stolen from Higgins hall on November 25, has been located by a New Brunswick detective in one of the Polish boarding houses in the village.

The public school will be closed tomorrow on account of Teachers' Institute which will be held in New Brunswick.

William Johnson, of Wood road, is confined to his bed by a severe attack of grip.

Mrs. P. F. Kaine has recovered from a light attack of diphtheria.

STATE SCHOOL BOARD AMENDS CERTAIN RULES

The State Board of Education, which finished its work at Lakewood late yesterday afternoon at the Laurel-in-Pines, placed Pennington Seminary on the registered list of private schools for four years of academic work. This action admits graduates for medical, legal and dental licenses without any examinations in academic subjects.

W. L. R. Haven, city superintendent of schools at Morristown, resigned as a member of the State Board of Examiners and Henry Snyder, city superintendent of Jersey City, was appointed to fill the vacancy.

The county superintendent of schools for Burlington county, Herman A. Stees, issued an order last July withholding the State school moneys from the school district of Springfield Township for the reason that it was not furnishing suitable school facilities to certain children.

The children desired to attend a high school, there was none in the district and the Board of Education neglected to provide for their education in high schools in their districts. From this order the local board of education appealed. The State board dismissed this appeal and the order of the county superintendent was affirmed.

In 1907 the Legislature passed an act providing for evening schools for the instruction of foreign-born residents of the State in English and the form of government of the State and of the United States.

The act made it the duty of the State board to prescribe rules for carrying the law into effect. The board over a year ago prescribed certain rules.

Experience has shown that the rules should be amended, and at the meeting yesterday the following changes were made:

Hereafter persons desiring to teach in these schools will not be required to pass an examination in foreign languages. Any form of certificate now issued will be a rated license to each in such schools any of the subjects covered by the certificate. A person desiring to teach any of the special subjects prescribed will not be required to pass an examination in all the special subjects, but may be granted a certificate in one or more of them and be granted a certificate of the subjects in which he has been examined.

The courses of study for foreign evening schools submitted by Princeton and Caldwell were approved.

The members of the board at the meeting were: President James L. Hays and Edward G. Robertson, Newark, and Samuel St. John McCutcheon, North Plainfield; Edward Russ and William D. Forbes, Hoboken; William R. Barrickla, Jersey City; Judge Francis Scott, of Paterson; William H. Morrow, of Belvidere, and W. Edwin Florance, of New Brunswick. Others present were Assistant State Superintendent of Public Instruction, J. Brognard Betts, of Plainfield, and High School Inspector Louis Bevier.

C. S. C. Report Not Complete.

The Civil Service Commission has not yet completed its annual report, and the probabilities are that it will not be presented to the Governor until his return from his vacation, which will be about December 15. A draft of the report has been prepared, but there are many changes to be made, which will probably be effected at the next meeting of the commission.

Tried to Kill Police Chief.

An attempt to assassinate Chief of Police Michael Flynn, of Belleville, near Newark, was made yesterday morning. Chief Flynn saw two men near his home when he came in from a police investigation, and he determined to find out what they were doing. As he approached them they separaetd and fired on him. The chief dropped to the ground and the men fled. Chief Flynn then jumped to his feet and pursued them, but they escaped in the railroad yards. John Bullard, thirteen years old, of Rutherford, implicaed in the theft of money from a gas meter, fainted in the Hackensack courtroom yesterday morning while being reprimaned by Judge Demarest. He is still confined to his home. Young Bullard was carried to the open air, where he was revived.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"In Eugene Walter Messrs. Wagenhals and Kemper have made a 'find,' perhaps the best 'find' of the season. If he can do as well as this at his first play, we can hope for much. And beggars can't be choosers. We are beggars." So writes Alan Dale in the New York American. "Paid In Full" will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre tonight as the annual benefit to Treasurer Sam W. Cunningham.

It is said a novel theme has been introduced in "The Dollar Mark," a three act drama with prologue by G. S. Beck, which has been announced to apear at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night. The author has endeavored to draw a number of characters whose little world is beset with the numerous ills which attend the excesses of modern life. The leading character, John Flint, a millionaire, has accumulated too much gold; another character eats too much, while a third over dresses. The idea is a new one and thoroughly original in its development. The piece has been produced under the personal direction of J. Jay Daley, while the staging and effects were left to the management of Frank Hatch. An excellent cast has been appointed for this offering and includes such well known people as Aubrey Boucicault, Fuller Mellish, Douglas Gerard, Herbert Prior, George Macintyre, Edward Fowler, Raphael Newman, Edmund Mortimer, Sidney Blair, Dorothy Chester, Ina Brooks, Agnes Mapes and Adelaide Cumming.

"The Lion and the Mouse," the play that has enjoyed over three years of almost unbroken duration as a supreme success, will again be brought to the New Plainfield theatre Wednesday afternoon and night by Henry B. Harris. While this great drama may have been seen and enjoyed by many local playhouse patrons it is fair to assume that they will follow the example set throughout the country in their desire to witness the dealings and misdoings of John Burkett Ryder, afresh. Charles Klein has filled this play with such rapid action and bright material for serious thought that one fails to realize the full meaning of the author in seeing "The Lion and the Mouse" but once. A company of players of whom it is said surpass any yet seen in this play, will enact the many difficult roles. The scenic equipment will be complete in every detail and a delightful engagement is looked forward to by those who pride themselves in knowing what is what on the stage today.

A SUGGESTION FOR CHRISTMAS.

Everyone is now busy with crochet hook and knitting needles preparing for Christmas.

For an invalid there could be no better present than a pair of bedshoes. This does not mean the ordinary knitted slipper with the leather sole, lined with lamb's wool. Bedsocks look like a huge baby sock without any stiff sole whatever. The best material to make them of is fourfold yarn or a fourfold knitting worsted. They should be knit on No. 4 bone needles, and may be done in the ordinary knitting stitch or some more complicated stitch. But the ones I am about to describe are done in plain knitting, and require one skein of pink and two skeins of gray worsted yarn.

To begin, cast on with the gray 113 stitches for the sole and knit, forward and backward for eleven rows, or twenty-two needles.

With pink yarn knit fifty-four stitches; then knit two together, knit one plain, knit two together. Then again knit fifty-four stitches to the end of the needle.

On the next row knit fifty-three stitches; knit two together, knit one, knit two together, and then knit fifty-thre stitches to the end of the needle.

Using gray again, narrow on each side of the centre stitch. Then knit two needles of each color until there are seven pink and seven gray ridges.

Knit six pink and five gray ridges in one row plain and one row purl.

In the next row work four plain; throw the needle over, knit two together, and repeat the process until the end of the row.

Work the last row, one single crochet in ever stitch, using pink. Finish with ribbon round the top of the boot.

This will make a pink and gray slipper which will reach to the ankle.

Work is What We Make It.

"Housework is such a drudgery," I heard a housewife lament the other day. But it ought not to be, if you really take an interest in it, and if you don't—well, any other work would become a drudgery under the same circumstances. Don't get yourself into a habit of considering your daily work a drudgery. When work reaches the drudgery stage, it is often merely a sign that you need a change, and, if possible, rest, and after a holiday you will probably be quite glad to don your housekeeping apron again. If you can't get away to stay, try taking a little extra rest when possible, and go and look up old friends.

THE SECRET OF SMART CLOTHES.

Dress becomingly.
Be individual in your style.
Do not dress beyond your means.
Learn the right times and season for wearing your clothes.
Make a study not of your good points but of your weak ones before buying your frocks and hats.
Learn materials and their wearing qualities; especially if your clothes must do duty another season.
Study color effects and know what combines well, as well as what is suitable to your type.
Learn the lines that suit you and stick to them. Only modify them enough not to be hopelessly out of date.
Don't trust to what your dressmaker or milliner tells you. Use your common sense.
Get good things and few of them rather than the other way round. The former will look well as long as they hang together, while the cheap ones look well till you are caught out in the first damp day.
Don't try to make your cast-off finery of winter do duty for summer evenings. You will look fresher and sweeter in a ten-cent lawn or Swiss, simply and becomingly made, than in a bedraggled chiffon than has been danced into disreputableness.

To Have Parsley All Year.

If parsley is taken out of the yard before it is killed with the frost and hung by the roots in a cold cellar, one may have it all winter. Take off pieces, put into hot water, let them remain for a while, then plunge them into cold water and they are ready for garnishing foods.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 6, 1908.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Commending our society.—VI. By consistent living.—Jas. iii, 10-18. Consecration meeting.

Profession without possession is a fashion in religion as well as in every other relation in life. The man who professes to be a Christian and whose life is inconsistent does intolerable harm both to himself and to others. He harms himself, for if the counterfeit is of any value to him the reality would be of much greater value, and when it comes to religion God's grace is free and accessible to all, and it is even easier to be a true Christian than a false professor of religion. The inconsistent Christian also harms others. There is perhaps no greater stumbling block in the way of unsaved men who really want to be saved than the inconsistencies of the many who profess to be Christians. It should not be so, but nevertheless it is. Who would judge a physician by a patient who only pretended to take his medicine, but really did not do so? Who would judge a lawyer by a client who only pretended to follow the counsel he had given? Why should men, then, judge Christianity on a different basis? Look at the Christ, who was sinless! Behold the multitudes of Christians who in spite of all the temptations of life do possess the Christ spirit and live a consistent Christian life! If men would do this they would be dealing honestly with Christianity, judging it by the real coin instead of by the counterfeit. But all inconsistency is not in the church. Inconsistent judgment is no better than an inconsistent life, and yet many will doubt or deny the power of real Christianity because they know some inconsistent Christians, not realizing their own inconsistency in so doing.

After all, though, consistent Christian living is invaluable. It is invaluable to ourselves. If we do not live up to what we confess, it is absolute proof that our confession is false. If consciously and knowingly we engage in a sinful life, we must know in our own hearts that we have only the form and not the power of religion. But what is the form without the reality? What is the shadow without the substance? For our own sakes let us examine ourselves and see if by a changed life we can prove that our hearts have been really changed by the power of the Holy Ghost. James well says that a sweet fountain cannot send forth bitter water, nor a fig tree bear olives, nor a grapevine figs.

A consistent Christian life on the part of professing Christians is invaluable to all with whom we come in contact in life. Men may not read the Bible, but they read us. They may know little about Christ first hand, but they will get their conceptions of Him through us. "We are living epistles, known and read of all men." And what do they read in us, in our daily life, our speech, our actions? Do they read that we "have been with Jesus," or do they read a misrepresentation of Christ that keeps them from finding the real Christ?

BIBLE READINGS.

Prov. xxii, 1; Eccl. xii, 13, 14; Isa. i, 1-4; Matt. vi, 1-8; vii, 1-5; John iv, 24; Acts ii, 43-47; Matt. vii, 15-20; II Cor. iii, 1-6.

Our Missions to the Young.

Christian Endeavor has a mission, a many sided mission, to the young people of America and of the world. One prominent feature in that mission is its educational value. The ancient Greek idea of education was to produce a man of wisdom and a man of action, and Christian Endeavor is doing both. Phoenix says of the education of Achilles:

In all this I was set by him to instruct thee as my son,
That thou mightst speak when speech was fit and do what should be done,
Not sit as dumb for want of words, idle for skill to move.

Now, no modern institution has done so much as Christian Endeavor for developing the power of speech "when speech is fit" nor for organizing activity in all spheres of life. A new vision of utility is forming itself for us in our civic relationships, and the Patriots' league is as a cloud the size of a man's hand, destined to grow, however, until the whole sky be covered.

Christian Endeavor is going to write this ideal upon the hearts of its 4,000,000 members and in a decade or two will help to flood the country and fill the polling booths with men—and women, for their suffrage is coming—that will fight graft and injustice with all the energy and strength of Christian righteousness and fair play and brotherhood.—Ripple in Christian Endeavor World.

He Said "Can."

Secretary Hubbell in the Ohio Endeavorer gives the following account of an Endeavorer that "gingered up:"

A short time since a young person named Davis took charge of the Steuben Congregational church. The Endeavor society numbered ten and was unanimously feminine. Some folks said "You can't." Mr. Davis sized up, but did not give up, the situation. He did not say "I can" or "You can," but he did say "We can!"

And they can-ned so optimistically that they have secured forty new members, twenty-five of them young men. In the lives of some a radical transformation has taken place. The faithful pastor is rewarded by an active society of fifty, and they are after twenty-five more members.

Peruse ye postscript preachment: "It never pays to give up. It always pays to 'ginger up.'"

Gives Edge.

The pledge gives edge to Endeavoring.—Christian Endeavor World.

But they had that; unquestionably they had taken that.

And still the riddle haunted him: Why had she come back that night? And, whatever her reason, had she come in Anisty's company, or alone? One minute it seemed patent beyond dispute that the girl and the great plunderer were hand-in-glove; the next minute Maitland was positively assured that their recent meeting had been altogether an accident. From what he had heard over the telephone, he had believed them to be quarreling, although at the time he had assigned to O'Hagan the masculine side of the dispute. But certainly there must have arisen some difference of opinion between Anisty and the girl to have drawn from her that frantic negative Maitland had heard, to have been responsible for the overturning of the chair—an accident that seemed to argue something in the nature of a physical struggle; the chair itself lay upon its side, mute witness to a hasty and careless movement on somebody's part.

But it was all inexplicable. Eventually Maitland shook his head, to signify that he gave it up. There was but one thing to do—to put it out of mind. He would read a bit, compose himself, go to bed.

Preliminary to doing so, he would take steps to insure the flat against further burglarizing, for that night at least. The draught moving through the hall stirred the portiere and reminded him that the window in the trunkroom was still open, an invitation to any enterprising sneak-thief or second-story man. So Maitland went to close and make it fast.

As he shut down the window-sash and clamped the catch he trod on something soft and yielding. Wondering, he stooped and picked it up, and carried it back to the light. It proved to be the girl's hand-bag.

"Now," admitted Maitland in a tone of absolute candor, "I am damned. How in the dickens did this thing get there, anyway? What was she doing in my trunk closet?"

Was it possible that she had followed Anisty out of the flat by that route? A very much mystified young man sat himself down again in front of his desk, and turned the bag over and over in his hands, keenly scrutinizing every inch of it, and whistling softly.

That year the fashion in purses was for capacious receptacles of grained leather, nearly square in shape, and furnished with a chain handle. This which Maitland held was conspicuously of the mode—neither too large, nor too small, constructed of fine soft leather of a gun-metal shade, with a frame-work and chain of gun-metal itself. It was new and seemed well-filled, weighing a trifle heavy in the hand. One face was adorned with a monogram of cut gun-metal, the initials "S" and "G" and "L" interlaced. But beyond this the bag was irritatingly non-committal.

Undoubtedly, if one were to go to the length of unsnapping the little, frail clasp, one would acquire information; by such facile means would much light be shed upon the darkness. But Maitland put a decided negative to the suggestion.

No. He would give her the benefit of the doubt. He would wait, he would school himself to patience. Perhaps she would come back for it—and explain. Perhaps he could find her by advertising it—and get an explanation. Pending which, he could wait a little while. It was not his wish to pry into her secrets, even if—even if—

It was something to be smoked over. Strange how it affected him to have in his hands something that she had owned and touched!

Opening a drawer of the desk, Maitland produced an aged pipe. A brazen jar, companion piece to the ash receiver, held his tobacco. He filled the pipe from the jar, with thoughtful deliberation. And scraped a match beneath his chair and ignited the tobacco and puffed in contemplative contentment, deriving solace from each mouthful of grateful, evanescent incense. Meanwhile he held the charred match between thumb and forefinger.

Becoming conscious of this fact, he smiled in deprecation of his absent-minded mood, looked for the ash-receiver, discovered it in place, inverted beneath the book; and frowned, remembering. Then, with an impatient gesture—impatient of his own infirmity of mind—for he simply could not forget the girl—he dropped the match, swept the book aside, lifted the bowl.

After a moment of incredulous awe, the young man rose, with eyes a-light and a jubilant song in the heart of him. Now he knew, now understood, now believed, and now was justified of his faith!

After which depression came, with the consciousness that she was gone, forever removed beyond his reach and influence, and that by her own wilful act. It was her intelligible wish that they should never meet again, for, having accomplished her errand, she had flown from the possibility of his thanks.

It was so clear, now! He perceived it all, plainly. Somehow (though it was hard to surmise how) she had found out that Anisty had stolen the jewels; somehow (and one wondered at what risk) she had contrived to take them from him and bring them back to their owner. And Anisty had followed.

Poor little woman! What had she not suffered, what perils had she not braved, to prove that there was honor even in thieves! It could have been at no inconsiderable danger—a danger not incommensurate with that of robbing a tigress of her whelps—that she had managed to filch his loot from that pertinacious and vindictive soul, Anisty!

But she had accomplished it; and all for him!

If only he could find her, now!

There was a clew to his hand in that bag, of course, but by this act she forever removed from him the right to investigate that.

If he could only find that cabby.

Perhaps if he tried at the Madison square rank, immediately—

Besides, it was clearly his duty not to remain in the flat alone with the jewels another night. There was but one attainable place of safety for them, and that the safe of a reputable hotel. He would return to the Bartholdi at once, merely pausing on his way to inquire of the cabmen if they could send their brother-nighthawk to him.

Maitland shook himself into his topcoat, jammed hat upon head, dropped the jewels into one pocket, the cigarette case into another, and—on impulse—Anisty's revolver, with its two unexploded cartridges, into a third, and pressed the call button for O'Hagan, not waiting, however, for that worthy to climb the stair, but meeting him in the entry hall.

Maitland Woke Up. "What's That?" He Questioned Sharply.

"I'm going back to the Bartholdi, O'Hagan, for the night. You may bring me my letters and any messages in the morning. I should like you to sleep in the flat to-night and answer any telephone calls."

"Yiss, Misther Maitland, sor."

"Have the police gone, O'Hagan?"

"There's a whole bottle full yet, sor."

"You've not been drinking, I trust?"

The Irishman shuffled. "Shure, sor, an' wud that be hosphitible?"

Laughing, Maitland bade him good night and left the house, turning west to gain Fifth avenue, walking slowly because he was a little tired, and enjoying the rather unusual experience of being abroad at that hour without company. The sky seemed cleaner than ordinarily, the city quieter than ever he had known it, and in the air was a sweet smell, reminiscent of the country-side—reminding one unhappily of the previous night when one had gone whistling to one's destiny along a perfumed country road.

"Good 'eavings, Mister Maitland, sir! It carn't be you!"

Maitland looked up, bewildered for the instant. The voice that hailed him out of the sky was not unfamiliar.

A cab that he had waited on the corner to let pass, was reined back suddenly. The driver leaned down from the box and in a thunderstruck tone advertised his stupefaction.

"It aren't in nature, sir—if yer'll pardon my mentionin' it. But 'ere I leaves you not ten minutes ago at the St. Luke building and finds yer 'ere, when you 'aven't 'ad time—"

Maitland woke up. "What's that?" he questioned, sharply. "You left me where ten minutes—?"

"St. Luke buildin', corner Broadway an'—"

"I know it," excited, "but—"

"—'avin' took yer there with the young lady—"

"Young lady!"

"—that comes outer the 'ouse with yer, sir—"

"The devil!" Maitland hesitated no longer; his foot was on the step as he spoke. "Drive me there at once, and drive for all you're worth!" he cried. "If there's an ounce of speed in that plug of yours and you don't get it out—"

"Never fear, sir! We'll make it in five minutes!"

"It'll be worth your while."

"Right-O!"

Maitland dropped into his seat, dumfounded. "Good Lord!" he whispered; and then, savagely: "In the power of that infamous scoundrel—!" And felt of the revolver in his pocket.

Come With Us To "TOYTOWN"

What a wondrous spot is this great 5th floor of ours and how near and dear it is to the hearts of tiny citizens It's the biggest, brightest, jolliest place in town, and the thousands of young people and their elders, too, who have been here during the past week can not sing its praises too loudly. The playthings look prettier this season than ever before, and there are more surprising mechanical devices out than you'd think mortal man was capable of contriving. We would like to explain everything in detail and let you know what a really splendid place this is---we can't, however, so come and see for yourself, and bring the young folks, too. . . .

ARMRIGHTS DEFEAT THE RAHWAY BOWLING CLUB

The Rahway Bowling Club came to this city, last night, for a match game series with the Armrights on Campbell's alleys and lost out, getting but one of the three games. The Armrights were a little weak at first but struck a fast gait in the second try and hit the timber for 966. They fell back to 897 in the third. The Rahways captured the first game by a margin of 72.

Louis Skelly, of the Armrights, rapped out two double centuries and Harry Radin got one. Chief Kiely was off his usual game and 173 was his best. High score for the Rahways was 191, made by Bartell.

A Bowling Party.

The members of Judge W. N. Runyon's Bible class at Hope chapel will meet at Campbell's bowling alleys tomorrow night for an evening of pleasure. This affair will be the second social in a series planned for the winter.

Preparatory services were held at Warren chapel last night and the regular communion service will be held at the chapel Sunday morning in charge of the pastor, Rev. J. O. McKelvey.

"PHANTOM" ENGINE GOES OVER CENTRAL RAILROAD.

What is known as a "dead" or "phantom" engine was run up and down the New York Division of the Central Railroad last night from Communipaw to Phillipsburg. The engine had neither tail lights nor head lights, and ran as silently over the rails as the legendary "Flying Dutchman" sailed over the billows, but within the cab of the locomotive were officials of the company who, as the engine silently crept past towers, freight and passenger stations, as well as railroad crossings where flagmen are supposed to be on duty all night, jotted down the names of all absentees and the condition of things generally.

The tower telegraph operators and those in passenger stations along the line were the principal objects of scrutiny, and it is said that several of these humble servants of the company are yet unaware of the passage of the "phantom," but will know later when that dread message comes that generally reads, "Your services no longer required."

It is said that the "dead" engine makes frequent nocturnal trips over the road, and, like the dog-catcher, makes large hauls of victims in its meshes.

The report that the engine was out last night has caused a tremor among the night men over the division, and the result is anxiously awaited.

Murder Is Suspected.

John A. Galatian, county detective, is under the impression that the body of a man found mangled on the tracks of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, near Cranford, on August 27 last, was robbed by ghouls and $300 stolen. Whether or not the victim, whose name was Herman Hess, fell or was pushed from the train, is not known. The detective, with only a business card as a clue, traced Hess to San Francisco, and learned that he was a bachelor and in fair circumstances.

Ragman Got Her Purse.

Going to Trenton yesterday on a business trip Miss A. B. Naylor, of Lambertville, dropped an envelope containing $18 on the street in that city. She discovered her loss just in time to see a ragman pick up the cash and "beat it." The theft was reported to the police, but no trace of the ragman could be found.

COMPANY K'S BOYS AT BATTALION DRILL

The second of a series of battalion drills of the Second regiment took place last night at Trenton, when the Second battlion of the New Jersey Guard, comprising four out-of-town companies, drilled in the second Regiment armory there.

The companies that participated were C and I, of Elizabeth; K, of this city, and M, of Somerville. The guardsmen arrived there shortly before 9 o'clock and marched to the armory under command of their respective captains.

The battalion drill was held under command of Major William B. Martin, of Elizabeth, formerly captain of Company K, while each company was under command of its respective captains, as follows:

Company C, Captain Robert J. Montgomery; Company I, Captain Conrad Hall; Company K, Captain Harry B. Kitchell; Company M, Captain George R. Koehler.

Among the lieutenants who participated in the drill were: Company K, First Lieutenant Charles A. Paterson, Second Lieutenant Albert L. Littell; Company M, First Lieutenant Albert E. Case, Second Lieutenant Elwood Ward.

The guardsmen were put through the close order and extended rills, and they executed the maneuvres in a highly complimentary manner, receiving praise from Major Martin, before whom they passed in review, for their meritorious drilling.

The drill closed with a battalion parade, in which the battalion was headed by the Second regiment field music. After a light luncheon the guardsmen marched to the depot and departed for their homes.

It is likely that the third and fiani battalion drill of the regiment will be held December 10, when the First battalion will drill at Trenton.

PERSONAL.

The Rev. H. W. F. Jones, of this city, is spending the winter with his son, the Rev. Henry T. Jones, pastor of the Reformed church, Whitehouse Station.

Mrs. John Honeyman, of Knoxville, Tenn., will arrive here today to visit Dr. and Mrs. D. C. Adams, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Parse, of Grove street, and other relatives. Mrs. Honeyman has been seriously ill, but she is greatly improved and decided to visit both in Plainfield and New York for several weeks.

HUGE PUMPKIN CROP IN STATE THIS YEAR.

Reports from the pumpkin growing sections of the State indicate that the crop will be larger this winter than in many years. All sorts of wagons are being pressed into service to get the vegetable to the markets, and South Jersey canning factories are working day and night to keep up with the shipments constantly arriving.

The canning houses of Bordentown, Quinton's Bridge, Hancock's Bridge and Salem are handling the pumpkin deluge from the farms near Salem with great dispatch, but there still remain stacks of pumpkins piled high in the canning house yards, and long rows of wagons line up the village streets waiting their turn to disgorge and return to the farm for more.

The crop has been not only exceptionally large, but the vegetables are of uniform size. The popular type is the Quaker Pie variety. It is said that this furnishes the finest grained and the richest flavored meat—just what is wanted for a good pie—and this is especially desirable for the canning house rush, as it keeps longer than some of the older varieties. The old standard variety, known as the Large Cheese, is also a favorite.

Fell by the Wayside.

Frederick Greeney, an Atlantic Highlands man, started from the shore town yesterday to take a mare and colt to Morristown. The cold made him stop off several times to get a drink and when he reached this city he was unable to take care of himself or the animals. Patrolman Charles Flynn placed him under arrest and had the horses taken to a livery for the night. Judge Runyon suspended sentence on Greeney this morning.

Stock Company Returning.

The Conness and Edwards Stock Company, which made a favorable impression here last week by its presentation of "Raffles," will return to the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night in Joseph Arthur's great play, "Blue Jeans." The production is first-class in every way and is certain to please amusement seekers.

MEYERS AGAIN SEEKS DAMAGES FROM P.S.C.

The second trial of the suit brought by Christopher Meyers against the Public Service Corporation in which the plaintiff seeks to recover damages for alleged injuries sustained by his wife on July 31 last, while attempting to board a main line trolley on East Second street, is occupying the attention of the district court, today, taking precedence over the other cases listed for the day. W. S. Angleman is assisting Robert Newton Crane, of counsel for the plaintiff, while Alvah A. Clark represents the defendant company The case is being tried before a jury of ten men by consent of counsel.

Judge Newcorn granted a new trial in the case on account of irregularities on the part of certain members of the jury who after retiring to find a verdict, left the jury room in search of information to establish the relation, if any, between Albert Meyers, son of Henry C. Meyer, of Scotch Plains, a witnes for the company, and the plaintiff. No relation exists between the two.

The lawyers for the plaintiff called among other witnesses, Mr. and Mrs. Chirstopher Meyers, Mrs. Etta Randoph, who accompanied Mrs. Meyers and the latter's son, the day of the accident; Dr. Thomas Blair and T. H. Tomlinson, who were called to treat Mrs. Meyer after the accident. The company's witnesses included the motorman and conductor of the car which Mrs. Meyer attempted to board; Henry Platt, of Brooklyn; Albert Meyer, both of whom were passengers on the car, and Dr. Green, of Elizabeth, who examined Mrs. Meyers to ascertain what injuries she had sustained.

It is the contention of the plaintiff that the car was started while she had one foot on the step and before she could enter it and that as a result she was thrown to the ground causing injuries from which she still suffers. The company claims that Mrs. Meyers missed catching hold of the middle guard rail and losing her balance fell backward in the street. The company absolutely denies any blame in the matter, its witnesses stating with certainty that after the car stopped to pick up the passengers it was not started until after they got aboard and the motorman received two bells to go ahead.

The case is still on this afternoon and it will probably be late when a verdict is reached.

TO FACILITATE WORK AT FREIGHT HOUSE

For the purpose of having a system in the delivery of goods from the freight house, Agent Peter Kohler has made some changes which he believes will greatly facilitate business and be a benefit to expressmen and others who have occasion to cart freight. Heretofore, with the limited amount of help, persons in search of goods there have been detained there an indefinite time before they could get a clear bill and take their goods.

Under the new order of things two assistants have been allowed the bill clerk, whose duties will be to help people find their goods and thus save time. There has been an order in force at the freight house to the effect that any recognized expressman or other person know to those in charge can enjoy the benefits of a credit system, while others have been obliged to pay for goods when delivered.

In speaking of the matter today Agent Kohler said that there would be no change in this rule, except that in the future more care would be exercised in the delivery of goods and it will be necessary for everyone to get a signed bill from the clerk before taking goods away. Those who are allowed credit will receive a bill of a certain color and the amount of the goods will be charged up to them. In the case of those who are not given credit a bill of another color will be given and they will be obliged to pay for their goods when they receive them. It is said that it has been more or less of a custom for anyone to go to the freight house and get goods without any system and it is this practice, Mr. Kohler says, he intends to correct.

Elks to Have Minstrel Show.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., has decided to hold another minstrel show during the coming winter. A committee comprising John H. Cose, chairman; Judge William N. Runyon, W. J. Counihan and William Doud has been appointed to make the arrangements.

CHARITY BAZAAR OPENS

Entertainment a Feature at Annual Benefit for the Women's Exchange.

DECORATIONS ARE ATTRACTIVE

Miss Louise Saunders Makes a Hit With Her Monologues—Ducrot Is Clever.

The bazaar which was opened yesterday afternoon at the Hartridge School auditorium, under the auspices of the Women's Exchange, was accorded liberal patronage throughout the afternoon and evening. It will be continued this afternoon and evening. In addition to the sale yesterday, a fine entertainment was given in the afternoon by Ducrot, the magician, who also presented a Punch and Judy show for the little ones. The entertainment was arranged for various intervals so as not to interfere with the business at the various booths.

Last night the feature of the entertainment was the appearance of Miss Louise Saunders in two original monologues. This young woman gave a clever performance, displaying exceptional talent. Her first selection was humorous in character, convulsing the audience with laughter, while the second number gave Miss Saunders a rare opportunity to show her dramatic powers. She was generously remembered with gifts of beautiful flowers at the conclusion of her entertainment.

The auditorium is attractively decorated for the fair, there being numerous booths, where cake, candy, flowers, fancy and domestic articles, jewelry, dolls, fancy work and aprons and lemonade were offered for sale. These articles make suitable holiday gifts and judging by the way they were quickly disposed of they were appreciated, and the treasury of the Exchange considerably enriched.

Ducrot appeared again last night, following Miss Saunders and he gave a clever exhibition of sleight-o-hand work, which delighted the big audience. This afternoon and evening Roberson's moving pictures will be the attraction and the famous Marathon race will be shown.

Mrs. Henry L. Hall is the president of the Exchange and the whole affair is under her personal direction, assisted by other officers. These women are in charge of the various booths:

Cake—Mrs. C. H. Tompkins, chairman; Mrs. Harry L. Terry, Mrs. Frank D. Warren, Mrs. George P. Mellick, Mrs. Harry V. Borden, Miss Tompkins. Candy—Mrs. T. W. T. Maxwell, chairman; Mrs. W. M. Wherry, Mrs. Charles Lyons, Miss Taylor, Mrs. Henry C. Irons, Mrs. Joseph M. Shellabarger, Mrs. Charles H. Frost, Mrs. E. E. Iremonger, Mrs. A. B. Davies, Mrs. R. S. Rowland.

Lemonade—Mrs. E. S. Hyatt, the Misses Alice, Ruth and Catherine Titus. Flowers—Mrs. Howard C. Tracy, chairman; Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, Mrs. A. H. Atterbury. Mystery—Mrs. Burton P. Hall, chairman; Mrs. J. A. Peterkin, Mrs. Stuart A. Patterson. Jewelry—Mrs. F. W. Butler, chairman, and Mrs. Chas. A. Reed. Cut glass—Mrs. W. A. Pinton, chairman; Mrs. John Gray Foster, Mrs. J. H. Griscom, Mrs. E Arthur Janke, Miss Alveretta Holland. Japanese rolling game—Mrs. S. D. Lounsbery, chairman; Mrs. Orton G. Dale, Mrs. T. M. Day, Mrs. E. V. Bartine, the Misses Merrill, Anna Miller, Munger, Browne and Mrs. J. P. Stevens.

Dolls, fancy work and aprons—Mrs. Laurens H. Van Buren, chairman; Mrs. A. D. Beeken, Mrs. Henry L. Hall, Mrs. H. L. De Forest, Mrs. W. S. Tyler, Mrs. L. G. Timpson, Mrs. A. J. Fisk, Mrs. W. C. Kinney, Mrs. G. Harry Squires, Mrs. F. H. Andrews, Mrs. John B. Dumont, Mrs. H. Reeve Stockton, Mrs. Daniel T. Van Buren, Mrs. W. L. Righter, Mrs. William Lockwood, Mrs. George Schoonmaker, Mrs. A. Willis West and Mrs. William Joost.

In addition the members of the board of managers of the exchange, together with William M. Stillman, S. D. Lounsbery and Henry L. Hall, are assisting. Last night Mr. Hall was in charge of the cash and tickets that were received from the many sales.

JEFFERSON AVE. TO BE A "STATE AID ROAD"

Resolutions were offered at the December meeting of the Union County Board of Freeholders, yesterday by Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur providing for making Jefferson avenue, this city, a State aid road. Mr. Wilbur was anxious to have the resolutions adopted at this time so that the State approval could be obtained before January 1, as otherwise it would not go through for a year. The matter was referred to the board as a committee of the whole and will be considered further at an adjourned meting on Thursday, December 17.

The Willswood Dairy Company, of this city, presented a claim to the board for $75 for injuries received by a horse owned by the company, while crossing a conuty line bridge here. The communication stated that the animal stepped into a hole on the bridge on September 6, and the amount claimed included the expenses of a veterinary and loss of services of the animal. The Somerset County Board of Freeholders has also received a similar communication and the matter was referred yesterday to the Plainfield members of the Union county board and the county attorney for a conference with the Somerset county board.

SECOND TRIAL AND THE JURY DISAGREES

After considering the evidence for two hours and forty minutes, the jury in the case of Christopher Meyers against the Public Service Corporation, returned to the court last night at 6:05, and the foreman reported that the members could not agree and asked to be discharged. This was the second trial, the verdict in the first one being no cause of action. But at that time it was learned that members of the jury had acted in an irregular manner by leaving the jury room for additional information and Judge Newcorn granted a new trial.

Yesterday's verdict means a third trial, which has been set down for Thursday, December 17, although it is possible that it may not be called that day. This will depend upon the other cases listed. The plaintiff is seeking damages alleged to have been received by his wife while attempting to board a main line trolley car on East Second street, July 31, 1908, when he claims the car was started before she could get aboard and she was thrown in the street. The company's defense is that Mrs. Meyers in trying to get on the car lost her balance and through her own act fell while the car was standing perfectly still. About an equal number of witnesses were called by the plaintiff and the defendant company.

RUSHMORE TAX BOOK DELAYED FOR REVISION

Samuel W. Rushmore, proprietor of the Rushmore Dynamo Works, who is waging an active campaign against the present method of taxation in Plainfield, said today that the copies of his books containing a complete list of all assessments in Plainfield have arrived, but that owing to the fact that two or three errors have been discovered in the list they will not be placed on sale until corrected.

"When I place these books on sale," said Mr. Rushmore, "I want them to be absolutely correct, so that there will be no "come back" from property-owners as to the accuracy of the figures. I will engage a corps of assistants for the purpose of having the whole list verified with the city tax books. When this is done the books will be put on sale at the advertised price. They will probably be ready sometime next week. I would rather not issue such a book at all unless it is correct in every detail and for that reason there will be a little delay."

The proceeds from the sale of the books, less the expense for the work of publishing the same, will be donated to Muhlenberg Hospital, in accordance with a previous announcement by Mr. Rushmore.

Dr. Platts to Preach.

Rev. Dr. A. Platts, of Milton, Wisconsin, is in town and is expected to preach tomorrow in the Seventh-Day Baptist church. He was for some years the pastor of the church at New Market. He has been at Philadelphia the past week as a delegate from the Seventh-Day Baptist General Conference attending the meeting of the council of the Church Federation.

KING'S DAUGHTERS WORK

In Six Months 1,470 Children are Cared for at the Day Nursery.

THE YEAR'S RECIPTS $1,700.

Encouraging Reports Are Read at Semi-Annual Meeting at Vincent Chapel.

The semi-annual meeting of the City Union of King's Daughters was held yesterday afternoon in Vincent chapel. Fifty members were present, representing all of the eleven circles of the union.

Rev. A. C. McCrea, of the First M. E. church, led in the devotional service, which was followed by an address by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Warren chapel, who took for his subject, "My Work is for a King."

The officers of the society, who were present and took part in the meeting were Mrs. F. W. Jones, president; Mrs. A. N. Laggren, secretary, and Mrs. A. M. Most, treasurer.

Mrs. E. F. Feickert read a report of the summer work at the baby camp, which was conducted with such great success. Another interesting report was that of the chairman of the nurse committee, Mrs. A. E. Faber, concerning the Day Nursery, an institution maintained by this Society, where working mothers may leave their children during the hours they are away from home and be assured that they are being well taken care of. The cost of this service to the mothers is but five cents a day for each child. The children that have been accommodated range in age from three weeks to five years. Since September 1, there have been seven infants under seven months and three less than two months. One six-weeks-old child was kept night and day for seven weeks while the mother was in the hospital.

There were 1,470 children taken care of by the nursery between June 1 and December 1, this year. The amount collected from the parents, $73.50, was sufficient to pay for all of the milk used.

The balance of the expense in operating the Day Nursery is borne by the society and by personal contributions. The latter, however, have not been large or numerous and the secretary reports that the institution is greatly in need of provisions.

The society feels very grateful to the kind woman who yesterday afternoon donated a barrel of flour, and also to the club of young girls who gave $60 for linoleum, and to the Edgwood Club which gave $25, with which gas fixtures were installed.

Besides caring for the children brought to the nursery in the day time, the King's Daughters nurse administers to babies in their homes. She has made 834 visits of this kind in six months. The caring for the children of these women who must go out every day to earn their own living is the greatest help that can be offered to them. The service is kept up the year around, without intermission.

The treasurer of the union, Mrs. A. M. Most, announced that the receipts for the year amounted to $1,700.51, disbursements $1,531.22, leaving a balance of $169.29.

After the business meeting tea was served by the Cheerful Workers Circle, of which Miss Dorothy Fleming is president.

Arm Broken in Odd Way.

Miss Margaret Hickey, daughter of John Hickey, of Spooner avenue, received a broken arm in a peculiar manner, Wednesday night. She was leaving a neighbor's home after a call and was walking backward from the porch speaking as she went when she tripped over a drain pipe that had been temporarily placed in the path. The fall was a bad one and she was severely bruised in addition to having the arm broken. The injured member was set by Dr. Van Horn.

A Night in Cold Storage.

Harry Waldman, a young West Ender, was arraigned in the city court, this morning, on a charge of loitering preferred by Detective-Sergeant Flynn. Police headquarters boiler had its usual twenty-four hour breakdown yesterday and one look at Waldman's blue face convinced Judge Runyon that a night in cold storage had been sufficient punishment and sentence was suspended.

Amateur Night at the Orpheum.

Amateurs will hold the boards at the Orpheum theatre tonight and a big list of entries shows that lots of fun will be on tap. The weekly tryouts are proving very popular and some first-class acts are given. The fore part of the program will include the usual high class vaudeville and moving pictures.

FAVOR A TAX ON BEER

State Excise Commissioners Recommendation Would Net State $1,500,000.

THEIR REPORT COMPLETED

As Told in This Paper Yesterday, Body Stands Five to Two on Several Features.

The State Excise Commission at its meeting here yesterday decided to recommend in its report a general tax of fifty cents a barrel on beer The report is expected to go to Governor Fort on December 15 and will be transmitted by him to the Legislature.

It is a foregone conclusion that this recommendation will raise a tremendous protest from brewers and wholesale liquor dealers of the State, and when it gets on the floor of the Legislature the most spirited kind of an onslaught on it may be looked for.

Back of the adoption of the recommendation by the commission is its contention that the brewers should bear more of the burden of taxation, considering, the commission avers, that more poverty is caused, more public dependency and delinquency engendered, that increases the expense of maintaining State institutions, and more police protection made necessary because of the existence of the saloon. The commission figures that with the increase paid the United States government in tax on the manufacture of beer in New Jersey from 2,000,000 barrels in 1902 to 3,000,000 barrels last year, the imposing of a tax of fifty cents on all beer would produce a revenue to the State of about $1,500,000 a year.

Excise Commissioners take the view that this revenue would avert the necessity of imposing a State tax, which some say the State may soon be driven to. Looking at it in another way, the money would remove the necessity of imposing the present State school tax, amounting to about $1,700,000.

The report, which is favored in its entirety by five of the seven commissioners, went to the printer this morning. On Tuesday, the proofs will be submitted to the members and at that time Commissioners Whitbeck and Howe will report their minority findings and recommendations which will be annexed to the report, as told exclusively in this paper yesterday.

As told in this paper, Howe and Whitbeck object to the recommendation for a minimum license fee of $1,000 in the larger cities. These two also object to the prohibition of any Sunday sales, holding that hotels should be allowed to serve liquor with meals in the afternoon of that day. They also dissent on several minor recommendations and all their exceptions will be annexed to the report above their signatures.

FAITH CHAPEL FAIR PROVES A SUCCESS.

One of the most successful church fairs of the year was conducted by the Ladies' Aid Society of Faith chapel yesterday afternoon and night, in the Stirling building on Park avenue.

The store room on the first floor was very prettily decorated with ferns and other plants provided for the occasion by Mrs. L. J. Denton. The booths and counters contained a large assortment of home-made fancy articles, quilts, aprons and some most delicious looking cakes.

The place was well filled with patrons most of the time and the sales kept up at a brisk rate. Aprons and quilts were the favorites of the purchasers, but there was almost everything else there that woman's ingenuity could devise, and they all went before closing time arrived.

H. V. Lough gave a concert with one of the big phonographs from his store on North avenue.

The proceeds of the sale are for the parsonage of the church. Those in charge of the affair and assisting at the counters were: Mrs. J. W. Musson, the president; Mrs. Valentine Utzinger, Mrs. John Mackey, Mrs. Charles Jeter, Mrs. George Staats, Mrs. William Conger, Mrs. Frank Conger, Mrs. L. W. Randolph, Mrs. Frank Stewart, Mrs. John Key, Mrs. John Utzinger, Mrs. Mattie Viebrock, Mrs. William Crow, Mrs. D. Patterson, Mrs. Charles Quint, Mrs. P. B. Goodfellow and Mrs. Elizabeth Peck.

THE WEATHER.

Threatening tonight and Saturday, with probable showers; warmer tonight; colder Saturday afternoon or night. Max., 38; min., 20.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Morris Sutphen, of Fairview avenue, last night.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETS

It Considers Old Home Week Idea and Many Other Suggestions.

ABANDON THAT FAIR PROJECT.

May Postpone Annual Dinner—City Lighting Scheme—New Members Chosen.

Various protest against the poor lighting of the platforms at the North avenue and Netherwood stations of the New Jersey Central was made at the regular meeting of the Board of Trade, last night. The matter was first brought to the attention of the members by Herman Schwed, who declared that the illumination is so poor that it is almost impossible to locate anyone getting off trains. He had a personal experience in this respect that he related and which bore out his assertion.

Other members of the board confessed to having had similar experiences and it was unanimously voted that the attention of the proper officials should be called to the matter The secretary was instructed to write them and he will report any answer at the next session.

The question of the board's annual dinner was brought up last night but because of the fact that the Retail Merchants' Association has planned an affair of this kind for next month no decision was reached. It was thought that inasmuch as the two organizations had practically the same membership it might be better to have a joint dinner instead of two separate functions close together. A motion was made that a committee be appointed to confer with the Retail Merchants in this respect. Vice-President W. R. Codington, of the board, who presided in the absence of President Marshall, stated that he would let the latter name the committee at a later date.

F. A. Duttenhoefer, of the committee which visited the Allentown fair for the purpose of getting an idea as to how a similar enterprise might be brought to Plainfield, reported that the members did not favor going any further with the plan but that they believed and Old Home week would be a good thing. He said it had the approval of the Retail Merchants' Association and other organizations and that it would be an easy matter to carry out such a project. No action was taken but the suggestion will be taken up in earnest at a later date.

A communication was received from A. C. Pleydell, of this city, dated at Columbus, O., in which he enclosed photographs and clippings describing the arch system of street lighting in that place. Large steel arms are erected over the thoroughfares from curb to curb and from fifty to 100 ordinary incandescent lights are placed on each one. The result has been entirely satisfactory and the idea is being copied by other cities throughout the West. The communication stated the customary decussion over Plainfield's insufficient illumination in the business district but no action resulted.

Another communication was received from Daniel Thompson, of Beaver, Pa., asking if the board could suggest any suitable building in Plainfield wherein a factory might be located. F. A. Duttenhoefer and E. M. Laing were appointed a committee to investigate and answer.

The following were elected to membership in the board: F. V. Larned, George W. Neff, Frederick A. Martin, S. W. Rushmore, E. W. Poynier, Paul Collier and Hugh B. Sweeny.

CAPACITY AUDIENCE AT SAM CUNNINGHAM'S BENEFIT.

The popularity of Sam W. Cunningham, treasurer at the New Plainfield theatre, was plainly evident, last night when the performance of "Paid in Full," given as his annual testimonial, drew a capacity audience. Every seat in the house was sold by 8 o'clock and after that many bought standing room. It was one of the most successful benefits yet arranged at the theatre.

The attraction was seen in Plainfield earlier in the season but the fact did not detract the interest in the slightest, last night. The company was up to the standard set by Messrs. Wakenhals & Kemper and the stage settings were of the same elaborate nature that marked the original Astor theatre production. The audience was liberal with its applause and there were numerous curtain calls.

RETURNS HOME TO FIND WIFE'S LIFELESS BODY

Returning to his home on Harrison avenue at noon today, Howard Carver, a coal dealer, discovered the lifeless form of his wife lying on the floor. She had evidently been stricken but a short time before as the body was still warm when he attempted to lift her up in the belief that she had simply fallen. A physician was summoned and declared that heart disease was the cause of death.

Mrs. Carver had not been in good health for the past two years but was about the house as usual this morning. She is the mother of five children and all were away at school but an infant. She was evidently at work in the kitchen when the fatal attack came upon her.

Chief Marshal Weiss was called to the house and the county physician was notified later.

Mrs. Carver was about thirty-five years old and had lived in the borough for a long time. Her husband is well known, having been employed for many years by E. H. Holmes when he was in the coal business on Madison avenue.

COP ARRESTS SWAIN RETURNING FROM CALL

The difficulties and unlooked for obstacles of courtship were brought directly home to John Sengel, of South Plainfield, last night, when he was arrested on upper Plainfield avenue by Roundsman Higgins for carrying a revolver. The police have been unusually on the alert for suspicious characters since the shooting of William Messerschmidt by a burglar, Sunday night, and his story that he had been calling on his lady love was not taken seriously. When the officer located the weapon in one of his pockets there was nothing to do but take him to headquarters.

Sengel declared to Captain Frederickson that he is paying attention to a young woman who is employed by Mrs. Charles Parker, of Hobart avenue, and that he was on his way home at 11:30 when the officer stopped him. He was confused for the moment when questioned and the finding of the revolver made him more so than ever. He carried it, he said, to protect himself on his lonely walk to South Plainfield as on two occasions he had been held up while returning from his regular sweetheart call.

Mrs. Parker was sent for in time for court, this morning, and she was on hand when Sengel was arraigned. She corroborated his statement in every detail and gave him a very good recommendation beside. Judge Runyon accordingly ordered his release.

NO CHARITY BALL FOR THE HOSPITAL

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital has practically decided not to give a charity ball this winter, according to the annual custom, or to resort to other forms of entertainment as a means of raising funds for the maintenance of the hospital. Instead the finance committee, with the aid of the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield, who are benefitted by the hospital, will be requested to contribute a stipulated amount to be decided by themselves, and in this way put the institution on a paying basis.

William L. Saunders, as chairman of the finance committee, has issued a large number of postal cards which have been sent out to Plainfielders asking for such financial aid for the purpose of bringing the income of the hospital up to the expenses by an enlarged annual list of subscribers and thereby do away with the usual carnival, kirmess and other entertainments.

TYPHOID CASES.

Twelve Victims in Hospital; Others at Their Homes.

Since the first of last September there have been a total of about twenty cases of typhoid fever under treatment at Muhlenberg Hospital, and at present there are twelve cases at the institution, the highest number with that disease at one time. Four of the twelve patients ill with the disease at the hospital are in a serious condition, the others being in a convalescent state.

There are also a number of cases in private houses in both city and borough.

Fancy Florida oranges and grape fruit at Neuman Brothers. They have the largest assortment of fruits in town.

TO ADOPT U.S. UNIFORMS

Plainfield Company to Be Measured for Olive Drab Uniforms.

BLUE IS NOT SERVICEABLE.

Lieutenant Colonel Dungan Will Issue Orders for Equipment In a Few Days.

Lieutenant Colonel Nelson Y. Dungan, commander of the Second Regiment New Jersey National Guard, to which Co. K, of this city belongs, will in a few days issue official orders for the equipment of the entire regiment in olive drab uniforms, to replace the blue uniforms now worn by the State militiamen.

The new uniforms will be in strict conformity with the regulation dress of the United States army, and the orders will eventually be extended to uniform the entire national guards of the State in a similar manner. Under the new arrangement, the old familiar blue uniform of the Jersey guardsmen will be a thing of the past.

The matter is now under advisement by the State military board, and while no official notification has been sent out ordering the change from the blue to the gray, it is an absolute certainty that it will be done when the members of the State military board convene in a few days.

As a result of the visit of Colonel Dungan to Trenton Wednesday night, the members of the local companies, together with the members of the Second battalion, who drilled here, have been ordered to get measured for the new uniforms, and it is expected that before the end of next week the measurements of every local guardsman will be forwarded to the regimental headquarters.

It is likely that the old blue uniforms will be disposed of through the agency of the military board and they may descend to the Sons of Veterans, as was the case several years ago, when the present form of dress was ordered.

While the new olive drab uniforms will not present as nobby appearance on parade as the uniform about to be discarded, they will be more serviceable, and it is for that reason, more than any other, that the change is to be adopted.

Conclusive evidence of the superiority of the drab over the blue uniform was furnished last week, while the Jersey guardsmen were doing duty at Perth Amboy.

The guardsmen were forced to do considerable maneuvoring during their stay at the scene of the strike, and their uniforms were almost ruined. At least, they showed unmistakable signs of wear and tear, and it is an assured fact that the guardsmen would have made a more presentable appearance in their return home had they been attired in the regulation army color.

PARK THEATRE OPENING.

New Moving Picture Establishment Begins Business Tomorrow Afternoon.

The Park theatre, as the new moving picture establishment in the former police headquarters building on East Front street, has been named, will be opened tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock and again at 6:30 in the evening. The place has been completely fitted up with comfortable opera chairs and is thoroughly heated and ventilated. The interior has been made attractive by handsome oil paintings hung on the side walls and up-to-date furnishings.

The daily program will include good music, excellent singing and high class pictures. Charles J. Woehrer, who has had many years experience in enterprises of this kind will be the manager.

W. C. T. U. HOLDS MEETING; XMAS BOX FOR SAILORS.

The W. C. T. U. held its monthly business meeting yesterday afternoon in the union rooms on Madison avenue.

The treasurer, Miss May E. Howlett, reported that about $75 was turned into the treasury as a result of the fair which was held a few weeks ago. Mrs. P. B. Bennet, corresponding secretary, read reports on the evangelistic work done by the organization in the past month and Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson spoke of the foreign missions and temperance work.

A Christmas box is being prepared to be sent to the sailors in Brooklyn. Contributions of oranges, cake, nuts and delicacies of all kinds will be received for the box at 117 Elmwood place.

DON'T WAIT

BUY NOW!

SHOP EARLY! DON'T WAIT!

Sage advice, truly, that can be heeded with profit by all. What can you gain by waiting?

This gigantic emporium has never been so crowded with holiday gift goods of every imaginable sort—a million things, perhaps, for you to choose from. Yet each day from this time forward these stocks will grow beautifully less. More than 40,000 packages a day are going thru the delivery room, and every day the number will increase.

We make no plea except to your own selfish interests. You need not think of our necessities, nor our limitations, nor need you think of our salespeople, or those who man our delivery wagons. We are here to serve you, and serve you we will whether you come today, tomorrow, or the night before Christmas, as satisfactorily as any concern in America.

But if you want to pick your gifts from the fullest possible variety, if you want leisure for selection, if you want undivided attention from salespeople, or your favorite clerk to serve you, if you want delivery made early enough to make you safe from mistakes, if you want to avoid the big crowds and the hurly-burly of the ten days before Christmas, if, in short, you want to do your holiday shopping in a way that will make it a pleasure rather than a burden, then we say "Shop Early! Don't Wait!"

BASEBALL.

The National and American leagues will assemble the first part of next week, the former at the Waldorf and the latter at the Hotel Walcott. The American League men have nothing but the usual routine business to transact, but the National League session may produce some lively incidents. It may develop that the Merkle incident will be a subject for much discussion, also the decisions rendered by the umpires, President Pulliam and the board of directors anent the now famous New York-Chicago tie game. Barney Dreyfuss, of Pittsburg, may come here with his war paint on prepared to find out why he was not allowed, as a director to cast his vote on the point at issue. President Pulliam, by the way, arrived yesterday after a long Western trip, but said that he could not talk baseball until he had become better acquainted with the general situation.

While some baseball deals may result at the coming conferences it can be put down as a certainty that the New York American League Club at present has no idea of parting with either Hal Chase or Norman Elberfeld. "You can say for me," said President Frank Farrell yesterday, "that Chase and Elberfeld will niether be sold nor exchanged. They are both fine ball players and as the Highlanders need them we have no idea of letting them get away. Manager Stallings wishes to strengthen the team, not weaken it, and as Chase and Elberfeld can play winning ball when they want to they will be asked to remain."

The rumor was revived yesterday that Clark Griffith had succeeded in buying the Kansas City American Association Club from George Tebeau and would act as president and manager of the Blues next season.

When P. T. Powers calls the roll at the meeting of the Eastern League and the American Association tomorrow the owners of these clubs will probably be on hand: Providence, Newark, Buffalo, Jersey City, Baltimore, Toronto, Montreal, Rochester Toledo, Columbus, Louisville, Kansas City, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, Minneapolis and St. Paul. This is a formidable array of minor league clubs and represents many thousands of dollars in baseball investments. There appears to be no good reason why these two leagues should not receive a special classification which will rate them just below the majors and just above the other minors. Baseball men say that such a concession would remove all chances for trouble in the ranks of organized leagues for some time to come.

GOLF.

Jerome D. Travers, the national golf champion, plays about as well with one club as he does with a bagful. In a recent match against the best ball of three club mates, over the Montclair Golf Club links, he was handicapped by the use of a single club—a driving iron—and he not only won by 3 up and 2 to play, but returned a brilliant 77 for the eighteen holes. Few golfers can make a round of the Montclair course in these figures using a full complement of clubs, and the performance was little short of remarkable.

Throughout the match Travers drove a long ball off the tee, averaging close to two hundred yards, while his play through the green was invariably on the flag. His short game was brilliant and his putting so deadly that on nine greens he only needed one put, and never more than two at any of the others.

Harry Lauder, the Scotch comedian, finds time for an occasional round on the links, as golf is his favorite pastime. Not long ago Lauder went out to Baltusrol, where he was the guest of George Low, the professional, who recently presented President-elect Taft with a set of clubs. Lauder played over the course, and after taking several shots in one bunker he asked his caddie how many strokes he had taken.

"Nine, sir," said the boy.

"That's the last time you will caddie for me," was the comedian's quick rejoinder.

Gilbert Nichols, the far-driving professional of the Woodlawn Golf Club, who broke the Van Cortlandt Park record in a tournament there last summer, expects to take charge of the Wilmington Country Club links. Jack Pearson, of the Richmon County Country Club, will go to Camden, S. C., for the winter, while Isaac Mackie, of Fox Hills, will return to Scotland for a brief visit, instead of looking for a winter green in the South.

Holy Cross vs. P. H. S.

The last local football game of the season of interest will be played at Hope Common tomorrow afternoon between Holy Cross and the Plainfield High School. This contest will be of unusual interest because of the fact that the winner will be entitled to the local championship. N. P. H. S. has defeated Holy Cross, while P. H. S. defeated N. P. H. S. The church boys feel sure that they will be able to make a far better showing than they did against the borough school team, when they were defeated by a score of 12 to 0. Both teams will have their regular lineup tomorrow.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The monthly communion service will be held at the First Baptist church Sunday morning.

The Junior Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will meet this afternoon and enjoy an attractive program.

Historical Anydate.

Alexander was before Tyre.

"To succeed," counseled his generals, "we must invest the city."

Aleck frowned.

"To make our revenge keener, why not compel the citizens to do the investing and let us be the promoters," he answered.

Whereupon the court jester withdrew up the prospectus.—Puck.

PLEASES THE PALATE.

Rienzi Beer is the Most Satisfactory Drink for Social Occasions.

At every social function in which you are interested make it a point to serve a beverage that combines health with pleasure.

Always bear in mind that good beer sustains health, but to be sure of good beer be sure and order Rienzi, the well known brew of the Bartholoway Brewery Co. of Rochester, N. Y.

The bitter in hops is an appetizer and digestant and the malt nourishes. Drink Rienzi with your meals. Have it on hand at all times and enjoy its benefits. Rienzi beer is a food drink, and in cases of nervous dyspepsia it is a simple yet wonderfully effective remedy.

You can easily order Rienzi beer from Henry Haurand, who is the agent in Plainfield. Just call his 'phone number, 229, and tell him to send you a trial order today. He will fill your order promptly and be glad to do it. 12 1 3 4

THE IMPORTANCE OF A GOOD CORSET.

You know it is said that so many of our sins are those of omission rather than of commission. I am inclined to believe that such a condition influences in no small degree the corset situation. Much ill corsetting is due to carelessness and indifference and inappreciation on the part of women. I so much want you to get better acquainted, to make friends with your corset, that I am begging you in today's little talk to arouse yourselves from carelessness and indifference and to make note of a few "don'ts" and "dos"—some one of them is sure to apply to you—and, maybe, two or even more.

The moment I succeeded in striking a personal note, then I am sure of your interest and appreciation.

First, don't buy a corset at random or because it has given satisfaction to some friend in whose judgment you have implicit faith, whom you consider a good dresser; neither buy a corset which you, unadvised, think is the proper style for your figure; rather go to one who is educated in the making and fitting of corsets and be willing to go to the trouble of having the corset tried on and fitted.

Second, don't consider it economy to buy but one corset at a time. The rule of two is just as appropriately applied to corsets as to shoes and silk petticoats. You know full well how much more service you get out of running two pairs of shoes at a time than by waiting until one pair is no longer presentable before procuring another pair. Once I yearned for a $15 silk petticoat, but when the salesgirl was about to "charge and send" it I suddenly told her to send me two petticoats at $7.50 each.

These petticoats were identical—I had to mark the belt of one with a red silk cross to distinguish it from the other. I had three times as much out of those two petticoats than I would have had out of the more expensive one.

Buy your two corsets alike in quality, cut and fit.

Third, don't begrudge the price of a good corset. Buy just as good a one as you can afford. If necessary, cut one frock from your list in order to buy a better corset.

Fourth, don't begrudge the price of a good corset. Buy just as good a one as you can afford. If necessary, cut one frock from your list in order to buy a better corset.

Fourth, don't bend over unnecessarily in your corset. To pick up something on the floor, learn to bend the knee rather than to bend the body from the waist. Sit and stand as erect as possible; it will not only help your figure, but it will improve your digestion, your health in general, and at the same time preserve the lines of your corset.

Fifth, don't have your gowns cut and fitted until your corset is right. A sad experience had a friend of mine who had all her autumn costumes made, then straightway went to an expensive corsetiere and was measured for a $25 corset. The result was that every gown, blouse and coat in her wardrobe had to be altered to agree with the newly corseted figure.

If women only understood that the corset is really the backbone of all dressing their interest would grow. Then defects would be noticed. The realization and abhorrence of wrong only stimulates us to do right.

If you want to be advised upon things of importance or upon minor details, write to the "One Who Knows," and you will be most gladly helped and encouraged.—Washington Star.

HEMMING NAPKINS.

The napkins used for the afternoon tea are eighteen inches square. It is best to make a French hem, for they iron much better and have a neater finish. Of course, hemstitched napkins are preferred, but the French seam is neat. To make this seam, turn a very narrow hem as you would if you were going to stitch it upon the machine. Instead, turn the seam back upon the napkin on the right side, thus making three thicknesses of damask. If you press the seam with an iron, you can more readily complete the work. Select a fine needle and fine thread which will sink into the mesh of the material and become a part of the weave, and it will not wear out so quickly. Whip the edge rather closely to make the stitch alike upon both sides. Press out the seam and both sides are identical. This is one of the neatest hems we have and is found upon hand-made tablescloths and napkins of the best quality.

Medicine Dropper and Cinders.

Recently while a woman was traveling she got a small cinder in her eye. It was quickly removed with a medicine dropper. The tube was then filled with water and the eye was rinsed out. Often by merely rinsing the eye with water a cinder can be washed out.—Woman's National Daily.

A Favor Suggestion.

A neat little gift is a small crochted slipper, with a shamois sole, in which a silver thimble is placed. Crochet the toe and sides with silkateen. Two slippers can be made, tied with ribbon, and one stuffed with an emery bag. Each should be an inch long.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The Conness & Edwards Stock Company in "Blue Jeans" will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tonight.

An entirely new play is scheduled to appear at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and tonight. It is called "The Dollar Mark" and has been written by G. S. Beck, a newspaper man. It has been staged, it is said, very elaborately by Frank Hatch, and is offered under the personal direction of J. Jay Daley. The theme is said to be an unusual one and original in its treatment. Greed for gold is the dominating note. Does gold outweigh love, is the question answered. "The Dollar Mark" is a semi-human, semi-devil character, interpreted by Aubrey Boucicault, which worms its way beneath the better feelings of the millionaire character, tainting that individual with the gold fever. An excellent metropolitan cast has been selected for its interpretation. Among those having important roles are Aubrey Boucicault, Fuller Mellis, Douglas Gerard, Herbert Prior, George MacIntyre, Edmund Mortimer, Edward Fowler, Raphael Newman, Sidney Blair, Dorothy Chester, Ina Brooks, Agnes Mapes, Adelaide Cumming and others.

The success of "The Lion and the Mouse," which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday afternoon and night, is an interesting study. Ida Tarbell's father was a small oil producer in Pennsylvania. The Standard Oil Company drove him to poverty and death. His daughter, Ida, went to New York and became a writer. She attracted the attention of S. S. McClure, owner of McClure's magazine. She wasn't pretty, but she had brains. McClure is a judge of brains. He engaged her, and started her on the history of the Standard Oil Company. Her articles appeared in McClure's Magazine for many months. They were a terrible expose of the methods of modern, legalized pirates. Miss Tarbell was sent for by Rogers, of the Standard Oil Company. She went to his office, as Shirley Rossmore goes to the house of Ryder, in "The Lion and the Mouse." Nothing doing. Miss Tarbell could not be couped, flattered, bullied or bought. The articles continued to appear. They were eagerly read by Thomas W. Lawson, and inspired his "Frenzied Finance" articles, which made "Everybody's Magazine" the talk of the world. Those articles inspired Charles Klein. Result: "The Lion and the Mouse." Query: Who wrote the play: Miss Tarbell, Mr. Lawson, Mr. Klein, or Mr. Rogers? Ryder, in the play, is certainly Lawson's-Rogers. Anyway, it is a great play, and is only in its fourth year of unprecedented success. That is, in its infancy.

CAR LEAVES A TRACK TO BUMP INTO HOUSE.

While a private car containing scenery for "Montana Limited," a show billed to open at Perth Amboy last night, was being out out from the train arriving at the State street station of the Pennsylvania Railroad at 11:48 o'clock yesterday morning, a drill engine shunted the car with such force to a side track that it failed to stop when it hit the bumpers at the end of the track.

The car tore away the heavy buttress beams, swept off the track and rolled through a fence. Fayette street is fifty-six feet wide, but the car, maintaining its upright position, rolled across the thoroughfare and then, bouncing up on the pavement on the opposite side, tore away the front steps to Christian Borup's house and butted into the brick wall, but stopped before it had completely penetrated to the interior.

William Robinson, a brakeman, who had put on the brakes as hard as their capacity permitted, kept his position on the platform of the car until it hit the porch, when he jumped to one side. He was badly bruised and cut about the hands, but escaped further injury. The Borup family opened the front door to see what the shock was all about. A wrecking crew started in soon to drag back the car to the tracks.

Seek "Gallant Gentleman."

"A gallant gentleman," attired in the latest style and possessing a splendid assortment of king's English, is wanted by the police at Elizabeth. He appeared there Wednesday, purchased $7.75 worth of roses from a florist and paid with a check. The check proved to be worthless. The flowers were sent as directed to the home of a society bur on Westminster avenue, but were refused. The smooth "gentleman," is is said, took a train for Newark. He wore a soft gray hat and was dressed in a black suit. His pseudonym is George Leary and his age 30.

Mrs. E. S. Boyer, of Fairview avenue, is visiting friends in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Berne Egel, of West Front street, is able to sit up a little for the first, following a long and severe illness with typhoid fever.

James Nolan and daughter, Mrs. William Murray, of New York, have returned home after spending a few days with Mrs. James Harper, of Manning avenue.

SIXTY LOTS ARE SOLD AT "HIGHLAND PARK."

A successful sale at auction of lots in Highland Park has just been concluded, it having been conducted by Lancaster & Mills. Mr. Lancaster has a system of givinng out presents at each sale which proves a great drawing card.

The sale lasted for six days; and over sixty lots were purchased, these being among the buyers: M. E. Woosten, of New York, twenty lots; H. H. Goodwin, of New York, sixteen lots; Thomas A. Moore, of this city, three lots; W. C. Smith, of the borough, two lots; William Touchon, of this city, two lots; August Prudhon, two lots; Peter Schubert, three lots; Elmer Apgar, of High Bridge, two lots; Mr. Walsh, of Newark, two lots, and Mrs. Mary Fowleck, of this city, two lots.

The time of year was not propitious for the selling of these lots, but it only goes to show that Plainfield property is greatly in demand, and when sales can be made at auction during November and December, it certainly makes a bright outlook for real estate activity during the coming year.

The BRASS BOWL

By LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

(Copyright 1907, The Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

The cab had been headed north; the St. Luke rears its massive bulk south of Twenty-second street. The driver expertly swung his vehicle almost on dead center. Simultaneously it careened with the impact of a heavy bulk landing upon the step and falling in a heap on the deck.

"My worrd, what's that?" came from aloft. Maitland was altogether too startled to speak.

The heap sat up, resolving itself into the semblance of a man; who spoke in decisive tones:

"If yeh're goin' there, I'm goin' with yeh, 'r yeh don't go—see?"

"The sleuth!" gasped Maitland, astounded.

"Ah, cut that, can't yeh?" Hickey got on all fours, found his cigar, stuck it in his mouth, and fell into place at Maitland's side.

"Hickey, I mean. But how—"

"If yeh're Maitland, 'nd Anisty's at the St. Luke buildin', tell that fool up there to drive!"

Maitland had no need to lift the trap; the cabby had already done that.

"All right," the young man called. "It's Detective Hickey. Drive on!"

The lash leaped out over the roof—cr-rack!—and the horse, presumably convinced that no speed other than a dead-run would ever again be demanded of it, tore frantically down the avenue, the hansom rocking like a topsail-schooner in a heavy gale.

Maitland and the detective were battered against the side and back of the vehicle and slammed against one another with painful regularity. Under such circumstances speech was difficult; yet they managed to exchange a few sentences.

"Yeh gottuh gun?"

"Anisty's—two good cartridges."

"Jus' as well I'm along, I guess."

And again: "How'd yeh s'pose Anisty got this cab?"

"I don't know—must 've been in the house—I told cabby to wait—Anisty seems to have walked out right on your heels."

"Hell!" And a moment later: "What's this about a woman in the case?"

Maitland took swift thought on her behalf.

"Too long to go into now," he parried the query. "You help me catch this scoundrel Anisty and I'll put in a good word for you with the deputy commissioner."

"Ah, yeh help me nab him," grunted the detective, "'nd I won't need no good word with nobody."

The hansom swung into Broadway, going like a whirlwind; and picked up an uniformed officer in front of the Flatiron building, who, shouting and using his locust stridently, sprinted after them. A block further down another fell into line; and he it was who panted at the step an instant after the cab had lurched to a stop before the entrance to the St. Luke building.

Hickey had rolled out before the policeman had a chance to bluster.

"'Lo, Bergen," he greeted the man. "Yeh know me—I'm Hickey, central office. Yeh're jus' in time. Anisty's in this buildin'—'r was ten minutes ago. We want all the help we c'n get."

By way of reply the officer stooped and drummed a loud alarm on the sidewalk with his night-stick.

"Say," he panted, rising, "you're a wonder, Hickey—if you get him."

"Uh-huh," grunted the detective with a sidelong glance at Maitland. "C'm 'long."

The lobby of the building was quite deserted as they entered, the night-watchman invisible, the night elevator on its way to the roof—as was discovered by consultation of the indicator dial above the gate. Hickey punched the night call bell savagely.

"Me 'nd him," he said, jerking the free thumb at Maitland, "'ll go up and hunt him out. Begin at th' top floor an' work down. That's th' way, huh? 'Nd," to the policeman, "yeh stay here an' hold up anybody 't tries tuh leave th' buildin'. There ain't no other entrance, I s'pose, what?"

"Basement door an' ash lift's round th' corner," responded the officer. "But that had ought tuh be locked, night."

"Well, 'f anybody else comes along yeh put him there, anyway, for luck. What 'n hell's th' matter with this elevator?"

The detective settled a pudgy index-finger on the push button and elicited a far, thin, shrill peal from the annunciator above. But the indicator arrow remained as motionless as the car at the top of the shaft. Another summons gained no response, in likewise, and a third was also disregarded.

Hickey stepped back, face black as a storm-cloud, summed up his opinion of the management of the building in one soul-blistering phrase, produced his bandana and used it vigorously, uttered a libel on the ancestry of the night-watchman and the likes of him, and turned to give profane welcome to the policeman who had noticed the cab at Twenty-third street and, who now panted in, blown and perspiring. Much to his disgust he found himself assigned to stand guard over the basement exits, and waddled forth again into the street.

Meanwhile the first officer to arrive upon the scene was taking his turn at agitating the button and shaking the gates; and with no more profit of his undertaking than Hickey. After a minute or two of it he acknowledged defeat with an oath, and turned away to browbeat the straggling vanguard of belated wayfarers—messenger boys, slatternly drabs, hackmen, loafers, and one or two plain citizens conspicuously out of their reputable grooves—who were drifting in at the entrance to line the lobby walls with blank, curious faces. Forerunners of that mysterious rabble which is apparently precipitated out of the very air by any extraordinary happening in city streets, if allowed to remain they would in five minutes have waxed in numbers to the proportions of an unmanageable mob; and the policeman, knowing this, set about dispersing them with perhaps greater discretion than consideration.

They wavered and fell back, grumbling discontentedly; and Maitland, his anxiety temporarily distracted by the noise they made, looked round to find his erstwhile cabby at his elbow. Of whom the sight was inspiration. Ever thoughtful, never unmindful of her whose influence held him in this coil, he laid an arresting hand on the man's sleeve.

"You've got your cab—?"

"Drive round the corner, away from the crowd, and wait for me. If she—the young lady—comes without me, drive her anywhere she tells you and come to my rooms to-morrow morning for your pay."

"Thankee, sir."

Maitland turned back, to find the situation round the elevator shaft in statu quo. Nothing had happened, save that Hickey's rage and vexation had increased mightily.

"But why don't you go up after him?"

"How 'n blazes can I?" exploded the detective. "He's got th' night car. 'F I takes the stairs, he comes down by th' shaft, 'nd how'm I tuh trust this here mutt?" He indicated his associate but humbler custodian of the peace with a disgusted gesture.

"Perhaps one of the other cars will run—" Maitland suggested.

"Ah, they're all dead ones," Hickey disagreed with disdain as the young man moved down the row of gates, trying one after another. "Yeh're only wastin'—"

He broke off with a snort as Maitland, somewhat to his own surprise, managing to move the gate of the third shaft from the night elevator, stepped into the darkened car and groped for the controller. Presently his fingers encountered it, and he moved it cautiously to one side. A vicious blue spark leaped hissing from the controller-box and the cage bounded up a dozen feet, and was only restrained from its ambition to soar skywards by an instantaneous release of the lever.

By discreet manipulation Maitland worked the car down to the street floor again, and Hickey, with a grunt that might be interpreted as an apology for his incredulity, jumped in.

"Let 'er rip!" he cried, exultantly. "Fan them folks out intuh th' street, Bergen, 'nd watch ow-ut!"

Maitland was pressing the lever slowly wide of its catch, and the lighted lobby dropped out of sight while the detective was still shouting admonitions to the police below. Gradually gaining momentum the car began to shoot smoothly up into the blackness, safety chains clanking beneath the floor. Hickey fumbled for the electric light switch but, finding it, immediately shut the glare off again and left the car in darkness.

"Safer," he explained, sententious. "Anisty 'll shoot, 'nd they says he shoots straight."

Floor after floor in ghostly strata slipped silently down before their eyes. Half-way to the top, approximately, Hickey's voice rang sharply in the volunteer operator's ear.

"Stop 'er! Hold 'er steady. T'other's comin' down."

Maitland obeyed, managing the car with greater ease and less jerkily as he began to understand the principle of the lever. The cage paused in the black shaft, and he looked upward.

Down the third shaft over, the other cage was dropping like a plummet, a block of golden light walled in by black filigree-work and bisected vertically by the black line of the guide-rail.

"Stop that there car!"

Hickey's stentorian command had no effect; the block of light continued to fall with unabated speed.

The detective wasted no more breath. As the other car swept past, Maitland was shocked by a report and flash beside him. Hickey was using his revolver.

The detonation was answered by a cry, a scream of pain, from the lighted cage. It paused on the instant, like a bird stricken a-wing, some four floors below, but at once resumed its downward swoop.

"Down, down! After 'em!" Hickey bellowed. "I dropped one, by God! T'other can't—"

"How many in the car?" interrupted Maitland, opening the lever with a firm and careful hand.

"Only two, same's us. I hit th' feller what was runnin' it—"

"Steady!" cautioned Maitland, decreasing the speed, as the car approached the lower floor.

THE LAST MOMENT

By J. OLIVIER CURWOOD.

(Copyright, by Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

Connoly, head and shoulders out of the cabin, was in time to see Svenson, the Swede, burst like a maniac from the group of men fighting like shadows in the mist of the forward pump. He caught faintly his yell of defiance as Flick, the second officer, ran out from among the shadows and intercepted him with a blow from a knotted fist that sent him reeling into the drowning wash of the sea. He shouted as the little gray man followed up Svenson's huge bulk, like a terrier, and other figures staggered out of the blinding spume, naked armed, bare chested, with Svenson's panic gleaming in their eyes. Flick saw him as he came across the deck and planted his back against the port davit, where the tops of the seas swept over him in smothering rushes.

A ton of water breaking over the rail sent him reeling out among the men. He picked himself up and staggered to Connoly, his thin, gray-bearded face questioning him eagerly.

"She's a little better, boys!" shouted the captain. "But we can't take her out into that!"

He pointed out into the grayness of the sea, broken only by the foaming tops that rode rail-high with the ship.

"My God, men, no boat would live—"

The voice of a seaman rose almost in a shriek.

"We're full! We're full to a foot of the hatches, I tell y'! She's got to go now or never!"

There was sullen assent in a dozen water-blistered eyes. From early morning until noon these men had clung to a sinking ship because each cherished in him a memory of the woman. Because of her they had fought until their hands bled and their breath came in gasps. They had watched the schooner settle inch by inch and foot by foot, struggling stubbornly for the precious minutes which would give life to her, until arms hung limp and effortless and men fell exhausted upon the deck when others took their turns at the pumps. And above them all Svenson had worked and urged and cursed those whose nerve began to fail them, until, when the last minute seemed riding on each white-crested rush of the sea, something broke within him and he turned in his despair to the boats. It was Svenson now who rushed to the falls. In an instant Connoly was among the panic-stricken men.

"You can't live in that sea!" he shouted. "Fight it out another hour, men—one more hour!"

The schooner rode more easily now. She had settled until the resistance she gave to the sea was as solid as that of a mass of steel, and the ramming of her sides only sent jarring throes through her timbers, although a thousand-ton weight touched her gently each time she was struck. A few minutes more, a sudden sweep of water over the rail, and Connoly knew that she would go down, quietly and without sensation, but with merciful quickness. He turned toward the cabin, and at the threshold of the door that led to where the woman lay he paused for an instant and fought for the strength that he knew he would need. Then he opened it and entered. At the end of the room a woman lay upon a cot, her strangely white face turned expectantly toward the door. As Connoly came through she smiled, and her beautiful eyes brightened with a glad light.

"It has seemed so long, Jim," she said, her voice rising barely above a whisper. "The storm frightens me. But it's quieter now, isn't it?"

"Yes, dear!"

The man took off his dripping hat and coat and sat down beside her. The woman, as he did so, drew down the coverlet a few inches so that he might see the little pink face lying against her bosom. He leaned over, more to hide his own whiteness than to caress, and stroke the baby's cheek with a big forefinger. The woman took his other hand and pressed it happily. She spoke no word, but when the man raised himself to look into her face he saw the great dawn of the new life shining adoringly in her eyes. After a time the woman said:

"Jim!"

"Yes, dear."

"Are you—very glad?"

The man pressed her face to him with passionate tenderness. He did not answer in words, but the woman was satisfied. Then he gently drew himself away, the young wife's eyes following him inquiringly.

"You're not going back—now?" she asked. "I thought—"

"Yes—Flick is in charge," he said quickly. "But I must see—that everything's all right—" Between his words he hesitated, listening to a sound under his feet that thrilled him. It was like the bumping of floating cargo against the deck. The water was rising faster than he supposed, but he showed no sign of the fear that was in him.

"You will be back soon?"

"Right away, Jen!"

He came back to kiss her, the sickening throbbing at his heart almost suffocating him as he looked down into the woman's confident eyes, luminous with a touch of the old fever. He was glad that she did not know. It would make the end easier for him—and for her, if the end had to come. And he knew there was only one chance in ten thousand against it. As he passed out of the cabin he saw the life belts strung along the ceiling. For an instant it flashed into his mind that he might use them. As quickly the thought passed from him. They would only prolong their misery a little longer, and the woman—he shuddered as he pictured what those few minutes of life battling in the sea would mean for her. The end would come easier in the cabin. In the last minute she would understand, and would love him for it. So he passed out, closing the door carefully behind him, and scanned the deck for Flick.

For a few moments he listened for the sound under his feet. But he heard and felt only the jarring of the ship which came of the seas pounding against her. With his eyes on Flick he went to the midship hatch and thrust an arm through the hole that had been made for a pump. He did not expect to touch water. The fact that he did brought him to his feet as though something had bitten him. Flick had seen him, and stood huddled just out of the sheets of spray that shot over the bow, watching as if the sight of the man rising from his knees was curious and interesting. Connoly beckoned to him.

A great shudder ran through the schooner. If she had possessed a tight hold Connoly would have thought that she had struck a rock. The leeward drift that had won these last hours of existence for her against the rushes of the sea seemed suddenly stopped, as if she had steadied herself for the final engulfment. Connoly turned and ran for the cabin. He heard Flick's cry behind him and caught a glimpse of the little man as he staggered out of the mess forward. But it was too late to stop, even to give a last word to Flick. Over his shoulder he saw the starboard rail hidden in a mass of seething water, and as he reached the door it swished about him ankle deep and followed him in a torrent into the cabin. Again he heard that cry of Flick's, but he shut the door, as he had planned, and bolted it to give himself a few last moments of life with the woman.

When he turned to her with the tragedy that had overtaken them written in his face, his outstretched arms dropped slowly to his side. Only her name fell from his lips. The words that he had meant to say were left unspoken. The woman was asleep. Her face was toward him, and in the dim lamp glow he saw deepening in her cheeks the flush of returning fever. One white hand had fallen over the side of the cot, and on it gleamed their wedding ring. Like an animal Connoly fell upon his knees. The water trickled about his fingers as he crept to her. At the bedside he stretched an arm over her, so gently that she did not awaken. Then he turned his face to the door, grim with terror of this last moment, but filled with the splendid sanity of his resolve. The sea would not get the best of him. He would have the woman, at the last—and so firmly that the hell of a thousand seas could not separate them. But it would not be until the last—the very last. Then she would awaken only to know that he was there, and would die before the misery and the terror of it all came to her. The man fancied that he heard the beating of water against the panels; his staring eyes saw it pouring faster under the door—he heard it straining against the cabin walls. The floor seemed lifting him up. Bow first, the schooner was diving to her doom. His arms grew heavier over the woman. His other slipped under her head. Then came another shock, longer than the one that had preceded it, and after that there was absolute quiet, save for the trickling of water under the door and the tremendous beating of his own heart.

"Still the woman slept.

There came a knock from outside, again and again, and then a sudden pressure that burst off the bolt, and Flick stood there, babbling words that seemed to have no meaning. He went as suddenly as he came, and Connoly could hear his sobbing voice dying away on deck. He drew his arms from the woman and followed. At the door he paused for a moment, then slipped out.

The woman's fever-stricken face moved a little. Her eyelids trembled, and after a moment she opened them.

"Jim!" she called weakly.

A gust of wind slammed the door.

"Jim, where are you?"

She drew herself up on an elbow, frightened, and saw the water running black and ugly on the floor.

"Jim—Jim—Jim—"

A man sprang through the door. It was Connoly. He wrapped her close to his wet breast, and the laugh that fell from his lips was filled with an insane joy. Over his shoulder, standing in the doorway, the woman saw Flick.

"Had quite a time of it, but it's all over now, sweetheart!" whispered Connoly. "Where do you think the old tub is? Couldn't guess, eh? Well, she's settled as soundly as the Rock of Ages somewhere on the Thunder bay shore! Tried to fight her off, but we couldn't do it. Now all we've got to do is to eat and sleep until somebody comes to pull us off! Eh, Flick?"

Flick had gone. Out on deck, with his face turned to the indistinct outline of the shore, and the gleams of sunlight bursting through the ragged clouds, he bowed his gray head and softly whispered what little he could remember of the Lord's Prayer.

WANT LICENSE REVOKED

Borough Council Requests Court Not to Allow Privilege to Arlington Hotel.

AFTERMATH OF RECENT RAID.

Proprietor Farbman Now Under Bail to Answer Charge of Running Disorderly House.

The Arlington Hotel, at Greenbrook road and Somerset street, where a sensational raid was made a short time ago, will lose its license provided the Somerset court harkens unto North Plainfield Council's plea. The latter body has addressed a petition, or rather resolution to the court, urging that the sale of liquor on the hotel premises be discontinued because "the place does not accommodate travelers and does not conduce to the public good." Proprietor Farbman, following the recent raid, was held in bail to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of running a disorderly house.

This resolution introduced last night by Councilman VanArsdale was unanimously passed by the borough fathers:

"Whereas, in the judgment of the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield a licensed hotel situated at the corner of Somerset street and Green Brook road, in said borough, is wholly unnecessary to accommodate the traveling public and does not conduce to the public good.

"And, Whereas, the proprietor of said hotel being now under bail, charged with keeping the same as a disorderly house, the time seems opportune for protesting against a transfer or renewal of any license to sell spirituous or fermented liquors therein; therefore,

"Be it Resolved, by said Mayor and Council, that the Judges of the Court of Common Pleas of the county of Somerset be and are hereby respectfully petitioned to refuse any and all applications for either transfer or renewal of any license, to sell spirituous or fermented liquor in or upon the premises now or recently known as the Arlington Hotel, situated on Somerset street, corner of Green Brook road, in said borough. Also that the clerk of this borough forward copy hereof to the judges of said court."

DR. L. BOUTELLE PLUMER TO SPEAK AT Y. M. C. A.

The first of four notable addresses to be delivered at the December Sunday afternoon meetings in Y. M. C. A. hall will be given tomorrow afternoon by Dr. L. Boutelle Plumer, associate editor of the Passaic Herald. At this meeting Dr. Plumer will give his great talk on "The Intellecual Greatness of Jesus." This lecture is a thoughtful and eloquent appreciation of the intellectual grasp and vigor of Jesus and has made a deep impression wherever given.

For the remaining Sundays of the month the speakers will be: Sunday, December 13, Bishop Rudolph Dubs; Sunday, December 20, President William Phillips Hall, of the Hall Signal Company; Sunday, December 27, W. M. Chandler, of the New York Bar.

PROF. MAX FARRAND LECTURES HERE MONDAY.

Max Farrand, Professor of History Yale University, who is the Monday Afternoon Club's lecturer for December 7, has been, since he was graduated from Princeton class of '90, a member of the faculty of Wesleyan University, of that of Leland Stanford University and has come this year to Yale.

Both he and his brother, formerly of Columbia University, now secretary of The National Association for Prevention of Tuberculosis, are well known to several prominent local physicians. The lecture is advertised elsewhere in this paper.

Fire Alarm Was False.

The borough fire department was called out last night at 11:22 by a false alarm from box 132, located at Manning and Westervelt avenues. When the company arrived at the place there was no one in sight. It is believed that the same person is responsible for all of the false alarms that have been turned in lately and as soon as he is caught in the act he will be handed severe punishment.

Crescent Ave. Quartet Concert.

The quartet of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will give a concert at Grace M. E. church Thursday night, December 10. The members of the quartet are: Miss Virginia Wilson, soprano; Miss Grace Carroll, contralto; Herbert Taylor, tenor, and James Slantey, bass, with William P. Dunn as organist. Tickets are for sale at L. W. Randolph's drug store on Front street.

MRS. MAGGIE JOHNSON HAS PASSED AWAY

Mrs. Maggie Johnson, wife of Andrew W. Johnson, of Duer street, died between 11 and 12 o'clock last night, following a long illness, during which she was a great sufferer. She was patient through it all and bore her affliction with Christian fortitude. Mrs. Johnson was a member of the First Baptist church and a faithful attendant at all the services when her health permitted. She was especially interested in the work of the missionary societies and was a liberal contributor to them.

Mrs. Johnson was the daughter of the late Abram and Zeurah Cadmus, both of whom were well-known here among the older residents. All the members of the family were present when Mrs. Johnson passed away. Besides a husband, Mrs. Johnson is survived by one son, Russell Johnson, who resides in Newark and one sister, Miss Josephine Cadmus, of Greenbrook road, the borough. The funeral service will be held from the late residence, 102 Duer street, the borough, Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

MINOR MATTERS BEFORE THE BOROUGH FATHERS

On the suggestion of Councilman Woolston, North Plainfield's Council last night arranged for the advertisement of bids for the publication of the borough's tax list.

He had received figures from one civil engineer for the proposed new road maps and was waiting to hear from another before ordering them made. He also stated that the overseer of the poor had asked for a further appropriation of $100, and on a resolution being introduced by Councilman Nichols, it was voted that this request be granted.

Borough Clerk Frank A. Martin reported that during the month of November, twenty-four arrests had been made, and $42 in fines paid.

It was voted that the meeting be adjourned until December 29.

Henry C. White, secretary of the Plainfield Protective Association, by invitation of the Mayor, made a short talk in which he explained the purpose of the organization which he represented, saying that the members had originally got together to consider the lighting of both city and borough, and asking that they be given an opportunity of meeting the executive committee of the Borough Council to discuss matters pertaining to that subject. An invitation was extended to them through the Mayor.

COUNTY CLUB RESTAURANT TO BE CLOSED ON MONDAY.

The trustees of the Plainfield Country Club at the December meeting Thursday night, decided to close the restaurant to members Monday, and the main clubhouse on Wednesday. But the men's locker room will be kept open all winter for informal golf playing. A year from now it is expected that the clubhouse can be kept open all winter, with provision made for skating and toboggan sliding, etc.

The clubhouse is to be closed this winter in order that it may be dismantled and gotten in shape for carpenters and builders. The large increase in demand this season for restaurant service, especially for private dinners and special functions on a large scale, with the great demand for tables for the regular Saturday night dinners, makes it necessary to plan an enlargement of the porch dininggroom, more kitchen and pantry space and cloak room facilities. To accomplish these things the restaurant and main house will be closed for three months. This will also enable the house committee to make prompt collection of all restaurant accounts and report the result of the season's service.

GUESTS OF "PROCTOR'S"

Mayor and Other City Officials Among 150 Entertained at Private Performance.

IT'S A SUPERB PLAYHOUSE.

Those Invited Are Delighted and Congratulate Management —Refreshments Served.

Preliminary to the formal opening of the New Proctor theatre on West Front street today, Managers F. F. Proctor, Jr., and Harry Sanderson gave a private performance for 150 invited guests, last night, mostly local officials and business men with their wives. It was followed by a general inspection and light supper, served in the lobby, transformed for the time being into a most delightful banquet room. The affair was in the nature of an informal social and was greatly enjoyed.

From the moment the guests first entered the lobby of the theatre until they expressed congratulations to Messrs. Proctor and Sanderson at the close of the evening's entertainment, they were treated to a constant series of surprises. To those who remember the place as Music Hall the change is a revelation. People in a position to know declared the entrance, the women's retiring room and the theatre proper to be the handsomest playhouse in the State. Everything shows the work of experienced designers and artisans and the result is sure to be appreciated by local amusement seekers.

The commodious vestibule is decorated in Grecian style while the ceiling is done in a soft olive green, with ornaments grounded in Roman gold. It is high lighted with ivory relieved with a soft tone of pale terra-cotta. The mural paintings are particularly attractive. A large center panel represents the power of civilization over the barbaris state. In the center of the picture are seen two chaste and exquisitely modeled seated figures. The decorative work was executed by David Littgar, artist, or Albany, N. Y.

Handsome palms and plants, together with easy rockers, line the lobby its entire length, giving a decidedly cosy and attractive appearance. The women's retiring room to the right is most gorgeously fitted up with furnishings in red and green while every comfort for the patrons has been provided. A maid will be in attendance at all times.

After the guests had inspected the theatre, they were seated in the orchestra by uniformed ushers and a complete show of the kind that will be given in the house for the present was conducted. It comprised moving pictures, illustrated songs, the wonderful cameraphone which gives the acts of noted artists, travelogue by William Downs and selections by the orchestra, composed of Mrs. Downs, pianist, and Harry Rosenthal, trap drummer. Effects are given witn all the pictures and every film was enthusiastically applauded. One of them, "The Story of Jane Shaw," was brought directly from the New York Customs House yesterday in order to be presented last night.

With the close of the performance, the guests were escorted to the lobby where Caterer W. W. Warnock and a score of assistants were in readiness to serve light refreshments. They comprised delicious salad, sandwiches, fancy cakes, bisque tortonis and coffee. It was a feature that added the finishing touch to a delightful evening and elicited many complimentary remarks.

The guests last night included Mayor Charles J. Fisk, former Mayor James F. Buckle, former Mayor N. B. Smalley, of the borough; Chief T. O. Doane, Chief P. C. Kiely, Judge William A. Coddington, City Physician C. B. Lufburrow, Borough Physician A. H. Dundon, Dr. F. J. Hughes, Republican City Chairman W. S. Angleman and W. F. Williams. Visitors from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor, of Westfield; Miss Ruth Dinsmore, of Sharon, Mass.; Mrs. A. P. Folk, of Winthrop, Mass.; Harry Folk, of Bayonne; Mrs. Charles Day, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Denman, and Joseph Sperry, of Cranford; Lawrence Bramon, of Newark.

The work in altering the playhouse was accomplished by the following contractors: Carpentering, Walter Apgar; masonry, William C. Smith; plumbing, D. W. Littell; steam heating, Charles Dutcher; wiring and all electrical work, Allen Laing; general decorating, James C. Hansen; front entrance marquise, Paul Scherbner, New York; are glass doors, Rheinfrank Company, New York; fire escapes, W. T. Kirk Company; ticket pagoda, A. Stenzenberger. Shirley & Johnson arranged and provided all the furnishings and Mrs. Newhall, of N. Y., the draperies.

U. S. FORESTRY EXPERT TO LECTURE AT P. H. S.

The general public will have an opportunity of hearing an important lecture at the Plainfield High School Thursday morning at 10 o'clock when Bristow Adams, of the United States forestry service, will speak on the subject, "A Prodigal Nation," illustrating his talk with colored stereopticon pictures.

Mr. Adams will tell something of the work which has been done by the United States in conserving our forests, and the influence which this work has had on the whole question of the conservation of our natural resources. He will explain the growing need for new methods of thrift by Americans, and will bring home the fearful waste which the country has been guilty of in exploiting its so-called "inexhaustible resources." The main text of this discussion will be drawn from the record of the forest fires of this year, a waste that could easily have been prevented if the people as a whole had only cared enough about it.

Mr. Adams has had considerable success in presenting this subject, and only recently returned from a trip to the West, where he dwelt upon this and similar topics in Chicago and elsewhere.

The lecture has been placed at 10 o'clock in the morning in order that the public may find it convenient to attend. Admission is free.

LINEN SHOWER GIVEN FOR MISS ALICE MILLER.

Miss Alice Miller, whose marriage to Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring will take place in the near future, was given a "linen shower" yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Clark on Sandford avenue, by the women of the First Presbyterian church. There were between fifty and sixty guests present and Miss Miller was the recipient of a large collection of beautiful articles in linen, including table cloths, napkins, doilies, handkerchiefs and numerous other articles of use in linenware. During the afternoon refreshments were served. The affair was a surprise to Miss Miller, she being invited to lunch by Mrs. Clark. When she arrived at the house the true purpose of the affair was disclosed.

COPS GET A "BAD" MAN

Crazed by Drink, Frank Trotter Gives Headquarters a Strenuous Time.

ATTEMPTED TO KILL HIMSELF.

Kicked Patrolman Sweeney in the Face and Banged Chief Kiely on the Head With a Shoe.

The most violent prisoner Police Headquarters has held in many months was brought in at 7:30 last night by Patrolman Frank Sweeney, who arrested him at Park avenue and Front street for drunkenness. His name was given by a brother as Frank Trotter, 26 years old, of 419 West Fourth street, and inside of an hour he made more trouble than half a dozen ordinary booze-laden guests. His yells, curses and ravings could be heard a block from the building and it required the efforts of four policemen to manacle his arms and legs to prevent him committing suicide, one attempt leaving his throat in a terribly gashed condition.

Trotter is a painter who came here from Freehold two months ago. He has been living with his brother, John Trotter, a lineman, and yesterday the latter's wife sent him to town to buy some meat. He spent the money for rum instead and shortly after 7 o'clock last night the brother hauled him out of a Front street saloon, crazy drunk. His attempt to get him home proved futile and Patrolman Sweeney was called to arrest him.

The policeman got Trotter to headquarters without any trouble but when he was being put through the searching process in front of a cell he suddenly sprang at the officer like a demon. The two went to the floor together and while they were rolling about, the prisoner dealt Sweeney a kick squarely on the bridge of the nose. It knocked him out for the time being but recovering quickly he gave Trotter a shaking down that made his teeth chatter. Before he came to he was in a cell.

The instant the door closed, Trotter seemed to lose all claim to reason and dashed about in the enclosure like a maniac. A galvanized iron bucket kept in every cell was the only thing moveable he could find and he banged it against the bars until it was reduced to a battered piece of metal. Tiring of this, he produced a pocket-knife that had been overlooked when he was searched and began slashing his throat. He shouted several times that he would kill himself but the officers about the cell room could not see him and paid no attention to his cries.

Trotter was still slashing and cursing when Chief Kiely entered the building and went to the rear to learn the cause of the disturbance. The police head had barely gotten in front of the cell when the prisoner hurled a shoe through the bars at him with unerring aim. It collided with the side of the chief's head, jarring his memory and knocking off his eyeglasses. When he had gotten to rights he was out of range but not so far away but that he could notice Trotter's bleeding throat. He quickly called for officers and they entered the cell to learn the cause. When they found that he really wanted to make a way with himself they decided to bind his arms and legs but it was accomplished only after a three minute struggle. A physician dressed his wounds a little later.

When Trotter was arraigned in court, this morning, he was as meek as he had been violent. He declared that he was not used to drinking rum and that a little more than he should have taken deprived him of his senses. His brother gave him a good recommendation and neither Chief Kiely or Sweeney were anxious to press any charge against him, so sentence was suspended. Before leaving the room, Trotter apologized to each of the cops in turn and gave his solemn promise to Judge Runyon that he would never drink liquor again.

ELECTION INDICTMENTS, DEFECTIVE, ARE QUASHED

Justice James J. Bergen in the Union County Court, this morning, quashed all of the indictments for alleged fraudulent registration in Elizabeth, except the sixteen indictments against George Daubner, of that city. They will stand and it is possible that they may go before the Grand Jury again for further consideration. Justice Bergen quashed in all eleven indictements on the ground that they were defective.

In giving his decision, Justice Bergen said that the indictments failed to show why the accused did not know why they were not entitled to register or vote. He then said that he would quash them, unless they were nolle prossed. This was done at once. The indictments against Daubner are for alleged false swearing in of votes.

INTELLIGENT DOG PUTS SNEAK-THIEF TO FLIGHT

Four guests at Mrs. Lena Hellstrom's fashionable boarding house on East Seventh street owe the possession of their overcoats today to the fact that McLean Parker, another guest, has an intelligent bulldog. The canine intercepted a sneak thief at work in the place at 7 o'clock last night and went at him in such vigorous fashion that the intruder was compelled to drop his loot on the front porch. He got away without anybody seeing him and as the dog could furnish no description the police are in the dark as to what he looks like.

Mrs. Hellstrom has two separate dwellings in her establishment, one devoted entirely to rooms and the other used partly for dining. The guests were all at the latter place last night with the exception of Mrs. Parker, who remained upstairs in her room because of a slight illness. She was alone in the house when she heard her husband's dog rushing about the lower rooms and barking furiously. This was followed by someone dashing out of the hallway and down the porch, causing her to summon the folks from the other house. They found that a sneak-thief had removed four overcoats from a rack and had dropped them on the porch. The dog had evidently discovered him at work and induced his flight by a determined attack.

The police were notified and Chief Kiely conducted a personal investigation. The thief is evidently a local man who knew the custom of the people at the place in going to the opposite dwelling for meals

Door Bell Ringers in Court.

BOROUGH'S EXCISE RULE

Ordinance Passed on First Reading Provides for Closing Saloons at 11 o'Clock.

SAME HOUR AS IN PLAINFIELD.

Disorderly Conditions During Night Responsible for the Proposed Reform.

After January 31, North Plainfield will put in effect a closing hour for saloons similar to that in effect in this city for many years, the Council having gone on record last night for stopping the liquor traffic at 11 o'clock at night until 6 o'clock in the morning. Not long ago, the borough fathers ordained that the license fees be materially increased in order to obtain as nearly as possible an uniformity in this respect with the city's regulations.

The excise question is but one of the vexing problems which confronted the borough fathers for years, due entirely to the fact that although one community having every interest in common, except geographical, North Plainfield and Plainfield are separate municipal governments. Rowdyism and general disorder have prevailed in the borough during the night hours because of the fact that the borough saloons, being under the jurisdiction of the Somerset county court, have been allowed to keep open all night. The unruly element in this city have made a practice, as a consequence of going "cross the brook" to quench their thirst when the saloons are shut up here.

At last night's session of the Council, L. B. Woolston presented an ordinance, which was passed on first reading after Mayor Townsend and Councilman VanArsdale had spoken a few words in its favor. This ordinance provides a penalty of $100, or sixty days in jail for any violation of its provisions.

Mayor Townsend took occasion to explain the efforts he had made to improve the conditions now existing in the borough relative to the excise problem. He had felt powerless to act in the matter of shortening the hours until he had consulted Corporation Counsel Reed and received a communication from him giving the section under which an ordinance could be passed. This ordinance, he said, was the upshot of that communication.

"Some of our saloons are very orderly and well conducted," he said, "but others are not, and are the cause of considerable trouble, notably the one which figured in a sensational episode recently. I refer to the Arlington."

The mayor asked for the opinions of the members on the proposed ordinance.

Councilman VanArsdale said: "If we have power to control the sale in this way, I should say it is a very good thing."

On being put to a vote the ordinance was adopted unanimously on first reading.

This ordinance follows:

"An ordinance to conserve the peace and quiet of the Borough of North Plainfield, by limiting the hours for sale of intoxicating liquors by licensed vendors thereof.

"Whereas, the Borough of North Plainfield, in the county of Somerset, and the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union, are contiguous municipalities, and are so situated with respect to each other as to form practically a single community containing about twenty-five thousand people, of whom about three-quarters reside in the city of Plainfield, and one-quarter in the Borough of North Plainfield; and

"Whereas, the power to regulate and grant licenses for the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors in the city of Plainfield is vested by law in the Common Council of the said city, which body has, by ordinance, duly passed, prohibited the sale of any such liquor in the said city between the hours of eleven o'clock at night and six o'clock the following morning, or upon the first day of the week commonly called Sunday, while the power to grant licenses for the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors in the Borough of North Plainfield is by law vested in the Court of Common Pleas of the county of Somerset, and there is at present no law or ordinance limiting the hours when sales may legally be made under such license in said borough, except such as prohibit such sales on Sunday and Election Days; and

"Whereas, there exist in the city of Plainfield various places licensed for the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors which are required by virtue of the aforesaid provisions of the ordinances of the city of Plainfield to close at eleven o'clock at night, while at the same time there are various places in the said Borough of North Plainfield, licensed,

Protesting that the billboard pictures advertising various local theatrical productions are entirely too scantily clad, the executive committee of the Local Union of the City of Elizabeth, representing the young people's societies of Christian Endeavor and Epworth League of the evangelical churches, has addressed a communication to Mayor Ryan, of that city, requesting that in future a censorship be maintained over this class of advertisement.

The letter says:

"The influence of pictures, especially on the minds of the young, is an undisputed fact, and, believing such pictures as are now exhibited on our billboards to be detrimental to the best good of our people, we therefore ask you, as Mayor, to aid us in securing decent posters for use in our streets."

The communication is signed by the Rev. Staley F. Davis, president, and Harold E. Riley, secretary.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

E. C. Lane has moved from the Miller building to the store room adjoining Dealaman's grocery. He is putting in a stock of bakery and confectionery goods and will operate a lunch counter in connection. Located as he is at the principle business corner of the borough, where patrons of the trolley line are obliged to wait out in all kinds of weather for the cars, Mr. Lane is arranging the front of his new place as a waiting room, and all who desire to step in there are welcome to do so.

Services will be held tomorrow morning and night in the Sunday school room of the Methodist church instead of the main building, as the decorating is not yet finished. Rev. E. C. Dutcher, the pastor, will preach. The present Sunday-school room was the original church building and did service a good many years before the present edifice was built.

Rev. J. W. Rogan, of Newark, formerly pastor of the Flemington Presbyterian church, came to Dunellen yesterday to call on Rev. W. W. Casselberry, an old time friend. Rev. Rogan is now a lecturer and traveler, and is also connected with the lecturing staff of the public schools in New York city.

Rev. W. W. Casselbery has not yet decided whether to accept the new call, but will try to come to a decision in time to announce it at Sunday morning service. The members of his church here are anxious for him to remain.

The Whatsoever Mission Band met with Miss Helen Dunham yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. There is a good deal of activity in this organization at the present time and everybody is working hard to advance the work.

Communion services will be held in the Presbyterian church tomorrow morning, at which time eight candidates will be received into the church. In the evening the pastor, Rev. W. W. Casselberry, will preach.

MISS SARAH CURRY'S THANKSGIVING DINNERS

"This has been a very busy day," said a little woman with a long white apron on, reaching to her feet; her sleeves rolled up above her elbows, and saw to the filling of the large flour sacks, with all the nice things that go to make a good Thanksgiving dinner and the poor happy.

"Put in an extra lot of potatoes, and a tender chicken, there are two cripples in that home," as the name was called out and the sack was handed to a poor thin mother, the only bread winner in the home, and she bowing her thanks, and with a smile on her face, as she turned away with the boy, which she was hardly able to carry.

As the little woman turned to the next comer, she said: "Don't forget to put an extra lot in that bag, the man has been out of work a long time and they are perfectly destitute."

The next name called out was a poor man living in the cellar, was sick, had no fire, a stove had been provided for his family the day before, when his name was called two little girls answered and carried off the sack.

The rooms of the nursery were full of half-starved children, and tired mothers, and old men, three or four hundred were waiting with their cards to receive their Thanksgiving dinner.

This keen eyed little woman was handed a card by a woman. "What is your name?" The woman said "Mrs. Swartz; I live on the first floor." The little woman then replied: "I know Mrs. Swartz; you are not Mrs. Swartz; you have stolen this card and would have robbed a poor woman of her dinner. Now you clear out." The woman left, but she wished all manner of evil to fall on this little woman.

Some business men passing by the nursery asked what all this crowd meant; it looks like a crowd we saw over here some time ago—a run on a bank. One of those waiting for her dinner said: "Don't you know this little woman? This is Miss Sara Curry, of the Little Missionary Day Nursery, who has cared for our children for the past thirteen years, while we went to our work, and if we are sick she comes to us and nurses us free of all charge, furnishing her own medicines. She has given out eight hundred dinners to the poor, shut-ins and cripples. She said you should have seen my sack, it contained potatoes, apples, parsnips, turnips, onions, cabbage, a can of corn or tomatoes, tea, coffee, sugar, butter, rice, a chicken and mince pie. This is good enough dinner for any one," said the mother.

Miss Curry after finishing this hard day's work, which was the day before Thanksgiving, was called the next morning by a sick mother to the hospital, where she remained with the sick one till six o'clock p. m., thereby losing her Thanksgiving dinner. This is one day in Miss Curry's life.

COLBY TO FIGHT ON SAYS HE'S NO QUITTER

Instead of giving up his legal residence in New Jersey and abandoning the contest for the New Idea principles for which he has fought so long and hard, as reported yesterday, Senator Everett Colby announced last night that he and his followers in the New Idea movement had already started the fight to capture the control of the Essex County Republican Committee from the regulars at the primaries next September.

The Senator had just returned from Cleveland, where he had addressed the Credit Men's Association of that city. When asked if he proposed giving up his home in New Jersey, he said:

"Well, I should say not; I'm no quitter. The fight for clean politics in New Jersey will be continued harder than ever. We have already completed plans to capture the Republican County Committee at the September primaries, and from now until primary day there will be no let up in the fight."

The Senator said that he and Mrs. Colby, following their usual custom, would spend a part of the winter in New York. This year, however, he had leased a house in deference to the wishes of Mrs. Colby, who preferred the quiet of her own home to the inconveniences of a big hotel.

The Essex County Republican Committee consists of 211 members, who are chosen for two years. Its next meeting will be held on the last Friday in this month, when Alfred N. Dalrymple will be re-elected chairman for another year. At the present time there are sixty-four New Idea members of the county committee, but 106 are needed for a majority.

One of Senator Colby's friends said yesterday that he would probably be a candidate for the Republican Assembly nomination at the open primaries.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Bellis, of Somerville, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bellis, of North Plainfield.

BASEBALL.

With the annual meetings of the two major leagues, the American and the National to be held in New York next week President Charles W. Murphy of the Chicago Cubs, as usual, has begun to attract attention by his utterances on various subjects. Murphy believes in the limelight and the typewriter, and in these respects he has all the other baseball magnates beaten a mile. Murphy says with much emphasis that he does not intend to allow Ban Johnson, as a member of the National Commission, to run the affairs of the Chicago club. This outburst by the Windy City magnate is due to the fact that Johnson has been conducting an investigation of the charge that during the recent world's series the Chicago club was in collusion with ticket speculators.

Murphy says this is untrue and to back up the statement he has just sent two of his club officials to Garry Herrmann, also a member of the commission, to find out if there is any conclusive proof of guilt. Herrmann, it is said, has made a statement that the Chicago club is not guilty, which if true may cause a general rumpus. It has been repeatedly asserted that just before the world series several thousands of reserved seat tickets for games to be played in Chicago in some mysterious way fell into the hands of speculators, that the Chicago fans would not fall for the prices asked for these seats and that the speculators, being stuck, turned them back to the club at the last moment. As it was then too late to sell the tickets it is charged that they were credited on the books as "unsold," and that as a result the receipts fell off to a marked degree, causing much dissatisfaction among the Chicago players.

It was several days ago that the rumor became prevalent to the effect that the commission, in a decision to be handed down next week, would censure the Chicago club, which probably caused Murphy to get busy. Incidentally the Chicago magnate declares that he will try to have the "spit" ball abolished. He says that it is not a nice thing for the players or spectators and intends to offer a rule to the effect that the pitcher, before delivering the ball, cannot moisten it. Murphy also has a rule up his sleeve limiting the number of called balls to three instead of four and argues that such an innovation would increase the batting. Since proclaiming himself the owner of the Chicago club Murphy has been continually getting himself into squabbles with various magnates and players. He has been dubbed "The Protesting One" in the West.

GOLF.

Herbert Jaques, of the Country Club, Brookline, has been nominated for president of the United States Golf Association, to succeed Daniel Chauncey. The nominating committee, made up of G. Herbert Windeler, Frederick S. James and Charles B. Macdonald, made practically a clean sweep of the old officers and executive committee, in submitting the following report yesterday:

President, Herber Jaques, the Country Club, Brookline.

Vice-presidents, Silas H. Strawn, Glen View Club, Chicago; Milton Dargan, Atlanta Athletic Club, Atlanta.

Secretary, Robert C. Watson, Garden City Golf Club, Garden City, N. Y.

Treasurer, William Fellowes Morgan, Baltusrol Golf Club, Baltusrol.

Other members of the executive committee—Jarvis Hunt, Chicago Golf Club, Wheaton, Ill.; C. T. Jaffray, Minikahda Golf Club, Minneapolis; Joseph S. Clark, Philadelphia Cricket Club, Philadelphia, and Arden M. Robbins, St. Andrews Golf Club, Mount Hope, N. Y.

William Fellowes Morgan, the present secretary, has been named as treasurer in place of Samuel Y. Heebner, of Philadelphia, who has held the office for the last ten years, while Robert C. Watson will take Mr. Morgan's place as secretary. The executive committee will be made up of three men from the West, five men from the East and one from the South.

FOOTBALL.

Head Coach Biglow of the Yale varsity football eleven in advancing some reasons why Yale did not make as good a showing in the Harvard game as some of Yale's friends had looked for said to the Yale Daily News yesterday that the Yale football season started with very bright prospects, and with the exception of the quarterbacks the material was better than has been seen in years. Then came the casualties to the players which for number exceeded anything seen at New Haven in years said Biglow.

These injuries were distributed to men in all positions on the team. They were not serious, but were sufficient to lay a man up for three weeks at a time. These injuries made it impossible to get all the whole team together until very late in the season. Capt. Burch being injured put the team in a difficult situation. Biglow declared that while the Yale-Brown game looked bad, it was merely the annual slump which came a little late. Then the team started to get together in the Princeton game, and was progressing rapidly when it reached Harvard. He added the team was always slow to make up, which was largely due to the fact that it had been without a captain for so long. Many thought they were lacking in headwork when on the field, and this was more or less true, but it can be readily accounted for by the fact that the quarterbacks were all new men to the position and had not had time to get a great deal of experience.

MARTINE SAYS BRYAN GIVES UP ASPIRATION

Never again will William Jennings Bryan be a candidate of the Democracy for the Presidency, according to his bosom friend, James E. Martine, the farmer-orator of Cedarbrook, a veteran of four decades in the party's service and a perennially defeated candidate. Moreover, Martine, who is frequently in correspondence with the Nebraskan, says that Bryan will never again aspire to an elective office, excepting that of United States Senator. Mr. Martine said:

"Mr. Bryan would make an ideal Senator, and I would like to see him again in the halls of Congress. In my opinion his defeat for the Presidency was nothing less than a public calamity, but I accept the inevitable. Were he to aspire once more for the Presidency he would have no chance, for it would be impractical for the Democratic party to nominate him in the face of past performances. I cannot conceive of any circumstances whereby his nomination could be obtained, although I believe he is the greatest living statesman.

"There is a probability of his being named for the Senate, and in such event I would like to see Theodore Roosevelt in the body at the same time, but I don't believe that Mr. Roosevelt would relish such a situation. Mr. Bryan is a giant as a statesman, but as for Mr. Roosevelt he would look like the smallest peanut in the bag in that classification."

Mr. Martine stated that he, himself, would never again run for office, but according to persons who know him this decision is subject to revision.

Elijah Dufford, of Middle Valley, who has been critically ill, is no better. His son, George Dufford, of this city, has been spending several days at Middle Valley.

"PRAYER AND THE UNSEEN WORLD."

Of what use is it to pray? Are not the laws of nature fixed? How then can we expect to change them by our prayers?

Recognizing the unchangeableness of the laws of nature, some have defined prayer as the harmonious adjustment of our own feelings and thoughts to the laws and unchangeable purposes of God, and that, in a sense, is just what prayer is. Men have said that God in His infinite wisdom and love, will not be thwarted by the foolish prayers of men, so that He will change in His good purposes towards them. The value of prayer, then, consists in this: It reconciles men to God's plans. There is comfort in that. God in His infinite wisdom, power, and love plans the best thing for man, but, yet He tells them to pray. We are directed "in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving to make our requests known unto God." It is not said that all our requests, just in the crude and imperfect way we have asked them, will be granted, but it is said that "the peace of God shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus.

We may pray for that which we never receive but we never pray without receiving the answer of God's peace. I have known of a young girl who prayed that her brother might be spared to her. Her brother died. Nay more, another brother died only a short while after, but God did answer that prayer in filling her soul with a confidence in God's wisdom and God's love which she had never possessed before. A mother lost her only child and, for a time, was inconsolable. She had such hopes and plans for her life, now she had nothing to live for. All her expectations had been shattered, but years later, when questioned, she said, "I can see now that God was leading me even in my sorrow. I lost what I loved most but I have learned to make my loss the door to a larger service." "Whatsoever thinks ye have need of" the Lord says he grants to us. He has given you more than you have asked. If He had given it to you in exactly the same way you asked for it, it would not have been a blessing.

Prayer then is resignation to the laws and good purposes of God.

You regard it, therefore, as foolish to pray to Him because He will not and cannot change these rigid laws. You believe that His purpose will be carried out whether you pray or not. True, but what is His purpose? Is it not to answer real prayer, and has that not been His purpose from the beginning?

A certain psychologist said concerning prayer, "the fundamental point is that in prayer spiritual energy that otherwise would slumber becomes active, and spiritual work of some kind is effected." Then prayer is something more than contentment with our place in the world. It opens up to us spiritual energy, and makes us more effective for God. There is spiritual power outside of us which may be ours to bless us and the world.

It is said that "people in our own day, through the power of prayer, have been able to summon unexpected forces of resistance against disease which have sometimes turned the scale of life and death." Prayer is the turning on of the current of God's power into your life. It is putting you in touch with God. The electric switch board is a fine illustration of the power of prayer. A man moves a lever and through that act lights a house or a section of a city. There is power somewhere. Perhaps he does not know all about its operation. He knows this much that the turning of that lever opens up the current of illumination and energy. It is not his power. He has used simply the lever of power, and that lever is prayer. About us is God's power. The character of that Presence is a great mystery to us. We do understand it so far as Jesus Christ has made it plain, and He tells us to pray for the things we have need of. Why pray for these things if they will be granted anyway? There are somethings that will not be granted without prayer. It is true that more things are

"Wrought by prayer

Prayer, then, is resignation to God's good purpose, but it is far more than that, it is the means of influenceing higher agencies. If we neglect it, we "loose the use of a mighty engine which can help our lives and others." There are orders of heavenly inteligence above us. Prayer brings them to our help.

S. D. Gordon, in a very helpful little book on prayer, says of its power to help men, "You can do more than pray after you have prayed, but you cannot do more than pray until you have prayed." You may give of your abundant means to the foreign field and say in your heart that "the chariot of the Gospel moves on wheels of silver dollars," but there is something greater and more important than money. It is prayer that "moves the hand that moves the world."

You can bless individuals and the world by hopefully and importunately praying for them. Prayer to God is not for the purpose of making Him willing. It is simply turning the lever of God's grace to empower and enlighten the world. Sir Oliver Lodge remarks, "Prayer, we have been told, is a mighty engine of achievement, but we have ceased to believe it. Why should we be so incredulous?"

Gordon gives us these two illustrations of the effectiveness of intercessory prayer. A woman in Iowa prays for the conversion of her skeptical husband, who is in Washington attending a stormy session of Congress; suddenly there comes to him a strange consciousness of the presence of God. He is not a Christian man and the experience, therefore, startles him. Later he discovers that the time of this unique experience corresponds with the time of his wife's prayer for him. The result is that his whole life is changed. Prayer, then, in this particular case was not effective in making the woman resigned, but in making him a Christian man. Mr. Moody tells the story of the prayer of a certain sick woman in London, who prayed for her church, and prayed persistently. He was clearly convinced that his ministry in that church was the result of that sick woman's prayer; shut in from service, she felt that she could pray and her prayer was wonderfully effective.

No, God will not break one of His laws for us, but He will do for us because of our prayer what He will not and cannot do without it.

Prayer simply resignation! No. Prayer gathers force that helps and blesses. When we reach the other world and have had some experience in that world, we shall wonder, as we look back upon our lives here, why we did not pray more.

The weary ones had rest, the sad had joy
That day; I wondered "how!"
A ploughman, singing at his work had prayed,
Lord, help them now!"

Away in foreign lands they wondered "how!"
Their single word had power!
At home the Christians, two or three, had met,
To pray an hour!

Yes, we are always wondering, wondering "how,"
Because we do not see
Someone, unknown perhaps and far away,
On bended knee.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

William Bohl has recently been cured of his love for hunting. When his father heard the boy express his desire, he got an old muzzle loader and having put several time enough powder and shot in it he gave it to him. The young hunter started for the woods, and while in a briar patch he saw a rabbit. Bohl bravely put the gun to his shoulder and fired. The weapon kicked and William laid on his back and studied astronomy for a few seconds. After getting up and picking up the pieces (for pieces were all that were left of the unfortunate rabbit), he started for home. He has absolutely refused to join any hunting parties in the future. When asked whether he enjoyed his trip he declined to answer.

FOWLER HAS TARIFF BILL

Fifth District Congressman Believes His Measure Would Solve Problem.

MAKES THE SUBJECT A STUDY.

New Jersey Representative Speaks of His Investigation and Its Results.

Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of this district, chairman of the House Committe on Banking and Currency, will, he says early in the session of Congress, introduce a bill embodying his idea of a correct tariff revision. He said yesterday that he is now preparing a bill which he will introduce. He was asked if the bill would embody any of the theories he had already expressed, and said it would not, but that his bill will be radically different from anything yet put forward.

He was asked if any of the local industries would be directly interested in the bill, and replied they would not so far as he is aware. He said he did not know that there were any industries here that needed protection, and if there are, none had appealed to him.

"I have not been actively interested in the tariff for a number of years," said Congressman Fowler, "but I have been making a special study of the question, and believe I have a solution of the problem. I do not care to predict the probable success or failure of my bill, but I shall do my best to put it through."

Mr. Fowler is also preparing a general statement for the press, which will be published next Monday, in which he will outline his views on currency and banking, and until this statement is ready he said he did not intend to make any statements. He admitted that he had several new propositions on financial affairs which would be of interest, and he will give them in full in the statement. What these new ideas are he declined to say at this time.

MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION CONFERENCE YESTERDAY.

The Plainfield Mothers' Association held a largely attended and interesting meeting at the Plainfield High School, yesterday afternoon, when several matters pertaining to organization details were discussed. The first part of the meeting was devoted to a conference on "The Meaning of Modern Motherhood." This proved helpful to all present. Then followed a business session in charge of Mrs. Stephen H. Voorhees, during which there was an exhibition of books, helpful to mothers in doing their Christmas shopping, assisting them in selecting the right kind of gifts for children. Several magazines on the same subject were also shown and proved interesting.

High-Class Wines and Liquors.

In a general way my patrons know that I carry a large stock of high-class wines and liquors, but they do not comprehend the high character of my stock. I sincerely believe that I have the most perfect selection of high-class wines and liquors in the State of New Jersey. My stock is too extensive and varied to attempt at individual description. I have now for sale brandies from 1818 to 1870. Malt whiskies which has no equal and of which very little is produced. Rye whiskies ranging from 20, 18, 15, 12, 10 and 8 years old, which are made pure from age. Young whiskey is not liquor and is therefore poisonous from natural causes. I have the best whiskies made in Ireland, the best that are made in Scotland. I ask a good price for them but I have the goods. Frank Linke. 'Phone 157. 12 5 2 s-w

Scene from "The Lion and the Mouse," at New Plainfield Theatre, Wednesday, December 9, matinee and night.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"The Dollar Mark," a three act play with prologue by G. S. Beck, will be offered at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and night, with a Metropolitan cast, including such well know people as Aubrey Boucicault, Fuller Mellish, Douglas Gerard, George Macintyre and Dorothy Chester. The piece has been staged by Frank Hatch, and will be offered under the personal direction of J. Jay Daley. It is a play of the hour, having for its central idea the greed of gold and introducing the Imp of Gold as one of the prominent characters. It has been elaborately staged.

"The Lion and the Mouse," probably the most talked of play in America today, will be presented again in this city next Wednesday afternoon and night, and under the direction of Henry B. Harris. Everyone who is interested and keenly alive to the influence wrought upon American politics by the moneyed interests, trusts and kings of finance, will appreciate Mr. Klein's great drama. Briefly outlined, it relates the story of Shirley Rossmore, daughter of Judge Rossmore, a judge of excellent standing, who through the rendering of decisions in opposition to the interests of a despot in the financial world, John Burkett Ryder, known as "Ready Money" Ryder, is impeached by the latter and financially ruined. Ryder's son, Jefferson, falls in love with Judge Rossmore's daughter, Shirley, who has been in broken health and financially barrassed as a result of this ruling. One man holds the proof of Rossmore's innocence. That man is Ryder. Through his love for Miss Rossmore, Ryder's son purloins certain papers, which will prove Judge Rossmore's innocence, at least morally. Discovering this, Ryder orders the girl from his house, in which she has become an inmate as the writer of his biography and under an assumed name. The scene which follows is a striking and dramatic one, and although the love interest, seemingly subservient in the struggle, becomes the vital factor in a situation unconventional in its treatment and finely dramatic in its presentment and climax. There has probably never been a play in the history of the American drama which has scored the triumph of "The Lion and the Mouse." There is no class of theatregoers who will not be interested in its theme or could fail to appreciate the wonderful lesson it teaches.

LITERARY

The December Atlantic opens with a Christmas talk by S. M. Crothers. The Bayonet-Poker is his theme, for such an implement stands by his own study fire, devoted now to a wholly peaceful purpose, and the eassayist takes it as symbolical of the coming of intenational peace. In Ghosts, Frank Crané protests against the inherited notions which we imagine to be convictions of our own. Again this month the Atlantic presents an important article by President Pritchett of the Carnegie Foundation on The Organization of Higher Education.

With the approach of Christmas, everybody ought to be in a joyous mood, even if everybody is n't, so let us away with gloom and melancholy, and have about us only reading matter that is cheerful in tone and atune with the holiday season. The December Lippincott's provides just the sort of entertainment to put you in good humor. The complete novel is a humorous mystery story entitled "Seven Days," by Mary Robert Rinehart, whose book "The Circular Staircase," now ranks as one of the season's "best sellers."

In the December number of "Success Magazine," Leroy Scott explains Russian immigration in "The Lure of America." Glenmore Davis writes upon "Our Billion-DDollar Smile," an analysis of the cost of the show business. Robert Haven Scauhffler discusses the problems of the country preacher, and Albert W. Vorse gives an imaginative picture under the title, "What Will the Airship Mean?" Other articles are "Self-Mastery," by Orison Swett Marden; "The Automobile for the Average Man," by Herbert L. Towle; and "Living on a Little," by Isabel Gordon Curtis.

The Christmas number of Scribner's Magazine displays great wealth and variety of illustration, containing many of the original studies and sketches by Edwin A. Abbey, R. A., for his wonderful series of pictures at the Harrisburg Capitol. An article by Royal Cortissoz gives a most appreciative account of this distinguished series of decorations as they appear in place in the Capitol. Mr. Abbey's own studies sho whow such great success is achieved by patient labor at all details. Another artistic feature is the series of pictures by Alonzo Kimball, reproduced in colors, which illustrates Sheridan's famous toast in "The School for Scandal."

Andrew Carnegie, who built up the steel trust and amassed a huge fortune under protective tariff, claims that there is no longer any need of protecting our one-time "infant industries" which have now grown to lusty maturity; that duties on manufactured articles ought to be greatly reduced, protective duties of steel and oil altogether abolished and "duties for revenue" increased on imported luxuries consumed by the rich. These amazing statements from a man supposed to be a "dyed-in-the-wool' protectionist, Mr. Carnegie makes in his article, "My Experience with and Views Upon the Tariff," which will appear in the December issue of the "Century Magazine."

Within are short and interesting extracts from articles appearing in the December, 1908, issue of the Technical World Magazine. They are especially prepared for the use of Library and Exchange Editors. We shall be glad to grant permission to reprint entire articles, provided prpoer credit is given. We shall thank you for calling this offer to the attention of your Sunday editor.

The love letters of George Sand and Alfred de Musset disclosing the secret history of this dramatic and hitherto unexplained literary love affair are given to America through the Metropolitan Magazine. The first instalment appears in the Christmas number. "The Real Panama and Its People" by Eleanor Yorke Bell, gives the reader the results of a careful study of Panama and its inhabitants and the conditions under which our men are working, simply telling facts without sensational charges such as have characterized the majority of the other articles on the canal.

The Christmas number of Woman's Home Companion is one of the most beautiful of the holiday magazines. Its cover is in blue and gold—depicting the Madonno and Child. There is a beautiful painting in color by James Montgomery Flagg, occupying a full page. Another delightful and unique feature consists of two big pages of old-fashioned Christmas Carols, with decorations by Ernest Haskell. For the Christmas Woman's Home Companion, Edwin Markham has written a most beautiful poem, "Before the Gospels Were."

Sadly True.

Murrayhill—A few months brings strange changes. There's old Muchwed, for instance, who married his stenographer.

Westend—Well, he went around with her before they were married. I don't see much change in that.

Murrayhill—Yes, but it was he who used to dictate to her, you know—Town Topics.

AMBASSADOR UNVEILS TABLET AT AMPERE

A bronze tablet to the memory of Andre Marie Ampere was unveiled yesterday afternoon at Ampere, near Newark, by J. J. Jusserand, the French Ambassador. The tablet, the gift of Dr. Schuyler Skaats Wheeler, of the Crocker-Wheeler Company, whose electric plant is at the little town named after the famous French scientist, is set in the wall of the new Lackawanna station beneath a bass-relief profile of the man in whose memory it is inscribed.

Governor Fort was unable to attend, as he had made a previous engagement with Governor Hughes at Albany. The ambassador referred to the service the dead scientist had given the world. The ambassador left for Washington immediately after the exercises.

AMUSEMENTS.

When an actress of the charm and talent of Miss Annie Russell scores a brilliant success in a new play, it i the signal, not only for her own loyal following, but for every lover of the better class of amusement, to furnish prompt support. That theatregoers both in and about New York appreciate Miss Russell's new comedy, "The Stronger Sex" in which the Wagenhals and Kemper Company are presenting her at Weber's Theatre, is demonstrated by the demand made on the box office for the advance reservation of seats. "Miss Russell at her best," is the unanimous verdict.

Among the host of American comedians Henry E. Dixey, with his graceful art and magnetism, stands alone. His comedy is spontaneous, delicious and unique. His power to convulse any audience with hearty laughter is a divine gift that goes with his polished and charming personality. "Mary Jane's Pa," everybody admires Dixey except Mary Jane's "M." The more "Ma" dislikes "Pa" the funnier becomes the comedy. Mr. Savage "offers" Mr. Dixey as a star to New York in the new play, and the actor's friends predict that he will continue at the Garden theatre.

Marie Cahill and "The Boys and Betty" are smashing all attendance records at Wallack's Theatre, New York City, for the charming comedienne has scored a most emphatic hit. The success stands alone for this season for while hit of other years may have equalled that of Miss Cahill, there has been nothing within hailing distance of her during the present season. "The Arab Love Song" is again proving that Miss Cahill's personality is most effective in the establishing of a popular song. No less than half a dozen songs have been heard in the past ten years which deal with the Bedouin's love, but this is the first to score heavily.

Klaw & Erlanger gave a special matinee performance last Wednesday of "Little Nemo," now running at the New Amsterdam theatre in New York, for Mlle. Adeline Genee, the dancer, who has been identified with most of the greatest London spectacular productions and pantomimes. In comparing the English and American offerings, she says as follows: "For the first time it has been my privilege to witness an American spectacle in 'Little Nemo' at the New Amsterdam theatre, and it has been one of the greatest treats of my life. The usual Wednesday matinee of 'The Soul Kiss,' in which I am now appearing, was abandoned simply in order that I might see 'Little Nemo,' a performance which fills me with wonder, delight and surprise."

"A Gentleman from Mississippi" is galloping on to its fourth month in the Bijou theatre, New York city, where, without question, it will still be drawing crowds when May 1 rolls round. Not since William H. Crane set the town a-laughing in "The Senator" has a play of Washington life caught on in New York like this fresh, breezy effusion of "Tom" Wise and Harrison Rhodes, who make as fine a team of playwrights as Wise and young Douglas Fairbanks do. The world's stage might be searched without finding two men more nearly suited to their respective and well-contrasted roles than Wise and Fairbanks; while they have the kind of support in all the other characters the trademark of the play's managers, William A. Brady and Joseph R. Grismer.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The handsome new organ at the Church of the Holy Cross is about in position and the other improvements in the church property are progressing.

The extensive improvements at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church are progressing more satisfactory than ever, but it will still be sometime before the congregation will be permitted to take possession.

There will be communion at the morning service in Warren chapel tomorrow. Communion services will also be held at Trinity Reformed, the First Baptist and Park Avenue Baptist churches at the same time.

The BRASS BOWL

By LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

(Copyright 1907, The Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

The other had beaten them down; but its arrival at the street level was greeted by a short chorus of mad yells, a brief fusillade of shots—perhaps five in all—and the clang of the gate. Then, like a ball rebounding, the cage swung upwards again, hurtling at full speed.

Evidently Anisty had been received in force which he had not bargained for.

Maitland instinctively reversed the lever and sent his own car upward again, slowly, waiting for the other to overtake it. Peering down through the iron lattice-work he could indistinctly observe the growing cube of light, with a dark shape lying huddled in one corner of the floor. A second figure, rapidly taking shape as Anisty's, stood by the controller, braced against the side of the car, one hand on the lever, the other poising a shining thing, the flesh-colored oval of his face

Hickey Was Using His Revolver.

Hickey, by firing prematurely, lent him adventitious aid. The criminal replied with spirit, aiming at the flash, his bullet spattering against the back wall of the shaft. Hickey's next bullet rang with a bell-like note against the metal-work, Anisty's presumably went wide—though Maitland could have sworn he felt the cold kiss of its breath upon his cheek. And the lighted cage rocked past and up.

Maitland needed no admonition to pursue; his blood was up, his heart singing with the lust of the man-hunt. Yet Anisty was rapidly leaving them, his car soaring at an appalling pace. Towards the top he evidently made some attempt to slow up, but either he was ignorant of the management of the lever, or else the thing had got beyond control. The cage rammed the buffers with a crash that echoed through the sounding halls like a peal of thunder-claps; it was instantaneously plunged into darkness. There followed a splintering and rending sound, and Maitland, heart in mouth, could make out dimly a dark, falling shadow in the further shaft. Yet ere it had descended a score of feet the safety-clutch acted and, with a third tremendous jar, shaking the building, the car halted.

Hickey and Maitland were then some five floors below. "Stop 'er at 19," ordered the detective. There was a lilt of exultancy in his voice. "We got him now, all right, all right. He'll try to get down by—There!" Overhead the crash of a gate forced open was followed by a scurry of footsteps over the tiling. "Stop 'er and we'll head him off. So now—eeeasy!"

Maitland shut off the power as the car reached the nineteenth floor. Hickey opened the gate and jumped out. "Shut that," he commanded, sharply, as Maitland followed him, "in case he gets past us."

He paused a moment in thought, heavy head on bull-neck drooping forward as he stared toward the rear of the building. He was fearless and resourceful, for all his many deficiencies. Maitland found time, quaintly enough, to regard him with detached curiosity, a rare animal, illustrating all that was best and worst in his order. Endowed with exceptional courage, his address in emergencies seemed altogether admirable.

"Yeh guard them stairs," he decided, suddenly. "I'll run through this hall, 'nd see what's doing. Don't hesitate to shoot if he tries to jump yeh." And was gone, clumping briskly down the corridor to the rear.

Maitland, yielding the initiative to the other's superior generalship, stood sentinel, revolver in hand, until the detective returned, overheated and sweating, from his tour, to report "nothin' doin'," with characteristic brevity. He had the same report to make on both the twentieth and twenty-first floors, where the same procedure was observed; but as the latter was reached unexpected and very welcome reinforcements were gained by the arrival of a third car, containing three patrolmen and one roundsman. Yet numbers created delay; Hickey was seized and compelled to pant explanations, to his supreme disgust.

And, suddenly impatient beyond endurance, Maitland left them and alone sprang up the stairs.

That this was simple foolhardiness may be granted without dispute. But it must be borne in mind that he was very young and ardent, very greatly perturbed on behalf of an actor in the tragedy in whom the police, to their then knowledge, had no interest whatsoever. And if in the heat of chase he had for an instant forgotten her, now he remembered; and at once the capture of Anisty was relegated to the status of a matter of secondary importance. The real matter at stake was the safety of the girl whom Anisty, by exercise of an infernal ingenuity that passed Maitland's comprehension, had managed to spirit into this place of death and darkness and whispering halls. Where she might be, in what degree of suffering and danger—these were the considerations that sent hm in search of her without a thought of personal peril, but with a sick heart and overwhelmed with a stifling sense of anxiety.

More active than the paunch-burdened detective, he had sprinted down and back through the hallway of the twenty-second floor, without discovering anything, ere the police contingent had reached an agreement and the stairhead.

There remained two more floors, two final flights. A little hopelessly he swung up the first. And as he did so the blackness above him was riven by a tongue of fire, and a bullet, singing past his head, flattened itself with a vicious spat against the marble dado of the walls. Instinctively he pulled up, finger closing upon the trigger of his revolver; flash and report followed the motion, and a panel of ribbed glass in a door overhead was splintered and fell in clashing fragments, all but drowning the sound of feet in flight upon the upper staircase.

A clamor of caution, warning, encouragement, and advice broke out from the police below. But Maitland hardly heard. Already he was again in pursuit, taking the steps two at a leap. With a hand upon the newel-post he swung round on the twenty-third floor, and hurled himself toward the foot of the last flight. A crash like a rifle-shot rang out above, and for a second he fancied that Anisty had fired again and with a heavier weapon. But immediately he realized that the noise had been only the slamming of the door at the head of the stairs—the door whose glazed panel loomed above him, shedding a diffused light to guide his footsteps, its opalescent surface lettered with the name of the door of the office whose threshold he had so often crossed to meet a friend and adviser. It was with a shock that he comprehended this, a thrill of wonder. He had all but forgotten that Bannerman owned an office in the building, in the rush, the urge of this wild adventure. Strange that Anisty should have chosen it for the scene of his last stand—strange, and strangely fatal for the criminal! For Maitland knew that from this eyrie there was no means of escape, other than by the stairs.

HENRY M. BANNERMAN,
Attorney & Counselor-at-Law,

Well and good! Then they had the man, and—

The thought was flashing in his mind, illumining the darkness of his despair with the hope that he would be able to force a word as to the girl's whereabouts from the burglar ere the police arrived; Maitland's foot was on the upper step, when a scream of mortal terror—her voice!—broke from within. Half maddened, he threw himself bodily against the door, twisting the knob with frantic fingers that slipped upon its immovable polished surface.

The bolt had been shot, he was barred out, and, with only the width of a man's hand between them, the girl was in deathly peril and terror.

A sob that was at the same time an oath rose to his lips. Baffled, helpless, he fell back, tears of rage starting to his eyes, her accents ringing in his ears as terribly pitiful as the cry of a lost and wandering soul.

"God!" he mumbled incoherently, and in desperation sent the pistol-butt crashing against the glass. It was tough, stubborn; the first blow scarcely flawed it. As he redoubled his efforts to shatter it, Hickey's hand shot over his shoulder to aid him. . . . And with startling abruptness the barrier seemed to dissolve before their eyes, the glass falling inward with a shrill clatter.

Quaintly, with the effect of a picture cast by a cinematograph in a darkened auditorium, there leaped upon Maitland's field of vision the picture of Anisty standing at bay, face drawn and tense, lips curled back, eyes lurid with defiance and despair. He stood, poised upon the balls of his feet, like a cat ready to spring, in the doorway between the inner and outer offices. He raised his hand with an indescribably swift and vicious gesture, and a flame seemed to blaze out from his finger-tips.

At the same instant Hickey's weapon spat by Maitland's cheek; the young man felt the hot furnace breath of it.

The burglar reeled as though from a tremendous blow. His inflamed features were suddenly whitened, and his right arm dropped limply from the shoulder, revolver falling from fingers involuntarily relaxing.

Hickey covered him. "Surrender!" he roared. And fired again. For Anisty had gone to his knees, reaching for the revolver with his uninjured arm.

The detective's second bullet winged through the doorway, over Anisty's head, and bit through the outer window. As Anisty, with a tremendous strain upon his failing powers, struggled to his feet, Maitland, catching the murderous gleam in the man's eye, pulled trigger. The burglar's answering shot expended itself as harmlessly as Maitland's. Both went wide of their marks.

And of a sudden Hickey had drawn the bolt, and the body of police behind forced Maitland pell-mell into the room. As he recovered he saw Hickey hurling himself at the criminal's throat—one second too late. True to his pledge never to be taken alive, Anisty had sent his last bullet crashing through his own skull.

A cry of horror and consternation forced itself from Maitland's throat. The police halted, each where he stood, transfixed. Anisty drew himself up, with a trace of pride in his pose; smiled horribly; put a hand mechanically to his lips . . .

And died.

Hickey caught him as he fell, but Maitland, unheeding, leaped over the body that had in life resembled him so fatally, and entered Bannerman's private office.

The gray girl lay at length in a corner of the room, shielded from observation by one of the desks. Her eyes were closed, her cheeks wore the hue of death; the fair young head was pillowed on one white and rounded forearm, in an attitude of natural rest, and the burnished hair, its heavy coils slipping from their fastenings, tumbled over her head and shoulders in shimmering glory, like a splash of living flame.

With a low and bitter cry the young men dropped to his knees by her side. In the outer office the police were assembled in excited conclave, blind to all save the momentous fact of Anisty's last, supremely consistent act. For the time Maitland was utterly alone with his great and aching loneliness.

After a little while timidly he touched her hand. It lay upturned, white slender fingers like exotic petals curling in upon the rosy hollow of her palm. And it was soft and warm.

He lifted it tenderly in both his own, and so held it for a space, brooding, marveling at its perfection. And inevitably he bent and touched it with his lips, as if their ardent contact would warm it to sentience. . . .

The fingers tightened upon his own, slowly, surely; and in the blinding joy of that moment he was made conscious of the ineffable sweetness of opening, wondering eyes.

CHAPTER XVI.

Recessional.

"Hm, hrumm!" Thus Hickey, the inopportunely ubiquitous, lumbering hastily in from the other office and checking, in an extreme of embarrassment, in the middle of the floor.

Maitland glanced over his shoulder, and, subduing a desire to flay the man alive, released the girl's hand.

"I say, Hickey," he observed, carefully suppressing every vestige of emotion, "will you lend me a hand here? Bring a chair, please, and a glass of water."

The detective stumbled over his feet and brought the chair at the risk of his neck. Then he went away and returned with the water. In the meantime the girl, silently enough for all that her eyes were speaking, with Maitland's assistance arose and seated herself.

"You will have to stay here a few minutes," he told her, "until—er—"

"I understand," she told him in a choking tone.

Hickey awkwardly handed her the glass. She sipped mechanically.

"I have a cab below," continued Maitland. "And I'll try to arrange it so that we can get out of the building without having to force a way through the crowd."

She thanked him with a glance.

"There's th' freight elevator," suggested Hickey, helpfully.

"Thank you . . . Is there anything I can do for you, anything you wish?" continued Maitland to the girl, standing between her and the detective.

She lifted her face to his and shook her head, very gently. "No," she breathed through trembling lips. "You—you've been—" But there was a sob in her throat, and she hung her head again.

RESULTS THAT REMAIN.

Are Appreciated by Plainfield People.

Thousands who suffer from back ache and kidney complaint have tried one remedy after another, finding only temporary benefit. This is discouraging, but there is one special kidney medicine that cures permanently and there is plenty of proof right here in Plainfield.

Here is the testimony of one who used Doan's Kidney Pills years ago, and now states that the cure was lasting.

Mrs. J. Mottley, 546 West Sixth street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of kidney trouble three years ago and I have never had a return of it since. I am glad to confirm the statementn I made in favor of this remedy."

The endorsement to which Mrs. Mottley refers was given on August 26, 1905, and was substantially as follows: "About two months ago I was seized with a severe backache and dull pains in the top and back part of my head. I could not rest at night and had no strength or energy to do my housework. Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at Randolph's Pharmacy gave me prompt relief and I am convinced that they are a first-class remedy in every respect."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

CYCLE CLUB MEMBERS GIVE MASQUERADE BALL.

The masquerade ball given by the Plainfield Cycle Club last night in Saengerbund Hall was well attended and the judges had difficulty in selecting prize-winners from so large a number of costumed dancers.

The award for the prettiest costume worn by a woman went to Miss Petro Langerson. The most comically dressed man proved to be Charles Hand. Miss Langerson was dressed to represent an angel, and Mr. Hand, the opposite extreme, a tramp. Each of them received a two dollar and a half gold piece.

The committee awarding the prizes was composed of William Feiring, Richard Scott and John Campbell.

Two orchestras of five instruments each furnished the music. Suhr's organization and another with Mr. Havery as leader.

Exchange Sale a Great Success.

Roberson's moving pictures were the attraction at the sale of the Women's Exchange at the Hartridge School Auditorium, yesterday afternoon and evening, when the affair closed. The pictures were among the finest ever shown here, one, "The Harlequin Love Story," being especially good. The affair was liberally patronized during the afternoon and evening, although the inclement weather affected the attendance. Nearly everything was disposed of at good prices, but it will not be known for a few days just what the net proceeds will be. They will be given to the Exchange to assist it in carrying on its work.

N. P. Firemen's Meetings.

The North Plainfield Exempt Firemen's Association has sent out notices of its regular meeting to be held Monday night at the fire house. On Tuesday night the North Plainfield Firemen's Relief Association, with which the former organization is affiliated, will hold its regular monthly meeting.

PLAINFIELD KENNEL CLUB IS LAUNCHED.

The Plainfield Kennel Club was formed last night at a meeting of local dog fanciers at Troell Hall. Those attending the initial meeting were Abram G. Hooley, A. C. Wilgoending, E. H. Hobbie, R. J. Letcher, E. L. Mackenzie, George R. Barnard, all of whom own valuable dogs that have taken many blue ribbons at leading kennel shows. There was some discussion as to the advisability of holding a kennel show here if sufficient support is assured, no doubt plans for such an affair will be carried out.

Another meeting will be held in the near future to elect officers and decide upon other details of organization.

SPEEDING AUTO KILLS JONATHAN H. RANDOLPH

Machine Driver Continues on After Victim is Hurled Against Trolley Car.

ARRESTED SIX HOURS LATER.

The Prisoner, Floyd H. Cooper, Held Without Bail on Homicide Charge—Accident Result of a "Joy Ride."

Struck by a recklessly driven automobile as he alighted from a trolley car on West Front street, almost opposite former Councilman James Craig's residence, at 12:35 yesterday morning, Jonathan H. Randolph, of Jefferson avenue, received injuries from which he died in Muhlenberg hospital an hour later without regaining consciousness. His body was hurled with terrific force against the front door of the vehicle which he had just left, breaking both legs and an arm and almost disemboweling him. Dr. Main, of Dunellen, was summoned and gave the victim temporary treatment before the ambulance arrived in response to a call but it was realized from the start that death was but a matter of a short time.

The automobile continued on toward Dunellen after the accident and it was not until several hours later that the police learned the name of the driver and the members of a party with him on a "joy ride." The machine was in charge of Floyd F. Cooper, 28 years old, of Westfield avenue, Westfield, and beside him it held Mrs. Sarah Robinson, of Sandford avenue; her daughter, Miss Nettie Robinson, and Miss Matilda Schenck, of Orchard place. Cooper was arrested at his home at 6 o'clock yesterday morning by Sergeant Herbert L. Overbaugh and Roundsman Higgins. He at first refused to admit that he knew anything about the affair but later said that he had been to Plainfield in an automobile that had struck a man. When Chief Kiley asked him why he did not stop after he knew that he had run over someone, he replied:

"I don't know why I didn't stop; I was nervous and excited at the time and thought somebody would take care of the man."

Cooper was locked up at headquarters on a charge of homicide, all offers of bail being refused. He was to have been arraigned before Judge Runyon, this morning, but pending a coroner's inquest the matter was adjourned indefinitely. A relative of the prisoner engaged former Judge William A. Coddington as counsel and the latter appeared in his behalf at a preliminary session conducted shortly before noon today by Coroner William H. Donaldson, of Linden in the city council chambers. A jury had been empaneled but as the necessary witnesses had not been subpoenaed and Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., who is handling the case for the State, was detained at home by illness, they were excused until, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The jury is composed of the following: B. Frank Coriell, foreman; Cyrus F. Boice, Noah W. Pike, Theodore J. Shirley, John K. Large and Clarence B. Rittenhouse. They were at an autopsy conducted last night by Coroner C. B. Lufburrow, the latter afterward giving the case to Coroner Donaldson.

When the police were first informed of the accident, the victim was then at the hospital and the only clue they had to work on was a description of the automobile furnished by the trolley car crew, Motorman Charles Hendershot and Conductor Charles Hyde. This was given to all the officers and Roundsman Higgins and Patrolman McDonald remembered having seen such a machine at Front and Somerset streets on two occasions. McDonald saw it pass by quite early Saturday night and recognized one of the occupants as a Miss Cregar, who lives with Miss Schenck on Orchard place. The same machine was observed by Higgins after midnight just previous to the time the accident occurred and he attempted to stop it because the front lights were not burning. It was going so fast he was unable to attract the driver's attention.

Through McDonald's recognition of Miss Cregar, it was learned in a roundabout way that Mrs. Robinson had been in the machine at midnight and Chief Kiely went to her home at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. She

NEW YEAR'S EVE WILL BE 'CHARITY NIGHT' HERE

Mayor Charles J. Fisk and others interested in local charities, met Saturday night and decided to set apart New Year's eve, Thursday night, December 31, as "Charity Night" here. The scheme is to devote the profits from all local places of amusement that night to the various charities. Already the necessary arrangements are being made with the several amusement proprietors.

In addition a ball will be given at the Hartridge School auditorium under the auspices of the bachelors' committee. The net proceeds from this affair will likewise be proportionately divided among all charities instead of giving them to the hospital alone as in the past.

Speaking of the plans today, Mayor Fisk said that he believed the scheme would be successful and that the people of Plainfield would be only too willing to lend their support to such a movement which will mean help for every charity here, including the Children's Home, the Charity Organization, the Day Nursery conducted by the King's Daughters, as well as Muhlenberg Hospital.

Another meeting of those interested will be held soon when committees will be appointed to arrange the details for the affair.

LARGE GATHERING AT MISS HUMMER'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Miss Jennie May Hummer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hummer, of Codington avenue, who succumbed to typhoid fever was held at the parent's residence Saturday afternoon. Rev. O. J. Shoop pastor of Grace M. E. church, was in charge, assisted by Rev. John Y. Broek, of Trinity Reformed church. The attendance of relatives and friends filled the house to overflowing.

During the service E. E. Runyon sang "Sometime We'll Understand" and "The Christian's Good Night." The floral tributes included an immense wreath from the Sunday-school of Grace M. E. church and a bouquet from the deceased class. A large pillow from her parents and several choice pieces from friends and relatives.

Burial was made in the family plot in Hillside cemetery, the following acting as pall bearers: John Ammerman, Randolph Chandler, Edward Mundy, Lester Matthews, Walter Boylan, Frank Mobus and David Weiss.

JONES GETS A CHANCE.

Thanks Judge For Giving Him an Opportunity to Turn Over a New Leaf.

Sheridan Jones, generalissimo in the army of rummies, was released from the county jail Friday, after serving a thirty days sentence, only to be arrested by Patrolman Sweeny, Saturday night, on the old charge of drunkenness. He startled the habitues of the city court, this morning, by declaring that he was becoming ashamed of himself and that if he was let go he would never come back for the same offense.

"I'm glad to hear you say that," Judge Runyon said, "and I'll tell you what I'll do. The first of the year is the customary time for making good resolutions so I'll send you down for just twenty-five days. The time off for good behaviour will let you out soon enough to join the new leaf turning crowd. How's that strike you?"

"Fine," said Sheridan; "thank you, Judge; thank you."

M'GOWAN A PARTNER IN "ELIZABETH TIMES."

John J. McGowan, formerly of The Daily Press reportorial staff and for the last few years telegraph editor of the Elizabeth Daily Journal, has become a part owner in the Elizabeth Evening Times. He will assume the editorial management of the county seat's Democratic daily on January 1. His partner, J. Nelson Barton, will have charge of the business end of the office. It is proposed to remove the plant to Broad and Grand streets.

J. Leo Sauer, who has been editor of the Times for several years, has resigned.

"Holy Jumpers" Are Active.

"The Holy Jumpers," a religious sect located on what was the Garretson farm near Wetson, Somerset county, are erecting a large building of cement block, wherein all of the departments wil be housed and spacious dormatories will be provided. There is now maintained by the sect a fine printing office, in which there is a large printing press; also book binding machinery. Two religious papers are published every week, in addition to books and pamphlets of all kinds. The machinery is run by motor power.

HALL'S IDEAS RADICAL

At Least College President Could Find Few "Cissy" Boys at High School.

TRAVELL DEFENDS SCHOOLS.

America's Public Educational Methods Constantly Being Improved—Textbooks the Best.

Local educators, naturally, are interested in the statement of President Stanley Hall, of Clark University, in which he criticizes the American public school system as being inefficient and unprogressive, charging that because of so many women teachers the boys are becoming "cissified" and effeminate. He has said that there is something wrong with a boy, who, when in his teens is "a little gentleman;" that he should be barbarious and a good cudgeling by a man teacher would promote development of character. He also declared that the text books are degenerating and that the moral side of education is almost wholly neglected.

The opinion of Principal Ira W. Travell, of the Plainfield High School is that some of the charges might stand if they were modified, but that it must be kept in mind that Professor Hall is always radical in his speeches.

"The Professor's theories," said Mr. Travell, "while they are usually expressed in extreme terms, are nevertheless stimulating because, after they have been toned down they are found to be pretty near to the facts, and are splendid as hints to improved methods.

"Women teachers do not have an influence towards making the boys effeminate any more than the mother, and it is the mother, after all who is the greatest force in forming character. From her the moral education is acquired, during the adolescent stage. Such a condition as he names might have been true in former times, before athletics were brought into the school work, but the modern method, with its competitive sports, brings out the manly qualities.

"A young man can be manly and yet be cultured and refined, besides, gentle manners and polite conduct are valuable aids in business as well as social affairs in later life.

"Look at those boys out there," pointing to a mixture of Holy Cross and high school football heroes, who piled in a heap, were pushing and pulling each other in their struggle for supremacy, while the principal was giving out these opinions.

"Do they seem to be cissified?" he asked. The reporter was sufficiently convinced that no "girly-girly boy" would willingly tip-toe into that mixup.

In regard to the extension of school year he said that it is gradually being lengthened by adding a summer course for those who have fallen behind in studies or desire for any reason to occupy the vacation months in that way, such schools being successfully carried on in Philadelphia and the plan is being adopted in New York and other cities.

Also the manual training courses, now found in most of the schools and conducted along with the regular studies, would, he thought gradually develope into a broader system in which trades will be taught, as already in Philadelphia the trades unions are taking an active interest in this branch of the schooling.

Plainfield schools already have several classes in cabinet making and work of that nature, and while it does not provide a finished course in any trade, it is valuable in bringing out the latent talent and stirring to action the natural desire to construct and do things.

"I cannot believe the text books are degenerating," said he, "because we choose the best there are, whether they be ancient or modern."

Sixty Days for Weapon Carrier.

James Taylor, colored, living on East Third street, was arrested on lower Park avenue, Saturday night, by Patrolman McGinley, who discovered that he was carrying a loaded revolver. When arraigned in the city court, this morning, he gave a flimsy excuse as to why he had the weapon in his possession and was sent to jail for sixty days.

Mrs. Gamberton Burial.

The body of Mrs. Gamberton, a former resident of Plainfield, who died in Newark last month, was brought here today and buried in the family plot in Plainfield cemetery.

Miss DeMott to Wed.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry De Mott announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice De Mott, to Grover C. O'Neill, of New Brunswick, N. J.

JOHN H. TIER JR., DEAD AFTER A LONG ILLNESS

John H. Tier, Jr., one of the best known residents of Plainfield, died at his home in Bank place, at 12:35 o'clock this afternoon, following an illness which extended over a period of seven years. Death was due to cancers which had caused Mr. Tier intense suffering. There were times when he would be able to attend to business, but during the past four weeks he was confined to his bed and he failed rapidly.

Mr. Tier was forty years of age. He was born in Plainfield and always lived here. For many years he and his father conducted the ice cream business, and following the death of the father, the son assisted by a brother, William N. Tier, continued the business. Mr. Tier was a member of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P.

Besides a mother, Mrs. John H. Tier, Sr., and a brother, William N. Tier, there survives a wife and five children—Mrs. Gertrude Ross, the Misses Ida May, Elsie, Beatrice and Wilma Tier; also one grandchild, Dorothy Ross. Arrangements for the funeral service will be announced later.

CHAMPION P.H.S. SQUAD IS HONORED BY SCHOOL

The most important social function of the season for the Plainfield high school pupils was the reception to the football team given by the school Saturday night between 8 and 10 o'clock.

The auditorium was filled to overflowing with pupils and invited guests.

A few hours earlier the squad had demonstrated on the gridiron its superiority, defeating in a decisive manner, one of its most formidable rivals, and thus ending the season as the champion football team of this section of the State.

Several of the members were called upon for speeches, and their remarks were applauded with zest.

Arthur Bingaman, the fullback, gave a history of the development of the team and the reasons for its becoming a winner. He said that it was due to the combination of excellent coaching of Lindsey Best, the capableness of Captain Kenneth Phillips, the efficiency of Referee Roy Phillips and the loyal support of the school.

He also told why each player loved the game, and what it was that prompted the different ones to jump into it so energetically. "As for Doane and Van Zandt," said he, "they exert themselves because there are girls on the side lines."

Captain Kenneth Phillips, on behalf of the team, presented Coach Lindsey Best with an album containing the pictures of the players and also of the members of the teams during the two preceding years.

In accepting the gift, Mr. Best thanked the boys and praised their work, mentioning the especially strong opponents that had been met. Some poetry, which he read, commenting on the different players, provided considerable amusement.

Roy Phillips, the referee, spoke interestingly of the benefits derived from athletics and of the satisfaction in having a good football team.

A monologue, entitled, "Traveling," was delivered by Edward Sampter.

Dancing followed the speeches, a stringed orchestra furnishing the music. The manager of a local theatre had previously invited the football team to witness the performance reserving two boxes for their use. Some of the members, therefore, cut out the dancing and accepted the invitation. The Holy Cross team had also been invited and occupied the boxes on the opposite side of the house.

Weekly Chase After the Hounds.

ELKS' LODGE OF SORROW

Annual Memorial Service Conducted in the New Plainfield Theatre.

MANY PEOPLE IN ATTENDANCE.

Members of Plainfield and Somerville Orgmizations Mourn Their Dead—Address by Dr. Crowther.

In accordance with the annual custom of the order, Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, and Somerville Lodge, No. 1068, B. P. O. E., held a joint memorial service for departed members at the New Plainfield theatre, last night. The two organizations occupied the center of the orchestra while the invited guests filled all the other seats and those in the balcony. The session was one of the most impressive yet conducted by the Plainfield Elks.

Exalted Ruler Clarence E. Teel, of the local lodge, was master of ceremonies, and conducted the opening exercises while Exalted Ruler Alexander W. Mack, of 1068, presided at the close. The assisting artists included Mrs. Katherine Blume, soprano; Miss Cornelia Marvin, contralto; Edward Strong, tenor; Townsend H. Fellows, baritone, and Constantino Yon, pianist.

The program included the following: Selection, quartet; hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light," by Elks and attendants; prayer, Rev. George A. Warner; solo, "'Tis Only a Little Way on to My Home," Mr. Fellows; memorial oration, Brother Frank W. Crowther, Perth Amboy Lodge, No. 784; "The Memory Trio," Mrs. Blume, Miss Marvin and Mr. Strong; memorial eulogies, for Plainfield lodge, Judge William N. Runyon; for Somerville lodge, Nelson Y. Dungan; solo, "Abide With Me," Miss Marvin; closing ceremonies; selection, quartet; hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee;" benediction, Rev. Mr. Warner.

Plainfield lodge has been organized five years and in that time has lost six members by death. They were Daniel Detweiler, who died April 8, 1906; Herbert S. Taylor, April 16, 1906; Robert L. Thomae, July 24, 1906; Dr. Olin L. Jenkins, November 13, 1906; Herbert S. Brooks, January 8, 1907, and Charles C. Burnett, February 23, 1907. Somerville lodge has been in existence two years and has lost one member, Henry W. Reusswig, who died on July 19 of the present year.

The eulogies as given by Judge Runyon and Major Dungan were replete with the sympathy and tenderness of Elkdom and following out the order's motto of "the faults of our brothers we write upon the sands, their virtues on tablets of memory and love." As the roll of the departed members was called by the secretary, seven electric lights in the form of a star were extinguished one by one.

Dr. Crowther's address was greatly enjoyed. It dealt for the most part with "charity," his view being that it is much better to award bouquets in life instead of waiting for death to bring about their presentation. The art of giving, he said, is one to be proud of and those who extend a helping hand when it is needed are those who are welcomed to Elkdom.

The memorial committee, which arranged and had charge of last night's service, was composed of Samuel P. T. Wilbur, chairman; Judge William N. Runyon, Joseph Noonan, Frederick Sandford and A. D. Findlay.

FANWOOD WOMAN ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF SHOPLIFTING.

Charged with shoplifting at the store of A. E. Force Co., Saturday night, Mrs. Sarah Ritter, of Fanwood, was arrested by Patrolman McDonald at the request of the management. The woman was seen by one of the employes, it is alleged, to take several articles from various counters and conceal them about her person. She was watched until she attempted to leave the store when she was detained until the policeman arrived.

Mrs. Ritter was given a preliminary hearing before Judge Runyon yesterday and was released in $25 bail for appearance Wednesday morning. The money was put up by a North Plainfield friend. Mrs. Ritter has lived at Fanwood for many years and is well known in Plainfield.

Commuter Train Delayed by Accident

The breaking of the couplings between two coaches, delayed the 8:30 o'clock train a quarter of an hour at the North Avenue Station, this morning. The trouble, which caused the cars to separate occurred just after the train arrived at the station. All of the passengers in the disabled coach were transferred to other parts of the train.

CHAUFFEUR FINED $15 FOR SPEEDING HIS AUTO

As a result of the killing of Jonathan Randolph by an automobile, Saturday night, the police exercised unusual vigilance yesterday for violations of the speed law and two arrests were made, both by Patrolman Dobson. One of the prisoners, John Harsen, driver for Frank DeL. Hyde, was caught at Richmond and Fifth streets after he had sent his car down South avenue at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour, according to the officer's statement. The chauffeur declared he was only going at a twelve-mile clip but Judge Runyon refused to believe him.

"There's altogether too much of this speeding in town," he said, "and I believe the officer knows what he is talking about. I'll impose a fine of $15."

The other prisoner was Alexander Grosset, of Woodland avenue, who was driving his own machine at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour when Dobson saw him. He followed the autoist to Laing's garage where he was placed under arrest. Grosset admitted exceeding the speed limit but said he had to keep going because of a defect in the machinery and that was why he went to the garage. His story was accepted after corroboration by a witness. Sentence was suspended.

MISS SULLIVANT'S DEBUT IS ATTENDED BY 300.

A charming social function Saturday afternoon was a tea and recep- her daughter, Miss Eudora Sullivant of Watchung avenue, at which time her daughter, Miss Eudora Sullivan was formally introduced. About 500 invitations had been issued for the affair, and the guests from this city, New York, Philadelphia and other cities, numbered about 300. The home was attractively decorated with pink roses. Miss Sullivant was the recipient of a wealth of gifts, including many beautiful flowers.

Those who received with Mrs. Sullivant and Miss Sullivant were Miss Anna Garrigues, Miss Florence Wildey, Miss Nancy Van Deventer, Miss Catherine Knox, Miss Beresford Letcher, Mrs. Charles King, Mrs. Alfred T. Slauson and Mrs. G. F. Earl, of Plainfield; Miss Winifred Dorrance, of Bristol, Pa., Miss Katherine Colahan and Mrs. Clarence A. Wray, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Archibald Davis, of Lakewood.

Following the reception and tea in the afternoon a supper was given in the evening for the members of the receiving party and later there was an informal dance to which the men were invited.

TWENTY-THREE ADDED TO TRINITY CHURCH ROLL.

It was a happy day for the pastor, Rev. John Y. Broek and the members of Trinity Reformed church yesterday when twenty-three persons were received at the communion service in the morning. Of this number nineteen were received on confession, eighteen being from the Sunday-school, and four by letter. The candidates stood in front of the pulpit platform and all were warmly welcomed by Pastor Broek.

The occasion was made all the more enjoyable by the fact that Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, who was acting pastor nearly two years, agreeably surprised all by attending the service. He offered a prayer and assisted Pastor Broek at the communion service. The attendance of worshippers was one of the largest in the history of the church.

In the afternoon at the Sunday-school, Dr. Johnson addressed the officers, teachers and children, expressing his pleasure at being present and speaking words of encouragement for the excellent work being done by both school and church. There were 419 persons in attendance at the Sunday-school session.

EDITOR TELLS MEN OF CHRIST'S INTELLECTUALITY.

Dr. L. Boutelle Plumer, associate editor of the Passaic Herald, addressed the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon, on the subject, "The Intellectual Greatness of Jesus." The ability to adapt himself to conditions making himself at ease with all classes of men and in all surroundings and his absorbing mind which was quick to grasp a situation and to give a manifest answer in argument, were all indications of Christ's greatness, the speaker said.

No better evidence could be produced, he thought, than the Lord's treatment of the books of the Old Testament, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John. He had declared that all of the prophesies shall be fulfilled and when asked by the unbelievers where he had got his authority, replied: "From above, from my Father."

Mrs. Henry Binger, of Elizabeth, has been visiting relatives at Watchung.

WILLIAM L. MURRAY'S END WAS A SAD ONE

Relatives and Friends Unable to Account for Bank Teller Taking His Own Life.

FUNERAL SERVICES TOMORROW

Trust Concern Head Says Dead Man's Accounts Straight—Domestic Life Happy.

Funeral services over the remains of William L. Murray, the New York bank teller who kiled himself at Scotch Plains on Saturday, will be held at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon at the home, 155 Rockview avenue. Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, of which Mr. Murray was a member, will officiate. Temporarily the casket will be placed in the vault at Hillside cemetery.

Friends and relatives alike are unable to account for Mr. Murray's self-destruction. According to them he had every thing to live for; his domestic life was happy and his business affairs were in excellent condition. LeRoy Baldwin, president of the Empire Trust Company, where Mr. Murray was employed in the capacity of paying teller, sent Pay Teller O'Keefe yesterday to express his sympathy to the widow in her bereavement. Mr. O'Keefe said that the trust company president had caused an examination to be made of Mr. Murray's books on Saturday night and that they had been found entirely correct.

Mr. Murray committed suicide at Scotch Plains early Saturday afternoon by shooting himself in the head. According to his custom, he took the 7.55 o'clock train, Saturday morning for New York, and soon after reaching his place of business complained to one of the officers that he did not feel well and that he would have to return home. He was advised to give up his duties for the day, and he left the banking institution in time to catch a local train leaving New York at 10 o'clock.

Arriving at Westfield, five miles from this city, Mr. Murray left the train and going to Decker's livery stable, nearby, engaged a man to drive him to Rockview avenue, North Plainfield, the price being satisfactory. When Scotch Plains was reached, the driver of the carriage was startled by a pistol shot, and looking back saw Mr. Murray fall from his seat with the revolver clutched in his hand. He had placed the firearm close to his right temple and fired. There was no sound other than that of the shot and death was instant.

The driver thoroughly frightened rushed to a nearby residence notified the family and then Dr. F. W. Westcott, the county physician, was summoned. He examined the body, questioned the driver and then gave permission to have the body removed to the undertaking parlors of George Cole. Later it was taken to the dead man's home on Rockview avenue.

In searching Mr. Murray's clothes, Dr. Westcott found about $12 in cash, a commutation ticket, bearing the man's name; also a plain envelope upon which was written in pencil his name and address and that of his brother, C. Everett Murray and his address. This leads the authorities to believe that the act was premeditated. Inquiry fails to reveal where Mr. Murray obtained the revolver. It was never his custom to carry one. It was of .32 calibre.

In the meantime Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, of which Mr. Murray was a member, was notified of the affair and he was requested to take the sad news to Mr. Murray's wife and mother, which he did. He also met Charles L. Nichols, an uncle and C. Everett Murray, a brother, upon the arrival home from New York. Neither one could believe that Mr. Murray had taken his life and at first thought that a mistake had been made.

Mr. Murray was the son of Mrs. Irene S. Murray and the late W. M. Murray, who formerly resided at Goshen, N. Y. After the death of Mr. Murray the family moved to New York and about ten years ago came to this city, where they have lived ever since. Mr. Murray was married to Miss Hattie Goodwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Goodwin, formerly of New York, but

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Rev. W. W. Crosselberry announced to his congregation yesterday morning that he had decided to accept the call to him from the Collingswood church. His decision is a great disappointment to the members of the church here and also to the residents in general, who hold the pastor in high esteem, both for his personality and the excellent work he has done during the five years of his pastorate of the Dunellen Presbyterian church. There will be a meeting of the congregation on December 16, to take action on his resignation. No date has been set for his leaving but it probably will be about the middle of January. The church to which he goes is located in a prosperous, growing suburb of Camden, just across the river from Philadelphia, and is one of four churches in that vicinity which he helped to found while located at Haddenfield, where he was pastor for ten years. The Collingswood church is practically in its infancy and because of the fact, a great deal more hard work will be required of its minister than would be necessary in a well established institution such as he is leaving. Then, too, a new edifice is being constructed there and there is a big debt to be coped with. Since Mr. Casselberry has presided over the local church it has been cleared entirely of debt. There has not been a deficit in the treasury in three years, whereas, in almost a quarter of a century before that, such a satisfactory condition had not existed. It is because of a knowledge of business methods and ability to apply them to church work, combined with energy and a sincere Christian spirit that the resigning minister is so much appreciated and so well liked here and that there is so urgent a call for him elsewhere.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Mrs Harry J. Swackhamer. In responding to the roll call each member will recite a passage from the scriptures containing the word "help." Mrs. J. E. Tougean will lead in the devotions; Mrs. Charles Dodwell will read the current missionary news. Mrs. Paxson Van Arsdale will talk on "Syria" and Mrs. Edward Pennock is to speak on "The Mountaineers."

"The Drawing Power of the Cross," was the subject of Rev. George H. Gardner's sermon at the First Baptist church last night. It was the first of a series of "object sermons" which he will deliver each week. In this one the magnet was used as an illustration.

Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson, superintendent of the Union county W. C. T. U., spoke on temperance at the Sabbath School services of the Seventh Day Baptist church yesterday. A special temperance program of music and recitations was carried out by the school.

A spirited game of football was played Saturday afternoon between two local elevens, the Second A. C. and the Marathons. The Athletics won, 10 to 0. Both teams played fast and showed considerable skill.

A special midweek service of prayer for the foreign missions will be held Wednesday night at the Presbyterian church.

John Bolard has been promoted to the foremanship of the Hall Printing Press Company machine shop.

BASKETBALL.

Almost every Eastern college of importance in the basketball world was represented at a meeting of the rules committee of the Intercollegiate Basketball League, which was held at Columbia University Saturday. The committee, consisting of W. C. Hyatt, Yale, chairman; H. A. Fisher, Columbia; Ralph Morgan, University of Pennsylvania, and Lieutenant Stillwell, of West Point, spent the entire afternoon conferring with the various captains and managers and interpreting the rules of the league adopted last spring.

There had been considerable misunderstanding on the part of some of the managers as to who should select the two officials that are now required for every intercollegiate game. After much discussion it was agreed that the representatives of the opposing teams should select the floor officials by mutual agreement, and that the officials themselves should determine who should take chage of the refereeing and who the umpiring. The central board of governors of the league will recommend certain men as competent officials, but their selection will not be obligatory.

It was generally agreed that the rule disqualifying a player from continuing in a game after five fouls have been called on him is a good one and one that was needed. But discussion of this rule brought up another revision, which says that a player who carries the ball over his head on beginning dribbling, or who stops while dribbling, makes a foul. Some of the managers declared that the floor officials had altogether too much power by this rule, and said that a referee could work injustice on players and debar them from the game for an offence depending on the construction of an official. After much debate the rule was allowed to stand and the managers stated that it would practically mean the elimination of the dribbling game. Representatives were present from Yale, Columbia, Princeton, Pennsylvania, West Point, Fordham, Pratt and Brooklyn Polytechnic instututes and New York University.

Open Evenings from December 17 until Xmas.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

All of the favorable and far-reaching comment that has run rife over this country for the past four years regarding "The Lion and the Mouse" does not seem to wane with time, but rather on the contrary, bears evidence of being proudly on the ascendant. The feeling has not lost its spirit locally, as the engagement of Henry B. Harris' production of the Charles Klein drama at the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday afternoon and night has aroused a greater interest than has yet been shown this great play of present day principles, in this city. Mr. Harris is said to have carried out his ideas of high standard in the selection of his best players, and stage mountings, for the organization to appear here.

The large audiences which are everywhere enjoying the new "Peck's Bad Boy" speak well for the coming engagement of this popular comedy at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night. James H. Callahan, as the bad boy, is surrounded with an organization which works unceasingly to provide amusement that never fails to please. Anyone who has treasured up pleasant memories of his youth, is sure to have it brought back again while witnessing "Peck's Bay Boy" in its new and improved condition, brighter, bigger and better than ever.

Ferguson, a prominent real estate operator of Baltimore for investment purposes.

John Abel, treasurer of the Merserean Metal Bed Company, of Jersey City, has purchased nine lots having a total frontage of 491 feet on Prospect and Kensington avenues. Mr. Abel who now resides at New Rochelle, will build a large dwelling for his own occupancy and two others for investment purposes.

Franklin Groff, president of the Merserean Metal Bed Company, who purchased a large dwelling on the north side of Prospect avenue, near Kensington, has purchased the adjoining lot on the east giving him a total frontage of 100 feet on Prospect avenue. The Central Park Realty Company has sold for James C. Manning the ten-room dwelling and large lot on Gresham road and Park Terrace to DeWitt D. Barlow, of Putnam avenue, and the dwelling and large lot on Cameron avenue, near Randolph road for Manning and Briggs to C. C. Newell, of Arlington avenue. The total sales aggregate $50,940. ## END WAS A SAD ONE now of the borough. They had no children.

Mr. Murray had been an employe of the Empire Trust Company since its organization and for many years the paying teller. President L. W. Baldwin of that institution said Saturday night that an examination of Mr. Murray's accounts had been made and that they were in perfect condition.

"So far as his connection with our company is concerned we are at a loss to understand his taking his life," said President Baldwin. "His work with us had always been satisfactory and we had the fullest confidence in him, a fact he understood."

As a member of the 71st Regiment, of New York, Mr. Murray served in the Spanish-American War as a lieutenant. He was in Cuba and at San Juan Hill, where he performed valiant service. He was greatly respected by all who knew him. He was a member of the Sons of the American Revolution and the Santiago Society, which is composed of the officers who served in Cuba in the war.

Besides a mother, Mr. Murray is survived by a wife and one brother, C. Everett Murray. He was thirty-seven years old.

Dr. Westcott, who has made a searching investigation, says that the circumstances are such that no known reason can be ascertained for the act and he does not believe that it will be necessary to hold an inquest.

THE LATEST FUR HATS.

The latest style in the way of fur hats has a rather broad brim and crown entirely covered with soft moire breichwanz, or astrakan, with around the crown justly simply coiled a snowy-white fox with natualized head, or a beautiful dark zibeline.

Dark velvet toques with chinchhilla brim and a Magyar aigrette on the front are very smart; and so are entire toques of marabout feather, a fusee aigrette of some curious tropical bird rising dashingly upon the side. These Eastern caps or "bonnets," are the latest cry in Parisian millinery.

A pretty accessory to the toilets is the rather large spray of artificial flowers, gardenias, tuberoses, white, mauve or purple violets mounted with sterlized maiden-hair fern. The flowers are scented and the stems enwrapped with tinfoil. In the fur coat, or pinned upon the muff, these sprays are very effective, dainty and charming.

SPEEDING AUTO KILLS

admitted having been out automobiling but at first refused to reveal the identity of the driver. When threatened with arrest she said it was Cooper and declared the trip was the outcome of a party that had been held at her home during the evening. Cooper, she said, had come down from Westfield with William DeCamp and that some of the people at the house expressed a wish to take an auto ride. The men were willing and Miss Cregar was one of those who went out at first. When the machine returned, Mrs. Robinson, her daughter and Miss Schenck were taken for a similar trip. They went down Sandford avenue into North Plainfield and came around to Front street by way of Somerset It was when they passed the corner that Higgins noticed the lack of lights.

Mrs. Robinson said she was not sure for her part that anybody had been hit and as her daughter was sitting on the floor of the car with her feet on the running board she was not in a position to see anything. She admitted, however, that there had been a jar as the machine passed the trolley car near Jefferson avenue. The information was sufficient to warrant Chief Kiely sending officers to Westfield to arrest Cooper.

Mr. Randolph, the victim of the affair, was fifty seven years old and had lived in this vicinity all his life He had been to Plainfield on a business matter during the evening and alighted opposite Mr. Craig's residence in order to make a short cut through to his home when the auto bore down upon him at an alleged speed of thrity miles an hour. He was hurled against the car with such force as to smash in the vestibule door. When Motorman Hendershot looked out to see what caused the mishap, he discovered the limp form lying on the ground just below the car step.

Mr. Randolph was foreman of the Dunellen Stone Company's quarry near Washington Rock and was widely known throughout Plainfield and Dunellen. He is survived by a wife, two sons and two daughters, Harrison and Richard Randolph and Miss Eva Randolph, living at the home, and Mrs. Louis Vosseler, of Dunellen. He also leaves the following brothers and sisters: Isaac S. Randolph, of West Front street; Richard Randolph, of Long Island; the Misses Nan and Matilda Randolph, of West Fifth street; Miss Jane Randolph, of West Seventh street, and Mrs. Amelia Smith, of Newark. The funeral will be held at his late home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS TO THE HOUSEWIFE.

Wooden tubs are much used for washing glas and delicate china, as there is far less risk of breakage, but a friend lately assured me they were useless, as if not used for a day or so they leaked hopelessly. Naturally, if left dry; so do boats; but if a little water is left in them the wood does not shrink, and if, owing to neglect, it does, soak it for an hour and it will soon be water-tight again.

Lace curtains wear much better when washed at home, as they need more careful treatment than is usually afforded them by the professional laundress. After washing thoroughly, starch while still wet with thin, boiled starch. Next hang them lengthways, double, over the line, pulling the edges at the same time gently into shape. Curtains treated in this way wil not have the stretched look at the edges that is so ugly. They should be finally "damped down" and rolled up, and will then be found quite easy to iron.

Nothing is more provoking to the careful housewife than to have a perfectly clean tablecloth liberally bespattered with gravy the first time it is used. Get a large table napkin, one to match the tablecloth if possible, and a piece of white oilcloth, cut an inch shorter and an inch narrower than the napkin. Place the oil cloth where the meat dish will stand, spread the napkin over it. The gavy cannot penetrate through the oilcloth, thus there is a considerable saving in the washing bill.

THE DAYS OF QUEEN ANNE.

Bed couches have been revived in Queen Anne style, though the present article is made of dull finished brass instead of inlaid wood. They are built in single bed size, with head section rising just the height of a roll above the mattress, and with no foot section. The ends of the four posts are finished with knobs and the bed is covered with a lace or stamped counterpane. If the piece of furniture is to be installed in a regulation sleeping apartment, then the roll and bed cover may be made to appear all in one piece, the flat cover having a valance as wide as the height of the bed, and this continuing over the ends of the roll. These beds find favor with persons who prefer the effect of a couch in the room, yet like the comfortable arrangement of a real bed with springs and mattress. They can be bought in plain enamel and later will probably he made in iron and wood.

CLIP THIS FOR USE NEXT SUMMER.

Some of the cures for exterminating ants, such as naphtha, kerosene, oil of peppermint and citronella, are almost worse than the pests. The boxes will keep out ants, but nothing can overcome the bad odors of the various cures when applied to a kitchen closet.

A young housekeeper who spent last summer at the seashore is authority for the following novel cure:

She was half wild with small red ants in her closet and around her sink. Every remedy had been tried in vain. Then one day the cook carelessly left some fresh clam shells lie in the sink where she had finished cleaning them.

They remained all night and in the morning not an ant was to be seen Both the cook and her mistress thought it but a coincidence, but decided to put some shells around the closet shelves as a test. In a few days all the ants had disappeared.

Every week or so during the rest of the summer some of the clean, fresh shells were scattered in the ants' haunts, and there was no further trouble.

Such a simple remedy is worth trying. The young woman says she can give no reason, only states facts

NEW TRIMMINGS FOR THE NEW COSTUMES.

Self-color and black trimmings are a noticeable feature of the fall and winter gowns. On toilettes of all colors and materials, from sheer to heavy weaves, this style prevails, and will probably be adopted for evening as well as day wear. The idea is carried out in soutache, passementeries, appliques or lace incrustations. The word lace in this case means net braided or embroidred and applied to the gown.

Self-covered novelties applied to black net in a floral design and outlined with metalic beads was the trimming used on a dinner gown of mauve pink crepe de chine. A band about ten inches wide encircled the bottom of the skirt, from which the material was cut. On the waist the trimming was arranged in surplice style and formed part of the sleeves.

A new trimming for jackets and skirts of tailored suits is a very thick cord covered with taffeta or satin. It is especially fashionable in black and is used on dark brown, blue and green serge and cheviots. The cord thus treated is arranged to form very large medallions, in the centre of which is worked out some design in braid, or the cord is twisted to form a floral design. This novel trimming is known as corded rouleaux.—Philadelphia Press.

A Different Show.

It is related that a farmer visiting Philadelphia wandered with his wife into a theatre where one of the gloomiest of gloomy Ibsen plays was in progress.

For about half an act the good couple listened in puzzled silence to the mournful remarks thrown out by the group of Norwegians infesting the stage. Then at last, after a particularly harrowing prediction of sudden death to everybody in the last act, the farmer turned to his wife with these words:

"Say, Mandy, I'm darned if this is 'The Merry Widow.' Let's go."—Philadelphia Ledger.

He Peddled Them.

F. Hopkinson Smith was sketching a landscape in Maine when an aged man stepped up behind him and looked over his shoulder at the canvas.

"Humph!" said the stranger somewhat scornfully, "what do you paint them for—the market?"

"Yes," said Mr. Smith.

"You must paint a lot of 'em to get a livin'. I guess you have a harder way of gettin' a livin' than I have."

"What is your business?" asked Mr. Smith.

"Oh, I peddle pond lilies," said the man.—New York Herald.

A Pretty Favor.

Take three matches and tie them through the ccentre and spread into a triangle, which will hold half of an English walnut shell. With a few drops of glue or sealing wax, the shell can be fastened firmly between the match heads. Gild it and tie a very small bow of ribbon around the matches to hide the string. The walnut can be headed around the top of the edge is covered with glue to which rice is fastened. They make neat souvenirs for a guessing contest at a girl's party.

LITERARY

James de Conlay, who knows the Orient as it is given to but few occidentals to know it, contributes to The Red Book Magazine for December a singularly apepaling article on the many American fugitives he has encountered far from the beaten paths. He calls his article "The Men Who Can't Come Back" and tells many anecdotes of them, from the Cincinnati embezzler who turned Mussulman, to the case of the Cleveland boy, college man and cowpuncher.

In the December American Magazine, Ray Stannard Baker begins his new series of articles on "The Spiritual Unrest," which is to be a complete report of various movements in America, to regain for the church its diminished influence and usefulness. The first article in the new series is entitled "Healing the Sick in the Churches," and it includes the story of the Emmanuel movement in Boston. The article contains a mass of new facts and ideas.

To those to whom the Christmas season means peace and good will and the assuming of an optimistic frame of mind toward mankind in general, the December Everybody's will carry a direct and apepaling message. The leading article, "The Sunday Lady of 'Possum Trot," is by John L. Mathews, and tells of the courage and enthusiasm of a Southern woman who has given up her life to the uplifting and useful education of her mountain people.

America's net war forms the theme of the complete novel published in the December number of The Smart Set. This is an imaginative romance by Arthur Stanley Riggs, whose fancy soars to almost as great heights in dealing with the future as did that of Jules Verne. In this novel, "In Quest of Fame," the author cleverly interrupts now and then the progress of a charming love story to draw a very logical picture of the conditions that may bring on an ultimate conflict within the next two decades.

The Popular Science Monthly for December includes the following articles: "The Cause of Pulsation," by Dr. Alfred Goldsborough Mayer; "A Biagraphical History of Botany at St. Louis, Missouri," by Dr. Perley Spaulding; "The Application of Zoological Laws to Man," by Professor William Ridgeway; "Canadian Wheat," by Professor John Waddell; "College Standardszation," by Professor W. Le Conte Stevens; "Aspects of Modern Biology," by Professor T. D. A. Cockerell; "Loyalty," by Professor John C. Branner.

HATS IN FANCY AND IN FACT.

"I have bought a hat," announced the girl in brown, with an air of final and desperate accomplishment. "Woe is me, I have bought a hat."

"Don't you like it?" inquired the girl in navy blue, actual sympathy in her voice.

"Like it?" The girl in brown poised her coffee spoon in the air and regarded it, tentatively. "Ye-s, I like it. I trien on twenty-nine hats, at seven different places, and it took me the biggest part of a week. And at last I found this one. Yes, I am almost sure I like it.

"But before I got that hat I didn't see a singnle thing that was fit to look at; and now every hat I see is a dream. I bought the hat I did, because it was the Only One; it was positively the Only One; there were no others in town that I could have worn; you know the feeling it gives you to try on a hat that you simply cannot wear? Well, this one was the Only One. And so I bought it.

"And since then I have seen about thirty-two others that I am sure would look—O, I'm sure they'd not only look beautiful themselves, but they'd make me look beautiful, too.

"I walked down Chestnut street, and, with a habit formed in the dreary searching of the past six weeks, I look in the windows of all the millinery shops. I gaze at hats. I think how they would look on me. I discover that in every window there is at least one hat that would be a picture of perfectness on top of my yellowish-brownish hair. I decide that I have time to go in and try it on, and price it. And then I bethink me that I bought my own hat two days ago.

"Elinor Lane hat a hat that is a dream, and Betty Wells got one home yesterday that—O, I wish you could see it! Every girl on Chestnut street is wearing a hat that I simply adore. I long to go and get one like it—like them all. And then I remember that my hat is coming home from the store today!"

"But don't you like your own hat?" repeated the girl in navy blue. "Isn't it really the one that suits you best? Isn't it stylish, and dainty, and chic? It probably looks lots better on you than Elinor's would, you know."

The girl in brown sighed. "Oh, yes," she assented. "I know all that. But I can't help wondering—would I look better in another hat, or would I look worse? Or woul I look exactly the same? How would I look, anyway, in one of them—in all of them? I assure you that there are hundreds, and should I have got one of them, instead of the one I did get?

"I wish it was Christmas, and all the hats in the world were old. I hate new hats, anyhow. I hate all hats. And most of all, I hate those lovely, haunting, exasperating, nerve-racking things—the hats I didn't buy!"—Philadelphia Press.

SOFT SATINS SDUPPLANT SILKS.

Silk is not in vogue at present.

Since the long clinging skirts of the revived directoire and empire periods have most undoubtedly come to stay, it follows as a foregone conclusion that soft satin will be the favorite fabric for evening frocks, as well as for afternoon dresses of the smarter sort.

The latest variety of satin charmeuse is of a gossamer fineness, and it lends itself with special appropriateness to the styles which are most in vogue just now for evening dresses, while in the matter of coloring the newest tints include some lovely shades of sunset pink andsilver-gray, moonlight blue and a deep but brilliant tone o fsea-green, which looks particularly well worn with emerald and diamond jewelry.

There are some lovely tones of yellow, too, among the new evening colors, including certain shades of pale gold, which always light up successfully at night. These are very effective in satin charmeuse. One graceful and picturesque evening gown of a soft shade of gold has the long plain skirt arranged with the favorite princess effect, and left without any kind of trimming, unless a girdle of antique silver filigree can come under that category, set with amethysts, and used as a chain for holding a tiny satchel made of the same soft satin as the gown.

The bodice is most artistically draped to follow the lines of the figure, and caught in the centre with a buckle-shaped ornament composed of folds of the same satin. Across the front of the bodice there is an empiecement of lace, with a little chemisette of tucked mousseline de sole above it, bordered along the top with a light frill of lace. Over the shoulders there are soft folds of chiffon, continued in the form of draperies, which serve as sleeves. These chiffon draperies, falling aside, show dainty undersleeves of lace, and to complete the picture long chains of amethysts, set in antique silver, are arranged across the bodice and caught on the shoulders with buckle ornaments made in pale yellow satin, to match the clasp which gathers up the folds in front.

GOOD SALADS AND THEIR MAKING.

The true test of a good cook is in her salad making.

A salad maker can command a large salary in a hotel, for it is said that a good salad is more difficult to make than a fine cake or pudding, because it is impossible to give exact quantities, especially when one must consider a diversity of tastes. One famous chef uses but one egg as the foundation for a quart of salad dressing made with oils, cayenne and other seasonings. The first requisite for making a salad is to have pure materials and fresh vegetables or fruits. Cream and melted butter is largely used by persons who do not care for olive oil. In making a mayonnaise have the dishes and spoons very cold. Break the egg into a soup plate and beat it until it is very light and smooth. The truth is that the egg cannot be beaten too long. Use a silver or wooden fork for the purpose. Add the oil very slowly and continue beating the ingredients. Use white pepper and the best olive oil, strong white vinegar or lemon juice. If you wish to preserve the crispness of green vegetables put them into cold water for an hour, dry them upon towels without bruising. Lay lightly in a colored vessel and place upon ice. Tear green vegetables apart or clip with sharp scissors.

Embroidered Bands.

Embroidered bands and heavy laces have the apeparance of being set into rather than on the materials. When bands of insertion are to be used above the hem of the skirt the correct length is marked and turned up, the lower fold edge being closely basted. Turn the plain material under at each edge of the embroidered strip and baste the strip with small stitches to the skirt at even distances from the lower edge; then baste the upper edge of the strip in the same manner.

Cut the skirt material from under the band, leaving enough for a seam on each side. Stitch the embroidery and material together and turn the hem in over the seam. Baste this carefully and finish with a row of machine stitching on the right side. The upper edge is finished by turning the plain material of the embroidery in over the skirt material and basting both flat against the skirt. Secure them by a row of machine stitches on the right side.

To Keep the Milk.

If you cannot afford a large refrigerator, demanding many pounds of ice, then use a large covered pan for the purpose and buy a small piece of ice to place in the bottom of the can. Have the bottles with long wire handles, which will make them easier to draw from the can. If a small handle is soldered to the top of a glass jar lid, butter can be kept in the jar, the lid easily lifted and contents taken out without removing the jar. The can should be placed in the cellar, or if it must be kept on the porch, it should be well covered.

The BRASS BOWL

By LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

(Copyright 1907, The Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

"Not a word," ordered Maitland. "Sit here for a few minutes, if you can, drink the water and—ah—fix up your hat, you know," (damn Hickey! Why the devil did the fellow insist on hanging round so!) "and I will go and make arrangements."

"Th-thank you," whispered the small voice shakily.

Maitland hesitated a moment, then turned upon Hickey in sudden exasperation. His manner was enough; even the obtuse detective could not ignore it. Maitland had no need to speak.

"I'm sorry, sir," he said, standing his ground manfully but with a trace more of respect in his manner than had theretofore characterized it, "but there's uh gentleman—uh—your fren' Bannerman's outside 'nd wants tuh speak tuh yeh."

"Tell him to—"

"Excuse me. He says he's gottuh see yeh. If yeh don't come out, he'll come after yeh. I thought yeh 'd ruther—"

"That's kindly thought of," Maitland relented. "I'll be there in a minute," he added, meaningly.

Hickey took an impassive face to the doorway, where, whether or not with design, he stood precisely upon the threshold, filling it with his burly shoulders. Maitland bent again over the girl, and took her hand.

"Dearest," he said, gently, "please don't run away from me again."

Her eyes were brimming, and he read his answer in them. Quickly—it was no time to harry her emotions further; but so much he had felt he must say—he brushed her hand with his lips and joined Hickey. Thrusting the detective gently into the outer room, with a not unfriendly hand upon his shoulder, Maitland closed the door.

"Now, see here," he said quietly and firmly, "you must help me arrange to get this lady away without her becoming identified with the case. Hickey, I'm in a position to say a good word for you in the right place; she had positively nothing to do with Anisty," (this, so far as he could tell, was as black a lie as he had ever manufactured under the lash of necessity), "and—there's a wad in it for the boys who help me out."

"Well. . . ." The detective shifted from one foot to the other, eying him intently. "I guess we can fix it—freight elevator 'nd side entrance. Yeh have the cab waitin', 'nd—"

"I'll go with the lady, you understand, and assume all responsibility. You can come round at your convenience and arrange the details with me, at my rooms, since you will be so kind."

"I dunno." Hickey licked his lips, watching with a somber eye the preparations being made for the removal of Anisty's body. "I'd 've give a farm if I could 've caught that son of a gun alive," he added at apparent random, and vindictively. "All right. Yeh be responsible for th' lady, if she's wanted, will yeh?"

"Positively."

"I gottuh have her name 'nd address."

"Is that essential?"

"Sure. Gottuh protect myself 'n case anythin' turns up. Yeh oughttuh to know that."

"I—don't want it to come out," Maitland hesitated, trying to invent a plausible lie.

"Well, any one can see how you feel about it."

Maitland drew a long breath and anticipated rashly. "It's Mrs. Maitland," he told the man with a tremor.

Hickey nodded, unimpressed. "Uh-huh. I knowed that all along," he replied. "But seein' as yeh didn't want it talked about . . ." And, apparently heedless of Maitland's startled and suspicious stare: "If yeh're goin' to see yer fren', yeh 'better get a wiggle on. He won't last long."

"Who? Bannerman? What the deuce do you mean?"

"He's the feller I plugged in the elevator, that's all. Put a hole through his lungs. They took him into an office on the twenty-first floor, right opp'site the shaft."

"But what in Heaven's name has he to do with this ghastly mess?"

Hickey turned a shrewd eye upon Maitland. "I guess he can tell yeh better'n me."

With a smothered exclamation, Maitland hurried away, still incredulous and impressed with a belief, firmer with every minute, that the wounded man had been wrongly identified.

He found him as Hickey had said he would, sobbing out his life, supine upon the couch of an office which the janitor had opened to afford him a place to die in. Maitland had to force a way through a crowded doorway, where the night-watchman was holding forth in aggrieved incoherence on the cruel treatment he had suffered at the hands of the law-breakers. A phrase came to Maitland's ears as he shouldered through the group.

". . . grabbed me an' trun me outer the cage, inter the hall, an' then the shootin' begins, an' I jumps downstairs t' the sixteent' floor. . . ."

Bannerman opened dull eyes as Maitland entered, and smiled faintly.

"Ah-h, Maitland," he gasped; "thought you'd . . . come."

Racked with sorrow, nothing guessing of the career that had brought the lawyer to this pass, Maitland slipped into a chair by the head of the couch and closed his hand over Bannerman's chubby, icy fingers.

"Poor, poor old chap!" he said, brokenly. "How in Heaven—"

But at Bannerman's look the words died on his lips. The lawyer moved restlessly. "Don't pity me," he said in a low tone. "This is what I might have . . . expected, I suppose . . . man of Anisty's stamp . . . desperate character . . . it's all right, Dan, my just due. . . ."

"I don't understand, of course," faltered Maitland.

Bannerman lay still a moment, then continued: "I know you don't. That's why I sent for you. . . . 'Member that night at the Primordial? When the deuce was it? I . . . can't think straight long at a time. . . . That night I dined with you and touched you up about the jewels? We had a bully salad, you know, and I spoke about the Graeme affair. . . ."

"Yes, yes."

"Well . . . I've been up to that game for years. I'd find out where the plunder was, and . . . Anisty always divided square. . . . I used to advise him. . . . Of course you won't understand—you've never wanted for a dollar in your life. . . ."

Maitland said nothing. But his hand remained upon the dying man's.

"This would never have happened if . . . Anisty hadn't been impatient. He was hard to handle, sometimes. I wasn't sure, you know, about the jewels; I only said I thought they were at Greenfields. Then I undertook to find out from you, but he was restive, and without saying anything to me went down to Greenfields on his own hook—just to have a look around, he said. And so . . . so the fat was in the fire."

"Don't talk any more, Bannerman," Maitland tried to soothe him. "You'll pull through this all right, and— You need never have gone to such lengths. If you'd come to me—"

The ghost of a sardonic smile flitted, incongruously, across the dying man's waxen, cherubic features.

"Oh, hell," he said; "you wouldn't understand. Perhaps you weren't born with the right crook in your nature—or the wrong one. Perhaps it's because you can't see the fun in playing the game. It's that that counts."

He compressed his lips, and after a moment spoke again. "You never did have the true sportsman's love of the game for its own sake. You're like most of the rest of the crowd—content with mighty cheap virtue, Dan. . . . I don't know that I'd choose just this kind of a wind-up, but it's been fun while it lasted. Good-by, old man."

He did not speak again, but lay with closed eyes.

Five minutes later Maitland rose and unclasped the cold fingers from about his own. With a heavy sigh he turned away.

At the door Hickey was awaiting him. "Yer lady," he said, as soon as they had drawn apart from the crowd, "is waitin' for yeh in the cab downstairs. She was gettin' a bit high-steerical 'nd I thought I'd better get her away. . . . Oh, she's waitin' all right!" he added, alarmed by Maitland's expression. But Maitland had left him abruptly; and now, as he ran down flight after echoing flight of marble stairs, there rested cold fear in his heart. In the room he had just quitted, a man whom he had called friend and looked upon with affectionate regard, had died a self-confessed and unrepentant liar and thief.

If now he were to find the girl another time vanished—if this had been but a ruse of hers finally to elude him—if all men were without honor, all women faithless—if he had indeed placed the love of his life, the only love that he had ever known, unworthily—if she cared so little who had seemed to care much . . .

CHAPTER XVII.

Confessional.

I.

But the cab was there; and within it the girl was waiting for him.

The driver, after taking up his fare, had at her direction drawn over to the further curb, out of the fringe of the rabble which besieged the St. Luke building in constantly growing numbers, and through which Maitland, too impatient to think of leaving by the basement exit, had elbowed and fought his way in an agony of apprehension that brooked no hindrance, heeded no difficulty.

He dashed round the corner, stopped short with a sinking heart, then as the cabby's signaling whip across the street caught his eye, fairly hurled himself to the other curb, pausing at the wheel, breathless, lifted out of himself with joy to find her faithful in this ultimate instance.

She was recovering, whose high spirit and recuperative powers were to him then and always remained a marvelous thing; and she was bending forth from the body of the hansom to welcome him with a smile that in a twinkling made radiant the world to him who stood in a gloomy side street of New York at three o'clock of a summer's morning—a good hour and a half before the dawn. For up there in the tower of the sky-scraper he had as much as told her of his love; and she had waited; and now—and now he had been blind indeed had he failed to read the promise in her eyes. Weary she was and spent and overwrought; but there is no tonic in all the world like the consciousness that where one has placed one's love, there love has responded in response. And despite all that she had suffered and endured, the happiness that ran like soft fire in her veins, wrapping her being with its beneficent rapture, had deepened the color in her cheeks and heightened the glamour in her eyes.

And he stood and stared, knowing that in all time to no man had ever woman seemed more lovely than this girl to him; a knowledge that robbed his mind of all other thought and his tongue of words, so that to her fell the task of rousing him.

"Please," she said gently—"please tell the cabby to take me home, Mr. Maitland."

He came to and in confusion stammered: "Yes, he would. And he climbed up on the step with no other thought than to seat himself at her side and drive away forever. But this time the cabby brought him to his senses, forcing him to remember that some measure of coherence was demanded even of a man in love.

"Where to, sir?"

"Eh, what? Oh!" And bending to the girl: "Home, you said—?"

She told him the address—a number on Park avenue, above Thirty-fourth street, below Forty-second. He repeated it mechanically, unaware that it would remain stamped forever on his memory, indelibly—the first personal detail that she had granted him; the first barrier down.

He sat down. The cab began to move, and halted again. A face appeared at the apron—Hickey's, red and moon-like and not lacking in complacency; for the man counted on profiting variously by this night's work.

"Excuse me, Mr. Maitland, 'nd"—touching the rim of his derby—"yeh, too, ma'am, f'r buttin' in—"

"Hickey!" demanded Maitland, suddenly, in a tone of smoldering wrath, "what the—what do you want?"

"Yeh told me tuh call round to-morrow, yeh know. When'll yeh be in?"

"I'll leave a note for you with O'Hagan. Is that all?"

"Yep—that is, there's somethin' else . . ."

"Well?"

"Excuse me for mentionin' it, but I didn't know—it ain't generally known, yeh know, 'nd one uh th' boys might 've heard me speak tuh yer lady by name 'nd might pass it on to a reporter. What I mean's this," hastily, as the Maitland temper showed dangerous indications of going into active eruption: "I s'pose yeh don't want me tuh mention 't yeh're married, jes' yet? Mrs. Maitland here," with a nod to her, "didn't seem tuh take kindly tuh the notion of it's bein' known—"

"Hickey!"

"Ah, excuse me!"

"Drive on, cabby—instantly! Do you hear?"

Hickey backed suddenly away and the cab sprang into motion; while

"Please," She Said Gently—"Please Tell the Cabby to Take Me Home, Mr. Maitland."

Maitland with a face of fire sat back and raged and wondered.

Across Broadway toward Fourth avenue dashed the hansom; and from the curb-line Hickey watched it with a humorous light in his dull eyes. Indeed, the detective seemed in extraordinary conceit with himself. He chewed with unaccustomed emotion upon his cold cigar, scratched his cheek, and chuckled; and, chuckling, pulled his hat well down over brows, thrust both hands into his trousers pockets, and shambled back to the St. Luke building—his heavy body vibrating amazingly with his secret mirth.

And so, shuffling sluggishly, he merges into the shadows, into the mob that surges about the building, and passes from these pages.

II.

In the clattering hansom, steadying herself with a hand against the window-frame, to keep from being thrown against the speechless man beside her, the girl waited. And since Maitland in confusion at the moment found no words, from this eloquent silence she drew an inference unjustified, such as lovers are prone to draw, the world over, one that lent a pathetic color to her thoughts, and chilled a little her mood. She had been too sure.

But better to have it over with at once, rather than permit it to remain forever a wall of constraint between them. He must not be permitted to think that she would dream of taking him upon his generous word.

"Now a big Chicago firm complains that its girls will not stay single."

"Well, will they stay married?"

Y.M.C.A. STARTS BADLY IN BIG LEAGUE SERIES

More than one goal basket would be superfluous to Passaic. One is sufficient, but the rapid succession in which the players dropped the ball into that, Saturday night at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, made it seem as if there were baskets everywhere for their convenience.

It was the first league game for the local Y. M. C. A. team in the State championship series and they were badly defeated by the clever Passaic five, the score being 48 to 23.

The teamwork of the visitors was excellent and their shooting notably accurate. Dunn, Jeoger and Rening did especially good work.

Some of the Plainfield players were in poor physical condition, which accounts for the very weak showing. Had they been in their usual shape, there would doubtless have been different figures in the score.

The lineup:

| Plainfield. | Pasaic. |
|---|---|
| Right forwards. | |
| Loizeaux | Tracker |
| Left forwards. | |
| Gilmore | Jeoger |
| Centres. | |
| Cahoone, Endicott, | Dunn |
| Right guards. | |
| Rumsey | Stroyer |
| Miner | Rening |

Individual scoring: Gilmore, 9; Loizeaux, 4; Cahoone, 2; Miner, 8; Tracker, 4; Jeoger, 15; Dunn, 12; Stroyer, 4; Rening, 12. A foul while shooting scored 1 for Passaic.

Referee, Morse.

N. P. H. S. FIVE LOSES TO Y. M. C. A. SECONDS.

North Plainfield High School was defeated by the Y. M. C. A. Second team Saturday night at the association gymnasium, 30 to 19.

The line-up:

| Y. M. C. A. | N. P. H. S. |
|---|---|
| Templin | Conroy |
| right forwards. | |
| Rockwell | Vanderbeek |
| left forwards. | |
| Hoagland | Overton |
| centres. | |
| Joseph | Becker |
| right guards. | |
| Mackey | Powlison, Steiner |

Goals: Templin, 12; Rockwell, 2; Hoagland, 2; Joseph, 8; Mackey, 4; Conroy, 17; Vanderbeek, 2. Two points allowed Y. M. C. A. on fouls.

Referee, Morse.

HOLY CROSS' DEFEAT MAKES P.H.S. CHAMPION

The champion football team of Plainfield, city and borough, is the title acquired by the P. H. S. eleven in defeating the last of its rivals Saturday afternoon at Hope Common, when Holy Cross was forced to swallow a 12 to 0 score. It is to the church boys' credit however, that they made things exceedingly interesting for everybody concerned.

This, the last game of season, was attended by a more enthusiastic crowd of spectators than any of the others, though not quite so large in numbers as the contest with North Plainfield. The air was clear and crisp, typical of December, putting extra life into the players and affecting the spectators with a desire to jump up, wave their arms and yell. Whatever the cause, the cheering was loud and incessant, the visitors coming in for a large part of it.

High School, as a team, played the best game, and therefore were deserving of the victory. Ploughing great furrows in the Holy Cross line. Riffert was permitted to get through for the first touchdown shortly after the game began. The next touchdown was made only a few moments later by Bingaman breaking through the tackles and making a thirty yard run. Both goals were kicked by Phillips.

These two touchdowns ended the scoring, however, and during the balance of the contest neither side was able to gain any considerable advantage. Both teams lost at various times by their own unsuccessful attmepts to perform trick plays. One instance being when Vail captured one of Doane's forward passes.

Bingaman repeated his usual great stunts of plunging through the line, while Harriman did some wonderfully good tackling for Holy Cross. This was his first game on the first team, he having been on the second eleven, heretofore, and was only put in to take the place of an absent regular.

Nash made two remarkable kick-offs, sending the ball over the goal line both times, and he also did good work in punting both with the wind and against it.

Phillips and VanZandt did excellent tackling for the high school, and Miller for the church club.

The lineup:

P. H. S.—Phillips, Earle, rs; Ramsey, Widowson, rg; Smalley, Bristol, rh; VanZandt, rt; Fleming, c; Carpenter, Cullen, lt; Snyder, Ricketts, lh; Parsons, lg; Doane, Wilson, le; Bingaman, fb; Riffert, Clark, qb.

Holy Cross—Coyle, re; Neff, rg; Mosher, rh; Sinclair, rt; Lindsey, c; Steiner, lt; Miller, lh; Blazier, lg; Harriman, le; Nash, fb; Vail, qb.

Referee, Phillips; umpire, Hamilton; timers, Phelps and Murphy; linesmen, T. Bingaman and Patterson. 20 and 25 minute halves.

CAPACITY AUDIENCES AT THE PROCTOR THEATRE.

The new Proctor theatre drew capacity attendances at all performances given Saturday afternoon and night. Wit hthe opening of the doors for the first show, the rush almost carried the ticket pagoda out of position and the attendants had a strenuous time bringing order about.

The program of pictures, songs and travellogues proved highly pleasing to the patrons and the majority took occasion to inspect the improvements. The general comment was to the effect that Managers Proctor and Sanderson have one of the handsomest playhouses in the State.

Cab Horses Run Away.

A team drawing a carriage filled with mourners returning from a funeral Saturday afternoon, became frightened at Belleview avenue and ran at full speed down Park avenue. The driver was unable to check the animals which have made several attempts to run away lately, but at North avenue one of them slipped and the runaway came to an end within a few inches of Armstrong's drug store windows. The Plainfield Cab Company, which owns the rig, stated that no serious damage was done beyond frightening those in the carriage.

Removing Temptation.

My neighbor's small son, not yet 4 years old, appeared at my door one morning and, after looking in a moment, announced:

"You screen's unlocked."

I was busy, so I said, "All right."

"Why don' you lock it?" he said.

"In a minute I will," I answered, and he was silent a little while. Then: "I wish you would come do it now."

"But why, Lawrence?" I asked.

"Well," he sighed. "I might tum in, and my mamma said not to."—The Delineator.

Marvel of Marvels.

The extreme of plainness seems to be aimed at in some of the new hats. There are wide-brimmed satin hats, for instance, much more extended at the sides than at the back, and trimmed only with a feather, and not a large nor voluminous feather at that. One of these was in gray, with a gray feather, scanty and uncurled, caught with two silver acorns in front and extending to the back at the left side.

MESSAGE OF PRESIDENT

In His Annual Recommendation, Roosevelt Attacks the Anti-Trust Law.

FOR POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS.

Urges Legislation to Safeguard Wageworkers—Sherman Act Revision.

Washington, Dec. 8.—In his message to Congress, read to the two houses, the President said:

During the period from July 1, 1901, to Sept. 30, 1908, there has been a net surplus of nearly one hundred millions of receipts over expenditures, a reduction of the interest bearing debt by ninety millions, in spite of the extraordinary expense of the Panama canal and a saving of nearly nine millions on the annual interest charge. This is an exceedingly satisfactory showing. There has been a reduction of taxation.

Corporations.

As regards the great corporations engaged in interstate business, and especially the railroads, I can only repeat what I have already again and again said in my messages to the congress. I believe that under the interstate clause of the constitution the United States has complete and paramount right to control all agencies of interstate commerce, and I believe that the national government alone can exercise this right with wisdom and effectiveness so as both to secure justice from and to do justice to the great corporations which are the most important factors in modern business. I believe that it is worse than folly to attempt to prohibit all combinations, as is done by the Sherman anti-trust law, because such a law can be enforced only imperfectly and unequally, and its enforcement works almost as much hardship as good. I strongly advocate that instead of an unwise effort to prohibit all combinations there shall be substituted a law which shall expressly permit combinations which are in the interest of the public, but shall at the same time give to some agency of the national government full power of control and supervision over them. One of the chief features of this control should be securing entire publicity in all matters which the public has a right to know and, furthermore, the power, not by judicial, but by executive, action to prevent or put a stop to every form of improper favoritism or other wrongdoing.

The railways of the country should be put completely under the interstate commerce commission and removed from the domain of the anti-trust law.

Telegraph and telephone companies engaged in interstate business should be put under thr jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission.

The ooposition to government control of these great corporations makes its most effective effort in the shape of an appeal to the old doctrine of states' rights.

The proposal to make the national government supreme over, and therefore to give it complete control over, the railroads and other instruments of interstate commerce is merely a proposal to carry out to the letter one of the prime purposes, if not the prime purpose, for which the constitution was founded. It does not represent centralization.

I believe that the more farsighted corporations are themselves coming to recognize the unwisdom of the violent hostility they have displayed during the last few years to regulation and control by the national government of combinations engaged in interstate business.

Labor.

The depositors in our savings banks now number over one-tenth of our entire population. These are all capitalists who through the savings banks loan their money to the workers—that is, in many cases to themselves—to carry on their various industries. Postal savings banks will make it easy for the poorest to keep their savings in absolute safety. The regulation of the national highways must be such that they shall serve all people with equal justice. Corporate finances must be supervised so as to make it far safer than at present for the man of small means to invest his money in stocks. There must be prohibition of child labor, diminution of woman labor, shortening of hours of all mechanical labor. Stock watering should be prohibited, and stock gambling, so far as is possible, discouraged. There should be a progressive inheritance tax on large fortunes. Industrial education should be encouraged.

Protection For Wageworkers.

There is one matter with which the congress should deal at this session. There should no longer be any paltering with the question of taking care of the wageworkers who, under our present industrial system, become killed, crippled or worn out as part of the regular incidents of a given business. The object sought for could be achieved to a measurable degree, as far as

CITY FATHERS CONSIDER MANY MINOR MATTERS

The greater part of the December meeting of the Common Council, last night, was devoted to the consideration of petitions of one sort or another, and but little business of any importance was presented. Among the petitions were a number for lights, including one from L. V. F. Randolph for two lights on Farragut road, another for two on Leland avenue, one for two on Compton and Dunellen avenues, and for a light at Monroe and Sherman avenues.

Later in the evening resolutions offered by Mr. Montgomery, chairman of the light committee, were adopted, granting a light at Monroe and Sherman avenues, one at Leland and Columbia avenues, one at East Second and eGorge streets, in the vicinity of Randolph road, Cameron and Lenox avenues and Laramie road, two on Farragut road, two on Dunellen and Compton avenues and one at Frace and Maple avenues.

W. J. Poulson, proprietor of the Hotel Kensington, asked for permission to erect temporary storm doors in front of his main entrance and the matter was referred.

A protest was received from Herman A. Weber regarding an assessment from macadamizing in front of his property on West Second street, the petitioner claiming that he had the work done at his own expense. The matter was referred to the street committee.

A claim was received from Harry Dencklau for injuries which he claimed his horse received at Watchung avenue and Fifth street, July 26, 1908, by stumbling and falling in a bad hole in the road. He stated that his horse, which was valued at $150, sustained a cut on the knee which laid the animal up for several months and he was obliged to hire, then purchase another horse. The matter was referred to the street committee.

Another petition from Charles P. Sebring and others requested that Central avenue, between Front street and the railroad bridge, be widened. This was referred to the street committee, as was also a petition from the Highland Park Realty Company relative to vacating Raymond avenue.

The monthly report of H. G. Adams, clerk of the district court, showed the receipts to be $114.11, the expenditures $33.21, leaving a balance of $82.90.

A petition of Mrs. Emily Goodwin relative to an assessment, was presented by Mr. Buxton, accompanied by a letter from Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh, in which it was stated that the assessment was paid in 1907 and there was no further cause for complaint.

A resolution offered by Mr. Gloak and adopted, authorized an appropriation from the general fund of $1,849.71 for street work, the same to be charged up to the Public Service Corporation on account of that amount being due from the corporation. A number of old petitions referred sometime ago to the committee on public affairs, were reported back by Chairman Mygatt, the same having been attended to and the petitioners informed of the fact.

At the suggestion of Delafield & Longfellow, bond experts, who passed upon the recent street and firehouse bonds, and in accordance with a request of Moffett & White, of New York, the successful bidders, the Council authorized the registration of the bonds.

Mr Gloak reported that a settlement had been made with Hugh Gormley for injuries which his horse received sometime ago by stumbling over a pile of dirt in front of his home, Mr. Gormley agreeing to accept $75 and sign a release for that sum. On motion of Mr. Gloak the offer was accepted. Another resolution by Mr. Gloak and which was adopted, called for a reconsideration of a resolution giving Charles P. Sebring and Leo Slonim permission to erect a clock in front of the latter's place of business. It was then amended to read that the point of the base of the post to be erected be within ten inches of the curbline. The amendment was passed and then the resolution adopted, Councilmen Mygatt and Taylor voting in the negative.

Mr. Buxton moved that when Council adjourn it be to meet on Monday night, December 21, at 8 o'clock, was adopted.

Plainfield Clericus Meets.

The Plainfield Clericus was entertained at Grace church parish house yesterday afternoon, when a paper was read on "The Emmanuel Movement." The paper was to have been read by Rev. Dr. Sleeper, of Christ's church, Elizabeth, but he was detained and and another member took his place. Rev, Dr. Crowder, of Rahway, presided at the meeting. The presentation of the paper followed a lunch served by the church. Afterward there was an informal discussion.

THEY WANT ARC LIGHTS

Merchants' Association Members Urge the Common Council to Take Action.

DIFFICULTY IN THE EXPENSE.

City Fathers Have Long Considered Scheme—Business Men Willing to Pay Bill.

Accepting the invitation of Councilman F. L. Montgomery, chairman of the light committee, a delegation of twenty-five members of the Plainfield Merchants' Association, attended the Council meeting, last night, and through its president, A. E. Force, expressed its opinion regarding arc lights for the business section. Mr. Montgomery was invited to the association meeting, but being unable to go there, he suggested that the merchants be present at the Council session.

The privileges of the floor were granted the merchants upon motion of Mr. Buxton, and Mr. Force addressed the city fathers. He declared that if the city could not afford to install a reasonable number of arc lights on the business streets, the merchants would be willing to stand the expense of erecting these lights and paying for their maintenance, provided the Council would give the P. S. C. the right to erect poles and string wires.

"It was four months ago," continued Mr. Force, "that a petition signed by nearly four hundred persons was presented to this body asking that arc lights be established. That petition was tabled. Then another petition was presented and Mr Montgomery said that he would take the matter up with the committee and other members. Since then the association had heard nothing further on the subject and is now anxious to know how much longer the proposition is to be held up. The merchants are anxious that the business streets shall be lighted with arc lamps, believing it would be a good advertisement for the city and a help to business. I would suggest that the city make a contract with the P. S. C. for arc lights independent of the incandescent contract."

"This matter has been considered by the light committee," explained Mr. Montgomery, and while the P. S. C. submitted a proposition for furnishing arc lights, the Common Council was not willing to accept this contract. That provided for a five years' contract. I would like to ask whether the Board of Trade or Merchants' Association would favor a five years' contract for arc lights."

In reply Mr. Force said that he believed both organizations would favor such a contract independent of the incandescent contract.

Speaking further on the subject, Mr. Montgomery said that the P. S. C. had quoted a figure of $80 a year for arc lights, considered reasonable, but that under present conditions there were not enough votes in the Council to pass such a contract and until such time as the city fathers can obtain a favorable contract nothing will be done.

Mr. Suydam spoke favorably of arc lights, but opposed the contract proposed by the P. S. C., F. A. Duttenhofer, of the merchants' association, told about lighting conditions at Harrisburg, explaining that arc lamps are furnished in that city for $47.50, while at $50 there is good profit. He favored the installation of a municipal lighting plant to be operated by the garbage collected throughout the city. This he believed would be economy.

In referring to Mr. Duttenhofer's ramarks regarding the price of arc lights at Harrisburg, Mr. Montgomery explained that there are two companies there and one is trying to kill the other. This accounts for the low price for lights. There being no further discussion, the merchants retired.

JONAS LIE'S EXHIBITION AN ATTRACTIVE ONE.

The exhibition of small pictures and Royal Copenhagen porcelains at Jonas Lie's studio, opened yesterday with a large gathering of interested visitors. The pictures were much admired and seven sold in one day. The collection of the Royal Copenhagen porcelains with its delicate grays and blues under the highly finished glaze, the forms of animals and fishes in their natural color, the curling reptile on the paper-weight, the delicate iris on the vase with a landscape stretching away in the distance are all genuine works of art and are well worth a visit.

The Scandinavian embroideries are the envy of all. The exhibition is free to the public and will be open every day until the holidays in the Babbcock building, Madison avenue and West Front street.

"M.O." COMMISSION BUSY

Public Ownership of Water Supply Report to be Considered December 21.

JOINT PLANT SUGGESTION MADE

Another Scheme to Sell Water to Nearby Towns—Some Legal Difficulties.

The final draft of the report to be submitted to the Common Council on Monday night, December 21, will be considered at a special meeting of the local municipal ownership commission which is vested with the power of investigating the scheme of public control of the water supply. Countless meetings have been held by this body and by its several committees on law, engineering and the like.

According to well defined report the commission has found a number of legal difficulties to be overcome, but these are possible of satisfactory solution. As for the feasibility of the proposition, it is said that the commission will suggest that municipal control would only be a satisfactory and paying investment provided agreements could be made with surrounding communities for the supply of water or if these communities could be induced to join in the enterprise. Whether a joint plant of this kind could be established is problemmatical. On the otherhand it is said there are legal obstacles to the city's making a contract to supply water to other towns.

The exhaustive report of the commission will be presented at the Common Council's adjourned meeting but the consensus of opinion is that the matter will be passed on to the incoming Council, which will likely devote a special session to its consideration.

PETITION COUNCIL TO EXTEND JOHNSTON AVE.

Two petitions were received at the December meeting of the Common Council, last night, urging the adoption of the ordinance providing for the opening of Johnston avenue, between North and South avenues. They were signed by a large number of property-owners in the vicinity of Johnston avenue and the many advantages that would result from such an improvement were set forth. It was argued that it would afford easy access from the new fire-house to the northside of the railroad tracks, thereby giving the desired fire protection and besides it would be a great convenience to residents of the Netherwood section living between Berckman street and Leland avenue.

Another point referred to in the petition was that it would be an easy matter for the New Jersey Central to construct a bridge at that place. C. S. Sminck, one of the signers, said that he favored the least expensive plan, provided the railroad company would stand the cost of building the bridge. The matter was referred to the street committee.

There was some surprise when Chairman Montgomery of the light committee presented a communication from W. R. Causebrook, of the Public Service Corporation, in which the latter stated that it was discovered that the company had been charging the city for two incandescent lights which it did not have. After a conference with the light committee it was decided to submit a proposition in settlement, namely, that the company pay a rebate to the city of $77.50, equivalent to two lights at $15.50 a year for two and a half years. The offer was accepted and the amount will be credited.

A resolution offered by Mr. Buxton, chairman of the finance committee, authorizing City Treasurer W. F. Arnold to draw a check for $113,521.94 on account of Plainfield's share of the State and county tax and to forward the same to the county collector was adopted.

—Jonas Lie's studio is open every day and evening, including Sundays, with an exhibition of small pictures, a beautiful collection of exclusive Royal Copenhagen Porcelains, Scandinavian embroideries and sculpture works. Visitors cordially invited. Postoffice building. ***

COOPER STILL IN JAIL

Authorities Will Not Arraign Him Until After the Coroner's Inquest.

OFFERS OF BAIL IGNORED.

Prisoner's Action in Continuing Auto Ride After Striking Jonathan Randolph Is Severely Criticised.

Following a conference, this morning, between Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., Judge William N. Runyon and Chief of Police Kiely, it was decided that Floyd F. Cooper, the Westfield man whose automobile mortally injured Jonathan Randolph at Front street and Jefferson avenue, Sunday, would not be arraigned on the homicile charge preferred against him until after the coroner's inquest this afternoon. As Judge Runyon went out of town at noon and will not be back until late tonight the prisoner will have to remain in his cell at headquarters until sometime tomorrow, at least, bail having been refused. He is represented by former Judge William A. Coddington, who has been persistent in his efforts to secure his release.

The policie have continued their investigation of the "joy ride" that resulted in the fatal accident and have learned that every member of the party was fully aware that a man had been struck and perhaps fatally injured but nobody made any effort to go back. The machine was speeded into Dunellen, turned over the railroad at Washington avenue and thence to New Market, returning to Plainfield by a devious route. On New Market road, directly across from the Dunellen station, the tool box of the auto, which had evidently been jarred loose when Mr. Randolph was struck, dropped off and was found Sunday morning. It is now in possessioin of the local police.

The car in which the party was riding is a red Mitchell and is the property of Cooper. Mrs. Sarah Robinson occupied the front seat alongside the owher, Miss Matilda Schenck was in the rumbler in the rear and Miss Nettie Robinson sat on the floor on the left side with her feet resting on the running board. It is asserted by the police that Miss Robinson had a narrow escape from being seriously injured as the auto brushed against the trolley from which Mr. Randolph had alighted and a swing of an inch or more would have crushed her limbs.

The feeling against Cooper and also his guests on the ride has been very severe because of their inhuman conduct in continuing on when they knew someone had been hurt. In the event of Mr. Randolph's injuries having been less serious, the return of the machine to take him to a physician's office or the hospital might have saved his life, but there was no thought of lending aid. The sole thought of Cooper, as he expressed it himself, was to get away and if it had not been for the man's form being thrown against the trolley so that it attracted the attention of he crew he would probably have died in he roadway instead of at Muhlenberg. Criticism has also been directed against Mrs. Robinson alone for her action in refusing to give the police the name of the auto owner when they were seeking to place the responsibility for the accident. She was threatened with arrest before admitting that Cooper had been driving the car.

Conklin, pastor of the Reformed church, that place.

INDUSTRIAL HOME'S RULES ARE REVISED

Following several conferences held by the Councilmanic alms committee, in which Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss and Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, of the Plainfield Ministers' Association, took part, the rules governing the Industrial Home have been revised. At last night's meeting of the Common Council, Mr. Suydam presented a copy of the new regulations in the absence of the chairman, C. C. Randolph. They were laid on the table for further consideration. It is the intention of the committee to ask for their adoption the latter part of the month.

There are fourteen rules in all and they provide among other things that the establishment shall be under the general supervision of the alms committee, subject to the control of the Common Council; that the immediate direction of the Home shall be under the supervision of the superintendent and matron, who shall report to the overseer-of-the-poor and that it shall be the duty of the overseer-of-the-poor to make a monthly report to the alms committee of any information he may have.

It is further provided that the superintendent and matron shall in no instance leave the Home at the same time without permission from the overseer-of-the-poor, and not then until some suitable person shall be obtained by him to take charge during their absence, that no inmate shall leave the premises of the Home without permission from the superintendent and matron and such permission shall not be given more than once a month for meritorious service.

The superintendent and matron are strictly directed to prohibit all persons from bringing ardent spirits upon the premises and they shall refuse admission to any visitor known to have violated this rule. They are instructed to see that all inmates of the Home take a bath at least once a week, unless otherwise directed by the attending physician. The rules also provide that they shall see that the rooms occupied by inmates are thoroughly cleaned and the floors scrubbed at least once a week, and shall see that the halls and bath rooms are thoroughly scrubbed once a week. No person, male or female, under fourteen years of age shall be admitted as a beneficiary.

Friends of the inmates of the Home will be permitted to visit them twice a week, Sunday and Wednesday afternoon, from 2 to 5 o'clock, except in cases of sickness or special emergency, and discretionary power is given the superintendent and matron as to the admission or exclusion of visitors.

It is also provided that when any inmate having reason to make complaint for any cause, he shall do so to the overseer-of-the-poor in writing, who shall communicate the same to the alms committee. The overseer-of-the-poort is directed to report to the alms committee any inmate who refuses to comply with the rules relating to their discipline and government. No smoking will be allowed in any of the inmates rooms, except in the smoking room, unless by special permission of the superintendent.

WOULD CLEAN BROOK AND ERECT WALLS

Retaining walls will line Green brook on both sides if the plans of the Board of Health of North Plainfield are put into execution. At the regular meeting of the board last night resolution were adopted instructing Counsel F. J. Blatz to take the matter up with the boards of freeholders of Union and Somerset counties, with a view to having the walls constructed from Watchung avenue to Grove street and to have the bed of the brook cleaned out and kept free from the accumulations which have for a long time made the stream a menace to public health.

In a former agitation of the subject it was demonstrated that the Board of Health had no jurisdiction over the brook, and that it was a matter for the Board of Freeholders entirely, hence the present action of the health officials.

Miss Natalie Wildey Engaged.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Natalie Wildey, youngest daughter of Charles F. Wildey, of Central avenue, and Hart Farlee, of New York. Both are prominent in the younger society set. Miss Wildey, like her sisters, is an expert tennis player, while Mr. Farlee is a member of the Watchung Hunt and other clubs. He is a cousin to Mrs. Charles J. Fisk. No date has been set for the wedding.

ANNEXATION IS FAR OFF

Commission Made Its Report A Year Ago, But Has Had No Bill Drafted.

COMMISSIONERS KEEP MUM.

None Will Say Why This Delay, but There May be Something Doing Very Soon.

Although more than a year has passed since a favorable report was filed by the Bi-Municipal Consolidation Commission, the necessary referendum bill or bills yet remain undrawn. In fact not until last night had any action been taken towards that end. What was done at a meeting held at the home of the chairman, former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, none would say. Mayor Fisk was present but refused to say anything about it. The commissioners assumed the same attitude. It has been gathered that the commissioners are wary of incurring any indebtedness that would be necessary for legal services.

It is reported by members of the local Common Council that intimation has been given that when they hold an adjourned meeting on Monday night, Dec. 21, the dilemma of the commission will be considered. So far as the city, at least, is concerned there is no more agitation in favor of either consolidation or annexation than there ever has been. The city's attitude on the subject was probably best shown when the commission granted a public hearing for taxpayers of Plainfield. Less than half a dozen attended the meeting to express their views.

In North Plainfield, however, there is a growing feeling, it is considered, favorable to the annexation of North Plainfield to Union county, and as the commission has recommended that annexation must include consolidation of city and borough, it is expected that a vote will be taken on the joint scheme provided a bill should be passed by the legislature. North Plainfield, incensed over heavy tax burdens from which it appears it is said there is no relief would, according to those in a position to know, pass favorably on the project. The situation is far different, in Plainfield, however, for the city is blessed with the modern improvements while the borough is almost bereft of them. Plainfield taxpayers approached on the subject give this as reason why they would vote against the scheme. They take the position that the consummation of the plan would mean increased taxes for them without a single benefit.

HALF YEARLY FEAST OF BUSINESS MEN'S CLASS

The Business Men's Class of the Y. M. C. A. indulged in its semi-annual banquet last night in the Association rooms. Twenty-three members were present and several of them made short after dinner talks, which were principally in the nature of anecdotes.

Dr. Charles G. Davis acted as toastmaster and those who responded were: H. C. Runyon, H. E. Parker and G. L. Listman.

Harry K. Liister's "talking machine orchestra" entertained the banqueters with a program of fourteen numbers, which included vocal and instrumental solos, duets and quartets, besides band and orchestra selections.

Mrs Henry Johnson, the caterer, supplied the eatables.

Those present were: G. M. Clark, B. P. Adams, Dr. O. B. Whitford, Dr. C. G. Davis, W. S. Angleman, D. J. Carney, Dr. N. H. Probasco, Dr. G. H. Hillman, H. T. Joseph, F. O. Dunning, Dr. R. S. Stevens, Dr. B. F. Leonard, Dr. C. W. Leonard, H. C. Runyon, John H. Doane, G. C. N. Smith, John G. Loizeaux, W. H. P. Veysey, J. W. Pearce, H. E. Parker, G. L. Listman, Prof. G. E. Webster and Francis J. Blatz.

BASEBALL.

From the Hub comes a yarn to the effect that President Dovey of the Boston Nationals and his manager, Joe Kelley, are on the outs. It is said that Dovey has requested Kelley to resign and that the latter has refused because his contract runs for another year. Sometime ago it was reported that Kelley asked for his release and that Dovey declined to grant it. Dovey is believed to have made some sort of an agreement with Frank Bowerman to take hold of the Boston Nationals for next year, and if Kelley agrees to get out the latter may assume the management of the Brooklyns.

John I. Taylor, president of the Boston Americans, has secured the services of right fielder Harry Hooper of the Sacramento club of the California State League. Taylor is on the Coast in search of talent and says that Hooper is a remarkable outfielder.

Manager Stallings of the New York Americans thinks that Willie Keeler has not seen his best days yet and that he will be of much service to the Highlanders next season. Keeler was under the weather the greater part of last season and could not do himself justice. If Keeler thinks he can play good ball again he will say so; otherwise he will quit the game of his own accord.

Capt. Currier of the Harvard varsity ball nine announces that he has signed Christy Mathewson to coach the Crimson players next year. New York's great pitcher will assume his duties at Cambridge on January 1 and will have full charge, but will devote the greater part of his time to the boxmen. Mathewson's contract with Harvard will not expire before the college season ends in June, so that the New York Nationals will not have the use of his skill until that time. It is reported that Mathewson may retire permanently from professional baseball, particularly if he makes a success as a writer of insurance, at which he is at present engaged.

Will Charles H. Ebbets sell a controlling interest in the Brooklyn club? It is understood that within the last forty-eight hours he has been told to name any figure that he will sell at. These who want to buy the Brooklyn club are New Yorkers who have a barrel of money behind them and are loyal to the National League. They think they can give Brooklyn a winning team. Ebbets, it is widely rumored, will turn over the management to Bill Dahlen, if such a thing is possible, and if he does not agree to sell the Brooklyn club before spring. Dahlen according to good judges of baseball, was never cut out for a team leader, but that makes no difference as far as Ebbets is concerned. If he wants to get out of baseball he can secure his own terms. This is a fact.

Unless a check is put upon the demands of players who take part in the world's series each fall it is said that the time is not far distant when the games will be abolished for the same reason which caused the wiping out of the Temple contests ten years ago.

Official averages of the American Association for the season of 1908, issued yesterday, furnish some interesting data to baseball fans who have followed the records of the new recruits obtained last season by the New York Giants. Two of the players obtained by John McGraw for the Giants from the American Association last year were Rube Marquard, who was reported to have cost the New York Baseball Club $11,000, and "Bull" Durham. They are both pitchers, and great things were expected of them, but both had their chance last September in a double header against Cincinnati at the Polo Grounds, when a victory was a mighty precious achievement, and both were found wanting. Marquard was touted wildly in the West as an "iron man" and a great puzzle to batsmen. Durham's name was also raised to the sky, but neither of them showed anything. McGraw is still satisfied with them, and expects to send them to the post next season, trained to take their regular turn in the box and win brackets.

Durham was in thirty-five games in the American Association last season, part of the time with Louisville and the rest with Indianapolis. Some of these games did not count in his record, as he pitched only an inning or two. He led the league pitchers with nineteen victories and seven defeats for an average of .731. In fielding he finished third among the pitchers, with twenty-one put-outs, sixty-five assists and one error for an average of .986. Though he struck out seventy-eight batters, he was also pretty wild, for eighty-one men got their bases on balls and he hit five players.

Rube Marquard officiated in forty-seven games, the greatest number of any pitcher in the league but his average was not as good as Durham's. Of these forty-seven games he won twenty-eight and lost nineteen, making his record .596. He had thirty put-outs and ninety-two assists to his credit, and nine errors to his discredit, giving him a fielding percentage of .946.

During the season 1,259 batters faced Marquard. Of this number 234 got hits, scoring ninety runs. He was far and away in the lead in the number of strike outs, and his record compares favorable with that of Christy Mathewson, who led the National League twirlers with 259 strike outs. Marquard made the exceedingly fine record of 250 strike outs. His control was far from as good as that of Matty's, however, for he passed 135 batters. A close analysis of these records of the two youngsters show that they may be depended upon to do good work for the Giant before the season of 1909 is at an end.

FOOTBALL.

Since the football game with North Carolina's University, ending with such a decisive victory for the University of Virginia team, there has been unusual interest aroused among the student body in athletics. It seems to be the prevailing belief that the athletic teams of the South do not get the credit they deserve by reason of the fact that their playing is either local or with other teams of the North, and therefore their star players do not come under the eye of the best critics. It is suggested that a game be scheduled either with Princeton or the Navy next fall. For some time in the past games were played with Pennsylvania, but were discontinued after four or five contests.

The Navy has furnished many close fights against Virginia, but they have not met for two years, since the alumni system has been in vogue at Virginia. Also the Carlisle Indians. Virginia's ancient foes, have eliminated themselves from the possibility of securing a game by reason of their decision not to come this far South during the football season, on account of the bad effect upon their nerves. The undergraduates say that if Stanton, the brilliant halfback from California, had played on one of the big elevens, he would be known all over the United States as All-American timber, while now he has been seen by choosers of these paper teams only once or twice, and then maybe at a disadvantage. Something will most probably come of the students' wish to break away from the practice of playing only Southern teams in the future, and Virginia will probably appear against one of the most prominent big universities in football next fall.

TAX BOARD MAKES TOUR AND REDUCES ASSESSMENTS.

Assessments were reduced on some of the more larger properties in the borough yesterday afternoon by the Somerset County Board for the Equalization of Taxes at its meeting in the Council chamber. About thirty applicants asked for reduction, and the board found that about half of the protesting property-owners had no cause for reduction and the assessments were therefore left as they were.

A tour of inspection was made and the property of every protested assessment examined. In a few instances the assessments on improved property was found to be too high, and were accordingly readjusted.

BOYLE WAS ACCOMMODATED.

Went Looking for Trouble and Patrick Jennings Delivered a Large Package.

Patrick Boyle, a West Ender, laid off work yesterday because of the rain and got wet inside by visiting thirst emporiums. He was in the Kensington bar room in the afternoon looking for trouble, and found it. Patrick Jennings delivered a large package of it by clipping him over a few and then dancing a can-can on him as he measured his length on the floor. When the excitement was over, Jennings had disappeared and Boyle was being escorted to a cell by Patrolman Nolan.

The prisoner was arraigned before Judge Runyon, this morning, but as the police are looking for Jennings, he was released on his own recognizance until tomorrow.

He dwelt on the commendable practise of paying tribute to the departed and declared that it was a practise that might well be emulated by other organiziations. "Its showed," he said, "that the feeling of brotherhood and love for humanity was still strong. He was introduced by the exalted ruler of the lodge, Samuel Cohen.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

those killed or crippled are concerned by proper employers' liability laws. As far as concerns those who have been worn out, I call your attention to the fact that definite steps toward providing old age pensions have been taken in many of our private industries.

The Courts.

I most earnestly urge upon the congress the duty of increasing the totally inadequate salaries now given to our judges. On the whole, there is no body of public servants who do as valuable work nor whose moneyed reward is so inadequate compared to their work. Beginning with the supreme court, the judges should have their salaries doubled.

At the last election certain leaders of organized labor made a violent and sweeping attack upon the entire judiciary of the country, an attack couched in such terms as to include the most upright, honest and broad minded judges no less than those of narrower mind and more restricted outlook. Last year before the house committee on the judiciary these same labor leaders formulated their demands, specifying the bill that contained them, refusing all compromise, stating they wished the principle of that bill or nothing. They insisted on a provision that in a labor dispute no injunction should issue except to protect a property right and specifically [illegible]ded that the right to carry on [illegible]ess should not be construed as a [illegible]erty right, and in a second pro[illegible]n their bill made legal in a labor dispute any act or agreement by or between two or more persons that would not have been unlawful if done by a single person. In other words, this bill legalized blacklisting and boycotting in every form. The demand was made that there should be trial by jury in contempt cases, thereby most seriously impairing the authority of the courts. All this represented a course of policy which, if carried out, would mean the enthronement of class privilege in its crudest and most brutal form and the destruction of one of the most essential functions of the judiciary in all civilized lands.

The wageworkers, the workingmen, the laboring men of the country, by the way in which they repudiated the effort to get them to cast their votes in response to an appeal to class hatred have emphasized their sound patriotism and Americanism.

Courts Imperiled by Judges.

But the extreme reactionaries, the persons who blind themselves to the wrongs now and then committed by the courts on laboring men, should also think seriously as to what such a movement as this portends. The courts are jeoparded primarily by the action of these federal and state judges who show inability or unwillingness to put a stop to the wrongdoing of very rich men under modern industrial conditions.

There is also, I think, ground for the belief that substantial injustice is often suffered by employees in consequence of the custom of courts issuing temporary injunctions without notice to them and punishing them for contempt of court in instances where, as a matter of fact, they have no knowledge of any proceedings. Provision should be made that no injunction or temporary restraining order issue otherwise than on notice, except where irreparable injury would otherwise result, and in such case a hearing on the merits of the order should be had within a short fixed period, and if not then continued after hearing it should forthwith lapse. Decisions should be rendered immediately and the chance of delay minimized in every way.

People Themselves to Blame.

For many of the shortcomings of justice in our country our people as a whole are themselves to blame, and the judges and juries merely bear their share together with the public as a whole. It is discreditable to us as a people that there should be difficulty in convicting murderers or in bringing to justice men who as public servants have been guilty of corruption or who have profited by the corruption of public servants.

The huge wealth that has been accumulated by a few individuals of recent years, in what has amounted to a social and industrial revolution, has been as regards some of these individuals made possible only by the improper use of the modern corporation. Corporations are necessary instruments of modern business. They have been permitted to become a menace largely because the governmental representatives of the people have worked slowly in providing for adequate control over them.

Forests.

If there is any one duty which more than another we owe it to our children and our children's children to perform at once it is to save the forests of this country, for they constitute the first and most important element in the conservation of the natural resources of the country.

Shortsighted persons, or persons blinded to the future by desire to make money in every way out of the present, sometimes speak as if no great damage would be done by the reckless destruction of our forests. It is difficult to have patience with the arguments of these persons. Thanks to our own recklessness in the use of our splendid forests, we have already crossed the verge of a timber famine in this country, and no measures that we now take can, at least for many years, undo the mischief that has already been done. But we can prevent further mischief being done, and it

ALE AIDS DIGESTION.

Starchy Foods Are Hardest to Digest and Ale Acts as a Solvent.

Potatoes, bread, rice, oatmeal and foods of like nature are known as starchy foods and are hardest to digest.

It is a well known fact that pure ale such as Bartholomay's Sparkling acts as a mild stimulant to the stomach and as a solvent or digester of starchy foods.

If you have indigestion, try drinking a glass of ale at noon and night and note the result.

In a week you'll feel better; in a month you'll be able to eat anything within reason.

A simple remedy you say; yes and a sensible remedy, for simple remedies are usually the best and most sensible.

Bartholomay's Sparkling ale is an appetizing drink. If you have no appetite or if what you eat does not taste as it should, then ale will help you and help you quickly.

Call up Henry Haurand, 'phone number 229, and give him your order today. He will be pleased to fill it promptly. 12 8 10 11 would be in the highest degree reprehensible to let any consideration of temporary convenience or temporary cost interfere with such action, especially as regards the national forests, which the nation can now at this very moment control.

Inland Waterways.

Action should be begun forthwith, during the present session of congress, for the improvement of our inland waterways—action which will result in giving us not only navigable but navigated rivers. We have spent hundreds of millions of dollars upon these waterways, yet the traffic on nearly all of them is steadily declining. This condition is the direct result of the absence of any comprehensive and farseeing plan of waterway improvement. Obviously we cannot continue thus to expend the revenues of the government without return. It is poor business to spend money for inland navigation unless we get it.

Postal Savings Banks.

I again renew my recommendation for postal savings banks, for depositing savings with the security of the government behind them. The object is to encourage thrift and economy in the wage earner and person of moderate means. It is believed that in the aggregate vast sums of money would be brought into circulation through the instrumentality of the postal savings banks. Postal savings banks are now in operation in practically all the great civilized countries with the exception of the United States.

Parcel Post.

In my last annual message I commended the postmaster general's recommendation for an extension of the parcel post on the rural routes. The establishment of a local parcel post on rural routes would be to the mutual benefit of the farmer and the country storekeeper, and it is desirable that the routes, serving more than 15,000,000 people, should be utilized to the fullest practicable extent.

Education.

The share that the national government should take in the broad work of education has not received the attention and the care it rightly deserves.

I earnestly recommend that this unfortunate state of affairs as regards the national educational office be remedied by adequate appropriations.

Statehood.

I advocate the immediate admission of New Mexico and Arizona as states. This should be done at the present session of the congress. The people of the two territories have made it evident by their votes that they will not come in as one state. The only alternative is to admit them as two, and I trust that this will be done without delay.

Foreign Affairs.

This nation's foreign policy is based on the theory that right must be done between nations precisely as between individuals, and in our actions for the last ten years we have in this matter proved our faith by our deeds. We have behaved and are behaving toward other nations as in private life an honorable man would behave toward his fellows.

Latin American Republics.

The commercial and material progress of the twenty Latin American republics is worthy of the careful attention of the congress. No other section of the world has shown a greater proportionate development of its foreign trade during the last ten years, and none other has more special claims on the interest of the United States.

Panama Canal.

The work on the Panama canal is being done with a speed, efficiency and entire devotion to duty which make it a model for all work of the kind. No task of such magnitude has ever before been undertaken by any nation, and no task of the kind has ever been better performed. The men on the isthmus, from Colonel Goethals and his fellow commissioners through the entire list of employees who are faithfully doing their duty, have won their right to the ungrudging respect and gratitude of the American people.

Ocean Mail Lines.

I again recommend the extension of the ocean mail act of 1891 so that satisfactory American ocean mail lines to South America, Asia, the Philippines and Australasia may be established. The creation of such steamship lines should be the natural corollary of the voyage of the battle fleet. It should precede the opening of the Panama canal.

The Philippines.

Real progress toward self government is being made in the Philippine Islands. The gathering of a Philippine legislative body and Philippine assembly marks a process absolutely new in Asia, not only as regards Asiatic colonies of European powers, but as regards Asiatic possessions of other Asiatic powers, and indeed, always excepting the striking and wonderful example afforded by the great empire of Japan, it opens an entirely new departure when compared with anything which has happened among Asiatic powers which are their own masters. We have given the Filipinos constitutional government, a government based upon justice, and we have shown that we have governed them for their good and not for our aggrandizement.

At the present time, as during the past ten years, the inexorable logic of facts shows that this government must be supplied by us and not by them. We must be wise and generous. We must help the Filipinos to master the difficult art of self control, which is simply another name for self government. But we cannot give them self government save in the sense of governing them so that gradually they may, if they are able, learn to govern themselves. No one can prophesy the exact date when it will be wise to consider independence as a fixed and definite policy.

Porto Rico.

I again recommend that American citizenship be conferred upon the people of Porto Rico.

Cuba.

In Cuba our occupancy will cease in about two months' time. The Cubans have in orderly manner elected their own governmental authorities, and the island will be turned over to them. Our occupation on this occasion has lasted a little over two years, and Cuba has thriven and prospered under it. Our earnest hope and one desire is that the people of the island shall now govern themselves with justice, so that peace and order may be secure.

The Army.

As regards the army, I call attention to the fact that, while our junior officers and enlisted men stand very high, the present system of promotion by seniority results in bringing into the higher grades many men of mediocre capacity who have but a short time to serve. No man should regard it as his vested right to rise to the highest rank in the army any more than in any other profession.

There should be legislation to provide a complete plan for organizing the great body of volunteers behind the regular army and national guard when war has come. While teams representing the United States won the rifle and revolver championships of the world against all comers in England this year, it is unfortunately true that the great body of our citizens shoot less and less as time goes on.

To meet this we should encourage rifle practice among schoolboys and indeed among all classes, as well as in the military services, by every means in our power.

The Navy.

I approve the recommendations of the general board for the increase of the navy, calling especial attention to the need of additional destroyers and colliers and, above all, of the four battleships. It is desirable to complete as soon as possible a squadron of eight battleships of the best existing type. The North Dakota, Delaware, Florida and Utah will form the first division of this squadron.

Fanwood Woman Fleeced.

Harold E. Brewer, the swindler of women, who was arrested in Newark Friday, was committed to jail today in default of $3,000 bail. Among his victims who identified him in court was Mrs. George Carter, of Fanwood, from who mhe had got $50. Brewer married a Munroe girl two weeks ago, while posing as a traveling salesman.

In Honor of Father Bogan.

The children of the parochial school gave Father Bogan a surprise yesterday afternoon, when an entertainment and play was presented in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of his birth, which occurs today. This morning on the occasion of the feast of the Immaculate Conception, solemn mass was held at the church.

Father Bogan to Speak.

"Knights and their Doings" will be the subject of an address given by Rev. B. M. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's church, at the ninth anniversary banquet of Olive Branch Council, Knights of Columbus, in Newark, tonight. The affair will be held at Achtel-Stetter's.

Women's Exchange Nets $375.

The Women's Exchange will net $375 as a result of the recent sale and entertainment held at the Hartridge School auditorium. This is considered exceptionally good, inasmuch as several similar affairs were held at the same time.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The firm favor held throughout the entire country by Charles Klein's great drama, "The Lion and the Mouse," has placed it upon an equal plane of popularity with "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "The Old Homestead" for the good principles made are in the true-to-life teachings. "The Lion and the Mouse" deals with a topic that has the serious consideration of men in the business world of the present and appeals to every noble-minded woman through the constancy of Mrs. Ryder toward her stormy, money-mad husband, who is shown the error of his ways by a sincere young authoress. The effect of his softening is obvious as it illustrates to Ryder the joys of love from home, rather than money and power, and shows the public how much suffering could have been heaped upon the Ryder household had not Mrs. Ryder been the good sort she was in remaining true to her vows through the many brain storms of her spouse. Her reward was well worth the few reproaches of the man who has thought of nothing but money, and its getting. In considering a comparison it is but a fair compliment to the public to assume that this great drama will outlive the profitable existence of the two mentioned older works. Henry B. Harris sends what has been said to be the best company yet seen in "The Lion and the Mouse" to the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night.

One of the most sparkling sessions of comedy ever inaugurated in this city will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night, when "Peck's Bad Boy" will be presented. Everything is said to be fresh and overflowing with humorous situations, catchy dialogue and surprising changes that keep the audience on the qui vive for surge after surge of side-splitting amusement. "Peck's Bad Boy" has always been the strongest magnet to attract the juvenile class to its matinees, and no doubt this reputation will be fully sustained at the afternoon performance to be given here.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church, will hold its monthly meeting in Vincent chapel this afternoon to plan for the winter's work.

The Sunday-school of the First Baptist church is rehearsing a Christmas program of unusual interest, under the direction of C. W. McCutchen.

Following the prayer meeting at the First M. E. church tomorrow night there will be a session of the official board to consider plans of work for the winter.

Robert E. Speer will address the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Tuesday afternoon, December 15, at 3:30 o'clock.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church is planning an entertainment for Tuesday night, December 22. The proceeds will be for Christmas offerings for the poor.

The BRASS BOWL

By LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

(Copyright 1907, The Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

"It was very kind of you," she said in a steady small voice, "to pretend that we—what you did pretend, in order to save me from being held as a witness. At least, I presume that is why you did it?"—with a note of uncertainty.

"It is unnecessary that you should be drawn into the affair," he replied, with some resumption of his self-possession. "It isn't as if you were—"

"A thief?" she supplied, as he hesitated.

"A thief," he assented, gravely.

"But I—I am," with a break in her voice.

"But you are not," he asserted almost fiercely. And, "Dear," he said, boldly, "don't you suppose I know?"

"—what do you know?"

"That you brought back the jewels, for one minor thing. I found them almost as soon as you had left. And then I knew—knew that you cared enough to get them from this fellow Anisty and bring them back to me, knew that I cared enough to search the world from end to end until I found you, that you might wear them—if you would."

But she had drawn away, had averted her face; and he might not see it; and she shivered slightly, staring out of the window at the passing lights. He saw, and perforce paused.

"You—you don't understand," she told him in a rush. "You give me credit beyond my due. I didn't break into your flat again, to-night, in order to return the jewels—at least, not for that alone."

"But you did bring back the jewels?"

She nodded.

"Then doesn't that prove what I claim, prove that you've cleared yourself—?"

"No," she told him, firmly, with the firmness of despair; "it does not. Because I did not come for that only. I came with another purpose—to steal, as well as to make restitution. And I—I stole."

There was a moment's silence, on his part incredulous. "I don't know what you mean. What did you steal? Where is it?"

"I have lost it—"

"Was it in your hand-bag?"

"You found that?"

"You dropped it in the trunk-closet. I found it there. There is something of mine in it?"

Dumb with misery, she nodded; and after a little: "You didn't look, of course."

"I had no right," he said, shortly.

"Other men wo-would have thought they had the right. I th-think you had, the circumstances considered. At all events," steadying her voice, "I say you have, now. I give you that right. Please go and investigate that hand-bag, Mr. Maitland. I wish you to."

He turned and stared at her curiously. "I don't know what to think," he said. "I can not believe—"

"You mu-must believe. I have no right to profit by your disbelief. Dear Mr. Maitland, you have been kind to me, very kind to me; do me this last kindness, if you will."

The young face turned to him was gravely and perilously sweet; very nearly he forgot all else. But that she would not have.

"Do this for me. What you will find will explain everthing. You will understand. Perhaps"—timidly—"perhaps you may even find it in your heart to forgive when you understand. If you should, my card-case is in the bag, and—" She faltered, biting her lip cruelly to steady a voice quivering with restrained sobs. "Please, please go at once, and—and see for yourself!" she implored him passionately.

Of a sudden he found himself resolved. Indeed, he fancied that it were dangerous to oppose her; she was overwrought, on the verge of losing her command of self. She wished this thing, and though with all his soul he hated it, he would do as she desired.

"Very well," he assented quietly. "Shall I stop the cab now?"

"Please."

He tapped on the roof of the hansom and told the cabby to draw in at the next corner. Thus he was put down not far from his home—below the Thirty-third street grade.

Neither spoke as he alighted, and she believed that he was leaving her in displeasure and abhorrence; but he had only stepped behind the cab for a moment to speak to the driver. In a moment he was back, standing by the step with one hand on the apron and staring in very earnestly and soberly at the shadowed sweetness of her pallid face, that gleamed in the gloom there like some pale, shy, sad flower.

Could there be evil combined with such sheer loveliness, with features that in every line bodied forth the purity of the spirit that abode within? In the soul of him he could not believe that a thief's nature fed canker-like at the heart of a woman so divinely, naively dear and desirable. And—he would not.

"Won't you let me go?"

"Just a minute. I—I should like to—If I find that you have done nothing so very dreadful," he laughed uneasily, "do you wish to know?"

"You know I do." She could not help saying that, letting him see that far into her heart.

"You spoke of my calling, I believe. That means to-morrow afternoon, at the earliest. May I not call you up on the telephone?"

"The number is in the book," she said in a tremulous voice.

"And your name in the card-case?"

"Yes."

"And if I should call in half an hour—?"

"O, I shall not sleep until I know! Good night!"

"Good night! Drive on, cabby."

He stood, smiling queerly, until the hansom, climbing the Park Avenue hill, vanished over its shoulder. Then swung about and with an eager step retraced his way to his rooms, very confident that God was in his heaven and all well with the world.

Merchants Discuss Coming Banquet.

The Plainfield Merchants' Association held a short meeting last night, the only business of importance being a report of the banquet committee, of which M. C. VanArsdale is the chairman. The date for the affair has not been fixed as yet, but it has been decided to hold it at the Hartridge School Auditorium. As soon as arrangements are completed for the speakers the date will be announced. After the business of the evening a majority of those present attended the session of the Common Council in the interest of arc lights for the business section. The merchants were greatly disappointed because little encouragement for the improvement was given.

Pingry School in a Blaze.

The Pingry School, located at Parker Lane and Union avenue, Elizabeth, was almost destroyed by fire last night. The cause of the fire is a mystery. It is expected studies will be resumed Thursday morning.

ELK TEAM CAPTURES FIRST BOWLING GAMES

Opening games in the Fraternal Bowling League were rolled on Campbell's alleys last night with teams from the Elks and Miantonomo Tribe of Red Men competing. The former carried off the honors by taking two of the three games rolled.

The Miantonomo rooters were out in force and the Elk delegates made up in enthusiasm what they lacked in numbers.

Despite a score of 88 by Woolston the Elks captured the first game by thirty-two pins, due chiefly to Kiely's 187 and Laing's 178, neither team reaching the 800 mark.

Willet's 202 was the principal factor in the victory of the Red Men in the second game, the team winning out by the scant margin of sixteen pins. The final game was hotly contested.

The Elks got off strong and were leading in the second frame by twenty-four pins, but the Miantonomo home team took the lead in the fourth frame and maintained it until the ninth, when triples by Kiely and Laing put the Elks in front and finally winning out, with thirty-five pins to spare.

Willets 221 and Kiely's 212 were high for the night. Tomorrow night the Sangerbund and Wetumpka teams meet.

Last night's scores:

| Elks. | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Kiely | 187 | 160 | 212 |
| Van Emburgh | 129 | 173 | 164 |
| Woolston | 88 | 153 | 151 |

PATROLMEN ORGANIZED

William J. Messler Head of Local Branch of N. J. Benevolent Association.

STATE OFFICERS ARE PRESENT.

Refreshments Served and Speeches Made Following the Formal Institution.

Plainfield Branch, No. 18, of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association of New Jersey, was instituted in the Knights of Columbus Hall, yesterday afternoon and officers for the coming year were elected, after which a banquet was enjoyed. The institution of the new branch, which starts with a charter membership of nineteen, was in charge of State President Henry W. Weller, of Newark, who was accompanied by other State officers.

After the branch was organized these officers were announced for the ensuing year: President, William Messler; vice-president, Charles Flynn; recording secretary, Cornelius McCarthy; financial secretary, Daniel MacDonald; treasurer, Dennis O'Keefe; sergeant-at-arms, Arthur McGinley; legislative committee, committee, John Payne, George Dobson, Richard Birmingham; trustees, George Dobson, Andrew Saffron and John Payne.

President William Messler.

Following the details of organization, President Messler addressed the members. He briefly stated the objects of the association to be benevolent and for the protection of the members of time of sickness and accident. He called upon everyone to co-operate and stand shoulder to shoulder in the performance of duty and urged the men not to criticize their superior officers, but to lend every assistance in preserving the peace and good order of the city. He cited the fact that the patrolmen have always been loyal in the past and he felt sure that in the future they would prove equal to every occasion.

In referring to the objects of the association, President Messler expressed the hope that through co-operation the interest of every man would be protected and that their rights would be maintained. He asked for the united support of every member in holding up the high principles set forth in the constitution, realizing that the State association comprising a membership of about 1,500 men, is banded together only for that which is right. Mr. Messler's remarks were received with much applause.

Remarks were then made by State President Henry W. Weller, State Delegate John E. Smith and Patrolman Theodore McNally, of Newark; State Vice-President John Begins, of Jersey City; Past State Presidents Daniel Walsh, of Hoboken, and J. D. Garrison, of Paterson, and State Secretary H. B. G. Harrison, of Hoboken.

After the meeting for organization which was private, the members and invited guests, including Chief Kiely, Captain Chris. Frederickson, Detective Sergeant John Flyn, Sergeant Herbert L. Overbaugh and Roundsman Maurice Higgins, adjourned to the banquet hall, where a fine spread was served by Timbo. Afterward a smoker and social time was enjoyed.

The Patrolmen's Benevolent Association is now organized in eighteen cities of the State, Asbury Park, Bayonne, Elizabeth, Hoboken, Jersey City, Long Branch, Newark, Paterson Passaic, Trenton, West Hoboken, West New York, Perth Amboy, Weehawken, Union Hill, East Orange, North Bergen and Plainfield.

The association has been formed along lines similar to that of the Superior Officers' Association, and is now strong enough to secure legislative enactments favorable to the interests of the patrolmen. During the past two or three years considerable advancement has been made in this direction and other legislation is anticipated this winter.

Miss Ida Yerkes, of Grove street, has gone to Philadelphia to spend a couple of weeks with friends.

TALKS ON THE FILIPINOS

Dr. Charles C. Pierce, Former Army Chaplain, Contrasts Them with Cubans.

HIS DISCOURSE INSTRUCTIVE.

Lecturer Says People in Philippines Are Fitted for Self-Government; Not So Cubans.

The experiences of a chaplain of the United States Army while stationed in the Philippines during the late war, were related by the chaplain, himself, Dr. Charles C. Pierce, of Philadelphia, last night in an address to the Men's Club of the Crescent Avenue church. About forty members were present and after the lecture all gathered in the chapel where refreshments were served and an opportunity given to meet the speaker.

It was Dr. Pierce's belief that the Filipinos are far more capable of self government than are the Cubans, and he explained his position by citing the attitudes of the two races towards the church. He had served eight months in uba also, and had observed that the Cubans were irreverant and treated their own church with disrespect, while the Filipinos, who, he said, had much more reason for abandoning their church, on account of their hatred for the Spanish friars, were still devout worshippers.

He did not state how soon the islanders might be able to run their own government, but declared that before that could be, they would first have to develop a race of their own, the Filipinos of today being represented by a number of different races, of widely divergent characistics. By the process of intermarriage, a characteristic Filipino people would develop which would be a credit to every nation.

The lecturer explained why industrial enterprises had not flourished under the Spanish rule. Taxes which yielded no returns to the people and which ate up all of the profits, had been imposed upon everything, even to the raising of a cocoanut tree. The natives could find no enjoyment in working whereby some one else would reap the benefits, and themselves receive nothing, and thir spirit had, therefore, gradually deterrorated.

There is no danger of Japan ever gaining control in the islands, he believes, for the reason that the natives both fear and hate the Japs. This condition has existed since a ship load of lepers had been dumped among them by the Mikado many years ago, the act having been done in retaliation of a grievance which he had held against the Spandiards who were then in possession. The sight of a Jap is distasteful to the inhabitants to this day, he said.

The music was excellent. Miss Florence Austin's violin renditions captivated the audience and she was compelled to respond to many vociferous encores

Miss Anna L. They were generous with encore selections and were well prepared with extra ones, past experiences teaching that they would be needed.

Dr. J. H. Buchanan and Miss Marion Austin accompanied the soloists with the piano.

The program follows:

Masonic Band March, "Imperial Teteques," F. H. Losey; overture, from "Jolly Robbers," von Suppe; trombone solo, "Ave Maria," Charles Gounod, D. ### DEMAND FOR REMOVAL OF BAD GRADE CROSSING.

Former Judge William A. Coddington, of the firm of Reed & Coddington, appeared before the State Railroad Commission at Trention, yesterday in the interests of the residents of Lincoln and vicinity who want the grade crossings of the New Jersey Central and Lehigh Valley Railroad at that place properly protected. It has been shown that on three selected days 275 trains passed over this crossing on both roads, each day, showing the need for protection. ## RECITAL MUCH ENJOYED

Mrs. Fannie Bloomfield Zeisler Gives Brilliant Piano Program.

AT MRS. A. H. ATTERBURY'S.

Her Interpretation, Phrasing, Technique and Touch Simply Wonderful—Audience Highly Pleased.

Probably, the most noteworthy musical event of the season was the piano recital given at the Hartridge School auditorium, last night, by Mrs. Fannie Bloomfield Zeisler, considered one of the foremost women pianists of this country. The affair was given under the auspices of The Musical Club of Plainfield, and it was through the influence of Mrs. Albert H. Atterbury that this talented woman was brought to this city. Her appearance attracted a capacity audience of genuine lovers of classical music, for the entire program was of that order, the numbers being by Beethoven, Chopin, Schubert, Debussy, Saint-Saens, Delibes and Tschaiowsky.

It is exceedingly doubtful whether a program giving more genuine pleasure could have been arranged, and from the first to the last numbers there was evidenced that keen sense of appreciation that is so much enjoyed by an artist. Frequently, before Mrs. Zeisler would conclude her number, the audience would burst forth in applause. Repeatedly she was recalled after each number, and she graciously responded to two encores, one being after the last selection, when the audience refused to let Mrs. Zeisler go without another rendition.

Perhaps, the crowning achievement of the evening's recital was the rendition, "The Erl-King," by Schubert, transcribed for piano by Liszt and trans.ated from Goethe's poem. This was given by request and it was the means of displaying the marvelous interpretation of the artist. This was the occasion for the presentation of a large bunch of beautiful roses and violets by the club.

Words cannot adequately describe the work of Mrs. Zeisler. Her mastery of the piano, interpretation, phrasing, technique and touch all held her audience spell-bound throughout the rendition of every number. The strong passages were executed with a vigor that aroused everyone to the greatest point of enthusism, while in the softer lines there was a delicacy of touch that was marvelous to a degree. In each number the rendition was absolutely perfect.

The program follows:

Sonata, Op. 31, No. 2, allegro, allegretto, Beethoven; Fantasie, Op. 49, Nocturne, Op. 27, No. 2, Fantasie-impromptu, Ballade, Op. 47, Chopin; The Erl-King, Schubert; Prelude, (No. 1 from "Pour le Piano") Debussy; Prelude, (No. 3 from six etudes, Op. 52), Saint-Saens; Passepied, (No. 6 from six dances in the old style), Delibes; Paraphase de Concert on themes from the Opera "Eugene Oneguine," Tshaikowsky.

HORSE CLEARS STREET UPSETTING ALL OBSTACLES.

The quietude of West Third street was disturbed yesterday afternoon when the delivery horse belonging to B. I. Farbman, the grover, suddenly came to life after a life long Rip Van Winkle existence. One man was stood on his head in the street, a buggy upset and the street quickly cleared of all traffic.

The horse mounted the steps of Jacob Schlick's residence then continued down the street to First place, where it stopped and quietly surveyed the results of its 300-yard dash. What she saw was an overturned van with a broken axle, belonging to Hoagland's Express Co., and from which Fred Taylor, the driver, had been ejected upside down and a shattered buggy with six men holding the horse which had been cut from its moorings. Besides its own wagon which she had succeeded in shaking off.

Why the mare took a notion to run is not known. The driver had entered the store and there was no one at the reins.

TWO ARE HURT IN CRASH

Trolley Car Strikes Milk Wagon and Patrick J. Regan is Severely Injured.

HIS DAUGHTER MUCH BRUISED.

Broken Rib and Cuts and Bruises Suffered by Regan—The Vehicle Is Totally Wrecked.

Patrick J. Regan, a milk dealer residing on Harrison avenue, was severely injured, and his daughter, Miss Anna Regan, 12 years old, was slightly hurt in an accident at West Front street and Giraud avenue, early last evening, when Main line trolley car No. 1922 crashed into their wagon. The vehicle was reduced to kindling wood and the two occupants were buried in a mass of wreckage from which they were extricated with difficulty. The horse escaped without a scratch.

Regen was hurried to Muhlenberg Hospital in F. W. Weed's automobile where it was found that he had sustained a broken rib, numerous cuts on the face and scalp and contusions about the entire body. His condition is not serious. Miss Regan's hurts comprise cuts on the head and bruises on the left side. She is being treated at home by Dr. Boone.

The accident occurred just as Regan emerged from Giraud avenue and was crossing the west-bound track. The car was bound for Dunellen and was proceeding at a high rate of speed, being on the down grade that begins just west of Plainfield avenue. The motorman, Charles Block, of Elizabeth, did not see the vehicle until almost directly upon it. He made every attempt to avert the crash, but had barely more than time to apply his brakes when the wagon was struck squarely in the center. The horse was cut loose and ran away while Regan and his daughter were tossed to one side

The crash was witnessed by Frank W. Weed, who afterward apeared before Mayor Fisk and charged Motorman Block with running the car at a reckless rate of speed. The police instructed the latter and also the conductor, William Rassley, to appear in the city court this morning. They obeyed the summons,but at the request of Public Service officials, the matter was adjourned until next Wednesday.

EXCISE COMMISSION COMPLETES ITS WORK

Excepting the minority recommendations to be added by Howe and Whitbeck, the State Excise Commission's report was finished after some changes were made at a meeting held at Mayor Fisk's office here yesterday. Backes' recommendation that a tax of fifty cents a barrel be placed on the State breweries' output was stricken from the report. The minority members refused to accept the concession offered by the five other members that the recommendation for a minimum fee of $1,000 be reduced to $500, Howe and Whitbeck holding that the minimum fee should not be over $250.

The Newark typographical union filed a protest with the Commission against allowing the report to be printed in a non-union shop, but was informed by Secretary Dengler, who had the matter in charge, that it was too late to take the order away from the printing concern who had been given the order. Report has it that the entire expenses of the commission will not exceed $10,000.

The report will be given to Governor Fort next Monday.

Seeking Gottfried Hannig.

The police have no knowledge of Hannig or his family, and will be glad to receive any information.

$50,000 MORE FOR P. O.

An Additional Appropriation Sought by Senator Kean is Included in Budget.

IT'S NEEDED FOR A SITE.

Original Sum, $100,000, Will Be Used for the Election of a Handsome Building Here.

In the estimates made by Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou of the appropriations necessary to be made at the present session of Congress for the year ending Junt 30, 1910, $50,000 additional is named for site and continuation of the erection of the postoffice building in this city, making the total appropriation $150,000. The extra appropriation for Plainfield was included in the estimates through the influence of United States Senator John Kean, who was successful in securing the original $100,000. It is the belief that Congress will allow the extra amount.

In trying to find a suitable location for the proposed Federal building, it was found that the real estate values here were higher than anticipated and that it would be practically impossible to purchase a site and erect such a building as proposed for $100,000. The Durlach property at East Front street and Watchung avenue, thought by many to be the ideal site, was offered for about $66,000, and the whole tract was not included for that price. This was thought exorbitant as the property is assessed at $22,000.

The only available site for the building was said to be at East Front and Church streets, the price being less than $10,000, but this is considered too far away from the business section of the city, a fact that many do not want overlooked. Several other sites, including the Hotel Iroquois property, the David T. Kenney property on North avenue, the site at Watchung avenue and East Third street, where the Friends meeting house stands, also the one at Watchung avenue and Second street.

Unless some of the prices for property are reduced, it is possible that condemnation proceedings may be adopted for the purpose of acquiring a site. This would require considerable time, but it would result in the Government obtaining a site at a fair figure. The building proposed for Plainfield would be 70x140 much larger than that now occupied here by the postoffice.

Among the other esimates calling for an additional appropriations for Federal buildings are the following.

Elizabeth, $71,250; New Brunswick, $25,000 for enlarging present building; Trenton, for completion of enlargement, $40,000; Asbury Park, for site and commencement of postoffice building, $40,000; Jersey City, for continuation of construction of postoffice building, $150,000.

SIMPLE SERVICE OVER WILLIAM LEWIS MURRAY.

The funeral of William Lewis Murray, whose tragic death occurred Saturday afternoon, was held yesterday afternoon at his late home on Rockview avenue. The service was very simple and was conducted by Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross. The attendance was very large, many of Mr. Murray's business friends being among the mourners.

There were numerous floral tributes from banking men in New York and relatives and friends in Plainfield.

The body was placed in the receiving vault in Hillside cemetery, the following acting as pall bearers: Harry Culver and Charles Halsey, New York; Edward Van Vleck, Morristown; Fred Hyer, White Plains, N. Y.; A. M. Wilcox and David Randall, Plainfield.

"The Cedarcroft."

The large comfortable brick house on the corner of Park and Martine avenues, formerly known as Cedarcroft School, is to be opened the first of January as a very nice boarding house. Carpenters, plumbers and painters are already at work making improvements and alterations, chief of which is the putting in of new bath rooms and converting the really beautiful schoolroom into a dining-room, which will be only one of the many refined attractions of the house. Mr. Huse, the owner of the property, has gone into a small house on Park avenue, and is going to do private tutoring.

COOPER RELEASED ON $10,000 BAIL BOND

Enters Plea of Not Guilty When Formally Arraigned After Coroner's Inquest.

JURY FIXES RESPONSIBILITY.

Declares That Auto Driver Caused the Death of Jonathan H. Randolph in Mishap on West Front Street Sunday Morning.

Deliberating forty-five minutes after an inquest in the City Council chambers, yesterday afternoon, the jury empaneled by Coroner William H. Donaldson declared Floyd H. Cooper, of Westfield, to be responsible for the death of Jonathan H. Randolph, who was mortally injured by the former's automobile on West Front street, early Sunday morning. Within an hour after the verdict was returned, the accused man was arraigned before Mayor Charles J. Fisk on a charge of homicide and entered a plea of not guilty, waiving examination for appearance before the grand jury. He was taken to Elizabeth on the 6:45 train where Judge E. S. Atwater admitted him to bail in the sum of $10,000. The amount was furnished by William E. Tuttle, of Westfield.

Cooper has prepared to wage a determined legal battle against the prosecution of the authorities and has added Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh to his defense. He will be associate counsel to Messrs. Reed and Coddington who were retained by him immediately after his arrest. They have given no hint as to the purpose of entering a plea of "not guilty" or what the line of defense will be.

The coroner's inquest was conducted by Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., although Prosecutor C. Addison Swift was present during the entire proceedings. A total of fourteen witnesses was placed on the stand by the State but only sufficient evidence was produced to establish the death of Mr. Randolph and to prove that it was caused by being struck by an automobile in charge of Cooper. The coroner's jury was composed of former Sheriff B. Frank Coriell, foreman; Cyrus F. Boice, Noah W. Pike, John K. Large, Theodore J. Shirley and Clarence B. Rittenhouse.

The most important testimony was given by Miss Nettie Robinson and Miss Matilda Schenck, who were in the automobile when the fatality occurred; Charles Hendershot and Charles Hyde, motorman and conductor of the car from which Mr. Randolph had just alighted when he was struck down; Roundsman Morris Higgins and Patrolmen Daniel McDonald and Richard Birmingham, who saw the Cooper machine at various times Saturday night and early Sunday. Mrs. Sarah Robinson, the fourth and remaining member of the auto party, was not called as a witness, it being stated by her physician earlier in the day that she was confined to her home by nervous prostration, the result of worriment over the affair.

An important point brought out by the testimony of Patrolman Birmingham was the fact that Cooper had stopped to light the front lamps of his machine shortly after the accident. This same officer had noticed the car on West Front street and Grant avenue shortly before 12:30 Sunday morning. There were no lights in front at the time and he called to the driver to stop but was not obeyed. Twenty minutes later, the same auto passed him at Fourth street and Spooner avenue and the lamps were then burning brightly. It was shown by other witnesses that Cooper ha dcontinued on into Dunellen after Randolph was hit, turned into Washington avenue, thence along New Market road to the street that leads into West Fourth street and so on to Mrs. Robinson's home at 62 Sandford avenue. Stress was placed upon the lamp episode for the possible reason to show that Cooper had realized that he was violating the law and that identification would result quicker because of several people having noticed the lights were out. Roundsman Higgins and Patrolman McDonald both testified that a small light in the rear was all that showed on the car when it passed them at Front and Somerset streets.

GOLF.

The executive committee of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association held a special meeting in New York Monday afternoon for the purpose of presenting Charles Kirchner, of this city, the former secretary, with a gold watch. This means was taken to show appreciation for services rendered during the three years Kirchner held the office. Herbert Strong, the Apawamis Club professional, is now the association's secretary.

Walter Beckett, for several years assistant to George Low at Baltusrol, has been engaged to take charge of the links of the Rockaway Hunt Club. Beckett's contract runs the year round and he intends to enter on his new duties at once.

Tom Anderson, of the Montclair Club, is going to return to Scotland for a brief visit. The father of the former national and present Western open champion says he will not stay "for long, as Ameriky is good enough for him."

Under the direction of Park Commissioner Berry the work of piping water to the putting greens of the Van Cortlandt Park course will be completed within two or three weeks. The course has not been closed and the laying of the piping has not greatly interfered with the sport of the golfers. A rearrangement of the holes in the spring is probable, but until then the course will not be changed. As soon as needed next season water will be sent through the pipes and an improvement should at once be observed in the quality of the turf. The season at the public course has been very successful, especially the tournaments held by the New York Golf Club and the Scottish-American club.

According to a note in the Western department of Golf the volume of play on the public course at Jackson Park, Chicago, surpasses the patronage of Van Cortlandt Park. The starter at Jackson Park gave out over 80,000 tickets this season, breaking all previous records. As the pastboards are only issued when it is necessary for the players to start in turn it is estimated that fully 100,000 balls have been driven this season from the first tee There is a nine hole course to the north of the big one at Jackson Park and this has also been well patronized.

FOOTBALL.

At a meeting of the members of the Naval Academy football team Monday, George Ralph Meyer, of Hastings, Minn., was elected captain for next season. He has played right guard on the team for three seasons. Although not classed as an All-America player, the critics have mentioned Meyer as one of the best men in his position in the country. He has been handicapped in his work by an injury to his knee, sustained during his first year of play. Reifsnider, right end, and Richardson, fullback, were also mentioned for the captaincy.

James Wheeler, Jr., of New Brighton, Staten Island, was elected captain of the New York University football eleven for next season at a meeting of the players Monday. David Wiltse was elected manager and John W. Mace assistant manager. At the annual meeting of the Athletic Association the following officers were elected: President, Commodore David Banks; first vice-president, W. Du Mond; second vice-president, J. McNabb; recording secretary, J. T. Putnam; corresponding secretary, M. W. St. John; treasurer, Thomas W. Eppmunson; committeeman-at-large, F. J. Zamorell.

BASEBALL.

Rube Waddell has been heard from. The erratic pitcher of the St. Louis Browns has bobbed up as a hotel clerk in a small Western town. He arrived there last week with a shotgun and two bird dogs and asked the hotel proprietor for a job. He got it and has been making good, but judging from past incidents in the life of Waddell he will soon skip out.

Frank Chance, manager of the Cubs, recently umpired a ball game at Fesno, Cal., in which Hal Chase, Moriarty, Blenkenship, McHale, Moskiman and other suspended major league players took part. It is now a question whether Chance has not become ineligible to play with the Cubbs again until reinstated by the National Commission upon the payment of a $200 fine. Rule 47 of the commission's code says that national agreement players can not "participate in any game or games with or against clubs harboring ineligible players or whose managers or owners are ineligible players." Did Chance, as umpire, "participate" in the game in question?

This is the time of the year when ball fans are informed that magnates are after star players who cannot be had for love or money. The case of Roger Bresnahan is an illustration. Robinson of St. Louis says he wants Bresahan to manage his team. Possibly he would like to have Mike Donlin and Christy Mathewson. But there isn't a chance in the world for him to land any of these stars. It will not be surprising therefore if some magnate who is anxious to jolly his supporters in fandom makes an offer for Hans Wagner, Ty Cobb or Hal Chase. It makes good reading even though the fans know that it is a joke. Baseball magnates always know how to get plenty of free advertising.

Bookcases

THE KIND THAT GROW.

Only a little while ago parlors were fashionable, and the melodeon vied with the hair cloth sofa and the marble-topped table for the place of honor, and the few books that the family had were kept in the parlor to prove the literary tendencies of the family. But parlors are rapidly giving away to living rooms wherein people feel easy, where they can rest and read. Here fathers and mothers chum with their kids and get a lot of joy out of life, and the home library has come to be the conspicuous feature of the living room. And since the interest in books has been quickened the demand for books has increased, and bookcases that grow have become immensely popular.

The Macey Co.'s Sectional Bookcases are in high favor as they adapt themselves to any need, and as fast as the need is created. We have an immense line of these cases as well as the Danner Sectional Bookcases, with sliding doors. Any of them will make a fine Christmas gift.

ART CRAFT BOOKCASES.

Made by the Macey Co. This style may be had in fumed oak and mahogany. In mahogany it gives a very pretty effect and conforms nearly to the Sheraton in design.

The interiors are made of three-ply oak and three-ply mahogany natural finish; it has wood knobs; may be had in various sizes from half size to full size; single doors or double doors; they are interchangeable, giving the advantage of making various changes in certain spaces or rooms. The doors are fitted with wood mullions and are improved and non-binding.

Prices range from $25 and upward.

Sectional bookcases, made of selected Quartered Oak with interiors of 3-ply maple in natural finish, doors fitted with improved non-binding device; best quality of glass, metal end bands and bands in spotted, oxidized copper. Set complete, consisting of Base, Top, 1 12-inch Section, 1 10-inch Section, and 2 8-inch Sections, for $16

Single Tiers, same finish as the tall centre—1 top, 1 base, 1 8-inch Section, 1 10-inch Section, 1 12-inch Section ..... $11.25

Either of these can be bought separately if desired.

Many other Sections and Combinations, including pieces for corners and angles in golden oak, weather oak, mahogany and early English, at prices ranging from $13 to ..... $60

There are Transfer Cases for as little as 15c; Oak Card Trays with cover, $1.25; without cover at 65c upwards; Document Files, for as little as $1.15; Vertical Transfer Cases for $1. The line is too numerous and complex to begin to quote prices on all the various sections and cabinets which are included.

DANNER SECTIONAL BOOKCASES

A Most Unusual Offer.

The bookcase is complete but without the reference leaf. They are made of quartered oak, golden finish and beautifully polished. Set consists of two book sections, base and top. They have sliding doors which are a distinct advantage over many other styles; a slight touch of the hand opens them. The shelves are adjustable to take any size of book. Each section can be arranged for either two or three rows of books.

The bookcase can be added to in either height or width at any time, as it is a staple article and always on the market. No sagging shelves; more shelf room for the money than in any other case. Regular price $18.75; price for Thursday only ..... $13

No mail or telephone orders.

UNION COUNTY HAS 323 INDIGENT INSANE

Union county has at the Morris Plains Hospital for the Insane 323 patients of unsound mind, who are so called indigents. The bill to the county for their support is about $36,000 a year. Until within a few years the cost to the county was about $40,000 per year for less than 300 patients. This reduction of the charge to the county is brought about by the careful work of the Lunacy Committee of the Board of Freeholders and of County Collector Leavitt, who, for a number of years, has had special charge of this department.

The Lunacy Committee, which is composed of Freeholders Meisel, Fay and Perry, made its semi annual visit to the asylum a few days ago, in company with Director King and Collector Leavitt. Mayor P. J. Ryan, of Elizabeth, who is one of the eight managers of the hospital, accompanied the committee, and was active in extending the courtesies to the party, which included two invited guests.

Dr. B. D. Evans, medical director, and Warden M. K. Everitt aided the committee in its investigation and escorted the whole party through the institution.

Evidently the asylum is managed in a most exemplary manner. All the buildings showed most scrupulous neatness and cleanliness. The patients, so far as seen, were all neatly dressed and apparently as happy in their surroundings as their individual states of mind would permit.

Union county has the largest number of inmates under its care in the asylum of any county in the State, in proportion to its population, but no county contributes as large a sum to the support of the patients through their friends or relatives.

There are, in addition to the large number of indigents already spoken of, a number of private pay patients. These of course, are given private rooms, but the general care of those less fortunate is just as good.

The managers who have charge of the affairs of the institution have two regular meetings each mouth, and numerous committee meetings. They give their time and careful attentioin without compensation. Mayor Ryan has been a member of the board for several years, and serves on several of the most important committees.

Plainfield, N. J., December 9, 1908.

The hand of Taft is discernable in Roosevelt's final message to Congress, for the document lacks those tirades for which the strenuous one is noted.

If the Legislature acts favorably on the State Excise Commission's recommendation, we may naturally expect the election of "Bob" Davis as a member of the Jersey City board and of "Jim" Nugent of the Newark body. My, my, what plums!

Steps have been taken by the Automobile Club of America for a crusade against the dangerous "joy ride." The majority of fatal accidents it appears is caused by this class of autoists and it would be a good thing, if by legislation, every member of the party could be held equally responsible.

Second only to the loss it suffered when that gifted editorial writer, Charles McBride, went over to the Newark Evening News, is what the Elizabeth Daily Journal will miss when John J. McGowan casts his fortunes with the Elizabeth Evening Times the first of the year. McGowan has the nose for news and has the faculty of making friends wherever he goes, a big asset in the newspaper business. As a joint proprietor and as editor of the Times, we predict that he will put that vitality into the paper for which it was noted when W. W. St. John was in charge. McGowan was by far the best man the Journal has had in the last few years.

MRS. HATTIE VAN NEST.

Local Woman Dies at Home for Incurables in New York.

Van Nest, of Eureka, Ill., where the family lived until the death of the husband several years ago. Mrs. Van Nest was fifty-three years old and was a member of the First Presbyterian church. Although having resided here but a comparitively short time she had many friends who knew her as a motherly woman, generous to a fault and possessed of many Christian traits.

Mrs. Van Nest is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Samuel Kriney, of Mariners place, with whom she lived. She also leaves two brothers, J. W. and B. F. Harber, of Bloomington, Ill. The funeral will be held at the chapel of the Home in New York tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring will officiate and burial will be at Eureka.

COOPER RELEASED ON BAIL

Miss Schenck and Miss Robinson told practically the same story when placed on the stand, both declaring they were ignorant of the fact that the machine in which they were riding had struck a man on West Front street near Jefferson avenue. They admitted feeling a slight jar as they passed a trolley car but believed it was caused by a break in the roadway. Miss Robinson said she wore a heavy veil and had her coat collar turned up while Miss Schenck said it was almost impossibe for her to see anything because of a robe that had been wrapped about her as a protection from cold.

Miss Robison was the first witness called in the proceedings and related in detail the auto trip that led to the killing. She said the party comprised her mother, Miss Schenck, Mr Cooper and herself and that they left her home somewhere about midnight Saturday. The car was sent through Sandford avenue, to Brook avenue, thence into Chatham street and across to Somerset place. The last named thoroughfare ends in a pocket and after getting into it by mistake, they turned back to Somerset street, thence to Front and on through to Dunellen. They returned by way of New Market road and West Fourth street to Watchung avenue, reaching home at 1 o'clock Sunday morning. Miss Schenck and Mr. Cooper were in front, her mother occupied the single rear seat and witness sat on the floor on the left side with her feet on the running board. She denied knowing that Mr. Randolph had been hit.

Miss Schenck told practically the same story only she said Mr. Cooper had stopped the auto when they reached New Market road. In response to a question she said he did so because something in front was not working right and that he fixed it by "turning a crank." She declared that at no time was the machine proceeding at more than ordinary speed and that she recalled Mr. Cooper slacking up as they approached the trolley car near Jefferson avenue.

Motorman Hendershot and Conductor Hyde, of the trolley car, told of Randolph's body being hurled against the front vestibule just after he had alighted and of seeing an automobile speed by. Hendershot said that he had helped place the prostrate form to one side of the road and then ran his car to Dunellen to get a physician. Michael Cooney, a passenger, testified to the same effect and added that the automobile approached without giving warning of any kind.

In proving the death of Randolph and the identification of the automobile, the following witnesses were called: Engineer H. C. Van Emburgh, who prepared a map of the scene where the accident occurred; F. C. Langhorne, who photographed the machine; John Walton, orderly at Muhlenberg Hospital; Undertaker Geo. Cole, Chief of Police Kiely and City Physician Lufburrow. The last named witness declared the victim's death to have been caused by hemorrhage and shock, induced by "a terriffic blow in the abdomen which caused it to burst." There were other injuries beside.

The jury's report in full was as follows:

"We find that Jonathan H. Randolph came to his death from injuries received in an automobile accident on West Front street, near Jefferson avenue, between the hours of 12 and 1, Sunday morning, December 6, said auto at the time being run by Floyd H. Cooper, whom we believe responsible for his death."

George W. Thompson, a member of the State Auto Commission, attended the proceedings and declared afterward that he would recommend that Cooper's license be revoked."

High-Class Wines and Liquors.

In a general way my patrons know that I carry a large stock of high-class wines and liquors, but they do not comprehend the high character of my stock. I sincerely believe that I have the most perfect selection of high-class wines and liquors in the State of New Jersey. My stock is too extensive and varied to attempt at individual description. I have now for sale brandies from 1818 to 1870. Malt whiskies which has no equal and of which very little is produced. Rye whiskies ranging from 20, 18, 15, 12, 10 and 8 years old, which are made pure from age. Young whiskey is not liquor and is therefore poisonous from natural causes. I have the best whiskies made in Ireland, the best that are made in Scotland. I ask a good price for them but I have the goods. Frank Linke. 'Phone 157. 12 5 2 s-w

IMITATED ARTICLES MUST BE LABELED.

Washington, Dec. 8.—Patterned after the pure food law a bill was introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Hull, of Iowa, making it a misdemeanor to manufacture for sale or transportation imitated articles of commerce, unless such articles are branded so as to show their exact ingredients.

The measure is broad in its scope and would apply to any article of commerce recognized as a subject of transportation and sale by the rules of the interstate commerce act. Practically all articles in domestic use would be affected, including clothing, furniture or any article sold under a name now recognized as designating any mineral, metallic, animal or vegetable substance which occurs in a state of nature.

Conviction of a first violation of the act is made punishable by a fine to exceed $500 or one year's imprisonment, or both, while each subsequent offense may be punished by a fine of not less than $1,000 or one year's imprisonment, or both. It is provided specifically under the act if he can establish a guaranty signed by the wholesaler, jobber, manufacturer or other person from whom he purchased such articles to the effect that the article is not an imitation or misbranded within the meaning of the act. The enforcement of the law is charged to the Department of Agriculture, the examinations of specimens of articles of commerce to be made by the Bureau of Chemistry.

Mr. Hull has announced that he will make every effort to have the measure enacted into a law.

New England Supper a Success.

Under the auspices and for the benefit of Marconnier chapel, a New England supper was given at the chapel last night. The affair was largely attended and well patronized. The proceeds will be used for purchasing new wishes. A novel feature of the supper was as each person entered the chapel they received a plate. They then visited the various tables and selected what they wanted to eat. This proved a great success.

CHRISTMAS DOLLS FOR THE FRESH AIR CHILDREN

Four new members were admitted to the organization. They were Rev. John Y. Broek, Charles Doeringer, Walter Dennis, and Miss Ethel May Vail.

MAY PREVENT THE DEATH CHAIR TEST

It was reported at Trenton today that humane societies in New York and New Jersey may appeal to Governor Fort to prevent the proposed attempt to restore to life the next victim of the electric chair at the State prison. It was held that the body of an animal would do as well as that of a human being.

"A difference of opinion exists as to whether the subject, should it be proved that the electric current is not fatal, and he is subsequently revived, would have to again be placed in the chair to execute the sentence of death imposed by the court. The decree sets forth that the murderer is "sentenced to die in the week of December 21," etc. Some twelve lawyers hold that this means that the man's life would have to be taken by some other means than electricity should the test of scientific restoratives prove successful. Other lawyers hold that it depends upon the attending surgeon. If he pronounces the man dead before the body is taken from the chair, then the court's decree will have been satisfied, and the man will then be considered legally dead. If the scientists are enabled to restore life in the victim then he will have another legal existence. The doomed man who will be the subject of an experiment to snatch him from another world is John Mantasanna, of Essex county, who is sentenced to die in the electric chair during Christmas week.

Nearly all medical men who have been interviewed on the subject declare that the volts shot into a person in the electric chair cause instant death if the machinery works properly. Drs. Mackenzie and Scammell are of the same opinion, but will make their experiment to set at rest the suspicion that many persons have that the volts only stun the victim, and that he is yet alive when placed on the operating table or into the quicklime.

After Mantasanna has been declared dead and has been removed from the chair, the two physicians will apply every treatment known to science in an effort to restore him to life.

Chapter 79 of the Laws of 1906, regulating electrical executions, seems to cover the case very thoroughly. It says:

"The punishment of death must, in every case, be inflicted by causing to pass through the body of the convict a current of electricity of sufficient intensity to cause death as speedily as possible, and the application of such surrent must be continued until such convict is dead."

Scene from "The Lion and the Mouse," at New Plainfield Theatre, this afternoon and evening.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The attraction at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight will be Henry B. Harris' production of Charles Klein's remarkable success, "The Lion and the Mouse." Few dramas produced during the past twenty-five years have enjoyed the triumph accorded this great play, founded on the conditions that surround the workings of the trusts and money kings of today. The high standard reached by Mr. Harris as a producing manager will be maintained in the coming engagement of "The Lion and the Mouse" and it would seem that little more recommendation will be necessary.

The best company that ever played "Peck's Bad Boy" will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night. James H. Caliahan, in the title role, is undoubtedly the very best impersonator of juvenile characters on the stage today, while the parts of Jimmy Duffy, his chum, and Minnie, his girl, are in equally good hands. The old German grocer is played by John Marron in a most artistic manner. The comedy is interspersed with high class musical specialties, which greatly add to the attractiveness of this popular comedy success.

Deeds and Contracts.

The following real estate transfers have been recorded at the county clerk's office: William H. Lawrence, sheriff, to William W. Wilson, southwesterly side Lee place, 275 feet southeasterly of West Third street, Plainfield, $1,225; Louise Leacock to Frederick J. Frey, westerly side George street, 129 feet southwesterly of Watson avenue, Plainfield, $1. These contracts have also been filed: Nicholas H. Heideloff with George Annon, entire work, new building, West Front street, Plainfield, $2,700; Angiola Basini with Sabato Milone, entire work, new building, West Fourth street, Plainfield, $1,966.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Oran Conover, of Woodstown, picked a nice ripe strawberry from his garden Saturday.

Rev. John T. Matthews has decided to accept the rectorship of the Protestant Episcopal church of the Ascension, Gloucester.

Injuring his left arm by a fall Sunday, Joseph Cox, thirty-seven years old, of 1125 Penn street, Camden, was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital.

William Sanford, of Vineland, who invented a device to prevent railroad cars from leaving the tracks, has incorporated a company to market the invention.

Mrs. Mary Sauer, a pioneer grape grower and wine maker of Vineland, died Saturday while sitting at her desk writing a business letter. She was seventy-one years old.

By the explosion of a lamp Maggie Mears, thirty-six years old, of 1126 Knight street, Camden, was badly burned about the hands and arms Sunday. She was cared for at the Homeopathic Hospital.

Word was received in Gloucester Sunday of the accidental killing of George B. Taylor, of that city, at Chattanooga, Tenn. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American War and later saw active service in the Philippines.

Miss Hannah Daly, daughter of Daniel Daly, of 466 Avenue C, Bayonne, yesterday entered the Dominican Order of Nuns, whose nunnery is at West Hoboken. Miss Daly is twenty-one years old, and a graduate of St. Mary's School. She was given a farewell reception Saturday evening.

William H. Wilson of Pleasantville, will have watermelon for Christmas dinner as a result of a mistake made by a hired man who buried a fine, big melon along with some citron last summer. Wilson dug the citron and was surprised to discover the melon, still in fine condition.

Alfred Knopf, seven years old, of Paterson, who resides at 33 Lawrence street, was hit by a drill engine on the Erie Railroad, at the Governor street trestle bridge, late Saturday afternoon and sustained a fracture of the skull. The lad is now in the German Hospital. Little hope is entertained for his recovery.

Members of the Atlantic City Troop, who were among the crack cavalry organizations in the recent founder's week military parade in Philadelphia, have decided to build a new and modern armory and drill hall. The structure will be built of concrete, and will be modeled after the most modern riding halls. Its cost will be about $25,000.

Ferdinand W. Roebling, president of the Country Club, Trenton, has announced that unless the annual dues of that exclusive organization are raised from $25 to $50 a year, and $10 additional fee charged for each extra member of the family, who wants to use the conveniences of the club, the organization will be forced into liquidation. The president says there was a deficit of between $2,000 and $3,000 a year, and the club is more than $4,000 behind.

A pistol taken from a well dressed Italian at police headquarters, Paterson, last evening, was of .44 caliber. The prisoner, Vesse Kiaseleno, of 22 Ann place, was caught in the vicinity of River and Sassafrac street, at 10:30 o'clock, by Patrolmen Walker and Fitzsimmons. The policemen heard two pistol shots and found Kiaseleno running off. He declined to furnish any information, but indications were that he had quarreled with a fellow countryman and the latter discharged the shots.

Twenty-five men and two women were captured in a raid Saturday night on the old clubhouse of the Prospect Hill Association at the entrance of the old Gloucester race track. The raid was made by County Detectives John Smith, John Cherry, Marcus Carroll and Constables Hires, Boach, Dale and Gardiner, who were accompanied by Rev. H. S. Hann, head of the Law and Order League, which made the complaint, the charge being the keeping of a disorderly house. The prisoners were escorted to waiting patrol and express wagons and taken to the Camden County Jail for a hearing before Recorder Stackhouse.

III.

The cab stopped. The girl rose and descended to the walk. The driver touched his hat and reined the horse away. "Good night, ma'am," he bade her, cheerfully. And she told him "Good night" in her turn.

For a moment she seemed a bit hesitant and fearful, left thus alone. The house in front of which she stood, like its neighbors, reared a high facade to the tender, star-lit sky, its windows, with drawn shades and no lights, wearing a singular look of blind patience. It had a high stoop and a sunken area. There was a dull glow in one of the basement windows.

It was very late—or extremely early. The moon was down, though its place was in some way filled by the golden disk of the clock in the Grand Central station's tower. The air was impregnated with the sweet and fragrant breath of the new-born day. In the tunnel beneath the street a trolley car rumbled and whined and clanked lonesomely. A stray cat wandered out of a cross street with the air of a seasoned debauchee; stopped, scratched itself with inimitable abandon, and suddenly, mysteriously alarmed at nothing, turned itself into a streak of shadow that fled across the street and vanished. And, as if affected by its terror, the gray girl slipped silently into the area and tapped at the lighted window.

Almost immediately the gate was cautiously opened. A woman's head looked out, with suspicion. "Oh, thank Heavings!" it said, with abrupt fervor. "I was afraid it mightn't be you, Miss Sylvia. I'm so glad you're back. There ain't—hasn't been a minute these past two nights that I haven't been in a fidget."

The girl laughed quietly and passed through the gateway (which was closed behind her) into the basement hall, where she lingered a brief moment.

"My father, Annie?" she inquired.

"He ain't—hasn't stirred since you went out, Miss Sylvia. He's sleepin peaceful as a lamb."

"Everything is all right, then?"

"Now that you're home, it is, praises be!" The servant secured the inner door and turned up the gas. "Not if I was to be given notice to-morrow mornin'," she announced, firmly, "will I ever consent to be a party to such goin's-on another night."

"There will be no occasion, Annie," said the girl. "Thank you, and—good night."

A resigned sigh—"Good night, Miss Sylvia"—followed her up the stairs.

She went very cautiously, careful to brush against no article of movable furniture in the halls, at pains to make no noise on the stairs. At the door of her father's room on the second floor she stopped and listened for a full moment; but he was sleeping as quietly, as soundly, as the servant had declared. Then on, more hurriedly, up another flight, to her own room, where she turned on the electric bulb in panic haste. For it had just occurred to her that the telephone bell might ring before she could change her clothing and get downstairs and shut herself into the library, whose closed door would prevent the bell from being audible through the house.

In less than ten minutes she was stealing silently down to the drawing room floor again, quiet as a spirit of the night. The library door shut without a sound; for the first time she breathed freely. Then, pressing the button on the wall, she switched on the light in the drop-lamp on the center table. The telephone stood beside it.

She drew up a chair and sat down near the instrument, ready to lift the receiver off its hook the instant the bell began to sound; and waited, the soft light burning in the loosened tresses of her hair, enhancing the soft color that pulsed in her cheeks, fading before the joy that lived in her eyes when she hoped.

For she dared hope—at times; and at times could not but fear. So greatly had she dared, who greatly loved, so heavy upon her untarnished heart was the burden of the sin that she had put upon it, because she loved. Perhaps he would not call; perhaps the world was to turn cold and be forever gray to her eyes. He was even then deciding; at that very moment her happiness hung in the scales of his mercy. If he could forgive.

There was a click. And her face flamed scarlet, as hastily she lifted the receiver to her ear. The armature buzzed sharply. Then central's voice cut the stillness.

"Hello! Nine-o-five-one?"

"Yes."

"Wait a minute."

She waited, breathless, in a quiver. The silence sang upon the wire, the silence of the night through which he was groping toward her.

"Hello! Is this nine-o—"

"Yes, yes!"

"Is this the residence of Alexander

"This is Daniel Maitland . . Sylvia!"

C. Graeme?"

"Yes." The syllable almost choked her.

"Is this Miss Graeme at the 'phone?"

"It is."

"Miss Sylvia Graeme?"

"Yes."

"This is Daniel Maitland—Sylvia!"

"As if I did not know your voice!" she cried, involuntarily.

There followed a little pause; and in her throat the pulses tightened and drummed.

"I have opened the bag, Sylvia—"

"Please go on."

"And I've sounded the depths of your hideous infamy!"

"Oh!" He was laughing.

"I've done more. I've made a burnt offering within the last five minutes. Can you guess what it is?"

"I—I—don't want to guess! I want to be told."

"A burnt offering on the altar of your happiness, dear. The papers in the case of the Dougherty Investment Company no longer exist."

"Dan!"

"Sylvia—Does it please you?"

"Don't you know? How can it do anything but please me? If you knew how I have suffered because my father suffered, fearing the—No, but you must listen! Dan, it was wearing him down to his grave, and I thought—"

"You thought that if you could get the papers and give them to him—"

"Yes.—I could see no harm, because he was as innocent as you—"

"Of course. But why didn't you ask me?"

"He did, and you refused."

"But how could I tell, Sylvia, that you were his daughter, and that I should—"

"Hush! Central will hear!"

"Central's got other things to do, besides listening to early morning confabulations. I love you."

"Dan."

"Yes?"

"I love—to hear you say so, dear."

"Please say that last word over again. I didn't get it."

"Dear."

"And that means that you'll marry me?"

A pause.

"I say, that means—"

"I heard you, Dan."

"But it does, doesn't it?"

"Yes."

"When?"

"Whenever you please."

"I'll come up now."

"Don't be a silly."

"Well, when then? To-day?"

"Yes—no!"

"But when?"

"To-morrow—I mean next week—I mean next month."

"No; to-day at four. I'll call for you."

"But, Dan."

"Sweetheart!"

"But you mustn't! How can I—"

"Easily enough. There's the Little-Church-Around-the-Corner—"

"But I've nothing to wear!"

"Oh!"

Another pause.

"Dan. You don't wish it—truly?"

"I do wish it, truly. To-day, at four. The Church of the Transfiguration. Yes, I'll scare up a best man if you'll find bridesmaids. Now you will, won't you?"

"I—if you wish it, dear."

"I'll have to ask you to repeat that."

"I shan't. There!"

"Very well," meekly. "But will you tell me one thing, please?"

"What is it?"

"Where on earth did you get hold of that kit of tools?"

She laughed softly. "My big brother caught a burglar once, and kept the kit for a remembrance. I borrowed them."

"Give me your big brother's address and I'll send 'em back with my thanks—No, by George! I won't, either. I've as much right to keep 'em as he has on that principle."

And again she laughed, very gently and happily. Dear God, that such happiness could come to one!

"Sylvia?"

"Yes, dear?"

"Do you love me?"

"I think you may believe it, when I sit here at four o'clock in the morning, listening to a silly boy talk nonsense over a telephone wire."

"But I want to hear you say so!"

"But central—"

"I tell you central has other things to do!"

At this juncture the voice of central, jaded and acidulated, broke in curtly:

"Are you through?"

THE END.

Miss Estella Jones, of Trenton, who has been spending several days here with friends, has returned home.

SIGNALS OF DISTRESS.

Plainfield People Should Know How to Read and Heed Them.

Sick kidneys give many signals of distress.

The secrations are dark, contain a sediment.

Passages are frequent, scanty, painful.

Backache is constant day and night.

Headaches and dizzy spells are frequent.

The weakened kidneys need quick help.

Don't delay! Use a special kidney remedy.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, backache and disorders.

Plainfield evidence proves this statement.

Mrs. W. W. Mills, 304 West Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "A dull, heavy bearing down pain in my back bothered me a great deal, especially when I caught cold. I had frequent headaches and was at times so dizzy that I could scarcely see. If I did much stooping or lifting, my back became very lame and though I used plasters, they relieve me only for the time being. Finally on the advice of a friend, I procure a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Pharmacy and used them. They acted in every way as represented and in a short time rid me of all symptoms of kidney trouble. I am pleased to recommend a remedy of such undoubted merit."

LOSS IN PROHIBITION NATIONAL PARTY VOTE

The slump in the Prohibition party vote at the last election may result in the death of the party as a national independent political organization. A movement is already under way among leading temperance people to put an end to the practice of running Prohibition candidates for national office every four years. Some of the foremost advocates of temperance in this State are already committed to the position that better results can be accomplished for temperance by fighting within the old parties than can be obtained by running independent tickets. Dr. I. K. Funk, founder of Prohibition Park, on Staten Island, and a Prohibitionist of national fame, said yesterday:

"The returns of the recent election are not yet completed, but they are sufficiently near completion to show heavy losses in the Prohibition vote. This slump is a severe blow to the party, coming, as it did, in a campaign where greater effort was made and more money spent than ever before. One New York man alone contributed $10,000 to the Chafin campaign fund.

"As prohibition grows the national party seems to shrink. This has been especially true of the last few years, in which the world has witnessed the most wonderful spread of prohibition ever known.

"Prohibition as a fact has swept over enormous areas of the United States and has claimed several important States in their entirety. Yet at the same time this spread of Prohibition has been accomplished by a shrinkage in the vote polled by the Prohibition party. It cannot be denied that temperance people and Prohibitionists are responsible for this spread of Prohibition, but even the most ardent Prohibitionist cannot claim that the Prohibition party, as a political organization, has done much to wipe out the saloons.

"I believe that two-thirds of the voters of the two big parties are temperance men, but we are wasting time running national tickets and talking of electing a President. The results of the last election astounded many of our leaders, who believed that the growth of the party would naturally be commensurate with the growth of Prohibition. Complete returns from twenty-seven out of forty States where Prohibition tickets were in the field indicate that the total vote for Chafin, the party's Presidential candidate, will be about 240,000 or nearly 20,000 less than the vote for Swallow four years ago. The national Prohibitionist organ claims that there has been a gain in the vote, but its own figures show a heavy loss. Its figures for twenty-seven States show a loss of almost 13,000, but the editors offset that loss by estimating that California, Colorado, New York, Rhode Island, South Dakota and West Virginia will show a gain of 14,000. They do not take into account the seven other States not heard from."

THE MILTON TERCENTENARY.

In recognition of the tercentenary of the birth of John Milton, which falls on tomorrow, the Newark Library will reserve on a special shelf in its lending department books and magazine articles on Milton's life and work. These may all be borrowed for one month.

The biographies of Milton especially recommended by the library are those by Rev. Stopford A. Brooke, Richard Garnett, in the "Great Writers" series, and David Masson, whose biography in one volume, has been called the most valuable work on both the literary and religious history of Milton's period. Mark Pattison's able monograph in the "English Men of Letters" series is invaluable to students of Milton. W. P. Trent has also written an excellent short history of Milton's life and works.

For briefer appreciations of the great poet, very delightful are those by Matthew Arnold in the second series of his "Essays in Criticism;" James Russel Lowell, in his "Among My Books," and the longer essay by Macaulay.

Both the English and American magazines for this month are full of tributes to Milton. The bound volumes of earlier magazines are also rich in material. Among the articles recently printed are "The Youth of Milton," "Milton as an Educator," "England's Debt to Milton," "Milton as a Romancer," "New Lights on Milton," "The Many-Sided Milton" and a score of others. All of these are in the library's collection.

The Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will meet Friday night for mission study.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church will have charge of the mid-week prayer-meeting at the church tonight.

The Women's Home Missionary Society of the First Baptist church held an all-day sewing meeting yesterday. Lunch was served at noon.

Mrs. J. A. Frazer, of Elizabeth, Presbyterial secretary for "The Freedmen" work, will make an address at Warren chapel Friday afternoon at a meeting of the Missionary and Aid Society. Tea will be served after the meeting.

A Special Department, designed for those who desire to keep a portion of their funds in reserve, subject to a higher interest rate and separate and apart from their checking accounts, is conducted by this company. 4% Interest is paid on accounts in this department subject to its regulations. Full particulars may be obtained on application.

TEST OF POWERS OF CIVIL SERVICE BOARD.

The Civil Service Commission yesterday authorized Secretary Colby to refuse the certification of the commission to the pay of Essex county employes, not appointed regularly in conformity with the statute creating the commission.

The occasion is on the allegation that the Republican Board of Freeholders have put several Democratic employes out of employment and put Republicans in their places. The civil service board says that the new appointees have not been put to work legally under the civil service rules. The commission warns the bondsmen of Essex county financial officers that they will be liable for the moneys disbursed in defiance to the rules of the civil service law.

Chief Examiner Jess announces that he will soon issue a description of the scope of the examination, which it will be required that applicants for positions as State prison keepers or Rahway reformatory guards submit themselves to. Examinations for these positions in the State service will be conducted in ten different cities simultaneously the latter part of this month.

The Newark police commission asked the board to certify the names of fifty men eligible to be appointed patrolmen in that city. There are ninety eligibles on the list, and about sixty names will be sent to the Newark authorities.

DEMOCRATS TO HOLD PRIMARIES ON DEC. 18.

Primaries for the election of members of the Union County Democratic Committee to serve for the year 1909 will be held in every election district throughout the county, Friday evening, December 18.

FAMED MISSION WORKER TO SPEAK HERE ON SUNDAY

Dr. Homer Clyde Stuntz.

Dr. Homer Clyde Stuntz, first assistant corresponding secretary of the Methodist Episcopal church, probably the leading figure today in the field of mission work, will preach at the First M. E. church, Sunday morning, and will also address the Sunday-school in the afternoon. His knowledge of affairs in China, Europe, South America and Mexico, as well as the Philippines, especially as regards missions, makes him a foremost leader in that work.

Dr. Stuntz is the great grandson of a German soldier of Washington's army. His grandfather was a local preacher, whose parchments were signed by Bishop George and Bishop Roberts. Two of Dr. Stuntz's uncles were ministers of Erie Conference. The future missionary was born at Albion, Pa., January 29, 1858, and studied in the State normal school at Edinboro, at Northwestern Academy, and after studying law went to Garrett Biblical Institute and was graduated in 1884.

From 1886 to 1895 he was a missionary in India, where he was especially useful as an administrator. In 1901 he was appointed superintendent of the Philippine Islands mission, remaining there until the tropical conditions impaired his health. As soon as he recovered his strength the Board of Foreign Missions found use in this country for his knowledge, zeal and remarkably effective eloquence. He has few rivals as a convention speaker.

FORESTS ARE IN DANGER

Bristow Adams Talks on United States Forestry Service Aims.

NATURAL RESOURCES SINKING.

Illustrates Cases of Great Waste of the Country's Wealth During Recent Years.

"How to protect the nation's natural resources," was the subject discussed by Bristow Adams, the Federal government's expert in the forestry service, at the Plainfield High School this morning. The auditorium was filled with pupils and as the general public had been invited, the balcony could scarcely hold those who took advantage of the opportuntiy to hear a lecture on this interesting topic.

Colored stereopticon pictures were used to show the nation's wealth in forests, their appearance before and after the great fires had swept through them, and the blaze itself in action. Seventy-five of these views were thrown upon the screen.

The speaker declared that the forest fire problem was one of the most serious before the country, because of the relation of the forests with all other sources of material wealth. He said:

"We want, and we ought to remain the richest nation. This we cannot do, if we waste and throw away our inheritance as we are doing now.

"In 1868 Bismark said that the real test of the American form of government would come when that country's great resources began to be exhausted, when the "limitless opportunities" were no longer to be had. The imperative need, then, is the assurance that our governmental institutions shall be maintained on a high plane of unselfishness. For the only way in which the need can be met is by enforcing through laws the principle, clearly enough recognized in our codes, that the wealth a man controls is his to use but not his to waste.

"Looking back upon the whole past history of forest fires and especially upon 1908 with its immense damage to the country's woodlands, there is little cause for pride and much for chagrin and even of shame.

"Perhaps, if people only realized what a forest fire is when it gets a good start, they would not look upon the forest fire problem with so little concern. A fire of grass and leaves may be uncomfortable enough, but it can be successfully fought; but a forest fire fanned by a high wind is an indescribable thing terrible beyond words, and not to be prevailed against. A crown fire reaching from ground to tree-tops presents a sheet of flame, a rush, a roar, and a crashing awful beyond imagination. It moves with unbelievable swiftness, so that few who have seen one at really close quarters have lived to tell of it.

"These direct losses to life and property, estimated at $50,000,000 and an annual average of 50 deaths a year for the last 40 years, 2,000 in all, should be enough in themselves to bring a change in attitude toward forest fires on the part of the American people. Yet the indirect losses are in many ways more far reaching and more disastrous. Among these must be reckoned the damage to young growth, the effect of fire swept areas on soil and on stream flow, and the many consequent losses to business interests. These need be only touched upon. All bear a close relation to the question of fire, since fire exerts the greatest influence on the forests.

FAMOUS TROTTER RELIEVED FROM HIS SUFFERINGS.

David C. Smalley's famous pacer, "Ned Davis," is no more. Drs. Herbert and Pocock yesterday decided that the animal was suffering from an incurable disease, and the owner, almost in tears, ordered that his prize be put out of suffering. Accordingly the veterinarians chloroformed him and he was buried today in a chestnut grove on the farm of W. L. Smalley, Jr.

"Ned Davis" was eighteen years old and was known to all horse fanciers in this section of the State. He had an official record of 2:25½, but the original owner, William Skinner, had sent him over the track in 2:18 or better. D. C. Smalley, Jr., when nine years old, covered a mile with Ned in 2:27. Judge William A. Coddington bought Ned from Mr. Skinner and in turn sold him to Mr. Smalley.

HE DEMANDS $500 FOR BULLDOG'S BITE

The action in tort of Sidney E. Frazee, of this city, against John H. Kimball, of Westfield, in which the plaintiff seeks to recover $500 for injuries received last summer through an attack on him by Mr. Kimball's bull dog, is being tried in the District Court today. Isaac P. Runyon represents the plaintiff and W. S. Angleman the defendant.

A large number of witnesses have been subpoeaned by both sides and the case will probably occupy the greater part of the afternoon. Mr. Frazee was employed by a grocer of Westfield, and it was while delivering goods at a residence that he was attacked by Mr. Kimball's dog and terribly lacerated. He was under the care of Dr. C. B. Lufburrow for a number of weeks.

The trial, it is expected by counsel, will consume the rest of the day.

DR. STANTON ADDRESSES LOCAL DENTAL SOCIETY

The Plainfield Dental Society held its third meeting of the season, last night, when the members were the guests of Dr. Charles G. Davis at his offices on Park avenue. Following an excellent dinner, an interesting paper was presented by Dr. Frederick L. Stanton, of New York, a specialist in orthodontia. The subject of his paper was "The Effects of Abnormal Respiration on the Bones of the Face."

The principal points brought out by Dr. Stanton was that abnormal respiration is responsible for homliness of the voice, face and figure, as well as pulmonary turberculosis, contraction of the chest and round shoulders. The paper was followed by general discussion.

The following persons were present:

GEN. COLLINS AGREES WITH THE PRESIDENT

General D. F. Collins, commander of the Second Brigade, agrees with the President in the views expressed in his special message in which he favors a volunteer army ranging in number from 50,000 to 2,000,000. He also spoke favorably today of the change which gives the President power to order the National Guard regiments to other States when needed. The general favors the placing of the proposed army in a similar position to that formerly occupied by National Guard regiments.

"There has never been a question as to the possibility of enrolling the volunteers in war times," said General Collins, "but in the conditions prevailing in these crises the army officials have to contend with well nigh insurmountable obstacles. Everything must be done on the spur of the moment, and the ponderous machinery of the national defense cannot be swirled into action as satisfactorily as it may be under the President's plan. All the details would be perfected in times of security so that at a moment's notice the staffs and equipment to handle an immense volunteer army could be at once brought into action. I think the plan is an excellent one, and even with a possibility of having 2,000,000 volunteers in reserve it would in my opinion be practicable."

Wife and Furniture Missing.

Isaac Van Pelt, colored, of Dunellen, visited local police headquarters this morning, and asked Chief Kiely to help him find his wife and furniture. He returned home from work, last night, he said, and found both missing. He declared that a Plainfield expressman had carted the furniture to this city and that he would probably know where the woman is. Van Pelt said he could assign no reason for his wife's action

FOR TARIFF COMMISSION

Congressman Fowler Introduces Bill Aiming for Revision of Tariff Duties.

DISCUSSES CURRENCY PROBLEM

Fifth District Representative Points Out Three Necessary Banking Reforms.

Representative Charles N. Fowler, of the Fifth New Jersey district, yesterday introduced a bill in the House at Washington for the appointment of a tariff commission.

It provides that Congress shall fix maximum and minimum tariff schedules, and the commission within these limits shall fix the rates of duty upon all imports. No rate so fixed by the commission shall become operative until eighteen months after it has been promulgated.

As chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency, Mr. Fowler has given out a statement with regard to financial and currency legislation at the present session of Congress. He began by emphasizing the importance of principles rather than of particular bills in this matter, and urged "all business men, bankers and lawyers, who should inform themselves upon this most important question before the American people that they study principles, and," he said, "I hope my suggestion may fall under the eye of everyone who takes an interest in financial and currency legislation."

"The only true and the most economical currency is an untrameled credit currency. That is, a currency which is interchangeable with bank deposits that are subject to check. Such a currency very greatly facilitates trade and commerce, and prevents currency panics."

Mr. Fowler called attention to the fact that a bank failure in one section, under our present financial status, may affect the business interests of the whole conntry, and asked how protection from such consequences can be attained. He answered his own question as follows:

"We should be able to know both the quality and quantity of the bank reserves in every banking institution in the United States. This can only be done either by retirement or conversion into gold certificates.

"The reserves of the banks in any country should be coined out of the standard of value of that country. Our standard of value is gold; therefore our bank reserve should all be in gold or gold certificates, which are the same thing.

"To preserve and maintain the principal of individual banking and at the same time secure that strength and protection essential to absolute confidence and an impregnable defense to American commerce," the Congressman continued, "we must accomplish three things.

"First—We must unify American banking.

"Second—We must decentralize our bank credits.

"Third—We must centralize our gold reserves.

"The unification of our banking system can be accomplished only through a National act, which after thorough study and mature deliberation, shall be approved by the business and banking interests of the whole country and commend itself to the loyal support of the people as well.

"Such an act must give sufficient freedom to enable the individual banks to efficiently exercise their important functions. It must at the same time carry limitations and restrictions in the interest of safety, which, being enforced by thorough supervision, will give the highest guarantee for continued solvency.

"It must provide for a common, central, ample and general gold reserve directly related to the total liabilities of all the banks, and must also provide for a degree of mutuality of responsibility between the individual units composing the system sufficient to make loss to the depositor, as well as to the noteholder, impossible.

"Neither a Government savings bank nor a Government guarantee of bank deposits, which are identical in fact and principle, should find any place on the statute books of our country, whose chief asset, greatest strength, and crowning glory is the individualism of our citizenship."

Kennel Club Activity.

A. C. Wilmerding, A. G. Hooley and E. L. Mackenzie have been appointed a committee to draft by-laws and a constitution for the proposed Plainfield Kennel Club, which will meet shortly to elect officers. Women will be admitted to membership. The dog fanciers plan to hold a bench show annually.

MRS. WARD ASKS DIVORCE

Charges That Henry E. Ward Deserted Her in 1902 and Has Disappeared.

SHE PETITIONS FOR ALIMONY.

The Three Children are With the Mother—She Was Miss Julia Wayland.

A petition for divorce has been filed in the Chancery Court at Trenton by Mrs. Julia C. Ward, of this city, for a divorce from her husband, Henry E. Ward. In the petition filed Mrs. Ward alleges that she was married on December 4, 1884, to him at New Haven, Conn., and that since that time she has resided in New Haven, Conn., and that she then moved to Bound Brook. In 1905 she moved to North Plainfield and in 1907 she removed to this city.

Mrs. Ward charges that until 1892 she and her husband lived together with their three children in New Haven, but that Ward supported her and the children in an "indifferent manner." On June 2, 1892, she alleges, he deserted her and the children and left her alone, compelling her to support herself and her children.

Mrs. Ward, whose maiden name was Julia Cornelia Wayland, asks the court to permit her to resume her former name and also to divorce her from her husband. She also asks for an order requiring him to contribute to her support.

An affidavit on file by the solicitor of Mrs. Ward discloses the fact that he has made several efforts to find or locate Henry E. Ward, the defendant, but he has failed to locate anyone who has seen or heard of him in sixteen years and then avers that "if he is still alive" he must "be a resident of some other State or country that is unknown to deponent."

Arthur Murphy is solicitor of the complainant.

GEORGE BECKER HAS TROUBLES AS USUAL

George Becker, the Avon Park resident who has penchant for getting into legal difficulties, appeared as defendant in Justice Smith's court, at South Plainfield, last night, on three separate charges. Two of them were made by Anthony Sukovee, an employe, while Augustus Tomilsiki, also in Becker's service, was the third. All three were adjourned until next Saturday night as the mixed-up bunch of "you dids" and 'I didn'ts" was too much for the justice to fathom off-handed.

Sukovee first charged Becker with assault, declaring that the latter had knocked him down at the Becker home without provocation. This was denied most vehemently and the defendant was seconded by his wife. Sukovee was backed up by Tomisiski so the odds were even as far as veracity was concerned. When this case was adjourned, Sukovee's second charge that Becker owed him $16 back pay was taken up and there was more argument and another adjournment.

The third charge, made by Tomisiski, was similar to Sukovee's second, that Becker had paid him but $20 for five months wages and that according to their agreement a much larger sum was coming to him. The defendant asserted that he had squared up with Tomisiski on Thanksgiving Day directly after the feast of good things at the Becker home when he felt at peace with all mankind and wanted to show that he was a good skate, or words to that effect. The complainant maintained that he had partaken sparingly of all refreshment and that if any greenbacks crossed his palm he would have known it. Justice Smith opined he would have to have a little more time to consider all things concerned and the argument went over with the others.

MISS JENNINGS A BRIDE

DAUGHTER OF F. C. JENNINGS.

Rev. Dr. Holderman, of New York, Officiated—Miss Margaret Loizeaux Bridesmaid.

Miss Annie Louise Jennings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Jennings, of Rockview avenue, the borough, and Howard Masten Canoune, of Brooklyn, were married at 6 o'clock last night, at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of about seventy-five relatives and friends. Rev. Dr. I. M. Haldeman, pastor of the First Baptist church, 19th street and Broadway, New York, performed the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in white crepe de chine, trimmed with old point lace, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and roses. She wore a diamond pin, the gift of the groom. She was attended by Miss Margaret Loizeaux, a cousin, whose gown was of white silk voile, trimmed with lace. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom was unattended.

Mrs. Richard Griffith, of Baltimore, an intimate friend of the bride, was at the piano and she played the wedding march from Loehengrin as the bridal party entered the parlors, where the ceremony was performed. Afterward congratulations were offered and supper was served. The bride was the recipient of a wealth of wedding gifts from relatives and friends.

The home was attractively decorated for the occasion, there being a pleasing arrangement of flowers and greens throughout the parlors, dining-room and reception hall.

The guests were from Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn, Long Island, Rutherford and this city. The bride's mother wore a gown of gray silk trimmed with old lace, while Mrs. Canoune, mother of the groom, was gowned in black velvet, trimmed with duchesse lace. There were a number of other handsomely gowned women in the party.

Later in the evening the bride and groom left for an extended wedding trip and upon their return will reside in Brooklyn. The bride is well-known here in a large circle of friends. The groom is engaged in New York in the practice of law. He is a member of one of the oldest families in New York.

DISTRICT CLERKS BARRED FROM EDUCATION BOARD.

C. J. Baxter, State Superintendent of Public Schools, has obtained an opinion from the Attorney General holding that district clerks shall be barred from membership in boards of education on the ground that they would be employer and employe at the same time.

The opinion was given in answer to a question from Rockaway, N. J., as to whether the district clerk could be a member of the school board, and as such serve legally in office. It is applicable in all counties, although no action will be taken by the county superintendents until they hear from the State superintendent up on the question.

Dr. J. J. Savitz, Union County Superintendent, said that under this opinion the clerks were not now legally in office, but that he hoped no action would have to be taken in Union county until the end of the school year, in July, 1909, as the present clerks must make up the reports and matters might become confused if changes were made at this time.

Police Building Nearly Completed.

It was announced today that the new police headquarters building at Fourth and Sycamore streets would be completed by Saturday and that the department would take possession the latter part of next week. The structure must first be formally accepted by the Common Council, after which the furnishings will be installed as soon as possible. The structure is equipped with every improvement for facilitating the work of Chief Kiely and his men and will serve their needs for many years to come.

Horse Thieves at Stirling.

The local police received a telephone call from Stirling, early this morning, stating that horse thieves had been busy during the night in that vicinity and asking them to be on the lookout. From the barn of C. H. Vanderveer they took a brown horse valued at $200 and from D. E. Coon's place a rubber tired buggy and set of harness. The animal is described as being of chunk build, about fifteen hands high, left hind foot white and white strip on forehead.

BOROUGH YOUNG COUPLE ANNOUNCE THEIR MARRIAGE

Miss Marguerite Serrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Serrell, of Myrtle avenue, and Charles H. Lyman, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lyman, of Washington avenue, surprised their parents, yesterday, by announcing the fact that they had been married for some time.

The ceremony was performed in January last but details have been withheld by both families until cards have been issued to friends. They will be sent out within a few days.

Both young people are very well known in the city and borough and though it was understood that they were engaged, the announcement of their wedding came as a great surprise.

Mrs. Lyman, Jr., is a member of the First Baptist church and has been prominent in the social affairs of the younger set. Mr. Lyman is employed in New York.

GRANDMOTHER'S DEATH SOON FOLLOWS TRAGEDY

Mrs. Gabriel L. Smith, grandmother of William L. Murray, the Empire Trust Company's paying teller, who ended his life in a cab near Scotch Plains, Saturday, died suddenly at her home in Port Huron, Mich., Sunday night. News of her grandson's tragic death was conveyed to her Saturday night and the shock affected her greatly. It resulted in an attack of heart failure which caused her demise.

Mrs. Smith was eighty-two years old and lived at Elmira, N. Y., the greater part of her life. Her husband died about a year ago and she then went to Port Huron to reside with relatives. Several of the latter left Port Huron early Sunday night to come to Plainfield for the purpose of attending Mr. Murray's funeral. They had been gone about two hours when Mrs. Smith was stricken. Telegrams were forwarded ahead of the train and one of the relatives returned to Port Huron while the others continued to this city.

Mr. Murray and Mrs. Smith were greatly attached and the former's death came as a great blow. She had previously been enjoying good health but from the time she received the information of his death her condition underwent a change.

BOTH SIDES CONSENT TO VOLUNTARY NON-SUIT

Counsel for both sides in the case of the Hepner Wig Company, of New York, against Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger, Samuel F. Nixon, Nixon-Zimmerman and the Little Mose Company theatrical troupe, consented to a voluntary non-suit in the district court this morning because of the fact that the court decided that the action was not against the proper defendants.

Hepner Wig ompany brought suit to recover $455 for wigs sold to the defendant, the Nixon-Zimmerman Opera Company, a Pennsylvania concern, and in consequence of the non-suit it will now be necessary to try the case in Pennsylvania, unless the company can be attached in this State. Upon the appearance here sometime ago of the "Little Mose Company," an attachment was issued and the company filed a bond. Then the action resolved itself into a contract case. Assemblyman Peter James, of Jersey City, represents the complainant, while V. W. Nash, Jr., is counsel for the defendants.

TO DIVORCE FRED HUFF

Lawyer's Whereabouts Unknown and Wife Asks That Marriage Be Dissolved.

WEDDED THREE YEARS AGO.

After Deserting Her, Huff Lived in Hackensack and Afterward in Philadelphia.

A petition for divorce has been filed in the Chancery Court at Trenton by Henrietta M. Huff, of this city, from her husband, Frederick J. Huff, formerly of this city. In the petition filed by Mrs. Huff she alleges that they were married on July 9, 1905, by Rev. Delehanty at St. Mary's church in this city, and that they lived together until October 18, 1906, when Huff deserted her.

Mrs. Huff charges that after Huff deserted her in October 18, 1906, he continued to live in this city until April 1, 1907, when he went to Hackensack. Mrs. Huff's maiden name was Henrietta Magdalene Kreitling, and she charges that no children were born to her. The court is asked to dissolve the marriage to Huff and to allow her to resume her maiden name. She asks that the court shall make an order requiring Huff to support her by payment of alimony.

At the time the papers were filed Huff had an office in Hackensack but before the sheriff of Bergen county could serve the papers he had left Hackensack and returned to this city, and before Sheriff Lawrence could find him he had left for Philadelphia, where he had gone to visit a sister.

Frederick J. Huff, the defendant, has resided in this city nearly all his life and was formerly employed in the offices of Judge Newcorn and was later admitted as a lawyer and began the practise of law in the city with Judge Newcorn. At the time Judge Newcorn moved into his present offices Huff started in practise alone and occupied the old offices of Judge Newcorn and had a promising future. Right after he was admitted to practise law he married Miss Kreitling. It is said now that the whereabouts of Huff is unknown, but about seven weeks ago he was seen by a Daily Press correspondent on a street in Trenton, N. J., and he stated to him that he had been in Bordentown a few days; that he was merely wondering around and that he did not know where he was going. He seemed to be very tired.

The fact that this marriage was performed in a Catholic church by a priest and is now being sought to set the same aside, is causing much comment, in view of the fact that the Catholic church does not recognize a divorce.

Mrs. Huff is being represented by Judge Newcorn.

FAITH CHAPEL WILL BE IMMANUEL BAPTIST CHURCH.

Immanuel Baptist church is the name decided upon by the congregation of Faith chapel as soon as the organization becomes independent. Final action is expected within a short time, when the matter will come before the First Baptist church, of which the chapel is now a branch.

There was a largely attended and enthusiastic meeting of the chapel members last night when the details concerning the change were discussed and the new name adopted. Rev. J. W. Musson, the pastor, presided at the meeting and directed the deliberations.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

A place for boys to spend their evenings has been provided by Milton Knapp, who at his own expense, has fitted up the two rooms above Ratti's fruit store and turned it over to them to be used as a club. Comfortable chairs, substantial tables and other furniture and pleasing decorations have made the place so attractive that it is sure to do a world of good in keeping the youths off the streets and directing their minds away from things of an evil nature, to which a boy naturally falls a victim. All boys between 12 and 17 years of age are welcome, and they are to have entire charge of the government of the place under the condition, of course, that it be conducted in an orderly manner. That is required of all clubs and the boys certainly will see that the rules are strictly obeyed in theirs. Electric lights are being installed and the current magazines will be found on the tables, together with interesting games, entirely at Mr. Knapp's expense.

The officers of the Sunday-school board of the Methodist church were re-elected last night at their annual meeting. Mrs. E. C. Dutcher was again chosen as superintendent; George Schenck, assistant superintendent; Raymond Apgar, secretary; William E. Giddes, treasurer; Miss Stella Eick, pianist, and Miss Ella Dutcher, assistant pianist. The only change was in the librarian, to which office Harry Giddes was elected. December 23 was named as the date for holding the Christmas cantata. A tree also will be provided. Mesdames Todd, Kinney and Dutcher are on the committee for the purchase of the candy.

The overturning of a piano upon Mrs. John J. Cole Tuesday morning resulted in the fracture of two of her ribs. The instrument was being shifted to a different position and when one side was raised to straighten a rug, it overbalanced and forced Mrs. Cole to the floor pinioning her in a sitting position. Dr. Platt was called and she has since been in his care. It is believed no serious consequences will result.

A geographical social will follow the business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society tonight. It will be held at the home of Miss Catherine Dunham on Walnut street. Each person will represent some portion of the earth's surface, such as a country, state, city, body of water, or anything under the sun to which the geographical science can be applied. It promises to be very interesting.

Seven new members were admitted to the Presbyterian church Sunday morning, it being communion day. Four of them were baptised. The rites of baptism were also administered to two children.

Mrs. A. F. Faitonte, of Rochester, Minnesota, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. E. C. Dutcher, and other relatives at Roselle, for several weeks, started for her home yesterday morning.

Mrs. J. Newton Apgar has entirely recovered from her illness and is again taking up her active work in church and social affairs.

PLAINFIELD AND FANWOOD.

Fireside Council, R. A., of Westfield, holds an important meeting in the Council room in Arcanum Hall tonight. The annual election of officers will be held and all the local members are urged to be present. Seventeen former members of Fanwood Council have united with Fireside since the local council disbanded. Orator Murray has prepared an interesting program and a good time will be held after the election.

The Public Service Corporation has posted notices that no dogs or other animals will be carried on the company's cars after December 31, 1908. The respectable traveling public are wondering if drunks and rowdies are included with the unnamed animals.

The small ponds are covered with ice several inches thick and the younger generation is happy and enjoying their first skating of the season.

William Cook, of Cook Bros., the well-known chicken fanciers of Mountain avenue, has returned from an extended European trip.

The public school closes for the holiday vacation on December 23, reopening Monday morning, January 4, 1909.

Miss Mamie Clark has returned from a two weeks visit with relatives in Newark.

Miss Jennie Frentz leaves shortly for an extended visit with friends in Texas.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., meets tonight in the library rooms.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Thomas Crosier, of Perth Amboy, spent yesterday at the home of his friend, William Hamilton. Mr. Crosier is now on his way to his new home in Detroit, Mich.

Miss Emma Tappen has resumed her duties as music teacher in the village after having recently returned from a pleasant tour of the Southern States.

A freight car jumped the tracks at the Lehigh Valley's interlocking plant last night, delaying the traffic for several hours.

BASEBALL.

Harry C. Pulliam was re-elected president of the National League of Baseball Clubs at the annual meeting of the league at the Waldorf Astoria, New York, Tuesday. John A. Heydler was also re-elected secretary-treasurer, while the board of directors was made up of Barney Dreyfus, Charles H. Ebbets, August Herrmann, Charles W. Murphy and George B. Dovey.

John T. Brush, president of the New York Club, was not at the meeting, but the other clubs were represented as follows: Boston, George B. Dovey; Brooklyn, Charles H. Ebbets, Henry W. Medicus and Charles H. Ebbets, Jr.; Chicago, Charles W. Murphy; Cincinnati, August Herrmann and Max Fleischmann; Philadelphia, Willliam J. Shettsline, D. L. Reeves, E. I. Hyneman, Andrew Stevenson and James Potter; Pittsburg, Barney Dreyfus; St. Louis, M. Stanley Robison.

General routine business was transacted, and, after the various reports had been read and approved, the gathering proceeded with the solemn ceremony of moving, seconding and passing a motion that the championship of the league for the season of 1908, be awarded to the Chicago club. Mr. Murphy bore up well under the shock and then countered with a motion that no sessions of the league should be held later than 6 o'clock. This was passed enthusiastically.

President Pulliam's report contained several recommendations, one of which was simply a reiteration of previous declarations of the league and its president referring to gambling in the ball parks. The president recommended that the league rules in regard to betting on the games within the park inclosures be rigidly enforced. Another recommendation was that the time limit on waivers, which is now ten days in the playing season, be reduced to three days. This applies only to waivers during the playing season.

He also recommended that the fixing of dates for playing postponed games be made arbitrary by rule, instead of, as now, at the discretioin of the home management. In fact, this would mean that a postponed game would have to be played off on the first day of the next series between the two postponing clubs at the grounds from which the first postponement came.

The president's report also suggested that the ground rules of the world's championship series be adopted as the official ground rules of the National League. That would be that the foul line should be 235 feet in length, and that the roped off space back of the foul line should be twenty-five feet away from that line throughout its length.

Statistics showed that there had been ninety-four removals from games, sixteen suspensions and eight fines imposed as penalties on various teams during the last season, and they were divided as follows:

Boston, twenty-one removals, three suspensions and one fine; Brooklyn, five removals and two suspensions; Cincinnati, three removals and two suspensions; Chicago, ten removals and three suspensions, New York, twenty-two removals, three suspensions and one fine; Philadelphia, eighteen removals, four suspensions and one fine; Pittsburg, six removals, one suspension and two fines, and St. Louis, nine removals and one fine. The recommendation that the period of the drafting season, in so far as it applies to major leagues, shall be from September 1 to September 15 each year, instead of from September 1 to October 1, was adopted.

GOLF.

Adrian H. Larkin was elected president of the Metropolitan Golf Association at the annual meeting of the local organization at Delmonico's Tuesday night, and after a few words expressing appreciation for the honor and lauding golf as a sport showed that he was keenly alive to the needs of the game by suggesting that a motion be carried to have a committee appointed to confer with the various clubs in the association with a view to codifying, if possible, the local rules, which are at present considered too varied and complicated for general satisfaction.

The nominating committee, consisting of Findlay S. Douglas, chairman; Harvey Murdock and Max Behr, presented its ticket, and in accordance with custom the officers were elected without opposition, the secretary being instructed to cast one ballot as follows:

President, Adrian H. Larkin; vice-president, F. S. Wheeler; secretary, W. D. Vanderpool; treasurer, Frank C. Jennings.

Executive committee, the above officers and John Reid, Jr., J. L. Taylor, John M. Ward and G. P. Sheldon.

No club applied for the championship tournament, and it was agreed to leave the selection of a course to the executive committee.

Delegates were present from practically very club in the association, and it was plain that interest in the sport was growing.

The report of Leighton Calkins, the retiring secretary, showed the association to be in a flourishing condition both financially and otherwise.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Boys' Athletic League of the First Baptist church will meet for practice tomorrow night.

Rev. Edwin Shaw, the pastor, will have charge of the prayer-meeting at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, tomorrow night and occupy the pulpit Sabbath morning.

The Young People's Association of the First Baptist church is planning for an active winter's season, including several social meetings with an informal entertainment.

The new organ is about in position at the Church of the Holy Cross and it will probably be used at Christmas time for the first. Other improvements about the church are also nearing completion.

Since Rev. N. W. Squires became pastor of the Christian church, there has been a renewed interest and marked increase in the attendance at the services. The Ladies' Aid Society has been re-organized and is now doing good work.

The physical directors of the State Y. M. C. A. held the regular monthly conference at Elizabeth yesterday. The Plainfield Association was represented by G. L. Listman.

An address was made by Dr. G. L. Meylan, of Columbia University, on "The Value of Physical Examinations." He urged the directors to keep abreast of the times, for new and improved systems are continually being devised, and said that a physican director could not be considered proficient unless he understood physical examinations in all their details. He went into physiology to some extent and altogether gave a talk which will prove a great help to those present.

L. E. Hawkins, State secretary of the Y. M. C. A., was present and spoke of the State work, which is now on a firmer basis than ever before. The outlook, he said, is very promising and with more initiative would be even better.

It was decided to have the association represented at the tuberculosis exhibit in New York on December 17, which will be known as "Jersey Day." At that time a representative of each Y. M. C. A. in the State will be present. It was also announced at the meeting that the State officers of the Athletic League of North America would meet in the Newark Y. M. C. A. for reorganization on December 16, and at that time arrangements will be made whereby the two organizations will be able to co-operate in the future. This union is expected to prove a great benefit to both bodies, especially in the arranging of State meets.

The next meeting will be held at Madison, January 13.

Settles $10,000 Damage Suit When Chief Witness Fails to Appear.

William Moir, seven years old, of Bayonne, hired a pony of William Craven on May 13, 1907, and went for a saddle ride on the Boulevard. The pony ran away and Moir was thrown and killed. His mother sued Craven for $10,000 damages, but yesterday settled with him for $62.50 before Judge Vail, in the Supreme Court in Jersey City.

Her lawyer said his case was weakened by the absence of the most important witness.

WOOD LAUDS NEW JERSEY

Congressman Speaks at Banquet of U. S. Potters' Association.

ONE OF THE GREATEST STATES.

It Occupies Today a Place Near the Centre of the Stage, in Activity, He Says.

Congressman Ira W. Wood, of the Fourth, New Jersey district, was one of the principal speakers at the banquet of the United States Potters' Association, held at the Hotel Raleigh, at Washington last night.

"I presume," said the Congressman, "that I am expected to say a word as to New Jersey—the State that I have the honor to represent in part in the national house of representatives. You have all, doubtless, some time in your experience, passed through New Jersey. In fact, to get almost anywhere, one has to cross over our little State. With one exception, all of the great trunk lines of the country centreing in the metropolis come within our borders.

"You have seen New Jersey, but you have seen her from a car window. You have caught fleeting and kaleidoscopic visions as you have sped onward at the rate of sixty miles an hour over some of the most magnificently constructed railways to be found anywhere on the face of the globe. Even at that, you have seen something worth while.

"You have seen vast stretches of what was one time but barren wastes and sand flunes transformed now into world-famed summer resorts. You have seen picturesque hills and valleys in the northern part of our State, scarcely surpassed for beauty anywhere on the American continent, dotted now with the palatial homes of the wealth, culture and fashion of the great metropolis that lies just beyond our borders. You have seen thriving towns and great cities studding our railroads almost continuously for the ninety miles that stretch between New York and Philadelphia.

"You all know historic New Jersey—the New Jersey of colonial days—the New Jersey of revolutionary renown, where George Washington in the darkest days of the revolution faced the foe and the disheartened colonial forces took to themselves new hope and courage to press on to the glorious triumphs of Yorktown. But we want you to know better the New Jersey of today; the great industrial, manufacturing State; the sixth among all the States of the union in the aggregate of her manufactures, whose products, stamped with the mark 'made in New Jersey,' are shipped all over the world.

"A year ago I visited the Jamestown exposition. I saw there, as many of you saw, the various States of the union being with one another in the exhibits of their industrial achievements, and I felt proud to see my own little State holding her own, and more than holding her own in competition with the great commonwealth whose magnificent geographic areas make them veritable empires in themselves.

"New Jersey occupies today a place very near the centre of the stage in our American activities. In educational development she yields the palm to none. In industrial and commercial enterprise she is well up toward the head of the procession of the great commonwealths of the American union."

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER BOTH TRY SUICIDE.

Finding her daughter with a gas tube in her mouth and her head buried in a coal scuttle in her Hoboken home, Mrs. Jefferson Talman wrenched the tube from her daughter's rigid jaws and in her frenzy placed it in her own mouth and lay down near the younger woman to die. Tenants smelled gas and entered the apartments. Both women are in St. Mary's Hospital, where it is said they will recover.

Mrs. Minnie Matthews lives at No. 526 Washington street. She arrived home yesterday, after having been in St. Mary's Hospital, where she had undergone an operation. After her husband left the house for work in the morning, the police say, Mrs. Matthews went into the kitchen and adjusted the tube to the gas jet, placing the other end in her mouth. After turning on the gas Mrs. Matthews rested her head in the coal scuttle. Mrs. Talman, who lived at No. 612 Washington street, entered her daughter's apartment, but failed to get a response to her calls. Going into the kitchen she found Mrs. Matthews unconscious. Mrs. Matthew's two little children were asleep in a room close by, but escaped the gas fumes.

"Black Hander" Pleads Guilty.

William R. Boyd, charged with sending two "Black Hand" letters to Joseph McManus, an Elizabeth merchant, pleaded guilty to the charge yesterday when arraigned before Judge Edward S. Atwater in the Court of Quarter Sessions. Boyd was not represented by counsel. He will be sentenced on December 16.

VALUABLE SUGGESTIONS FOR CHRISTMAS MAILING

Postmaster Elias H. Bird has called attention of persons using the mails to a few valuable hints regarding the Christmas rush of postal business.

By paying attention to these hints a more satisfactory use of the mails will be had and many delays caused by the lack of information will be avoided. The postmaster's hints follow:

"Always place stamp in upper right hand corner.

"Second, third and fourth class matter deposited either in street box or postoffice, if not fully prepaid, is held at the office of mailing until addressee sends amount of deficiency.

"Mail matter of every description should bear name and address of sender in upper left hand corner. This should insure the return of matter if for any reason same cannot be delivered.

"Have your packages properly addressed naming county and State.

"See that the postage is fully prepaid.

"Mail matter deposited on top of a street letter box is not in the custody of the postoffice.

"It is especially urged that persons sending packages see to it that they are securely tied, otherwise the wrapper often becomes separated from the box or article, in which case neither sender nor addressee can be identified.

"Do not abbreviate name of State. More mail matter is improperly handled, delayed and missent because of imperfectly or carelessly written abbreviations of States than from all other causes combined.

"Any postoffice, no matter how small, makes special delivery of mail matter bearing a special delivery stamp, within one mile of the office.

"A special delivery stamp on a letter or package does not guarantee it against loss, but serves to secure prompt delivery at the receiving office. Do not use delivery stamp in place of registering valuable letters or packages. A special delivery stamp may be used on registered mail matter if prompt delivery is desired.

"Particular attention should be paid to the above at holiday times.

"Stamped envelopes which have been spoiled by misdirection or other cause, and which have not been cancelled, if in a whole condition, will be redeemed for the value of the postage on them payable in stamps, but an impression (stamp) cut from a stamped envelope is of no value.

"All letters and packages with valuable contents should be registered, as it is almost impossible to trace losses of ordinary mail matter.

"It is of daily occurrence that letters intended to be registered and have the necessary postage thereon, are dropped in the postoffice in the ordinary mail boxes. The letters are not registered, but go through as ordinary mail. The postoffice department requires that parties registering mail present same at post office registry window, where a receipt will be given for same ar carriers on their routes will receive and receipt for registered mail.

"A large quantity of souvenir postal cards are mailed daily without postage stamps affixed, mailers of which are evidently under the impression that same go through the mails free. For the information of such persons, it is stated that all souvenir postals with or without writing thereon, require a one-cent stamp; imitation 'Post Cards' in leather with written message thereon or a message burnt upon same require two cents in postage."

ALLEGED BLACK HANDS CAPTURED AT RARITAN

County Detective George D. Totten, of Somerville, and Detective Jacob Johnson and Willaim Hewitt, of Northampton county, Pa., assisted by the Somerville police, made an important capture at Raritan Tuesday night of two men, supposed to be members of the "Black Hand" society, who had been operating in Northampton county.

The prisoners, who are known as Dimineo Simini and Tomasso Quaono, are now held in the Somerset county jail, to be taken at an early day to Pen Argyl, Pa., where they are wanted for attempting to murder a man and woman for failing to comply with their demands for money. The prisoners, it is alleged, stabbed the couple on the public highway and left them for dead. The crime was committed last September, and the victims are still in a hospital in a critical condition.

Simini and Quaono fled from Pen Argyl, after the crime was committed, and the Northampton county authorities have since been searching for them.

County Detective Totten recently located the men in an Italian boarding-house on Thompson street in Raritan. Tuesday night the house was surrounded by the detectives and the police, as it was known Simini and Quaono were desperate characters, who likely would be assisted by their fellow-countrymen in the boarding-house in a hand-to hand fight. The Italians at first showed fight when confronted by the detectives, but submitted to arrest without much resistence when they saw they were outnumbered by the police, who crowded in on them.

SEEKS CARNEGIE'S AID.

Elizabeth Library Commissioners Sworn and Ready to Act.

The last of the recently appointed Elizabeth library commissioners having been sworn in yesterday, a meeting will be called at an early date by Mayor Ryan, at which plans will be considered to the end of securing, if possible, an appropriation from the Carnegie library fund This will be the first move of the trustees which were appointed as the result of the referendum vote in Elizabeth at the last election, at which it was decided to have a city supported library

The trustees will have no funds until after the July meeting of the Elizabeth City Council next year, at which the budget of expenses is made up and the appropriation to the library fund of one-third of a mill on each dollar's valuation of this year will be made.

Gifts from the Carnegie fund to cities of this size are said to be about $150,000. After such an appropriation has been made the city would be bound to an agreement to support the institution perpetually.

The members of the library board of trustees are Mayor Ryan, ex officio; Richard E. Clemen, Superintendents of Schools, ex-officio; Judge Clark McK. Whittemore, Charles J. Schlichter, Dr. John P. Reilly and former Chancellor William J. Magie. The last two named were sworn yesterday.

WILL PROBE STRIKE RIOTS AT KEASBEY.

Justice J. J. Bergen, in charging the December Grand Jury at New Brunswick yesterday, said that evidence of the recent labor riots at Keasbey will be presented to the jury, and he urged that careful attention be given to them. He explained that if employes are dissatisfied with their work they have the right to leave immediately, but they must act peaceably. Some of the strikers who threw stones at the building of the National Fireproofing Company's plant are under arrest, and the strike troubles will be considered when their cases are called.

The justice also ordered that careful attention be given to violations of the screen provision of the license law. He said that the jury had no business to pass judgment upon the law; that it is upon the books and must be enforced. If you do not indict violators of the law you commit a greater offense against society than the man who breaks the law," said the justice.

PRETTY THINGS THAT GIRLS MAY MAKE.

Every girl should spend a good share of her spare moments with the needle.

Girls who sew neatly may profitably employ that talent by making for themselves or their relatives a collection of scarfs of from two to four yards in length, their texture and finish being governed by the costume with which they are to be worn. Such accessories, designed to accompany the plain tailor-made skirt and coat suits used for school and shopping, are usually of silk cashmere, which comes in all the fashionable shades. This material is so wide that it may be diveded ineo lengths of one and a half yards each, the two widths being poined crosswise with a strip of self-colored ribbon. The sides are finished with a blind stitched narrow hem, they are rolled against a baby ribbon bordering on the right side of the material, or they are featherer-stitched with silk floss of a contrasting shade.

Black silk scarfs are most effective as well as youthful looking when the ends are embroidered in bright colors or in the pastel blues and greens. Prettiest of all are those having appliqued bands of satin ribbon arranged in imitation of Roman stripes and terminating with long fringe, which hepeats the various shades of green, maize, pink and blue employed in the ribbon bordering.

THE WINTER SUIT AND USES OF COAT.

No matter what the season may be, we seem doomed to worry about seasonable clothing and appropriate clothes.

Winter is almost here, even though balmy days may belie the season, and everyone is interested in securing holiday habiliment, even those who are awaiting the first of the year to purchase marked-down articles. Certainly dress articles will be far less expensive after the holidays, and there are then four long months for wearing winter dresses. In selecting a jacket suit— this is more essential than a house or evening dress —get one of the dark cloth kinds, showing a conventional long coat, semi or all fitted, and buttoned down the centre front or at the side in a double-breasted design. If the coat is quite long and very dark, it can be used for evening wear and may be worn with hat and gown. A selection in dark blue, very dark gray or black would be best. Get one of the herringbone materials of semi-weight or a broadcloth. The suggested coat may be devoid of many little features very dressy upon more gorgeous trappings, but spring will see the return of more sensible coats in the conventional patterns.

THE DRESS AND THE PERSONALITY.

Does dress make the man? Indeed no, but it helps. There is nothing more unrefined than a half-grown youth in long clothes. In nine cases out of ten such a boy has no judgment. He thinks he is in style when he buys a gay tie, bright socks and a gaudy hat. Even men commit the error of choosing the shape and color of clothes they like best rather than those most suited to them. They do not suty dress as women do and many make grievous faults, but, even so, we see more poorly dressed women than men. An intelligent study of one's limitations will prevent the average man from dressing in bad taste.

All women of refinement like escorts to be neatly dressed and many a glaring suit has kept the suitor at a distance. Good clothes are quickly noticed, but quiet taste never intrudes. A tailored suit always looks well, no difference how often it is worn, if kept carefully cleaned and pressed. Boys can be taught at home how to press their own arguments and many do so. Do not nag at the husband, brother or son about clothes, but begin with the boy and teach him how to dress and make it a rule that he must be clean.

I can remember that when I went to school (not so many years ago!) there was only one boy in the room who wore a white collar or parted his hair, and some were often so dirty they were sent out to wash their hands. The one clean boy looked like a flower among weeds. It was merely the custom to be careless. A boy should be taught to take good care of his teeth and his hands. Dirty nails are an abomination in the sight of the public, and these little beginnings are what lead up to refinement in the man, the love of good clothes, good colors and modest styles that place him in favor in the social and business world.—Woman's National Daily.

SILKS FOR THE EVENING GOWNS.

Paris is using crepe meteor for some of her poveliest gowns. It is to be found in the shops here. It is really a crepe de chine with a satin surface. One can easily imagine what beautiful gowns it makes.

Peking crepe meteor is still lovelier. It is this same crepe meteor with stripes in self-color that have the desirable corded effect.

Satin ondoyant is another new arrival in the silk family. It has a rich softness like the feel of velvet, yet it is not heavy.

Satin majestic belongs to the same class of these delightfully soft, shiny silks that have so much vogue this year.

Indeed, nearly the whole of silk fashion is summed up in this description—soft and lustrous.

For trimming purposes striped black and white silk is very effective, especially for the large lapels of the fashionable directoire costumes.

Rich brocaded silks in cashmere and Oriental effects are also new for use as vests in tailored suits or for a touch of handsome trimming.

The new pompadour crepes for scarfs come this season with a broad band in cashmere effect through the centre, with plain color each side.

Ottoman silk, or bengaline, as some call it, is back in favor for coats, revers, collar and cuff trimming and hats. Some of the handsomest imported evening wraps are made of it. In the beautiful new colors, trimmed lavishly with gold or silver lace, it makes a coat fit for a queen.

The Belt Line.

No difference how fine the shirtwaist material is, find the true waist line and stitch around it a white tape on the under side. In the centre of the back and at each side firmly stitch a substantial straight metal eye, with correspondingly wide hooks on the skirt. This will not tear the waist. An elastic, one-half inch wide, two inches shorter than the waist measurement, fastened with a button clasp or hook and eye is very useful in holding the waist in place, after which the petticoats can be adjusted over it. A waist seldom slips up when held in place with all the skirts.

The Women's Relief Corps will hold a regular meeting tomorrow night at which time officers will be elected.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 13, 1908.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Books that delight and strengthen.—Prov. iv, 1-9.

In these first nine verses of the fourth chapter of Proverbs Solomon exhorts us to get wisdom and understanding. He tells of his own experience and how his father had taught him and enjoined him to get wisdom and understanding. We must remember, however, that "wisdom" is used in Proverbs in a different sense from what we use it. It refers not so much to intellectual as to practical knowledge, the knowledge that tells us what is right and wrong and that helps us to do the right and avoid the wrong. The word as used by Solomon has a large moral element in it. It is with this meaning that he says: "Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom; and with all thy getting, get understanding. Exalt her and she shall promote thee; she shall bring thee to honor, when thou dost embrace her she shall give to thine head an ornament of grace; a crown of glory shall she deliver to thee." These are the blessings that shall come to those who are wise enough to do good and to avoid evil. Life is the result of such wisdom. "Let thine heart retain my words; keep my commandments and live."

One of the chief sources of obtaining wisdom is through books. Parental instruction comes largely from experience, and how wise we would be if we would heed it, for it would mean life. But books form no small part in the making up of our character, the result of practical wisdom. The chief end in reading, therefore, should be the development not of the mind, but of the heart, the ennobling of character, which alone is "an ornament of grace" and a "crown of glory."

From the Bible, the book of books, down there are thousands of good books that can both delight and strengthen us, that will interest and enrich and enoble us. But there are other books—books that degrade and debase moral character. An important phase of the book question is, therefore, the selection of the books that we are to preach. This selection will depend upon our training and natural disposition. Parents and teachers should assist children to develop a taste only for inspiring and ennobling literature. There are few things more debasing than a taste—yea, a craving—for impure books. No true Christian Endeavor girl should hide away and take stolen glances at a book she would not want her mother to see, nor should the boys read what they know their fathers would not approve. If we do not possess it already, let us cultivate a taste for good books only, the masterpieces of the world's great writers, and, above all, for the Bible, God's book from heaven.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. xix, 8-10; xciv, 12; Prov. iii, 13-23; viii, 10, 11, 33-35; Job xxviii, 12-28; Isa. viii, 19, 20; Mal. iii, 16; John v, 39; I Tim. iv, 13; II Tim. iii, 14-16.

The Founder of Christian Endeavor.

I have never met a man so thoroughly devoted to a single purpose as Dr. Clark. That is, I think, the secret of his abounding success. He will take his family and a few close friends off for a canoe ride and a jolly picnic and excursion on the river Charles that bends its romantic waters around the hill upon which his house stands. In the midst of the merry games the gentlemen will be drawn aside for a half hour's quiet talk over "our work." Eight or ten of us will tear ourselves away from the office for a hard earned two weeks in the Maine wilderness. Scarcely a day must pass, however, without its earnest conference under the pines and prayers breathed out into the great solitude for God's blessing upon the millions of Endeavorers. I have seen him in all moods, and Christian Endeavor is uppermost in them all.

Jealous at every point for the cause of the young folks, Dr. Clark is singularly forgetful of himself. A plan is as good coming from some one else as from his own mind—if it is a good plan. It is a strange sight to see him preside over a conference of workers, the least talkative and aggressive of them all, watching and listening with perfect modesty and putting forth his own voice with hesitation, yet almost without exception his are the views that prevail. Probably no man on earth has so wide a knowledge of the world's religious denominations or is honored by so many ministers of all faiths, who have come to be his personal friends. Similarly he is an American of Americans, though he was born in Canada, but he is at home in all lands and is in the truest sense a citizen of the world.—Amos R. Wells in Irish Endeavorer.

Hard Work Never Kills.

It is a mistaken idea that hard work kills. Hard work never kills. If an individual gets plenty of sleep and takes good care of his constitution, he is in shape to do hard work. The man who makes most in the business world is the man that works hardest, not necessarily doing the most things with his hands, but doing the most things with his brain. The more you do with your brain the less your hands have to do. It needs hard work to make a success, but you mustn't let worry mix in with your hard work. Hard work brings success, but to do hard work the machinery must be in good order.—Irish Endeavorer.

In Chile.

Dr. Clark found seven Christian Endeavor societies in Chile in his recent tour of South America—one English speaking and six Spanish.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

The State Teachers' Association will convene in Atlantic City on December 18 and continue for a three days' session.

Frank Yocius, the young married man of Paulsboro, who dropped out of sight some days ago, has been located in a Philadelphia hospital.

During an altercation concerning some work at the Millville cotton mills Monday, Frank Litgia struck a girl operative and was fined $10.65 by Mayor Smith.

Admitted to the Cooper Hospital, Camden, with a fractured leg and internal injuries caused by a fall about a week ago, John Spiegle, forty-eight years old, died yesterday. He was at one time active in politics.

Atlantic City Elks have given up for the present their project to build a new home and the big lot in South North Carolina avenue, bought for the purpose, has been sold to James A. Humphreys, of Philadelphia, for $22,500.

Three false fire alarms turned in from different parts of Atlantic City, last night created a sensation as engines dashed to the supposed blaze. Police and firemen believe a false alarm fiend is at work, and are searching for him.

While the family of William F. Lee, a candy manufacturer of Millville, slept, burglars got in their home and bundled up all the silverware and valuables, but were frightened away, leaving all of the plunder but seven cents.

State Oyster Superintendent Alonzo T. Bacon, representing the State Oyster Commission, has made the announcement that he will not issue a license to any boat or vessel unless at the time of issuing of such license the boat or vessel is wholly owned by bona fide residents of the State for twelve months.

Mrs. Robert Stroud, widow of a former alderman of Atlantic City, but recently a resident of Philadelphia, was found dying from an attack of heart trouble in the bathroom of the Taylor cottage, in St. James' place, yesterday, and she died in a few moments. Mrs. Stroud was sixty-seven years old, and lived on Ridge avenue, Philadelphia. She had a roll of money in her clothing and $2,000 worth of jewels were afterward found in a chamois bag in her baggage.

When Miss Lizzie Mignognia, an attractive girl, disappeared from her home, in Minotola, stories of foul play became current and the whole community was interested. Justice of the Peace Sims decided that the girl had run away because her father objected to beaux and dancing. He made a still hunt and yesterday caught the girl while she was crossing the ferry at Camden. She had been staying with friends in that city. There was an affecting scene at Landisville when the frantic mother beheld her daughter alive and well.

SIX WANT PARDONS.

One Wants Franchise Restored and Others Ask Liberty.

Five State prison inmates, sentenced from Union county for various offenses, have filed their notice of intention to appear before the New Jersey Court of Pardons at Trenton this week and ask for pardons. One petition for a full pardon and restoration to the rights of citizenship will be made; that of Thomas Hanley, who was sentenced for ten years in December, 1897, for atrocious assault and battery, and paroled in April, 1904. His sentence expired long ago, but his name remains on the parole list. The other petitioners are the following:

Joseph Collins, eighteen months for highway robbery; sentenced September, 1906, term expires August, 1909.

Charles Ferdio, three years for manslaughter; sentenced July, 1907, term expires February, 1910.

Henry S. Freeman, three years for forgery; sentenced April, 1907, term expires October, 1909.

James A. Hunt, one year and six months for manslaughter; sentenced March, 1908, term expires July, 1909.

Alfred P. Smalley, five years for breaking, entering and stealing; sentenced November, 1905, term expires December, 1909.

COLD CREAM AND GROWTH OF HAIR.

Nearly every one who uses cold cream on the face worries more or less for fear that it may cause hair to grow. This is needless worry.

Doesn't it seem reasonable that if ordinary cream would cause hair to grow where no hair is intended to be, bald-headed men and women would acquire heavy heads of hair by merely applying a little cream? It is said by skin specialists that no cream ever made would cause hair to grow.

Any frequently applied friction may stimulate the skin to such an extent that a small fuzz will start to grow. This is the same way if you rub any part of the body. The hair will grow to protect the skin from irritation.

It seems very unlikely, however, that even if the cream is used every night it will cause any annoying growth of hair.

LEAL'S TAKE THE LEAD AT OPENING OF SERIES

Leal's School five won from the North Plainfield High School yesterday afternoon in a game of rough playing and many fouls.

It was the first of the Interscholastic League series. Leal's showed better form, the result of more practice, and Lawrence scored most points for that team.

Conroy, for the High School, put up a good exhibition of clever shooting. The score was 28 to 18.

The line-up:

Individual scoring: Dallas 10, R. Lawrence 2, C. Lawrence 15, Parsons 2, Conroy 12, Becker 1, Overton 2. One point awarded to each side on fouls in shooting. Two twenty minutes halves.

NEWARK BAY LOSES TO PARK CLUB'S FIVE

The Park Club five took two of the series of three games with the Newark Bay Club, on the local alleys, last night, losing the second game by a margin of nineteen pins. The Parks were in their usual good form and their scores were of the average and in several instances over. Barlow was high man with a 210 in the third game, while Captain Ball was next with 196 in the first game. Long rolled 195 in the second game, while Daniel put up 190 in the first game. The other scores were all good.

The fact that the Parks lost the second game was due to a 200 score by Dedrick and a 196 by Kimpell. In the other games the visitors did not get above the average and they were unable to overcome the good work of the home bowlers. The scores:

In Their Baseball Comedy Hit "Stealing Home" Originally Sung & Posed for Cameraphone Co.

"Popular Proctor's" is the name best applied to Plainfield's new playhouse. The crowds that have attended each day, are a unit in the opinion that there has never before been seen a life-motion picture show that can compare with this. The wonders of the Cameraphone increase daily. The pictures are changed Monday, Wednesday and Friday, while the Biograph pictures are changed every day. On Saturday the show will run continuously from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 10:30 o'clock at night, with no stop at the supper hour. This will avoid the repitition of last Saturday's crush.

The subjects to be presented by the Cameraphone next week will be life-motion pictures of the following well-known vaudeville stars: Dove and Lee, comedy sketches, "Si and Sis," Antony and Cleopatra;" Jenson and Geblen in their specialty, "Mexico;" comedy, "The Bill Poster's Dream," and "Tipperary;" Williams and Hanley, "All In, Down and Out," "Every Little Bit added to What You Got;" Buddy & Co., "Cordelia Malone" and "Cecila With a Capital C;" rube sketch, "The Husking Bee," Helen Johnson in Scotch ballads, "Loch Lomond," "Comin' Thro' the Rye;" Rising & Nares, "Oh, So Pure," love's roundelay; Donlin and Hite—Mike Donlin, captain of the New York Baseball Club, and Mabel Hite, soubrette, in their specialties. Particular attention is called to the daily changes of program.

HE KNOWS HOW THE RETIRED LIFE SHOULD BE ENJOYED

L. V. F. Randolph, formerly president of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, is a fairly old man, not so desperately old, but old enough to have worked and worried for half a century under the shadow of Trinity spire; fairly lucky because he has won his luck fairly. He is not tremendously rich, but is better off than that—he has a sufficiency and knows when he has enough. So he has retired and travels through Italy, Egypt and the Hold Land and occupies his mind by writing books and delivering lectures on Constantinople and Athens.

Mr. Randolph resides in Plainfield and owns one of the most valuable properties in the place, where he raises Jersey cows and flowers and has one of the finest gardens in the country, which contains a specimen of every tree plant and shrub, no matter how rare or expensive, that will grow in this country. He is almost a botanist.

Then his life has had its picturesque features. He marched under Meade at Gettysburg. He has owned cattle on a thousand hills in New Mexico, he has flashed in the Yellowstone, shot antelope in Wyoming and climbed the Sierras, the Rockies and the Alps. He has conducted reform movements, written volumes of poetry, managed big estates and "busted" broncos. But he never "busted" anything in Wall street, not even himself. He has always made a success of everything he has undertaken. As treasurer of the Illinois Central, as president of the Atlantic Trust Company, and as head of the Consolidated Exchange he showed himself to be a conservative, hard headed business man of the first rank. He has handled hundreds of millions of money and always paid 100 cents on the dollar. Now he takes his ease, serenely oblivious to booms and panics, and simply enjoys his health and his good luck.

Mr. Randolph is rich in interesting reminiscences, and is one of the most interesting after dinner talkers to be found in a day's travel. Plainfield regards him as one of its conspicuous public spirited men, and he was considered by many to have been the ablest Mayor the place ever had. He is vice-president of the Public Library, and much of its popularity is due to the personal interest he takes in building up the standard of the institution.

His hospitality is proverbial, and his beautiful home is presided over by one of the most charming of wives, and he is surrounded by a bevy of attractive and accomplished daughters. Mr. Randolph's home contains many relics and curios collected in foreign countries, some of the articles being 4,000 years old.

Mr. Randolph, accompanied by Mrs. Randolph, expects to depart next month for a three months' trip to the Mediterranean. If the good wishes of many friends avail they will be certain to enjoy a delightful respite from the rigors of our winter and a safe and enjoyable voyage.—New York Telegram.

P. S. C.'S OFFICIALS HERE

McCarter and Others Inspect Local Lines, Planning to Improve the Service.

SCHEDULES ONLY CONSIDERED.

Nothing About Those New Cars—Conference With City Officials To-night.

Prior to the conference to be held tonight between officials of the Public Service Corporaion and the Councilmanic Public Affairs Committee, in relation to improving local trolley conditions, the company officials visited Plainfield yesterday in the director's special car, and made a thorough tour of inspection of local conditions. They will report the result of their findings together with recommendations at the conference tonight.

Those in the part yesterday included President Thomas N. McCarter, first vice-president, G. J. Roberts; second vice-president, William Barlow; general manager R. E. Danforth; superintendent of transportation, N. W. Bolen; superintendent of maintenance and ways, Martin White, and central division superintendent, J. J. Gettings.

A trip was made over all of the city lines, going through Fourth and Somerset streets, Arlington avenue and to the Netherwood section and the officials made notes to be incorporated in suggestions to be presented tonight. Among the recommendations to be made tonight are that the Arlington avenue line cars be operated between the terminus at Hillside Cemetery and that at the end of the Somerset street line, running on a fifteen minute schedule. This would give a direct cross-town service. Then it is proposed to operate the Netherwood and Fourth street cars to Front and Somerset streets, discontinuing the seven-and-a-half minute schedule during certain hours as far west as Grant avenue. This arrangement, it is said, would bring patrons of the Fourth street and Netherwood lines into the heart of the shopping district, where if they desire, they can transfer to the cross-town or main line cars, which will be operated so as to make close connections. At present three cars are operated on the Fourth street line and a similar number on the Netherwood line. Whether the proposed new schedule would require any additional cars on these lines or on the Arlington avenue line, remains to be seen.

Nothing further has been said regarding new trolley cars for the local lines. New cars were promised for January 1, 1908, announcement having been made months before that time that such an improvement would be part of the consideration for being allowed double tracks in the business section.

ROYAL ARCH MASONS IN ANNUAL CONVOCATION.

At a regular convocation of Jeruscalem chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., last night, the following officers were elected: High Priest, M. H. Ewart; king, E. M Vail; scribe, William A. Cochran; captain of the host, C. H. Russell; principal sojourner, C. H. Montfort; secretary, William Corfell; treasurer, Henry Liefke; trustees, William R. Codington; Henry Woodland and C. H. Rugg; representative to Masonic Hall Association, Dr. D. C. Adams. The installation will take place on Thursday night, January 14.

Following last night's business session, a social time was enjoyed during which supper was served by Caterer W. W. Warnock.

Shower and Cobweb Party.

Miss Lillian A. Force, of 82 Duer street, entertained her Sunday-school class from Trinity Reformed church, last night, at a "cobweb party," which was turned into a linen shower for two of the young women members of the class—Miss Ursula Auten and Miss Annie Bodine, who are to be married this month. While enjoying the cobweb party, those who engaged in it found a pretty little gift at the end of each string and the feat of untangling the numerous strings afforded lots of amusement. During the evening refreshments were served.

Van Horn Funeral Services.

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Hannah Van Horn, who died Wednesday, will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at Calvary Baptist church. Burial will take place tomorrow at Lamington, N. J.

DECISION RESERVED IN THE BULLDOG CASE

Judge William Newcorn reserved decision yesterday in the district court in the case of Sidney E. Frazee against John H. Kimball, in which the plaintiff sought to recover $500 for injuries received through an attack of a bull dog owned by the defendant. The case occupied almost all day. It is expected that decision will be announced at the next session of the court.

The plaintiff, through his counsel, I. P. Runyon, brought out the fact that Mr. Kimball had been warned about keeping his dog chained, but the defendant testified that he had only spoken to him on one occasion and he then chained the dog. It was shown that the animal had broken loose. According to the defendant the dog was not considered dangerous and in his own words, "the dog would not harm a child."

Among the witnesses for the plaintiff was Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, who attended Mr. Frazee, and he described the extent of the lacerations he found all over his body, the result of the attack by the dog. Other witnesses were called to prove that the animal was considered vicious and that neighbors were afraid of him.

WOMEN DRIVING MEN OUT AS PEDAGOGUES

In his annual report to Gov. Fort, Charles J. Baxter, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, will show some remarkable conditions in the school profession in New Jersey. One of the most interesting of these is that women are steadily driving men from teaching, and unless there is a change in this respect soon, the schools will speedily be completely feminized.

The number of male teachers employed during the past school year was 1,100, 42 less than in the preceding year. The number of female teachers was 9,173, an increase of 310. In 1856 the number of male teachers employed was 1,125, while the female teachers numbered only 817. The total number of teachers employed last year was 10,279, an increase of 268 for the year. The average salary paid was $697.06, an increase over the preceding year of $79.59, or 12.2 per cent.

The report shows total enrollment of 402,866 pupils, an increase of 8,806 for the year. The costs of the schools for the year aggregated $14,951,775, an increase over the preceding year of $2,017,738. The salaries paid last year were $7,165,068.04. The total value of the schools in the State is estimated at $28,582,358. The school tax for the year was $3,238,558.28, the increase being 57 per cent over the preceding year.

The appropriations for the school year of 1908-9 are: State school tax, $4,051,360.32; State appropriation, $1,012,840.08; the district school tax and the 2¾-mill tax, making a grand total of $10,097,402,92.

TRINITY'S CONSISTORY CHOOSES ITS OFFICERS.

When the Consistory of Trinity Reformed church held its regular monthly session last night, Rev. John Y. Breok, the newly installed pastor acting as chairman of the meeting, the routine business was followed by the election of a clerk of the consistory, treasurer and assistant treasurer of the church.

These officers were unanimously re-elected: Edgar F. Sheppard, clerk; H. E. Gayle, treasurer and Philip Vroom, assistant treasurer, all of whom were heartily thanked for their services during the year. The chair appointed Robert Clark, Jr., F. E. Smith and Charles M. Dolliver as a committee to make the annual audit of the treasurer's books. The standing committees which are the same as last year were announced by the pastor.

New Pictures Big Hits.

The new cameraphone pictures are making hig hits at Proctor's this week. The new house is doing an excellent business, during the Christmas shopping season, and all out of town shoppers make it a point to visit the popular play house. There will be a new illustrated song put on today, entitled "Married," by George Cohan.

Surprise Kitchen Shower.

Miss Jeannette G. Addis, of Orange place, was given a "surfise kitchen shower" at the home of Miss Lydia Porter, of Elm place. Games and other amusements formed the evening's entertainment, after which refreshments were served. Those arranging the shower were Miss Porter and Miss Pierson.

CHOIR ENTERTAINMENT DELIGHTED AUDIENCE

An audience thoroughly appreciative of the fine program arranged, enjoyed the musical given at Grace M. E. church, last night, by the quartet choir of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, under the direction of William P. Dunn, organist of the church. The quartet consists of Mrs. Virginia Wilson, soprano; Miss Grace Carroll, contralto; Herbert Taylor, tenor and James Stanley, bass.

In addition to quartet selections, tenor, contralto and bass solos, Mr. Dunn favored the audience with two delightful organ solos, Handel's "Largo" and Dubois' "Fiat Lux," together with an encore. The members of the quartet were in excellent voice and were obliged to give an encore following each number. Miss Carroll, who is a favorite at Grace church, was given an ovation and the rendition of her numbers was heartily applauded. There were also solo numbers by Mrs. Virginia Wilson, Mr. Taylor and Mr. Stanley, all of which were appreciated. A feature of the program was the concluding number, "Sing, O Daughter of Zion," quartet with organ. This gave an exceptional opportunity for the quartet to display its ability in the rendition of this class of music.

The program follows:

Part first: "The Miller's Wooing," Fanning, quartet; "Dein Gedenke," Meyer-Helmund; "Song of Waiting," Wright, Herbert Taylor; "My Heart is Weary," Goring-Thomas, Miss Carroll; "Good Night, Beloved," Pinsuti. Part second: Organ solos, "Largo," Handel; "Fiat Lux," Dubois, William P. Dunn; soprano solo, "The Nightingale," Stephens, Mrs. Virginia Wilson; trio from "Attila," Verdi, Mrs. Wilson, Mr. Toylar and Mr. Stanley; bass solos, "In a Garden," Hawley; "The Trumpeter," Dix, Mr. Stanley; quartet with organ, "Sing, O Daughter of Zion," Gadsby.

MAN'S ACTION PUZZLES SOUTH PLAINFIELDERS

The family of Harry Sofield, of Lehigh avenue, South Plainfield, is greatly disturbed over the continued prowling about their home of an unknown man. The fellow has been seen on numerous occasions lurking about the place as if he had robbery or some other purpose in view but so far he has attempted nothing. On one occasion he was shot at as he lingered in the shadow of a tree and remained away afterward for some time.

The stranger was seen prowling about the house again last night and the family was in a state of apprehension as to what he was after. He kept a safe distance, probably for fear of again becoming target for a bullet but remained about the premises a good part of the evening. His action is a complete mystery as his stamping ground is around the Sofield place and nowhere else. The villagers declare that if he keeps it up he will be tagged suddenly some night by a well organized buckshot party.

CENTRAL LODGE, A. O. U. W., HOLDS ANNUAL SESSION.

Central Lodge, No. 48, Ancient Order of United Workmen, at its meeting last night, elected these officers for the ensuing year, following the routine business of the evening:

Thorn; financier, William Newcorn; receiver, Charles H. Randolph; inside watchman, Robert W. Ellis; outside watchman, Edward M. Mosher; trustee, three years, Lorenzo J. Spicer; organist, Theodore J. Mason; representatives to the Grand Lodge, William Newcorn and Harvey R. Thorn; alternates, Walter Bradford and Theodore J. Mason.

CHARITY WORKERS MEET

Local Organization in Annual Session Addressed by Union County Probation Officer.

SCHOOL HEAD ALSO SPEAKS.

Encouraging Reports Are Received—A Nominating Committee Named by Trustees.

The annual meeting of the Charity Organization Society of Plainfield and North Plainfield was held at Grace church parish house last night. Fifty-five members were in attendance. The president, Hugh F. Fox, was in the chair. The business session was followed by brief addresses by Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, of Elizabeth, county probation officer, and Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of Plainfield schools.

Mrs. Williamson described her work and told what is being accomplished for the probationers. She was, she said, not entirely in sympathy with the methods of Judge Ben Lindsey, of Denver, believing that they contained too much sentimentality.

"We have no occasion for sentimental work here," she said, "because the people are so well educated. In the west it is different. His boys are very devoted to him, and so are the boys here devoted to the probation officers."

Mrs. Williamson said she was averse to the juvenile court being conducted in the presence of spectators other than the officials and complainant.

In cases of men prisoners, even when the record was found to be especially bad, he might be reformed by probation, and she said she had found the police willing to co-operate with her in the work, though they are generally convinced from the start that the prisoner is guilty.

Probationers seldom fail to report, Mrs. Williamson said. It is required of them once a week for a month or six weeks, according to the individual, and the intervals are gradually lengthened. She stated that she gives receptions to her charges occasionally to which they like to come and bring their relatives.

The disposition of lawyers to have all doubtful cases put on probation was deplored, as quite frequently a case was disposed of quickly in this way and afterwards found that the subject was innocent, thus doing him an injustice. Her experience with boys was that their confidences could be easily gained and they would admit the truth about a wrong doing. The girls, on the other hand would keep things back and could not be compelled to tell. A woman probationer would fix up a false story and stick to it.

The Elizabeth night school for probationers was declared to be a success. The Board of Freeholders had provided the rooms and desks and the teacher is supplied by the school board. The membership numbers twenty-seven and they are all happy and doing good work.

Henry M. Maxson spoke on the truancy question, naming the causes of incorrigibility in children and how the cases are treated by the truant officer. He said that in some instances parents do not estimate the importance of sending the child to school and through ignorance of the real good to be derived from schooling the child is put out to work. This might be done partly because of poverty, and when on investigation it is found that a child's wages are needed towards the maintainance of the home, the officer assists the parents.

"Every child is entitled to a schooling and his right must not be taken away from him," said Mr. Maxson. "If the parent cannot make this provision the authorities should furnish his support. The first thing to be done when a child is found to be out of school is to show the parent the law, and tell him what he should do and if this is not heeded he is given an interview with the judge, who warns him, and if that does no good he is fined.

"Compulsory education," said Mr. Maxson, "means compulsion for the parents and protection for the children. It is to see that the children have their rights, according to law, which gives them the privilege of attending school up to fifteen years of age.

"A boy may stay out of school of his own accord because he cannot see that it is of any benefit to him. He thinks the greater good to himself out of school. In this case he should be made to change his estimate.

"Schools are being made more and more attractive and further fitted to the nature of the child so that he will desire to attend."

Mr. Maxson believes that usually the child is more sinned against than sinning, and that the law should be appealed to only when necessary;

EIGHTY-THREE TODAY; ACTIVE IN CHURCH YET

Mrs. Martha Clare, of Jackson avenue, is eighty-three years old today, and her grandchildren and great-grandchildren are stopping to pay their respects and hear her response to their greetings in her usual cheerful way, for she is remarkably active yet, having full use of every faculty. She reads and sews without glasses, threads her own needle, and looks after the business connected with managing the estate, collecting the rents, and is ready for a deal in realty whenever a favorable proposition comes her way.

The papers are perused each day, especially. The Daily Press is her favorite paper. She watches the advertisements closely as they often contain valuable hints covering her wants.

Mrs. Clare is the widow of John A. Clare, who was well known in this part of the State up to his death twenty-five years ago. She loves to tell of the trips she made with her husband to inland places, where he preached the gospel, sometimes requiring two or three days to go and come from a meeting. They were members of the Pilgrim Brethren to which church she still belongs and is a devout worker.

The comfortable home on Jackson avenue contains the same substantial furniture with which the couple began housekeeping more than half a century ago, when they journeyed here from England.

She lives alone save for a nurse, but her daughter, Mrs. Theodore Mason, lives but a short distance away on Manning avenue. Then there are four grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren, and they see to it that "Grandma" does not get lonesome.

COOPER'S AUTO LICENSE REVOKED BY THE STATE

The State Motor Vehicle Department issued an order from Trenton, yesterday, revoking the driver's license and automobile registration held by Floyd D. Cooper, of Westfield, whose machine ran down and killed Jonathan Randolph, Sunday morning. The action followed a report submitted by George W. Thompson, of Somerville, an auto inspector, who personally attended the proceedings in this city directly after Cooper's arrest and also the coroner's inquest. The facts brought out at the latter caused him to make the recommendation that the defendant should no longer be allowed to run a car.

The machine which figured in the accident is a red Mitchell and is the property of Cooper. It was inspected by Thompson before he completed his report.

The revocation of Cooper's license is one of a very few that have been ordered since the law went into effect. The authorities have become aroused over the numerous fatalities that have occurred through careless or reckless driving and it has been declared that measures of this kind will hereafter follow all such cases. E. R. Thomas, the well-known banker who figured in an accident at Long Branch, last summer, is one of the first automobilists who was denied the right to run a car.

METAL WORKERS FEAST AND EVERYBODY SPEAKS

Local Union, No. 259, Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers' International Alliance held a banquet at Saengerbund hall last night. There were two tables extending the length of the hall and they were loaded with good things. It is best described as a big turkey dinner.

As a guest of honor, Local No. 142, of Elizabeth, was present in a body and two of the brothers, Finn and Glover, made formal speeches. Everybody at the tables were called upon after the dinner, each in his turn, for a talk, and it was seen to that no one was overlooked, Chairman Richard Richmond acting as toastmaster.

David Bodine, business agent of the local organization, spoke of the purposes of the alliance and its attitude toward capital, declaring that it was dedicated to fairness. Edward Conshay played several selections on the piano, and William Robson sang.

The excellence of the dinner is due to Mrs. Matthias Menzenback, who had charge of its preparation. Mr. Menzenback and Fred Koller assisted in serving.

Those comprising the entertainment committee were Richard Richmond, Joseph Newman and Victor Lorton.

REV. MR. TULP CONVERT TO EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Rev. A. Peter Tulp, of Newark, who is well known here where he has officiated in a ministerial capacity frequently, will shortly leave the Reformed denomination to enter the Episcopal church. With this end in view he has called a special meeting of the Reformed classis of Newark, of which he is president, in order to have his pastoral relations at the New York Avenue church, Newark, dissolved, and to have himself released from obligation to that denomination. The meeting will be held at the North Reformed church, Newark, on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 19, at 3 o'clock.

Rev. Mr. Tulp applied some time ago to Rt. Rev. Edward A. Lines, bishop of Newark, as a candidate for orders in the Episcopal church. As a result he has been assigned to the parish at Englewood, probably as a deacon, and in due time will be regularly ordained. While still a student at Rutgers Theological Seminary, Mr. Tulp acted as a supply at Marconnier chapel, a branch of Trinity Reformed church, and he has frequently preached to the denomination's local congregation. After he was ordained to the Dutch church, he was assigned to Newark and was recently made pastor of the New York Avenue flock n that city.

At the recent installation of Rev. John Y. Breok at Trinity Reformed church, Rev. Mr. Tulp acted as the presiding officer.

PROPERTY OWNERS FORM A GOOD GOVERNMENT CLUB.

Property owners living in the Rockview Height section of the West End, the newly developed property adjacent to West Fourth street and Rock avenue, have organized a "good government" club for the purpose of bringing about improvements in that territory. Most of it is located just over the city line and for this reason the residents are practically without police or fire protection and lack the conveniences of householders within a few blocks.

The club meets regularly on the first and third Wednesdays of the month. The officers are Joseph Brandt, president; Irving De Hart, secretary, and Edward Burke, treasurer. The meeting place is in Brandt's bungalow on Rock avenue. One of the undertakings planned for the near future is the organization of a volunteer fire company which will be fully equipped with necessary apparatus.

Tungsten Lamps.

It is a well noticed fact that merchants who have a reputation for good business and modernizing have Tungsten lamps throughout their establishment. "No wonder," they give a better light for half the electricity. Mr. Mack, who introduced the Tungsten, will after the first of the year go in the whoessale novelty business. For prompt delievery of lamps and fixtures write or call Charles A. Miles, 33 Somerset street

A Recital of Music.

The pupils of Miss Frances L. Phillips will give a recital of music in the Methodist church at Bound Brook tonight. Several Plainfield young women will take part and the audience will include many local people. Miss Elizabeth Ray Clemmer, soprano, and Mabel Sperling-Paul, violinist, will be the assisting artists.

ROADS COSTING $75,000

Four Thoroughfares Inspected Yesterday by Union County Board of Freeholders.

IMPROVEMENTS ON BIG SCALE.

Last Year $50,000 Was Spent and Another Large Approriation Will Be Made.

The entire membership of the Union County Board of Freeholders made a tour of inspection of the county roads, yesterday, during which several roads were passed upon as "State aid roads" and will become as such after the usual formality. The trip included nearly all of the important thoroughfares in the county, including the road leading from Westfield to Rahway, Two Bridges, to Terrill road and South avenue, by the way of Willow Grove, which has been designated a State aid road.

Jefferson avenue, this city, was also decided up on as a State aid thoroughfare and will be attended to in the spring, as will also the road leading from Cranford Township, to Baltusrol and the county road at Summit.

It required seven automobiles for the party of freeholders and other county officials. A stop was made at the Hotel Waldorf, this city, at noon, where dinner was served by Henry Windham. The day's trip was concluded at Springfield, from which point the freeholders separated and returned home.

Applications for the improvement of these roads were received too late to be acted upon at the last meeting of the board, and it was for the purpose of considering them before the beginning of the new year that the inspection was made. The committee will report at an adjourned meeting to be held for the purpose next Thursday afternoon. County Engineer J. L. Bauer accompanied the committee and assisted in the examination.

Numerous petitions were received from citizens residing along and in the vicinity of each road, as well as from the authorities of the towns in which they are located.

During the past year the county board has authorized the imrpovement of more than eight miles of roadway, at a cost to the county of about $50,000. The total cost of the roads will reach about $75,000, one-third of which will be paid by State appropriation. If the board accepts all the roads which are being considered, it will mean an addition of two-thirds to the number of road miles that have already been adopted, or an increase in expenditure for road work of two-thirds for the year, one-third of which will be paid by the State.

CUTTING DOWN COST OF NEW FIRE HOUSE.

The Councilmanic fire committee, together with Chief T. O. Doane, met in the office of Mayor C. J. Fisk, last night, to discuss details relative to the fire-house now being erected on South avenue. The committee in accordance with suggestions by Chief Doane, made a number of changes in the plans, whereby the total cost of construction will be cut down several hundred dollars.

At a previous meeting of the Common Council, Robert L. Hall, a member of the fire committee, stated that it was believed that several changes could be made in the plans in a way that would lessen the cost of the building. The matter will be reported in detail at the next meeting of the Common Council.

Josiah Lombard.

The death of Josiah Lombard, well known to many Plainfielders, occurred suddenly yesterday at his home in Lawrence Park, Bronxville, N. Y. Heart failure was the cause. Mr. Lombard was a director in the Tidewater Oil Company and was prominent in New York's business circles. He leaves a wife and four daughters, one of whom is Mrs. Walter Squires, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Zanesville, O. The others are Mrs. Ethel Best, Mrs. Dudley Britton and Miss Louise Lombard, of Lawrence Park. The funeral will be held at the late residence tomorrow.

GOLF.

Leighton Calkins, of this city, who has just retired as secretary of the Metropolitan Golf Association, has presented an interesting report of the past year, which was submitted at the annual meeting. Mr. Calkins says:

We began the year with fifty-seven clubs, and there are now fifty-nine enrolled in our membership, including the Inwood Country Club, just elected to membership by the executive committee. Only two clubs have resigned during the year, namely, the Larchmont Yacht Club, where there has been practically no golf for several years, and the Roseville Golf Club, which lost its links about a year ago. The following four clubs have become members during the year: The Scottish-American Golf Club, the Ridgewood Golf Club, the Upper Montclair Golf Club and the Inwood Country Club.

It is a pleasure, in reviewing the open championship, to add an emphatic word of commendation for the professional players who took part. By promptness and adherence to schedules and regulations, by sportsmanlike conduct in play and by quiet, unobtrusive and wholly creditable behavior throughout, they succeeded, individually and as a class, in advancing by just so much the standard of professionalism in America. No tournament could have been freerer of all objectionable features. The treasurer's report for the year shows a balance at the present time of $832.10. The balance a year ago was $863.63. The receipts this year show $15 more from annual dues, $40 more in entrance fees for the amateur, and $359.79 in entrance fees, etc., for the open tournament, a total increase in receipts of $404.79.

Additional expenses of importance this year have been $308.49 for the entertainment of the Lesley Cup teams, an expense which comes only

At a Fraction of Their Worth.

Most Extraordinary Millinery Sale of the Season.

From Faubourg Poissoniere, Paris, and from one of the biggest importers and designers, Broadway, New York, we secured the biggest lot of Imported Pattern Hats ever brought to Newark—got them at a price that bears no semblance to their worth, and we are going to sell them at record-making prices.

These Hats are of the smartest winter models, in small, medium and large effects; are trimmed with the newest and richest materials, flowers, feathers, quills, ostrich plumes and tips, fur, ribbons, silks, and novelty materials for evening dress and general wear; beautiful creations—every one of them—many very extreme, others conservative enough to suit the plainest dressers, yet all rich.

It is certainly the greatest opportunity we have ever given our patrons to buy elegant hats at such insignificant prices, and we expect one of the biggest, if not the biggest, days of millinery selling the store has ever known.

once in three years, and $609.79, the expenses of the open event. But as to the latter, the receipts for account of the "open" were $359.79, leaving the net cost of that event exactly $250. The receipts from the amateur tournament were $372 and the expenses $352.45, showing that it pays for itself. It will be seen that the association is in a strong position financially, having practically the same balance on hand as a year ago, although $250 was expended for the "open" and $308.49 for the Lesley Cup contest, a total of $558.49 over and above the expenses for the year 1907.

The association was fortunate in having the services of F. S. Douglas and F. J. Phillips on the handicap committee for still another year, and fortunate also in securing J. E. Erickson as chairman of that committee. With the assistance and experience of his two committeemen, always faithful in their support of the game, and bringing to bear, in addition, his own knowledge of the subject and enthusiasm for the work, he has managed this department with success and credit. The spring report from this committee, filed on April 3, shows that seven regular meetings were held during the winter; and the handicap list, with 518 persons rated from scratch to 9, inclusive, was issued promptly on April 1. The final report, dated December 7, 1908, contains a detailed summary of the handicap events during the season, with recommendations for next year.

During the four years that I have had the honor to serve as your secretary the membership has increased from forty-nine clubs to fifty-nine, and the purse of the association in the charge of our watchful treasurers has doubled in thickness. This same sturdy growth has continued during the season just closed.

If a word may be permitted to your secretary, who retires from office tonight, it is to express the greatest confidence in the future of the Metropolitan Golf Association, the oldest of all our local organizations and ever a champion of the best traditions of the game. Not so much to those of us who have been in office as to the sportsmanship and loyal support at all times of the large general body of our players is due the standing of this association today.

Any one who questions for a moment the unfailing loyalty of golfers generally to well intentioned official effort has but to work on the association handicap committee, as I had the honor to do for three years, and he will unearth as amazing an exhibition of good nature and generous allowance for error of judgment on the part of the official as can be found anywhere in amateur sport, if not anywhere generally.

It is this which makes the work a pleasure; and with a continuation of this support and with the leaders chosen for the year to come there is bound to be soundness of policy, energy of management and an enhancement of the reputation and good name of this strong and active body of golfers. May this spirit and enthusiasm prevail, and with it a continuance of old friendships and a gain of new, and always that same "good fellowship" which has made the game of golf a "royal and ancient" game and one pre-eminent in the recreations and pastimes of gentlemen.

Only Few Changes in Rules.

The proposed rules governing the Industrial Home, which were presented at the Common Council meeting Monday night, are but slightly changed from those now in force. They will be brought up for adoption at the meeting to be held Monday night, December 21, when Councilman C. C. Randolph, chairman of the alms committee, will be present and have something to say regarding them.

Declines Office After His Election.

The borough of Roselle will be without a tax collector next year unless some one is chosen for the place to which William Burdick was chosen last election day. Burdick was then employed as a freight agent by the Lehigh Valley Railroad. Soon after his election the company promoted him to the position of agent at South Plainfield, where he removed with his family about three weeks ago. He sent his resignation to the Borough Council, but it has not been accepted, and Burdick's friends in Roselle are trying to induce him to move back to the borough, so that he can perform the duties of tax collector and commute to and from his work. Burdick declares he doesn't want the position.

Plainfield, N. J., December 11, 1908.

The Charity Organization Society, which held its annual meeting last night, is doing a remarkable work. Its objects should appeal to every Plainfielder. Moral support is not sufficient, however, for what is needed is generous and continued financial aid. "By their works, ye shall know them."

No time has been lost by the State Motor Vehicle Department in revoking the automobile license of Floyd D. Cooper, of Westfield, who is out on $10,000 bail on a charge of having killed a local man while out on a "joy ride." Speed maniacs, sacrificing human lives, are deserving of the severest penalty of the law when found guilty by due process of law, and the proper place to consign them is in a jail for a long term of years.

AGAIN TRY TO GET ARCHER.

Essex Prosecutor to Wait Until Washington Governor's Term Ends.

Prosecutor Wilbur Mott of Essex County has received a letter from Prosecutor Kenneth McIntosh of Kings County, Wash., in regard to the failure of Governor Mead to recognize the requisition of Governor Fort for the etxradition of Elliott F. Archer, who is wanted in Newark on forgery charges. Mr. McIntosh declares in the letter that the papers for Archer's extradition were in proper form and that Detective Godfrey, who had gone for the prisoner, had done everything possible to get him, but that Governor Mead had refused to honor the requisition for reasons that Godfrey could explain when he reaches home.

Mr. McIntosh further stated in the letter that he and the Attorney General of the State were greatly chargrined over Governor Mead's action, as they both advocated the turning over of Archer to Godfrey.

Governor Mead goes out of office on January 1, and another attempt may then be made to get Archer.

NEW MOVING PICTURE MACHINE INSTALLED

In order to provide the patrons at the Orpheum theatre with the clearest and steadiest moving pictures to be seen, Manager Counihan placed a Powers' machine in service this week. It is one of the costliest put out by the allied manufacturers but is certain to prove its worth. The machine throws the films on the screen with a steady white light and there is none of the eye-racking swing so noticeable in other contrivances.

The patronage at the Orpheum has been increasing steadily since its opening on Election night and Manager Counihan has been providing a great program. The pictures are changed every day, five reels of films being shown while two high-class vaudeville acts more than return the admission money. In addition there are illustrated songs and other features at every performance.

The Orpheum, itself, helps to draw the amusement-seeking people as it is an up-to-date house in every way. It is cosy, clean and well lighted and attendants are provided to look after the comfort of women and children. Friday night is set aside for amateurs after the regular program ends; there is always plenty of fun when the near-actors get in front of the audience. Tonight will mark one of these occasions and the entry list is already large.

C. E. Society Anniversary.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will observe its seventeenth anniversary tomorrow and the society will have charge of the morning service. Rev. Dr. Everett T. Tomlinson, of Elizabeth, will make the address. The officers will present their annual reports and the offering will be for the society's work.

Alice Cleveland Taylor.

Alice Cleveland Taylor, the eight-months-old daughter of Councilman and Mrs. Duncan W. Taylor, of West Seventh street, died last night. Teh funeral and interment will be private.

ALE AIDS DIGESTION.

Starchy Foods Are Hardest to Digest and Ale Acts as a Solvent.

Potatoes, bread, rice, oatmeal and foods of like nature are known as starchy foods and are hardest to digest.

It is a well known fact that pure ale such as Bartholomay's Sparkling acts as a mild stimulant to the stomach and as a solvent or digester of starchy foods.

If you have indigestion, try drinking a glass of ale at noon and night and note the result.

In a week you'll feel better; in a month you'll be able to eat anything within reason.

A simple remedy you say; yes and a sensible remedy, for simple remedies are usually the best and most sensible.

Bartholomay's Sparkling ale is an appetizing drink. If you have no appetite or if what you eat does not taste as it should, then ale will help you and help you quickly.

Call up Henry Haurand, 'phone number 229, and give him your order today. He will be pleased to fill it promptly. 12 8 10 11 that the base of the work is in protecting the children and the family. He would be loathe to send a boy to the reform school, because of the stigma it puts on him, but there comes a time when he cannot be kept in school in justice to other children. The only thing that can be done is to thrust him into the street. What is needed, he declared, is a parental school on a farm, to take him away from cursed influences and put around him new strong influences. Such a school would be the truest economy because it would save the county the expense of imprisoning them in after years. It would fill the gap between the special school and the reformatory.

The special schools which are conducted in other cities and are proposed for Plainfield, take the boy when incorrigibility first approaches. He continues to live at home but attends this school where he is given individual attention by a competent teacher, and receives the focus of efforts in building a Christian character. But in a great many cases there are bad home influences to work against, and from which he should be removed.

The incorrigible girl, he believed, was the worst problem, but fortunately there were not many of them, and as with the boys, the first point of attack is the parents.

Mrs. Elizabeth Tiffany read a report of the committee on playgrounds. Investigations of the playgrounds in other cities had been made and received very favorable comment. It was recommended that efforts be made to secure suitable lots for this purpose in Plainfield.

William G. Wright, the treasurer, read his annual report and a report of the relief committee was read by Mrs. C. E. Ryder. Reports were also presented by the secretary of the committee, Mrs. Harold Pender, and by the treasurer, Miss Moore.

The board of trustees recommended these as a nominating committee and they were elected:

Henry L. De Forest, Hugh F. Fox, Henry M. Maxson, Samuel St. J. McCutcheon, John Doull Miller, Dr. William H. Murray, Mrs. Mary S. Myers, Miss Mabel E. Pierson, Mrs. Charles E. Ryder, Mrs. Henry Lapsley, Duncan W. Taylor, Mrs. Elizabeth Tiffany, William S. Tyler William M. Wherry, Jr., William G. Wright.

The report of Miss Margaret C. Holly, the organization agent, follows:

"This report covers the first year of our work, since the consolidation of the Organized Aid and Relief Associations. The pressure upon the relief resources of the community has been greater than usual because of the hard times and lack of employment. The industrial situation is now improving and large employers of factory labor in Plainfield, have done their best to meet the situation by keeping open a part time, even during the worst of the depression.

"We have had applications from 232 families for help, which represent at least a thousand individuals. Many of these were applications for work. Besides those who sought and obtained temporary help in the workroom and the wood yard, there were 115 applications for outside work. We were able to secure places for forty-two of the applicants, mostly for women who were employed in laundry work and as charwomen. The report of the relief committee will show what was done in emergency cases, and also under the various forms of relief that are furnished. The work in the wood yard, and the sewing orders that have been given out, have enabled a number of families to hold together through the hard times. The day nursery has also been of the greatest value in taking care of children whose mothers have thus been enabled to work for their support.

"We are now trying to handle the class of cases, which in the larger cities would come under the separate direction of a Children's Aid Society. This has necessitated the close co-operation of the probation officer, the truant officer and the civic authorities. We have placed eight children in reform schools during the year, and have referred eighteen cases to the truant officer, and have given shoes and clothing to fourteen children to enable them to attend school. The cases of child neglect are the most perplexing because of the difficulty of getting evidence which would warrant our interference on behalf of the child. The development of this department of work in Plainfield will increase with the facilities which are afforded for meeting it. It is the most hopeful and constructive part of all humanitarian work. We cannot emphasize it too strongly.

"A new feature of our work is the investigation of the conditions of free patients in the hospital, which has involved the study of 141 cases. This is not only a protection to the hospital against imposition by people who can afford to pay for their treatment, but it also results in following up convalescent cases which need home treatment of various sorts. The visiting nurse employed by the King's Daughters has continued to co-operate with us and has done most valuable work. The cases which have been referred to her, and to the hospital and also to the Board of Health, have all been handled efficiently. We have also worked in harmonious co-operation with all the different churches and organizations. The clergy and the physicians have been unfailingly helpful, and we have appealed successfully in a number of cases to relatives and employers.

"The various investigations of new and old cases during the year, resulted in thirty-one being refused as either fraudulent or unworthy. For example, sixteen applicants refused work when it was offered them in return for relief. The permanent character of the needs of 28 cases warranted their being referred to the Oveseer of the Poor. We also recommended prosecution by the poor master in twelve cases for non-support.

"Contrary to the general impression only a quarter of our applications have come from colored people.

"The causes of distress are many and complex. The direct cause in a majority of cases is illness, accident or inability to obtain work. The records of the past year indicate that a comparatively small percentage of the persons who have applied for material help attributed their trouble to intemperance in the family.

"We have had several cases of defective children that we have been unable to dispose of because of the fact that our State institutions are over-crowded and that no provision is made for the institutional care of idiots and imbeciles.

"Attention should also be called to the need of a home for the aged in New Jersey, and for adequate provision for the treatment of cases of tuberculosis. There is also urgent need of provision for habitual truants and boys and girls who cannot be controlled by the ordinary methods of discipline in the schools. Plainfield also needs playgrounds and organized provision for recreation."

WARNS SERVANTS OF GAS.

Boy Writes Polygot Signs When Girl Dies—Hospital to Circulate Them.

The death of a young Hungarian girl who blew out the gas light at Caldwell, near Montclair, recently, has caused the Mountainside Hospital managers of Montclair to issue warnings in eight languages relating to the proper method of turning off the gas. These cards will be placed in the rooms of servant girls throughout Montclair, Verona, Glen Ridge, Caldwell, Bloomfield, and other towns that send patients to the Mountainside Hospital.

Harold Van Wart, twelve years old, of Caldwell, prepared the text in the various languages, which he submitted to the hospital managers and which was approved by them.

Editor Dear Dead.

Joseph A. Dear, publisher of the Jersey City Journal, died last night at his home in Jersey City after a lingering illness. He was sixty-eight years old, and is survived by a widow, four sons and one daughter. Two of his sons, Joseph A. and Walter M. Dear, are connected with the Journal, the former as managing editor and the latter as business manager. William T. Dear is superintendent of the Jersey City Printing Company, and the fourth son, Arthur Dear, is a lawyer. His daughter is Mrs. Howard T. Gurney.

Supporting Governor Fort's plan of building an ocean boulevard along the Jersey coast, the Business Men's League of Atlantic City have called a general meeting for tomorrow evening. Attorney-General Edward Wilson, recently appointed, has accepted an invitation to talk over the improvement, and State Road Commissioner Gilkyson will also be there to confer with the business men.

Out of gasoline and at the mercy of the sea, which was running off the coast, three gunners were yesterday saved by the Forked River life-saving crew, who sighted the craft flying signals of distress. The gunners had started from Pleasure Bay for Barnegat, when their oil gave out. Their names were not reported.

One of the first weddings of the new year in Hoboken will be that of Miss Mary Webster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Webster, of 1100 Park avenue, and Frank B. Stanton, of Philadelphia. After the honeymoon trip the young couple will live in West Philadelphia. A linen shower was given in honor of Miss Webster recently.

Cornelius Fort, sixty years old, for years custodian of Atlantic City's city hall, in his capacity as city marshal, and known to thousands of visitors of the resort, died as a result of a complication of diseases. He had been ill for months. Fort was once confidential secretary to D. M. Zimmerman, manager of the old Camden and Atlantic Railroad, first steam line to the shore. He afterward held a position in the Philadelphia Custom House before he came to this city. He was active in local politics.

Sweethearts since childhood, Miss Iola Blanche Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Taylor, of 317 Chestnut street, Camden, and Howard Brown Dyer were married yesterday. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. J. Zelley, pastor of the Union M. E. church. Only the immediate relatives were present. After a wedding reception Mr. and Mrs. Dyer left on a Southern tour. They will live at 423 Chestnut street.

Sheriff Thomas F. Foley, of New York County, went to Jersey City last night and became godfather to little Miss Mary H. Foley, daughter of his nephew, William H. Foley, night desk sergeant at police headquarters, who lives at 167 Coles street. Mrs. Thomas J. Nolan, wife of a Manhattan lawyer, was the godmother. Rev. Mark Duffy, curate of St. Michael's Roman Catholic church, officiated at the chirstening.

The parents of Joseph Collins and Joseph Herman are worried over the disappearance of the two boys, who left Cape May Courthouse a week ago last Sunday. Both boys are fifteen years of age and were last seen together on the schooner belonging to Edward S. Howell, of Dias Creek, which was anchored in Bidwell's Creek. The mind of Collin's father has been unbalanced for some time, and just before the boys ran away he whipped his son, who thereupon threatened to run away. Collins' father was taken to the New Jersey State Asylum the very night the boys disappeared from home.

WAS GOING AFTER ROOSEVELT.

Penniless Pole Taken Off the Congressional Limited at Trenton.

John Kostowski, who says he comes from Newark, is under arrest at Trenton as a suspicious person. He will say nothing concerning himself except that he is "after Roosevelt." The Secret Service authorities at Washington have been notified.

Kostowski was taken from the Congression Limited early Wednesday morning when the train reached Trenton. He got aboard at Newark, but refused to pay his fare, saying he had no money. Asked where he was going he said to "Washington after the President."

Word was telegraphed ahead to Trenton and a policeman gathered him in when the train arrived. He seems to be a crank, but harmless.

Mayor Rebukes Police Chief.

Mayor Low, of Passaic, severely arraigned Chief William Hendry of the Police Department of that place Wednesday, telling him that he did not know what was going on in the Police Department, and that there was a woeful absence of discipline. He also said that Chief Hendry did not know that patrolmen enter saloons in their uniforms. Chief Hendry admitted having no knowledge of drunkenness among his men, or of their presence in saloons. The reprimand was given privately.

Does Your Furnace Leak Gas?

Cases of asphyxiation are not uncommon, but even the faintest odor of gas in the house is disagreeable. It's due to the faulty construction of the old style of furnace, and any Boynton dealer will tell you why the

PLANS TO IMPROVE JERSEY S. S. WORK

Thirty members of the State executive committee of the New Jersey Sunday-school Association met at the Third Presbyterian church Wednesday at Trenton for their quarter conference. This committee is composed of Sunday-school workers from all over New Jersey, and the meetings are held every three months to consider plans for the betterment of the work.

The most important work accomplished by the committee yesterday was the adoption of resolutions presented at the State convention, which called for the new evangelistic committee to do certain work in New Jersey during the next few months. The evangelistic committee reported to the executive committee, and the following resolutions were adopted:

"We believe that the evangelistic work of our association is of sufficient importance to be created as a department of State work, and so move that this be done. In order that the work may be State-wide, we recommend that every county be requested as soon as possible to appoint a county superintendent of evangelistic work, who may properly be a pastor. These representatives when appointed, together with this committee on evangelistic work, will form a department to be known as the council of evangelistic work.

"A State superintendent should be appointed, and for this position we would recommend Rev. Abram Duryee, of North Hackensack, to have charge of the work, in co-operation with the council under the direction of this committee.

"To secure the carrying out of this work in every county, we would recommend that Sunday, February 21, when the lesson is on the death of Stephen, or Sunday, March 21, which is review Sunday, or any other day which seems better in any given locality, be chosen as a general decision day, in order that there may be something definite to recommend and work toward.

"We recommend that the general secretary be requested to arrange for the presentation of this subject at the institutes which are to be held this spring."

BASEBALL.

These are lonesome days for James McAleer, manager of the St. Louis Browns. McAleer is attending the American League meeting in New York for the purpose of making a few deals in players if possible. But in view of numerous transactions in which he has secured much the better of the swaps McAleer found to his dismay yesterday that other managers and magnates with whom he was inclined to talk trades were in a hurry to get away from him. McAleer it will be remembered, traded Glade, Hemphill and Niles to the New York Americans last winter for Williams, Hoffman and Ferris, who was secured from Boston to complete the transfer. The year before the St. Louis manager traded over Rickey to Griffith for Joe Yeager. In each instance the New York club got a crate of lemons barring Hemphill, and for this reason McAleer came to be regarded as a wizard. Yesterday he had a little chat with one of the Western club owners, but the latter after the confab, said that while McAleer's proposition looked good he was afraid to make the deal because of the experiences of the New York and other clubs in the past. As a result of McAleer's plight the baseball men at the Hotel Wolcott made his life miserable with good natured joshing yesterday until the St. Louis manager threw up his hands. "He is in the same class with Connie Mack," said Wild Bill Donovan of the Detroits. "They are the best 'gold brick' sellers in baseball, and other managers are jealous of them."

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The fair held this week at the Mt Olive Baptist church under the auspices of the Organ Club, closed Wednesday night, and was a great success.

Rev. Dr. Homer S. Stuntz, of the Missionary Society of the M. E. church, will preach at the First M. E. church, Sunday morning and will address the Sunday-school in the afternoon.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church will hold an entertainment in the church on Tuesday night, December 22. The proceeds will be for the Christmas offerings for the poor.

J. Harry Manning, former secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will speak before the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church, tonight and Martin A. Korff will render violin selections.

Mrs. J. A. Frazer, of Elizabeth, Presbyterian secretary of the Freedmen's work for the Presbyterian church, will address the Missionary and Aid Society at Warren chapel, this afternoon on the Freedmen's work. She has just returned from an extended trip through the south. A tea and social time will follow.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE CONDEMNS EXCISE LAW

The convention of the New Jersey State Anti-Saloon League met yesterday in the Central Baptist church at Trenton. Plans for the passage of a local option bill in this State were discussed. It was hoped that the bill would be passed at the coming term of the Legislature. All the speakers denounced the present Bishops' law and the liquor conditions all over the State.

Among the speakers were G. Howland Munroe, of Roseville; T. Alexander Cairns, of Arlington; the Rev. James K. Shields, of Illinois, and Fillmore Condit, of Verona. Mr. Munroe startled the convention by declaring that the Bishops' law was framed by friends of the big liquor men and that the latter were entirely satisfied with the law as it stands.

The convention was marked by severe condemnation of the Bishops' law as ineffectual and as a menace to the enactment of real temperance legislation.

Governor Glenn, of North Carolina, spoke of the success of the local option cause in his State, and urged the New Jersey temperance people to keep up their work. He said if at any time he could be of service in the matter of the urging of legislation he would respond at once if telegraphed for. Governor Glenn was the principal speaker at the afternoon session of the convention.

There were four speakers at the morning session, and all of them devoted much attention to picking out the shortcomings of the Bishops' law and to denouncing liquor conditions in the State generally. The Rev. Dr. Charles L. Read, of Newark, the president of the league, presided.

Mr. Munroe spoke on "The Futility of Our Present Liquor Legislation." Mr. Munroe charged that in most counties the sheriffs, prosecutors, grand and petit jurors, and sometimes the presiding judges are the tools of the liquor interests. Pointing out some of the weak places in the existing excise regulations, Mr. Munroe said:

"Apparently bottles stamped with the names of New Jersey brewers and bottlers are more valuable than the stamp of divinity which the Creator has put in the souls of our boys and girls, for a person who uses or breaks a beer bottle bearing the name of a brewer or bottler is liable to a fine of $50, whereas a saloonkeeper who sells to a minor is fined only $10.'

The speaker ridiculed the section of the law which provides for the revocation of licenses for violations, and said that revocations were scarcer than hens' teeth. He said it was inconsistent that a complaint for assault and battery can be made on information and belief, but a complaint of an excise violation must be made by an eye witness. This inconsistency, he said, has been upheld bby the Supreme Court in an opinion by Chief Justice Gummere, and he added that the inconsistency is allowed to exist "because the liquor element has such a great political pull and can control prosecutors and judges."

WENT TO THE FRONT TO DIE.

Pathetic Farewell Made by Loyal Subjects of the Mikado.

During the Chino-Japanese war the members of one of the missionary families were living in the part of Chemulpo near the barracks where the Japanese were quartered until they could be sent by sea to the front. "In Korea with Marquis Ito," by Dr. George Trumbull Ladd, contains a pathetic little story in connection with this family.

One day a petty officer came up on the porch of the house, uninvited; but after accepting gratefully the cup of tea offered him, being unable to speak any English, he went away, leaving the object of his apparent intrusion unexplained.

Soon afterward he returned with some 20 of his comrades, mostly petty officers, accompanying him. And when the hostess was becoming somewhat alarmed at the number for whom she might be expected to furnish tea and cakes, one of the company explained in broken English that they had come to see the baby, a girl about two years old.

The little one was brought out by the mother and placed in the arms of the speaker, who carried her along the line formed of his comrades and gave each one a chance to see her, to smile at her, and to say a few words to her in an unknown tongue.

On going away, after this somewhat formal paying of respects to "the baby," the Japanese officer still further explained.

"Madam," said he, "to-morrow morning we are going to the front, and we do not expect ever to return. But before we go to die, we wanted to bid good-by to the baby."

The number of the regiment to which these soldiers belonged was taken note of by the mother. Their expectation came true; they did not return.—Youth's Companion.

NO MAN CAN LIVE TO HIMSELF.

Each One To-day Generally a Part of One Great Whole.

Men do not choose their parts in life separately and individually in our day, as they did in the days of our fathers. The men are becoming rare now who have business of their own, undertaken upon their own individual capital and built up and conducted independently upon their own responsibility. Professional men are rare who rise to the top of their profession without attaching themselves more or less intimately to institutions or corporations of some sort—doctors to hospitals, lawyers to great corporate undertakings, men of science to the great enterprises in which science is applied. Each man finds himself a small part of some great whole, whose operation is decided by votes taken about long tables in directors' rooms, whose morals are composite morals, a compromise combination of what the material interests of the body dictate and what the enterprise of its managers suggests, the character of every man who participates being merged in the general compound.—President Woodrow Wilson (Princeton University).

Where Barrie Got His Idea.

It is said that the late Lord Pembroke indirectly gave Mr. Barrie the idea for his play, "The Admirable Crichton." He, the earl, went out on a voyage of discovery to a South Sea island accompanied only by a young country doctor. Once on the island the couple missed the steamer somehow that was to convey them to England.

They had to stay there for a long time, and according to his lordship it was the young doctor who became leading spirit and master of the situation all round.

"It was I who should have blacked his boots!" the earl would laughingly tell.

Just as the castaways in Barrie's play, relief came at last to earl and doctor, who were rescued by a passing boat and brought back safe to old England.

Wheat in the Far North.

The report of the standing committee of the commons on agriculture and colonization presented to parliament notes that G. E. Young, superintendent of railway lands of the department of the interior, pointed out that wheat is successfully raised at Fort Simpson, 900 miles north of the international boundary and 500 miles north of Edmonton. Dr. Thompson, member for the Yukon, presented to the committee a sample of white oats grown on a farm 63 degrees north latitude. This sample, analyzed by Seed Commissioner Clark, was found to run 46 pounds to the bushel and to be an exceptionally fine sample of white oats of superior milling quality.—Ottawa Correspondent St. John Sun.

About the Ibsen House.

The Ibsen lovers all over the world are interested in the argument that is going on in Christiania over the purchase of the "Ibsen house." Sigurd Ibsen says that his father never owned the house and only rented rooms in it, and he opposes the idea. The citizens, however, know what an attraction such a house would have for tourists and are bent on adding it to the sights of the city. And so it is that the fire of genius burned to illumine the mercenary outlook of the burghers of the Norwegian city.

BROUGHT THEM ALL FORWARD.

Husky Bridegroom Worked Bluff on Occupants of Car.

At a village station a husky young man and a robust young woman boarded the train, and they had only taken their seats when his arm fell around her waist and her head fell on his shoulder. The other passengers became interested at once, and a general grin passed around the coach. Some peppermint drops, carried in the young man's vest pocket, and doled out one by one, had been eaten before he caught on to the smiles. Then he stood up and said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, this is my wife. We were married an hour ago. She is a bride. We married for love. I hain't no pictur' and she hain't purty, but that's our business. Your congratulations are now in order."

The smiles faded away, and no one moved—no one but the husky husband. He slowly removed his coat, rolled back his sleeves, and continued:

"There's 12 men in this here car, and I want every durned one of them to come forward and salute the bride. It's her due, and it's got to be done or you will have to settle with me. Nancy, get ready to be saluted."

Nancy rose up with a blush, and those 12 men, one after another, left their seats and came forward, and gave her a brotherly kiss and wished her all happiness. When the circus was over the husband rolled down his sleeves, resumed his seat, and sat down with the remark:

"The bride now having been saluted according to custom, will now undergo further hugging, and if any galoot sees anything in it to smile at, he will be informed that my name is Moses Green, and that in a rough-and-tumble I weigh a ton."—Buffalo Express.

DEFENDS CHICAGO'S GOOD NAME.

Association of Commerce Arraigns Attackers of City.

Rev. G. W. McPherson, who in a speech in New York recently said: "While New York is the wickedest city in the United States, Chicago is worse—so bad that it cannot be called American! it isn't even civilized," is severely arraigned in a bulletin issued by the Chicago Association of Commerce. Referring to Mr. McPherson, the bulletin says: "This benighted individual should be taught that the intemperate use of the tongue is more baneful than the intemperate use of alcohol or other drugs that kill; the latter poisons the individual offender, while the former cuts and wounds the reputation of many." The association then goes on to set forth facts showing Chicago's greatness and goodness, its commercial and industrial resources, its prosperity as indicated by its bank deposits and the number of wage earners at work, and its charities. One of the statements is that "Chicago has 69 hospitals, a larger number in proportion to population than any other large city in the country, notwithstanding it has the lowest death rate of all of them."

The Clever Woman.

With all the discussion that is now going on about what constitutes the clever woman it is interesting to get the opinion of a great English author and editor.

A clever woman, as a wife, is a woman who is skilled in the conduct of life, in the control of the household, and, above all, in the management of her husband, says William T. Stead in the Delineator. A woman who could neither read nor write would be a bad wife for any ordinary man in a civilized community, but such an illiterate woman, if she were clever in all the arts of domestic economy, in the rearing of children and in being at once the inspiration and comfort of her husband, would be clever enough for the cleverest man in existence, and infinitely preferable to the cleverest woman in book learning that has ever been turned out by a university.

Likely Reason.

The city man was jogging on toward the summer boarding house in a rickety rockaway. The driver was glum and far from entertaining and the city man felt rather lonely.

"Fine field over there?" he ventured after a long silence.

"Fine," grunted the driver.

"Who owns it?"

"Old man Bitt."

"Old man Bitt, eh? Who are those children stacking up hay?"

"Old man Bitt's boys."

"And what is his idea in having them out there in the field such a hot day?"

"Wal, I reckon he thinks every little Bitt helps, stranger. Anything else you want to know? Get up here, hosses."

Noah's Excuse.

Capt. Pritchard of the record-breaking Mauritania, told a group of Americans on a recent voyage that a sailor's life was a hard one.

"It is not so hard as it used to be before the coming of steam," he said, "but it is still fearfully hard, for all that. In fact, I never heard of but one man who had a decent excuse for going to sea."

"And who was he, captain?" said a Chicagoan.

"Noah," the captain answered, "For if the old fellow had remained on shore he would have been drowned."

Recovered.

"I hear Brown has recovered his reason."

"Oh, yes, you know he's discharged his doctor."—Detroit Free Press.

"What Measure Ye Mete"

By PAXTON HIBBEN.

(Copyright, by Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

He stood irresolute, in the doorway of the Turkish room, peering into its dark corners. The apartment seemed deserted. Suddenly he caught sight of a woman sitting in the embrasure of one of the windows, staring out at passers-by.

"I am awfully sorry I have kept you waiting," he began, as he advanced toward her, "but I've ordered the dinner and everything is quite ready." She turned, slowly, at the sound of his voice; her face was in the shadow. He continued, while drawing off his gloves, his hat held under one arm. "A lot of beastly business at the last—I say, you know, you've not—I beg your pardon, I've made some stupid mistake."

He appeared so utterly confounded at his error that she smiled, looking up at him.

"Not at all," she said; then: "You've dropped your glove."

"Why, so I have!" he exclaimed, glad of an opportunity to relieve the awkwardness of the situation. He stooped to pick it up, and when he arose she smiled at him again with frank sympathy. He thanked her, inwardly, and outwardly ventured an explanation. "I thought you were some one else," he began, "some one I know—"

"I am not nearly so stupid as I look," she interrupted.

"I beg your pardon! Of course—a—it must be quite obvious." Once more he was all confusion; but this time, he floundered on of himself. "I wonder where she could be? I was to meet her here, you know—"

"If your are as late as you seemed to think you were, she has probably gone. I quite know how she must have felt,' she added.

"Oh! You're waiting for some one." It was half a question left uncompleted.

"You're not nearly so stupid as—"

"As I look? I hope not!"

"No, no—as you might be." There was a pause. "But your dinner," she suggested.

"Ah, yes; the dinner! I had forgotten." He looked about him. "But there is no one to help me eat the dinner! I can't dine alone," he added, plaintively. "'Pon my word, it's too bad! It is a good dinner—I ordered it myself."

Finally, he looked up unexpectedly, as if he had reached a solution of the difficulty. "Won't you join me?"

Her eyes appeared to be drawn to the blank houses across the way; she said nothing. At last she laughed gayly.

"You say it is a good dinner?" she asked.

"A very good dinner," he replied, solemnly.

"I am quite hungry—" she wavered.

"That settles it!" He gathered together his hat and gloves and stood up, bowing. For a moment she hesitated, then she, too, arose.

"The die is cast!" she declared, with mock gravity, as she preceded him into the dining-room.

A waiter hastened to right two chairs which had been tilted against a table near one of the windows. She threw back her wrap and revealed an elaborate evening gown, against which were pinned some orchids. One of them had broken; she lifted it from the others and placed it on the table. When she drew off her long gloves, he glanced curiously at her fingers. There were no rings.

The two finished their oysters in silence—the conventional atmosphere of the dining-room threw the proceeding into a somewhat less favorable light. He felt the embarrassment of the situation, and his hospitable instinct deplored it.

"I say, you know," he began, "it really is no funeral, save for the oysters; we must talk, and if I talk I've got to call you something."

The humor of the affair came home to her again, and she laughed without reserve.

"Very well," she said at last, "call me 'Gay'—it seems to be appropriate. And you?"

"Since the name must fit, you might call me 'Tristram,'" he said. "I fear I am a sad companion, at best."

"Are you sure the name is not a mistake for Trismegistus?"

He raised his eyebrows.

"Where did my lady learn that?" he asked.

"I'm not nearly so—" she began.

"That has been said," he interfered, peremptorily.

"If I am not to say what has been said," she replied, "I had best keep silence at once. There is nothing new under the sun, you know."

"We are not under the sun," he retorted. "It's night, I'd have you understand."

"Quibbles!" They laughed. The waiter removed the soup plates and deposited a rustling bucket, napkin-covered, by Tristram's chair. This time it was his companion's turn to raise her eyebrows. But she made no remark. When the glasses were filled, Tristram lifted his and peered over its edge at his vis-a-vis.

"Do you know Tom Moore?" he asked.

"'The time I've lost in wooing—'," she chanted. "Don't quote that; it's uncomplimentary."

"But he knew how to be flattering, too, I assure you:

'Here's to the one who long
Hath waked the poet's sigh—
The girl who gave to song
What gold could never buy.'

I drink." And he did.

"How can I drink till I know who 'the one' is?" she inquired, still holding her glass before her.

"Gay," he mused, tentatively, as if to try the sound of the word.

"Thank you," she smiled; "but I can't drink, if the toast is to me." And sat down her wine, untouched.

"Oh! but that is too bad! You must make me a toast, now—cap my quotation, if you can."

"I wonder," she said. "Let me see." She put her hands to her cheeks and stared at the volatile bubbles that made an irridescent cloud in the yellow liquid. Finally she raised her eyes. "It's the best I can do—and quite appropriate; Tristram says it, you know:

'Each to him who worships each
Sole Queen of Beauty and of love, behold
This day my Queen of Beauty is not here.'

"Good!" he cried. "And your toast is—"

"To the absent—whose place I fill but indifferently."

"I drink the toast, but veto the postamble."

"Now, now! Out of the kindness of your heart, you are trying to see me as I see myself. Don't; Bobby Burns was wise. I wonder how we should seem to others, if they knew the circumstances of our being here, together?"

"Feminine query! Now, I should be rather tempted to ask how we must ultimately seem to each other—afterward. Mine is a question more apt to be answered, at any rate. Yet, there was a formula for all that sort of thing laid down long ago—you may recognize it: 'Judge not that ye be not judged. For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged.' A little redundant in style, but right in spirit, don't you think!"

"Yes. Right in spirit and right in practice—but are you quite sure you believe in it yourself?" She was unaccountably serious. He rested his elbows on the table at either side his plate and regarded her, wonderingly.

"Yes," he said, slowly; "quite sure."

"I think I believe that to be the best rule of conduct in the world," she mused; "it would obviate so much scandal!"

He laughed.

She continued. "But it has nothing to do with us, has it? We are both eminently sensible people, who understand well how meaningless all of this is." She waved her hand to include him, herself and the dinner.

"If I were unkind, I should say that I understand perfectly well how meaningless that is," he rejoined, quickly.

"You are unkind."

"I am speaking the truth—it is often the same thing. Sensible people, indeed! I scorn your characterization. But suppose we are not sensible people," he objected to her look of surprised incredulity.

"Then we've no business to be doing this sort of thing." She shook her finger at him, with an air of pretended severity.

He selected a cigarette from a silver case and puffed it in the flame at a candle held by the waiter. He stared at the glowing fire in silence, then flicked the ash into a tray at his elbow.

She shivered. Something has chilled me, I fear. Would you mind throwing my wrap about me?"

He hastened to comply, unreasonably thankful for the diversion. As his fingers touched her shoulders, she shivered again.

"Thank you,' she said. "Perhaps when I drink my coffee—"

"Won't you have a liqueur?" he urged, solicitously. "Stupid of me! That's just the thing! But I cannot presume to select a liqueur for you; one's spouse and one's liqueur, I suppose, one chooses for oneself."

"Yes," she replied, smiling at his conceit, "but you have done remarkably well with the rest of the repast. It was a good dinner—as advertised—and I thank you. I prefer Chartreuse—yellow." She set down her coffee cup and pushed back her chair.

Tristram called the waiter and gave the order. Gay watched him anxiously, playing with the orchid on the corner of the table. She arose, smiling.

"Will you excuse me?" she asked.

"Yes," he said, returning her smile.

She threaded her way, gracefully, among the tables. He watched her go, puzzled, pleased. Her coat flared out at either side as she walked, and her gown trailed sinuously behind her, along the carpet. As she disappeared through one of the doorways he sighed. She was remarkably beautiful, he thought, witty, clever, charming. He lit another cigarette and speculated sentimentally upon her character, and the future.

The waiter brought the tiny glasses of Chartreuse, at last, and Tristram started from his reverie. She had not returned. He noticed with a certain disquiet that there remained of her only the broken flower; she had carried her gloves. He looked about the room, but she was not in sight. A poignant misgiving seized him. He hurried to the doorway through which she had gone. She was nowhere in the corridor. He crossed to the Turkish room and peered in. The apartment was deserted.

"Gay! Gay!" he cried. He ran through the room and stared out into the lobby. "Gay!" A bell-boy turned to gaze at him curiously. He stepped back, confused, disturbed, suddenly questioning anew the significance of the last hour. "Gay!" he called again, this time softly, as if to himself.

There was no answer.

MINSTRELS MAKE A HIT

Franklin Troupe Springs Surprises at Season's First Performance.

A GRAND PATRIOTIC WIND-UP.

Show Given as Feature of Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M.'s, Annual Reception to Women Friends.

Resplendent in new costumes and backed up by regular scenery fresh from the artist's studio, the Franklin minstrel troupe opened its third season, last night, in connection with Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M.'s, annual reception to its women friends. The affair took place in Junior hall and the attendance was the largest it has ever held, a noteworthy fact in view of the opposition weather.

Peter H. Latourette was in charge of the evening's program and made an address of welcome, leading up to the black-face performance. When the curtain was drawn, the members of the troupe were revealed in regulation military costume in a setting representing a camp. Guns were stacked in the center of the stage and a full length drop in back showed a line of white tents a la Sea Girt. The audience was quick to show its appreciation by prolonged applause.

James Jamison was in the interlocutor's chair, garbed as an officcer; the chorus men wore khaki suits and the ends, George Mead, George Rittenhouse, George Wilson and William J. Firstbrook, were in the old style blue. During the customary first part, up-to-date, local and almanac gags were handed out and a plentiful supply of solos livened up the fun. The four end men made a hit with "Captain Billy Brown" and also with individual numbers as follows: George Wilson, "L-o-v-e Spells Trouble to Me;" George Rittenhouse, "If the World Don't Treat You Right, Come Home;" William J. Firstbrook, "Don't Take Me Home;" George Mead, "Hang Out the Front Door Key." Messrs. Firstbrook and Wilson also sang, "Jungle Town" and ballads were rendered by James Jamison, William Anderson, Hugh Ricketts and Walter Vail. Mr. Vail's solo, "My Dream of the U. S. A." was one of the features of the program.

The performance closed with a most novel and original effect. While the troupe sang, "The Star Spangled Banner," four large flags, suspended over the audience and running to the dome in the centre of the hall, were suddenly drawn aside. From their folds there dropped 500 miniature flags that were borne to every part of the room by the powerful draught from an electric fan. The finish was totally unexpected by those not in the secret and it evoked great enthusiasm.

Following the show, refreshments were served and later the floor was cleared for dancing. The music was in charge of William Kenyon, who is accompanist for the Franklin troupe.

The affair was arranged and conducted by the Good and Welfare Committee of Franklin Council, composed of the following: Arthur Joy, chairman; Jack Martin, E. G. Wilson, Fred Soper and Walter C. Walker.

MEMORIAL TABLET IS PLACED IN HOSPITAL

Desiring to recognize in a suitable and substantial manner the several bequests made to Muhlenberg Hospital, the Board of Governors has caused to be placed in the hallway of the hospital a handsome copper bronze tablet, three feet square, bearing the names of those who have remembered the institution. The tablet, the work of John Williams, Incorporated, New York, is considered one of the finest made by that concern. There are no ornamentations, the tablet being a plain one, yet in its simplicity it is beautiful.

This inscription appears on the tablet: "1902. Memorial Funds, Gift by Will Invested in Hospital Buildings." Then are inscribed these names, which will be recognized by many interested in the hospital, as well as others:

Joanna Craig, Henry S. Stites, William R. Clarkson, Sarah Stout, James Stone Nason, Thomas Fitzgerald, Cornelia S. Vandeventer, Julia Bannon, Charles Schipper, Eleanor Roome, Ethan Lanphear, Catherine Emily Hegeman.

The tablet occupies a prominent position just to the left of the main hall, where it can be seen by everyone who enters the building. It was erected a few days ago and already a number of people have been attracted to the hospital to see the memorial.

MR. BACKES DEFENDS HIS BEER TAX SCHEME

Peter Backes, counsellor and member of the Fisk Excise Investigation Commission, took exception yesterday to the criticisms which have been made of his suggestion that a tax of 50 cents a barrel be assessed for all beer brewed in New Jersey. Mr. Backes thinks the objections come from the brewers or persons interested in that business.

In defence of his proposition he said yesterday that his suggestion is not a radical one, especially in view of the fact that the federal government for a number of years has laid a tax of $1 a barrel upon the products of the breweries. In outlining his views on the question, Mr. Backes said:

"It is my opinion that a tax of 50 cents should be laid not only on the product of the breweries in this State, but also on all of the products of foreign breweries that may be brought into the State. I admit it may be difficult to exact this tax from foreign breweries over which the State has no jurisdiction, but as a remedy for the difficulty I would suggest that the tax could be laid upon the persons who handle this foreign product.

"If this method were persued the communities would receive from the products of this State more than $1,500,000 and from the product brought into the State perhaps several hundred thousand dollars more, and if this tax is distributed between the municipalities in which the product is manufactured or consumed these various localities would be largely benefited thereby. This tax would be levied upon a product which is of itself not a necessity, but rather one of luxury, and as a whole the community is not dependent upon it, making it, therefore, a just subject for taxation.

"The State as a sovereignty annually spends for the maintenance of the State prison, the State asylums, at Trenton and Morris Plains, the Village for Epileptics, county lunatic asylums, the Children's Board of Guardians, the State Home for Girls and the State Home for Boys vast sums of money, aggregating for the year $1,381,742,62.

"In addition to this large expenditure by the State, the several municipalities therein maintain almshouses and other charitable institutions, besides the county jails, and they also maintain and pay the expenses of the criminal courts of this State. It is an admitted fact that the expenditure of these vast sums of money is made necessary, and must be attributed, indirectly, to the manufacture and dispensing of intoxicating liquors."

Foresters Plan Annual Affair.

Court Plainfield, No. 1144, Independent Order Foresters, will hold its annual entertainment, reception and dance in Saengerbund Hall, Friday night, January 15. The Supreme Court Ranger Elliot G. Stevenson, of Toronto, is expected to be present and make the principal address. There will be an up-to-date high-class vaudeville program to be followed by a dance. Admission will be ticket only and Edward J. McCue is the chairman of the committee of arrangements.

TRAFFIC IS DELAYED ON JERSEY CENTRAL

Traffic on the Central Railroad of New Jersey was delayed for two hours at Somerville, this morning while firemen fought a blaze in the hay press owned by James Q. Ten Eyck beside the tracks near Bridge street in that place. It was necessary for the firemen to drag their lines of hose across the tracks to the fire, and until the building was destroyed the trains piled up in long lines and the passengers got out to watch the spectacle.

The whole interior of the hay press was in flames when the fire was discovered and little could be done except to prevent the flames from spreading to neighboring buildings. A number of horses stabled in the building were rescued, but the other contents, hay, machinery and tools were all destroyed. The loss will be about $5,000, as there was no insurance on the building itself, although the contents were insured.

CAUGHT FUGITIVE AFTER CHASE THROUGH WOODS

Sergeant-Detective Joseph Cornelli and Deputy Joseph Pancango, of Hoboken, made a capture at the Middle Valley Trap Rock Company's quarries near Califon last night of an Italian supposed to be a member of the Black Hand Society, who have been operating among the workmen in this section.

The prisoner, who is known as Angelo Fanale, an employe at the quarries, was captured after a chase through the woodland and a desperate struggle, in which revolvers took an active part. Warrants had been issued by Justice of the Peace C. Watson Apgar, of Farmersville, for the arrest of Fanale and Alfonzo Fannuggo, charging assault and robbery at the instance of Toney Reiggola, employed at the Califon Limestone Company's quarries. Local constables and deputy sheriffs were unable to make the arrests.

On November 25 Reiggola, it is said, was bound with ropes, robbed and stabbed in the leg and badly cut about the body at his shack near the quarries. Reiggola claimed he recognized Fanale as being one of the four members of the gang. The prisoner was brought here and later taken to High Bridge, where he was turned over to Deputy Sheriff Dilts, who took him to the Huntington County Jail today to await the action of the grand jury.

Fanale denied the charge, but implicated Alfonzo Fannuggo in a recent holdup at a shack near Middle Valley, in which Dominick Restepo was forced to give up $10 under the penalty of death.

Fannuggo is now in jail, it is said, and efforts will be made to locate him. The night of November 30 Louis Bell, employed at the Califon Limestone Company's quarries, was also waylaid, robbed and shot in the leg above the knee by what is supposed to have been the same gang. Bell is in a serious condition at a New York hospital, blood poisoning having developed.

AND PROCTOR MANAGER SWEARS THIS IS ALL TRUE.

An unexpected termination of marital estrangement occurred last night at Proctor's theatre. An aged man and his wife approached the box-office. From his pocket the man drew forth a leather purse about the vintage of 1850. Delving into it he drew forth two dimes and taking his tickets entered the theatre with his wife. They sat through the performance without speaking, until Miss Bessie Downs sang George M. Cohan's "Married." At first they sat quietly until the picture of the twain with the baby boy. Then the old man softly put his hand to his wife's side and attempted to take her hand. She drew it away with a look of anger, yet neither spoke.

When Miss Downes requested the audience to sing the chorus, the old man raised a quavering voice, and essayed to sing the lines depicted on the screen. The old lady arose from her seat and passed out to the women's retiring parlors. The old man followed her, and with a voice choked with emotion, said, "Martha!" The old woman hesitated a moment, then in a voice of great tenderness responded, "John!" In a moment she was wrapped in his arms. Some curious persons asked the reason and the old man replied: "We have not spoken to each other for nigh on ten years, but that picture and that girl singing just went down to my heart and so I tried to take Marthey's hand. She drew away and left me, but the blessed spirit of forgiveness was in my heart and we are going home to live a new life."

The Red Cross stamps which are being sold throughout the country in the interest of and for the benefit of the movement started to battle against the spread of tuberculosis, were put on sale to day at L. W. Randolph's drug store on West Front street. Mrs. F. H. Andrews, who has been visiting the tuberculosis exhibit now being held in New York, became interested in the movement and it was through her efforts that Mr. Randolph was led to obtain a supply of the stamps.

They are sold in any number, although they come in books, twenty-four in each one. The sale of stamps is under the direction of the American National Red Cross Society and all profits are being placed in the fund to wage a campaign against the "white plague." Thus far the sale of these stamps has met with marked success.

The program comprised numbers by Miss Blanche Jacoby, Miss Rachel Canter and Miss Anna Martin, of this city, that were very pleasing and warmly applauded. Miss Martin did exceptionally well in a number, "Caprice Hongroise" and also as accompanist on second piano to Miss Marcie Lair in a solo "Fairy Dance." The pupils all showed exceptional talent and ease in performing. Mrs. Elmer A. Giddes and William Campbell, both of Plainfield, were allotted numbers on the program but were unable to be present.

The assisting artists were Miss Elizabeth Ray Clemmer, soprano, and Mabel Sperling Paul, violin.

JERRY "THE BOY BANDIT" RAIDS A GROCER'S WAGON

Jerry Crowley, the "boy bandit," who held up a little chap at the point of a pistol on July 4 last and made him hand aver a quart of ice cream, was again a prisoner in the city court this morning. This time he was arraigned for making a raid on B. Mann's grocery wagon as it stood in front of a house in the West End. With him, as a partner in crime, was Peter Phelan, another boy, who had helped to confiscate and carry off the loot.

When Judge Runyon began questioning Jerry about the affair, he handed out a choice line of falsehoods, stoutly maintaining that he hadn't taken a thing from the wagon. Peter, he said, was the sole and only desperado who had purloined the goods. Peter in turn frankly declared that he had stolen two packages of cornflakes and a dozen eggs while Jerry's haul comprised two pounds of butter, a pound of raisins and some cigars that he had taken from Mann's coat, left on the seat.

"He smoked one of the cigars, too," said Peter, "and told me afterward he forgot to save the butt."

This Jerry indignantly denied but after a little coaxing he 'fessed up to taking the raisins and cigars but nothing else. Judge Runyon finally got out of patience with him and released him in his father's custody to appear before the probation officer next Saturday. The father was also instructed to pay Mann a dollar for the goods that had been taken. Peter was let go with a warning to behave himself.

GIRLS GIVE A DINNER FOR FOOTBALL TEAM

The football team of the North Plainfield High School came in for well earned honors last night when it and the faculty were banquetted by the senior class. The feast was served in the drawing room of the school and all of the food was prepared by the girls of the class and was high grade in every particular. A reception and dance was held in the kindergarten rooms after the supper.

Benjamin Phelps was presented with a cup by the team in recognition of his valuable services as coach during two years, 1907 and 1908, the presentation being made by Captain Tone Overton.

In his acceptance speech Mr. Phelps said that he regarded the excellent spirit of the team which had expressed itself in upholding the honor of the school at home and abroad. He believed it to be the very best gift they could give. Walter Hamilton was also presented with a cup, with a few words of praise by Manager Harry Smith, for his work as coach during the season just closed.

The members of the social committee were: Miss Margaret Lee, chairman; Miss Florence Wyckoff, Miss Anna Daly, Miss Jennie Nelson, Miss Elvira Hoerster and Roy Vanderbeek. Those of the faculty who were present were Richard Keiffer, Benjamin Phelps, Miss Phoebe Waller, Henry C. Krebs, Miss Helen T. Stallberger and Mr. and Mrs. George Webster.

Immediately after the banquet the football squad gathered in the library and elected a captain for next year, to succeed Tone Overton, who graduates in the spring. Russel Conroy was the unanimous choice for the place. Besides Overton, there will be three other valuable players to retire, on the completion of the present term of school. They are George Parsons, Clarence Steiner and Leslie Powelson. Coach Phelps announced that there was some promising material with which to fill the vacancies and no doubt there would be a strong team next year.

This year's team has been very successful, having lost but two of the eight important games played. The hardest game and the one in which the boys showed their best was the one with the strong Holy Cross eleven. The worst luck of the season attended the boys in the contest with Plainfield High School. The members of this year's team who were in attendance last night were: George Parsons, R. Conroy, T. Overton, A. Overton, P. Dunning, L. Zeglio, C. Adams, C. Lee, H. Smith, C. Smith, F. Becker, L. Powlison, G. Webster, C. Steiner and P. Bailey.

NEW TROLLEY SCHEDULE

Public Affairs Committee and P. S. C. Officers Agree on Service Improvement.

MEANS MORE TROLLEY CARS.

Radical Changes, as Planned, Will Be Made in Two Weeks —Better Facilities.

The suggested changes in local trolley conditions as outlined in The Daily Press yesterday following a tour of inspection by officials of the Public Service Corporation, were adopted at a conference of the officials and a majority of the members of the Common Council, in the Mayor's office, last night. The changes will go into effect within the next two weeks.

The new arrangement provides that the Arlington avenue cars shall be operated from the terminus at Hillside cemetery to the end of the Somerset street line, making a cross-town service on a fifteen minute schedule, and that the Fourth street and Netherwood trolleys shall be operated as far as Front and Somerset streets, also on a fifteen minute schedule. These cars will make the turn into Somerset street from Front, at which point the trolleys will be reversed for the return trip. The idea of compelling the turn into Somerset street is to prevent any congestion on Front street.

The Arlington avenue car will precede the other two local cars, and will continue on to the end of the Somerset street line, while the others will turn back. Two cars are now being operated on the Arlington avenue line, but the change will require two additional ones to carry out the schedule. It is argued that this arrangement will bring patrons into the heart of the shopping district, instead of compelling them to leave these cars at Fourth street and Watchung avenue. Under the new plan the company will not run the Netherwood cars to Grant avenue during certain hours of the day as at present. This, it is said, does not pay.

Another improvement planned by the company is to provide a waiting room for passengers in the former office of DeWitt C. Ivins on Watchung avenue, opposite Fourth street, this property being owned by the company. This will furnish a comfortable place for persons who are obliged to wait for the trolley. Patrons will also be permitted to transfer at Front and Somerset street as well as at Fifth and Richmond streets and Fourth street and Watchung avenue.

Central Division Superintendent J. J. Gettings and George Luhr, local division superintendent, represented the company at the conference, while nearly all of the members of the Common Council attended as representatives of the city.

The Bishop's remarkable familiarity with men and movements, his power of statement, his fervent spirituality, and his commanding personality cause him to make an immediate appeal and to leave a lasting impression.

Lester Bingley, of Trenton, a baritone soloist, will sing. All men are welcome.

Bishop Dubs is also to speak at the Association's anniversary service in the First Baptist church on Sunday morning and will preach at the Firt Methodist church in the evening.

GOLF.

J. W. McKinleyl, of the Columbia Golf Club, of Washington, gives formal notice of two proposed amendments to the constitution of the United States Golf Association, one of which, if passed, would dispense with the nominating committee and leave the question of naming the officers to open meeting. The proposed amendments, as announced by W. Fellowes Morgan, secretary of the national association, follow:

Resolved, That the membership of the United States Golf Association shall consist of active and associate clubs, the active clubs to be those now known as associate and the associate to be those now known as allied, and that the constitution of the association be amended and changed accordingly.

Resolved, That the constitution of the United States Golf Association be and it is hereby amended by omitting Article VI and renumbering each succeeding article by giving one number lower to supply the omission.

The object of the first amendment is hard for golfers to understand, unless the real meaning is veiled, as to change the names would simply cause confusion, as one player pointed out. The second amendment, however, indicates a desire for a change in the way of electing officers, and this is pertinent inasmuch as some Western golfers are disgruntled because the West has failed to get the presidency. Article VI of the constitution reads:

A nominating committee of three shal be appointed in June of each year by the executive committee to present at the next annual meeting a list of candidates for election to the various offices, such nominations to be made to all clubs members of the association at least thirty days prior to the said annual meeting.

By omitting the foregoing article it would be possible to place two or more tickets in the field without friction at the annual meeting. In the past the findings of the nominating committee have been tantamount to an election.

Mr. Morgan also announces that six clubs have offered their course or made application for the various national championship tournaments as follows: Amateur championship, Chicago Golf Club and Deal Golf and Country Club. Open championship, Englewood Golf Club and Chicago Golf Club. Women's championship, Country Club of Lakewood. The Nassau Country Club has offered its course for any tournament that the association may see fit to grant.

So far as the amateur is concerned, it is a matter of record that the Chicago Golf Club has already had this competition on two previous occasions. According to inside rumor, the amateurs are more than likely to gather over some course in the Boston district. Up to date this championship has never been held in Massachusetts, but it would have gone there last season had not the Brae Burn Country Club withdrawn its application. Most likely some Massachusetts club will apply at the annual meeting, but at present writing it is impossible to tell which one will seek the honor.

So far as the Deal application is concerned, it will be remembered that the New Jersey organization tried hard a year ago, but when the matter was put to a vote Garden City won by an overwhelming majority. The Deal course has been undergoing constant improvements for several years, and before the beginning of another season many additional traps will have made their appearance. The great length of the course has ever made it one of the most difficult scoring propositions in the country. The Metroplitan championship has been held over the Deal links.

At the last annual session the Englewood club endeavored to secure the open championship, but the delegates preferred to present it on a "silver plattee" to Myopia for the fourth time. In the event of the Chicago Golf Club failing to get the amateur, it is not unlikely that it will be offered the open for consolation. The women have already expressed a wish to play their next championship over a Philadelphia course, which makes it appear as if Lakewood's outlook is far from bright. The course in the pines, however, is level and possesses a number of short holes, making it an ideal place for a women's tournament.

The annual meeting of the United States Golf Association will be held at Sherry's, New York, Friday evening, January 8, at 8:30 o'clock. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected and other important business will come before the meeting.

Miss Edith Pennington will lead the Epworth League meeting at the First M. E. church, tomorrow night at 7 o'clock.

The Men's Club of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will meet Monday night in the church parlors and listen to an address by Superintendent H. C. Krebs, of the North Plainfield Public Schools.

The annual meeting of the State Board of Agriculture will be held at the State House, Trenton, on January 13, 14 and 15.

The authorities at Fort Mott are searching South Jersey for Edward P. Lyons, cook of Company 119th, who deserted a few days ago.

Elaborate preparations have been made for the laying of the cornerstone of the new $50,000 edifice of the Linden Baptist church, Camden, next Thursday night.

John Loper, of Cedarville, aged seventy-four years, died in the Bridgeton Hospital last night, the result of an injury to his left leg received while chopping wood.

For allowing a horse to stand on the streets of Salem from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. without feed or water, Thomas Jefferson, a farmer, escaped with a fine of $10 and costs.

The Ocean County Grand Jury for the December term broke the record by finding only two indictments, one of which was against the boy, Willie Steigert, for murder.

After a week's illness from pneumonia, Thomas G. Waring, superintendent of the Cooper Hospital, Camden, died in that institution last night. He was seventy-four years old and is survived by four sons.

The trouble between the two glass-workers' unions which caused Whitall-Tatum Company to block fires at its Millville plant and threaten to go out of blast, has been settled, and the workmen returned to work yesterday.

Supreme Court Justice Garrison yesterday taxed the bill of costs in the councilmanic recount in the Eleventh ward, Camden. The total amount is $144.70 and will have to be paid by Morris E. Noecker, the defeated Republican candidate, who secured the order for the recount.

"Iz" Durham is to be honored by having the new $1,000,000 Chelsea apartment house named after him, according to reports from men at the head of the syndicate of owners, which also include Senator Penrose. Durham and Penrose owned the land on which the big venture is to be carried out.

George P. Capen, a contractor and builder at Vineland since 1861, fell lifeless Wednesday night in his barn. He had been ailing of late, but had resolutely finished building the Grange Hall and a house for his son-in-law, G. E. Smith. Dr. Sawyer pronounced the cause of death heart disease.

The two horses stolen from Charles J. Magnuson, of Clayton, over two weeks ago, were found Wednesday, near Rosenhayne, but when Thomas C. Miller, of Clayton, went after them yesterday they had once more disappeared, and all traces of their whereabouts were lost. The authorities believe that there is an organized band of horse thieves at work.

Shortly before 6 o'clock last night a horse attached to one of the wagons belonging to James Gavin, a Paterson painter, became frightened while crossing the Spruce street bridge, ran away and crashed into a coal wagon. The horse was killed and the driver was thrown out on his head and made unconscious. The driver soon recovered and was taken to his home on Marshall street.

THE SCHOOL TEACHER IS VERY HUMAN.

She must be the embodiment of all that is good, wise, and beautiful; in fact, but a little lower than the angels. And she must be willing to hear complaints from the parents of unruly children who never obey at home and would not do so at school if not disciplined. Have you a child at school who comes home every night with stories of exaggerated character about his or her teacher? If your little girl or boy is not the best child at home, but is sometimes erratic, you should be les ready to condemn or talk about the teacher. We never fully appreciate the true value of a teacher until we have left school and teachers back of us.

Yes, teachers ge cross, just like the children and their mothers. There are times when teaching is very irksome and teachers grow weary of the dull monotony of school life. hildren are not the quiet, docile little creatures they are ofttimes represented, and many ordinarily meek little ones will sometimes become unruly, rebellious and ugly in disposition. It is then the teacher remonstrates. If a teacher is very harsh—unreasonably so—if she truly neglects her duties or does anything not worthy of a teacher, she should be reported to the board Do not attempt to "settle her case" yourself.—Woman's National Daily.

What He Wanted.

"Well, what do you want?" quiered the stereoscopic lecturer, as a stranger apepared before him.

"Oh, I merely came to get your views," replied the stranger—who proved to be a constable—as he proceeded to levy on the outfit.—Chicago Daily News.

KNOWLEDGE IS SWEET.

"Now, dear," said mamma yesterday
"I will explain to you
All in a very simple way
How one and one make two;
Here is a cookie from the jar,
And here's another one;
Just count and see how many are
There now—the sum is done!

"And if you eat one cookie—so
Another sum is done.
You count what you have left and know
That one from two leaves one;
And now you eat the other and
Another sum you do,
For you have none left in your hand
When you take two from two."

"Oh, dear!" sighed little Isabel,
This very afternoon,
"I thought I knew my sums so well
I'd not forget so soon.
I really think I ought to go
And ask my mamma quick
To get the cookie jar and show Me my arithmetic."

—J. W. Foley.

WHAT MAY BE DONE WITH OLD CLOTHES.

The girl of deft fingers and quick brain is always well dresse dand she is always busy.

Have you an old petticoat that is too disreputable to wear, yet too good to throw away? Why not turn it into a dainty corset cover.

If there is an embroidered flounce cut the best parts of it for the lower half of the waist, putting it into a band at the waist line.

This may be fastened on the shoulders with a bow of ribbon, as is the usual way, but it is far prettier to make the upper part of several rows of lace insertion headed by beading and a row of lace. This is sewed under the embroidered edge of the flounce and gives a smart and dainty effect.

If the petticoat is worn on the edge and the upper part good, trim it off neatly to the depth of the scallop and roll it to beading, above which is a row of valenciennes lace about a half inch wide. This makes a showy corset cover with little work or expense.

Just His Luck.

"William, Freddie informs me that his teacher has decided to advance him from the sixth to the seventh grade, owing to his fine deportment and his praiseworthy attention to his studies."

"Pshaw! That's just my luck!"

"Why, what makes you say that?"

"I had it all figured out that I was going to be about $10 ahead at the end of this month. Now it will be necessary to buy a new set of schoolbooks."—Chicago Record-Herald.

THE FORUM.

The S. A. Industrial Home.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Permit me to briefly set forth the objects and purposes of the Salvation Army Industrial Home for men, being brought into the case of one Joseph Pelling, whose arrest was caused by one of the men at the Home; this arrest, by the way, being caused without the knowledge of the manager. The Salvation Army Industrial Home has an open door to men of all creeds and conditions in life, and it purposes not to turn any away, who appear to be in need of a friend or a helping hand; hence it is not strange that some it seeks to befriend, turn too and rend it, repaying the kindness extended in just such a way as the case stated in your issue of Tuesday, December 8. Some who come to us are men addicted to the use of intoxicating liquors and while we cannot well refuse them admittance, for that reason it is part of our work to induce them, if possible, to give up such habits. Such as we believe are trustworthy are employed in gathering the waste from the home of the city; no stipulated amount is promised them as wages. This is understood when they enter the Home. The amount given as wages is gradually increased as they prove their worth.

Our Home is always open to inspection and we welcome visitors and would cheerfully aid in giving any citizen of Plainfield or elsewhere all the information they may desire. There is no other place in Plainfield, to our knowledge, where a man, stranded, friendless and penniless can turn with the assurance that he will receive a welcome and a helping hand and a God bless you. If there is we should be pleased to know.

I beg to remain yours sincerely,

CHAS. H. STRAUBL,
Manager.

SAYS BOARDER MADE FIFTY-CENT PIECES.

Newark Woman, Who Said Man Robbed Her, Gives Materials to Police.

Mrs. Catherine Cylkowski, of No. 98 Chapel street, Newark, had a warrant issued yesterday for the arrest of Paul Bricko, who had formerly boarded at her home, charging him with the larceny of $85. She consulted a clairvoyant, she said, who told her that Bricko had stolen the money and that he is in New York. On the strength of this she made the complaint.

Mrs. Cylkowsky further told the police that Bricko used to make 50-cent pieces at her house, but that when he went away he took the moulds with him. The police found a box containing some lead, silver and powdered glass, which the woman said Bricko had left behind him. It was confiscated and will be turned over to Secret Service men.

The Sadness of Scepticism

Paul said to Timothy "Godliness is profitable for all things having the promise of the life which now is as well as that which is to come." He meant that a man's faith is not simply to prepare him for another life but to help him live this life, for when a man gives up his belief in divine things, in God and immortality, he takes all the value out of the present life. Without God and without hope in immortality a man's life here is one of great sadness. The world, then, is to him a great mistake and a mockery, and his earthly life is not worth living. There is one thing alone that can satisfy men. It is the thought of God as a loving Father and an eternal life. Let us listen to the words of a few very successful men who have confessed that with all their success they have been unhappy. If success and applause could have perfectly satisfied them they certainly would have been happy, but they confess to their unhappiness and the reason is simple. They have lost the comforting assurance of God's presence and of immortality in their lives. Because there is no other life to give them comfort, they are not perfectly happy in this life. This life would be comfortless to you if you were sure God was dead and that there was no after life. We have already spoken of Goethe, Germany's Shapespeare. He was regarded as an optimist. Was he?

He said that he never had a month of genuine comfort.

Voltaire was regarded as a great literary genius but he had no center of his life and hope. He said "strike out the few sages and the crowd of human beings is nothing but a horrible assemblage of unfortunate criminals. I wish I had never been born." He did not think much of humanity. He never looked down upon them as the Lord looked upon the unfortunate of earth and said, "Yes, you have a chance. You have great possibilities in your being which will require an eternity to develop.

The young scientist, Clifford, doubted the existence of God. He said that the belief in a God is a comfort to those that hold it and the loss of it a very painful loss. "We have seen the spring sun shine out of an empty heaven to light up a soulless earth and we have felt with utter loneliness that the great Companion was dead." What did he mean? This, that the loss of God, the Great Companion, was a great loss. On earth, there are no souls. In heaven, there is no God. All is matter and will return to matter. He was like another scientist who goes by the name of "Physicus," who said, when he denied the existence of God, the universe lost its soul of loveliness, he spoke of the appalling contrast between the "glory of the hallowed creed that once was mine and the lonely mystery of existence as I now find it." We find young men who are ready in a spirit of bravado to part with the faith of their fathers, but when they do, they part with their best friend.

These illustrations confirm the statement of Sully in his great book on Pessimism. "I am keenly alive to the fact that our scheme of universal happiness, even when taken as including the good of others now living and to live, is no perfect substitute for the idea of etrenal happiness presented in religion." You simply cannot replace the loss of faith in God and immortality by any scheme of philanthropy. The hunger of your soul demands God and another life. When that brilliant woman, George Eliot was walking with her friend Myers in the Fellows Garden of Trinity College, Cambridge, she spoke impressively of those three words that are the watch words of our lives. "God, immortality, duty. The first, how inconceivable, the second, how unbelievable, the third how peremptory and absolute."

Myers said: "It was as though she withdrew from my grasp, one by one, the two scrolls of promise, and left me with the third only, awful with inevitable fate." If a man is immortal then it is worth while to save him. For who knows what wonderful development shall be his in the ages to come. If there is no other life says Prof. Seely, then there is no need of self-sacrifice for others, for others are just as contemptible as we are and human happiness is too paltry to be worth increasing. If a man is immortal, he may not have made a great showing here but he has an eternity in which to develop. So it is not what a man is at the present moment but what he may become in the after life that interests us. If he is simply a creature of a few years and then perishes, what matters it? A vivid picture of the sadness that scepticism produces is given us in the words of the French philosopher Theodore Jouffroy: "Never shall I forget the December evening when the veil which hid my unbelief from my own eyes was torn away. The hours of the night glided away and I perceived it not; I anxiously followed my thought, which descended step by step to the bottom of my consciousness, and dissipating one after another all the illusions which till then had hid them from my view, rendered its subterfuges more and more visible to me. In vain, I clung to my last beliefs, as a shipwrecked sailor to the fragments of his ship; in vain, terrified by the unknown waste in which I was about to float, I threw myself back once more upon my childhood, my family, my country, all that was dear and sacred to me; the inflexible current of my thought was the stronger; parents, family, memories, beliefs—it forced me to leave all. I knew then that at the bottom of myself there was nothing left standing, that all I had believed about myself, about God, and about my destiny in this life and in that to come, I now believed no more. This moment was frightful; and, when, towards morning, I threw myself exhausted upon my bed, it seemed to me as if I could feel my former life, so cheerful and complete, die away, and before me there opened up another life, dark and dispeopled, where henceforth I was to live alone, alone with my fatal thought which had just exiled me thither and which I was tempted to curse."

This picture of Jouffroy has been paralleled in many other cases. Men whom the world honors for their intellectual brilliancy, if they have parted with their faith in God and the immortal life, are unspeakably sad. They picture their condition as frightful, appalling, terrible. Are these instances not an evidence that the foundations of a noble and happy life can only be laid by holding to these great truths? A man can not live a normal life if he denies God and immortality.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Joseph Miller has announced his intention of giving up his position in McDonough Brothers lumber yard in Plainfield and going west when he will probably get some exaggerated ideas of western life out of his head. Although his friends hope that he will strike something rich and be able to retire at the age of 25.

While being driven along South Plainfield avenue by Michael Savered Wednesday a horse owned by Thos. Saverd became unmanageable and ran away. The shafts of the wagon and the harness were broken. The horse was caught on the Holly farm.

It was announced several weeks ago "that no Xmas exercises would be held in the public school," but the teachers have decided that exercises will be conducted in the separate rooms, the pupils will not assemble together as usual.

Wonder of wonders, when will ye wonders cease! Bert Randolph bought a penny's worth of pop-corn at R. B. Manning's store yesterday. "It is hoped that his custom will continue."

Repairs are being made upon the boilers at the Middlesex Water Company's pumping plant. Edward Conroy and J. J. McDonough are working on the repairing force.

The anticipated skating on the lake which was looked forward to by everybody, was rendered impossible by yesterday's rain.

MULVANEY'S REPORT IN.

Investigation of Jersey City's Finances Shows Lax Methods.

The report of John J. Mulvaney, a lawyer, who was appointed by Mayor Wittpenn to investigate Jersey City's financial accounts, was made public yesterday. He finds that the accounts are muddled and recommends that a new system of bookkeeping be adopted. The sinking fund management has been unsatisfactory and in some instances illegal, he says. The deficiency in the collection of taxes has never been systematically provided for, and the result is that deficits have accumulated in the tax levy which must now be considered.

There is a charge of $147,490 on the City Controller's books, representing the cost of assessable improvements in excess of benefits, but this indebtedness of the city has never been properly taken care of by the city, according to the report.

Instances of incompetent bookkeeping are reported, and the recommendation is made that an up-to-date system should be introduced by expect accountants.

YALE IN FRONT ON MARCH 4.

Taft's Classmates to Have Right of Line in Parade.

The right of the line in the parade of civic organizations on the occasion of the inauguration of William H. Taft will be given to members of Mr. Taft's class of 1878 at Yale.

This organization will be followed by the Citizens' Taft Club, of Cincinnati, and next will come the Utica Unconditionals, representing the home town of Vice-President-elect Sherman.

Murderer Gets 18 Years.

Directly after he had pleaded non vult to murder in the second degree in the Court of Oyer and Terminer at Newark, Francisco Carracino was sentenced by Judge Ten Eyck to eighteen years in State prison. Carracino, who lived at 288 Charlton street, Newark, shot and killed Morris Solomon, last June 22, although the bullet was intended by the slayer for his former landlord, with whom he had quarreled.

Bayonne's $100,000 Building.

Senator John Kean has introduced a bill in the U. S. Senate providing for a federal building at Bayonne at a limit of cost of $100,000 for the site and building.

MANNERS AND CLOTHES IN THE HOME.

A great many people seem to think that the marriage ceremony absolves them from all further courtesies and attentions to the person whom they have wed.

After that they are always in negligee, both as to manners and clothes, when they are at home.

This is a fatal mistake. Because a woman is married is no excuse for her going untidy about the house and telling her husband home truths that hurt his vanity. Because a woman is his wife gives a man no right to say things to her he would not dare to say to any other lady who possessed a big able-bodied brother.

Good manners are the preservative of peace and concord, and are warranted to keep happiness in any climate.

The problem of how to be happy though married is really no problem at all. No mystery should ever have been made of it.

It is merely fair dealing in fair partnership, giving the other party the same privileges and perquisites you assume for yourself, and allowing the person you love as much consideration and civility as you would show a stranger.

HOW WE MAY LIGHTEN THE ROOMS.

There are bound to be some rooms in the house which are more or less dark, either because of location or lack of windows, draperies, etc.

What to do take away the dark look from a room with an eastern exposure has bothered many a house keeper. In city houses especially such a room may be so gloomy and dingy as to require artificial light most of the day.

A decided effect of sunlight can be given by the right papers and furnishings. Select a warm yellow two toned paper. Select a white ceiling, paint the woodwork white and have the curtains, if any are used, of the thinnest kind of white net. Window shades should be white or a warm cream color and if there are outer curtains they should be of a thin yellow slik.

Should the furniture be mahogany it should be covered in yellows and dull blue, but if it is not especially valuable the framework could be enameled white to still further lighten the room; with such coloring a soft brown rug could be placed on the floor.

THE HELPLESS BABY AN UNWILLING VICTIM.

How would you like it, you grown man or woman, to be hauled along by a giant; your weary legs vainly trying to keep up with his seven-league strides?

Yet that is just what happens when you take your small boy or girl out for a long walk. Children often get spanked for badness when they are cross from utter fatigue.

Try walking at a forced pace for an hour or so and you will see the wisdom of the children's specialist who insists that the baby carriage or push cart should go along on every long walk taken by a child up to the fifth year, longer if the little one is not sturdy.

If mothers would cling longer to the push-cart, nuisance though it be, there would be fewer sufferers from curvature of the spine and infantile paralysis. Four-year-old Johnny or Mary will probably rebel at being pushed and consider it beneath his or her dignity. But the knowing mother will insist upon occasional lifts because of the benefits to tired legs and backs.

No child of 3 or 4 years old should walk more than half a mile at a time.

GOOD MACHINE HINTS.

When using a chain stitch machine gathering may be done without an attachment if the thread is wrapped twice round the tension. This is a very good thing to know, and, while it will not make any deep gathering, it will be quite effective for any ordinary ruffling.

With a double-threaded machine the under bobbin may be threaded with a cotton ten numbers coarser. Loosen the tension until it is very slack and then place your garment under the needle and proceed. When it is stitched you will find that you may draw up the material to the required fulness with the aid of the under thread. It will not be necessary to alter the stitch if it is ordinarily short, and the result will be amply satisfactory.

With the aid of these two ideas it should be easy to do very good gathering on any machine.

A Christmas Suggestion.

We are all racking our brains to decide what we will give so-and-so for Christmas. Windsor ties, which are so very much the rage at the present moment for low lace collars and other collars of the Puritan stamp, may be easily made by buying half a yard of material cut on the bias and hemming it around with machine stitching. The material should be surah silk or one of the soft taffeta varieties, but it should not be ribbon. It is absolutely necessary that it be cut on the bias. The finished tie should be one and one-quarter yards long and about five and one-half inches wide. The two ends should be cut so that they form points.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Get away from common worries; go and see "Peck's Bad Boy" at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and evening. Brighter and better than ever, there's the Bad Boy and his chum, his girl, Pa and Ma, with new and up-to-date tricks played on the old grocer Shultz. Attractive specialties are interspersed during the action of the comedy, which greatly adds to the evening's enjoyment.

Following a career of ten months at the Lyceum Theatre, New York, "The Thief," the most intense, the most human and the most absorbing of dramas put upon the stage in years, will be presented by Charles Frohman at the New Plainfield Theatre December 17. Henry Bernstein, who is just now the vogue among French playwrights, has been made famous the world over by writing "The Thief." The play was first produced at the Rennissance Theatre in Paris where Mme le Bargy earned new laurels for herself by playing the wife. The first performance of the play before an English speaking audience was in New York, where it made a tremendous sensation and remained the topic of the town for an entire season. Later the play was acted in London with Irene Vanbrugh in the chief feminine role. But the success of "The Thief" has not been due primarily to the exertions of any of its players. The world-wide interest shown in the play has been due to the pertinence its story has to every grade of society, if not to every particular family the world over. Women like the wife in "The Thief;" men like the husband in "The Thief;" youths like the son in "The Thief," are to be found and live just such lives in the smallest village in the land. The story of the play is simple enough as a story—it is intense, compelling in interest, wonderfully human, without side issues. What intensifies the interest of the playgoer is the ingenuity with which Bernstein has told his story. Just when he is thought to have reached his climax, Bernstein veers off and attains still another climax, and then another, until his resourcefullness seems without end.

When he comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night Richard Carle will 'present himself" in his newest musical comedy success "Mary's Lamb." As was the case with all his previous plays, "Mary's Lamb" is from Mr. Carle's own fountain pen—only in this instance he has utilized a French farce as the basis of his plot. The elongated comedian has the role of a henpecked husband. In his support are Cecilia Rhoda, Julia Ralph, Nellie Brewster, Sylvain Langlois, DeWitt Mott, Harry Montgomery and others, including a wonderfully agile and pretty chorus.

TO BUILD OIL WORKS ON THE RACE TRACK.

Supt. C. H. Black of the Elizabeth plant of the Standard Oil Company said today that by the end of the month the concern will begin operations at its new refinery in Bayway. The company is rushing its work of factory building, and twenty-five hundred hands are being kept busy in this department. The plant is now one of the largest in the State, but it is only about half built. The two recent acquisitions of the company—the old Linden racetrack and the riparian land for which grant was issued recently at Trenton, at a cost of $79,000—are sites for extensions to the plant which will be started in the spring.

Woman Kills Self and Canary.

Miss Carrie S. Bruns, of San Francisco, was found dead from gas asphyxiation at the home of her friend, Mrs. J. E. Reo, at No. 136 Orchard street, Newark, yesterday. Her pet canary was also dead in its cage. A note left by the woman requested Mrs. Reo to keep her watch and chain and that her body be cremated. Mrs. Reo says that Miss Burns was a well educated woman, and had traveled extensively. Of late she had been in failing health and was despondent.

PEOPLE WE KNOW.

They Are Plainfield People, and What They Say Is of Local Interest.

When an incident like the following occurs right here at home, it is bound to carry weight with our readers. So many strange occurrences go the rounds of the press; are published as facts, people become skeptical. On one subject skepticism is rapidly disappearing. This is due to the actual experience of our citizens, and their public utterances regarding them. The doubter must doubt no more in the face of such evidence as this. The public statement of a reputable citizen living right at home, one whom you can see every day, leaves no ground for the skeptic to stand on.

Thomas Haskard, retired, 927 South Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "During service in the Civil War I contracted itching piles and they bothered me off and on for a long time. I tried several salves and ointments but never found one that would relieve my trouble until I commenced using Doan's Ointment. Three boxes of this preparation cured me and I have never experienced a return of the affliction."

AMUSEMENTS.

A particularly fine bill will attract audiences to the Alhambra this week. Miss Alice Lloyd will play a return engagement at this house with her budget of English comic ditties and her dainty costumes. Henry Lee will give his brief lecture entitled "A Day in Ireland with Squire Croker," introducing some vivascopic views of the famous Tammany politician, his fine estate and his handsome race-horses. The Kellinos presenting a really novel and excellent acrobatic specialty in which they wear the picturesque Venetian costume and perform their feats surrounded by a scenic representation of Venice with its bridges and canals, are another feature. Those amusing brothers, The McNaughtons, will add to the fun with their repartee and screamingly funny burlesque boxing bout; Binns, Binns & Binns will present their eccentric musical specialty; Alcide Capitaine, the perfect gymnast, will demonstrate her claim to that title; Barrows, Lancaster & Co. will be seen in a one act comedy skit; Barry & Halvers will present their attractive singing and dancing specialty, and there will be several other acts including the Vitagraph. The usual Sunday concerts will be given.

Few actresses have won a reputation as great as that of Annie Russell. In her new play, "The Stronger Sex," at Weber's theatre, New York, she is delighting huge audiences at every performance, and earning new honors for herself. The Wagenhals and Kemper Company have produced the John Valentine comedy in a most artistic manner. The scenic equipment is lavish and the gowns worn at the wedding reception in the first act have become patterns for Gotham's social set. All ferminine New York is taking notice of the remarkable gown worn by Miss Russell during the second act of the piece. Never before has a stage dress received such homage as the beautiful baccarat frock of gold meteor crepe. "The Stronger Sex" might be termed a woman's play. At least the gentler sex have adopted it as their very own. Men like the delightful comedy, but women simply love it. Every line reflects some little emotion dear to their hearts. This is likely the reason for the popularity of the two weekly matinees. On Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, Weber's cozy little theatre is packed from pit to dome with the fair ones.

"Little Nemo," at the New Amsterdam theatre, is unquestionably the greatest musical spectacular production ever presented either in this country or in England, the home of magificent spectacles. Its gorgeous scenes, wonderful ballets and processions, beautiful dances, sparkling comedy and entrancing music make it far superior in every respect to anything ever before attempted in this field of entertainment. While it fulfills every expectation from a scenic and spectacular standpoint, it does not appeal to the eye alone. Victor Herbert's exquisite melodies charm the ear and haunt the mind, and Harry B. Smith has provided a book brimful of funny incidents and clever lines. In fact, the comedy element alone of this production, aside from its many other attractive features, would carry it to success. The humorous interest is well sustained by those able comedians, Joseph Cawthorn, Harry Kelly and Billy B. Van, while Master Gabriel as Nemo and Aimee Ehrlich as the Little Princess carry the sentimental vein.

PRETTY HATPINS.

Hatpins must be ornamental as well as useful—that much is certain.

First we had large round hatpins of tortoise shell and celluloid, and then we had long thin ones of the same materials. But while our minds were busy running to these eccentricities the jewelers were busy disigning pins to appeal to fair women, and now the result of their efforts is given to the public.

The very latest hatpin is of gold, and, like the seal of a masculine watchfob, engraved with the monogram or crest of the owner. These pins are very beautiful, and, while they are very expensive, they are well worth the money, for there is nothing fragile about them and they should wear a long time.

New Jersey Central Acquires Land.

The Central New Jersey Land Improvement Company has sold to the New Jersey Central Railroad Company, a strip of land, 70x1,000 feet on North avenue, adjoining property of the Natural Ice Company, the consideration being $1. It is understood that the railroad company will hold the land for extra trackage should it be found necessary in the future. So far as can be learned no other improvements are contemplated by the company. The tract fronts on North avenue and extends back to the railroad.

He Had Reformed.

"Uncle Mose," said the drummer, addressing an aged colored man who was holding a dry goods box in front of the village store, "they tell me that you remember seeing General Washington. Is it true?"

"No, sah," replied the old man. "Ah uster 'member seein' him, but Ah don't no moh since Ah done j'in'd church, sah."—Judge.

The Truth and the Lady

By ELIA W. PEATTIE.

(Copyright, by Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

I have a friend who has often said to me that she cared nothing for allegories, parables or symbols.

"I want the truth," she declared. "I live by the truth. Nothing less will do for me."

My friend was sitting in her home one day not long ago, when there came a ringing at her bell; and, as her one servant was away for the afternoon, she herself answered the door. Without stood an old man with kind eyes and a cruel mouth—a very old man, greatly wrinkled, and with a huge pack on his back.

"I was sent here by a neighbor," he said, "who told me that I had just the sort of wares for which you cared the most. She said she thought I would find you a generous purchaser."

There was a curious accent in the old man's speech which my friend could not quite place. It was at once familiar and unfamiliar, and she could not tell whether she liked or disliked it. But she bade him enter, for he was old, and, besides, she thought he might, indeed, have something that she wished to buy.

"My wares," he said, "are very ancient. It would be difficult to find anything more antique."

"Then I hope they are beautiful," cried my friend, "for I have no use for ugly things, no matter what their history may be. It is only beauty that can reconcile me to mold and tarnish and dustiness."

"Some are beautiful and some are grotesque," he said. "But I perceive by looking about your rooms that you have a fancy for the grotesque as well as the beautiful."

"One is the face, the other the obverse of the coin," said my friend. "But pray show me your wares."

So from his pack the old man with the kind eyes and the cruel mouth took many packages, wrapped and tied with the cunning of the old races.

"I am a Merchant of Truth," he declared proudly, "and these are my wares. If you permit me I will show you the contents of this one, which tells the truth about your home."

"Oh," sighed the woman eagerly, "if you please!"

When he had undone the curious wrappings, the old man took forth a shining sphere of crystal, and held it before the woman so that she saw a thing which the old man described in this wise:

"Your home," he said, "is a badly built little house, standing in a third-rate suburb of an ill-ordered city. It is much too expensive for the amount of comfort it gives, and even so, it is not really yours. It is mortgaged, and you must pay interest as well as taxes. It is never as clean as it should be, by reason of the mills and factories near at hand. There is much incongruity in the furnishing and decoration of the rooms, and in winter some of these rooms are chilly and damp. In summer you have no garden to which to retire. It is, you perceive, a poor place."

"Oh," caid the woman, "how mistaken you are! I see truly, the things of which you speak, but do you not appreciate that here is the door at which I bid my friends welcome? And within is my fire, burning sweetly on the hearth. There is my bed where I sleep so deliciously, there the dear window at which the dawn looks in. Here is my kitchen where I cook the food by which we live, and here is the table at which we eat it, with talk and laughter, and even, when we are so disposed, with song. Everything in this house belongs to me. My husband bought these things and gave them to me—except such as are the gifts of friends. I can walk about the rooms and put my hands on this and on that and tell you the most beautiful stories imaginable about the friends who gave me these things. It is curious, but I know of no one who has such friends as I. Really, this place, which looks so poor as reflected in that sphere and in your words, stands to me for home—home—home!" She sighed with happiness.

The cruelty deepened about the old man's mouth and the kindness glowed in his eyes.

"You mean," he said, "that this common place is a Symbol of Home. In this respect, I perceive it is not Truth which you desire, but the Symbol. It is the possession of that which makes you content. But come, perhaps I have something more to your liking. Here, madam, is the portrait of your husband as he is." And he undid another wrapping and held up another sphere.

There she saw shadowed forth the figure of a man—a man small of stature, inefficient in his actions, petulant, narrow, affectionate, fairly honest, rather discouraged; a man with no strong passions, no deep or original thoughts, no brave sins, no capacity for great sacrifices. Yet one going faithfully his quiet way, returning always to his home at night, and, in his pallid fashion loving his wife, though often forgetting to tell her so by word or look.

"You see!" cried the Merchant of Truth. "This is a very revealing little trinket. It will, if looked at often enough, liberate you from that domestic servitude which you now endure with maudlin patience. Will you buy it?"

"No, indeed!" cried the woman who ever kissed me on the lips. I remember well the first time he did so. It was at sunset, in a beautiful grove. The golden light fell down between the tree trunks, making them black. I felt all the beauty of the world throbbing through me and I comprehended how incomplete it would be without love, and how I was blessed. A wonderful vision came to me and I knew what life and work meant, so I put my hand in the man's, and always he and I have kept together. And now we have a son and are a part of the future. Oh, you have no idea what this man stands for to me!"

The old man smiled significantly.

"He also is a Symbol, I see," he said with contempt. "It is not what he is that makes him dear. It is, as you say, what he stands for. It is because you must feel the wifeliness in you, because he gives you an excuse for your feminine sarifices, that you cherish him. He is the Symbol of noble and protecting love—no more."

Then he revealed to her—somewhat doubtingly, for he was beginning to see that he should not find in her a ready purchaser—a little wondrous iridescent sphere.

"Here," he said, "is the Truth about your son."

Now, so curious a thing was this, that even the sphere of Truth had been affected by dreams, and it was some time before their beautiful prisms dispersed and showed her the pitiful facts—a little spindling child, petulant like his father, narrow of brow, with a face in which selfishness and affection ever kept war. The woman spoke in great anger:

"I have a mind to show you the door," she said. "Do you not know that is my little child? He is bone of my bone and flesh of my flesh, and sweeter to me than the night or the day. Why, when his little hands tug at my skirt and I feel myself his prisoner, I would not change my service for all the freedom in the world. When I hear him cry out in the night, I am filled with poignant joy, and at morning when his bare feet come pattering down to my room I give thanks for the day that brings me this delight. It is true he is not so bright as some children, and that he he is fretful and often ill, but, after all, he is the core of life to me."

He is a Symbol," said the old man in terrible accents. "It is not what he is but what he stands for that makes him so unutterably dear. Any other child would do as well to quench the mother-thirst."

The woman made a passionate disclaimer and declared she wished for none of his wares.

"I am done with you, madam!" shouted the man. "Yet, no, upon reflection, not quite done. For your disregard of the value of my wares you shall be properly punished. Behold, here is the Truth about yourself!'

And he held up to view another sphere. The woman looked long and the color came and went in her face. Her little hands clasped and unclasped, and once she would have fallen had not the old man supported her. But after a time she pushed the sphere away.

"There is a mistake somewhere," she said, in a voice at once joyous and humble. "All of these things are true, I know, yet, somehow, that is not I. There is something within me, not seen by anyone, not understood by myself, which makes me different from that. It is the thing that causes me to be careful of my life, which leads me to believe that I shall live again and which lets me walk among my fellows with my head held high. It is the innermost self, the secret and eternal Me."

"It is a figment of your brain," scoffed the old man, "a piece of legerdemain of the psychologists, a ghost conjured up by the churchmen!" He was trembling with anger, yet his eyes betrayed a defeat. "Come," he cried, "confess!"

"I can confess nothing sir, except that as soon as you are gone I shall comfort myself for all the Truth you have shown me, with my sweet Symbols. I did not know till now that I lived by them. But now that I know it I am all the more protected against sorrow and sin and falsehood. I am only a poor woman and ignorant, yet this I know, that in my Symbols hides a greater truth than your Truth knows. Farewell, sir, and come this way no more."

"Love's Labor's Lost."

A popular young married man of Brooklyn Heights who has a horror of what he is pleased to call "fussing" returned home one evening with a very perceptible limp in his gait, but refused any information beyond the fact that he had "slipped and wrenched the blamed thing." After hearing stifled groans and exclamations during dinner and after, however, his wife announced her intention of taking a hand to relieve the situation. She knelt before him, took off his shoe and stocking, brought in all the remedies she had ever heard of for a sprain, and after an hour's massaging and bandaging arose triumphantly with the remark:

"There, doesn't the foot feel better?"

From behind the paper which her husband had been reading during the operation there came back: "I presume it would if it had happened to be the right one."

THE CLINGER AND THE POOR CLINGEE

The impression is general that the "clinging vine" is of feminine gender. Not so, my children. More often than is supposed the clining vine is a male. The chief difference in the vine clings openly, frankly, making no pretense of strength, while the male vine puts on a front to the world and clings like an English Ivy in private.

We do not so much mind the woman who clings. We can shoulder her troubles and give of our sympathy and help her to stand on her own feet, and do it cheerfully, and for an indefinite time; but the male clinger?—he is a perversion of nature, unnatural, incongruous. He is weakness where he should be strength. His cravings for support and sympathy is a kind of shock to the feminine mind. His constant demand for encouragement is a drain upon our vitality, and, sooner or later, the limit of our patience is reached, there comes a feeling of revulsion too strong to be suppressed, and the male clinger, to his intense astonishment, finds himself despised.

Much is written and said of the man who tells his wife nothing of his business affairs, but how about the man who tells his wife all of them?—at least so much of them as cause him worry. He cannot rest nights because the man heavily in his debt is on the verge of bankruptcy, and why should his wife sleep so soundly? He wants her sympathy, he wants somebody upon whom to unload, so he saddles her with his troubles, which she bears along with her own daily annoyances—annoyances which do not disturb him in the least.

The pleasant things in his business life the clinger takes as a matter of course, he forgets to mention them, but he comes home on the high 'lope to tell his troubles. And his wife smiles and soothes and comforts him, and he puts on his bold front and goes out again, leaving her scared stiff inwardly, for business entanglements seem infinitely blacker to a woman than to a man.

When the clinger is away his letters have the cheerful effect of death notices upon the recipient. "He is crazy with a jumping toothache; missed his train and had to walk miles in the rain; terrible cold and high fever; expensive trip and doubtful of sufficient funds."

From habit alone he is writing his troubles and demanding sympathy, though he is perfectly well aware that they will have passed by the time the letter reaches its destination. A dentist takes his tooth out and a hot lemonade cures the cold, while his bank wires money, and he is contentedly continuing his journey at the time his wife sees him in a strange hotel, penniless and tossing in delirium.

Agenuine illness is "pickings" for the clinger. He can fold his pale hands and look almost like a corpse. The pressure he extracts from describing his sufferings and symptoms and inquiring weakly "if he ever will be well" is almost compensation for some real pain.

The Slough of Despond is the natural habitat of the clinger. When he is not feeling unnecessarily chesty over some slight achievement he is convinced that the Fates are crouching like a cougar on a limb waiting for him to come along. At such times he absorbs sympathy like a sponge. He is Old Man Trouble's own son. Failure is stamped on him like a brand on a Texas mustang, he declares—waiting to be contradicted—and he hints that the only solution to the problem is for him to remove himself by his own hand, though everybody knows he would fight like a Frenchman in a fire to save his own life.

The clinger must be constantly assured that he is loved. He takes nothing for granted—he must be told, and that often—while any act of indifference fills him with despair and he has an eye like a hawk for slights.

To the strongest natures and bravest hearts there come times of weakness, a longing for encouragement, and to such persons one extends a quick and eager sympathy, but as sure as there will be a tomorrow so sure will a feeling of contempt grow in the heart of the woman to whom a man clings.

There are some women who seem to attract to themselves clingers—women to whom all clingers with whom they come in contact gravitate like squash vines to a trellis—not because they fancy clingers, either, but, perhaps because they are strong, sympathetic and tolerant. Women of the kind frequently marry clingers, knowing them to be such, and bolster them up to accomplish something in the world, and the wife-made clinger may appear like a sturdy oak in the public eye, but you can gamble that there is one person who never mistakes him for anything but what he is.—Philadelphia Press.

FAMOUS ATHLETE MAY BE HEAD OF HARVARD.

James J. Storrow, it is reported, has been selected by the overseers of Harvard to succeed President Eliot. In case he is, a radical change in athletic matters is predicted.

From 1879 until graduated, in 1883, Mr. Storrow held the record as Harvard's strong man, and was also captain of the varsity crew. He is a member of an old Boston family. For several years he has been a member of the Boston banking firm of Lee, Higginson & Co., and has made a specialty of patent law. He is an overseer of the university also.

For the last three years Mr. Storrow has been, and still is, president of the Boston School Board.

TWINING FREE PENDING TRIAL.

Asbury Park Banker, Sentenced to Six Years, Appeals to Errors Court.

Albert C. Twining, sentenced to six years' imprisonment for improper conduct in connection with the failure of the Monmouth Trust and Safe Deposit Company at Asbury Park and whose conviction was sustained by the Supreme Court of the United States, has filed in the Court of Errors and Appeals a petition to have his conviction in New Jersey reviewed on a point which the United States Supreme Court has declared was a case of state jurisdiction. An order has been issued keeping Twining out of prison.

Bride Shoots Herself in Wrist.

While searching through a bureau drawer at her home, No. 86 Lincoln avenue, Orange, yesterday, Mrs. Jennie Spallone, a bride of five days, shot herself in the right wrist when a revolver belonging to her husband exploded. Dr. Frederick Luongo dressed the wound, and said that the bullet grazed the main artery. Mrs. Spallone says she found a hammerless pistol in the drawer and was studying the make of the weapon when it exploded.

BOSS CARPENTERS WIN OUT IN LONG STRIKE.

After being on strike since April 1, 1907, the Morristown Carpenters' Union at that place yesterday declared the strike off, and informed its members they would be permitted to go to work for the wages and hours offered by the master carpenters and to work with non-union men. The carpenters are the last of the building trades mechanics to give up the strike started a year and a half ago.

The carpenters demanded 45 cents an hour and forty-four hours' work a week. The boss carpenters offered forty-seven hours a week and 41 cents an hour. The proposition was refused by the union and, after a few weeks, the George A. Mills Company, W. F. Berkman and Gates B. Parsons gave in to the union's demands and the union men went back to work for those firms, but the other master builders refused to accede to the union demands and in consequence the local mechanics left Morristown and sought work in other places.

FARMER TRIPLY TAXED, APPEALS FOR RELIEF.

His Cows Assessed in Two Townships; He Lives in Third.

With his herd of cows grazing in East Windsor Township, being milked in West Windsor Township, and their owner living in Washington Township, John P. Gorma, of Mercer county, yesterday put a knotty question up to the Mercer county Tax Board. He asked for the cancellation of the duplicate assessment which includes his cows in West Windsor and Washington townships.

The Gordon farm lies in three townships and he pays real estate taxes in each. The barns and part of the home are in West Windsor Township, and the remainder of the home is in Washington Township. The county board decided to cancel the personal property assessments which were levied in Washington and West Windsor townships, leaving him assessed for personal in the district in which his barns and the greater part of his house are located.

COATS AND COLORS FOR EVERY-DAY WEAR.

Colors come and colors go, but good old blue goes on forever.

Year in and year out, the school coat of dark blue serge holds its own against all rivals. The reason for this is not far to seek. The color is subdued, but not sombre, and the material sheds the dust. Blue will accord with almost any other shade; it becomes a youthful face, and it lends itself readily to supplementary adornment.

Some of the blue serge coats now worn by young schoolgirls—the majority of these are shaped similarly to those developed in black and white checks—are brightened with huge buttons of gold and silver, showing some tinge of the dark blue in their incrustations.

Other blue coats of this class have black and white checked silk collars and cuffs, and nearly all have little neckties of black or dark blue satin, with tiny gilt tassel-finished ends.

Retiring Newspaper Man Honored.

A silver loving cup was presented to Cornelius Young, who retired last night from newspaper work, in which he had been engaged as editor and reporter for forty-five years in Jersey City, by eleven of his coworkers. He had recently represented "The New York Times." Although seventy-four years old, he expects to resume writing plays, in which he was successful in his early life. He was playwright for Laura Keene, Daniel Bandman and others.

Oil Manager Weds Employer.

Announcement was made in Newark yesterday of the marriage on Thursday of Mrs. Kate Frances Young, owner of the O. W. Young Oil Company there, and William Lawrence Montrose, manager of the concern. The wedding was private at the home of the bride, No. 13 Pennsylvania avenue, Newark. The Rev. William C. O'Donnell, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church, officiated.

Actresses Identify Suicide.

The young man who was found dead with a bullet in his head in the Sterling Hotel, in Newark, on Thursday was identified yesterday by actresses performing at a theatre in that city as J. C. Smithson, son of a Nebraska ranch owner. They said he had told them that he was formerly night clerk at the Westminster Hotel, Providence. Besides four pennies, has had in his pocket a cheap wallet containing a card bearing the name of a Boston tailor. On the table was a piece of paper containing this line: "No one is to blame but myself."

Joseph M. Mathews, a Civil War veteran, died from a stroke of apoplexy at his home at Newton, yesterday, aged eighty-two years. He was a retired business man. He occasionally wrote for magazines.

BISHOP DUBS' ADDRESSES

United Evangelical's Head Speaks at Y.M.C.A. Meeting and at Two Churches.

MAKES MARKED IMPRESSION.

Preaches at First Bapist Church in the Morning and at the First M. E. Church at Night.

Rev. Dr. Rudolph Dubs, of Harrisburg, Pa., bishop of the United Evangelical church of Pennsylvania, preached to three large audiences in this city yesterday. He occupied the pulpit at the First Baptist church at the morning service, addressed the Y. M. C. A. Men's meeting at 4 o'clock and delievered a sermon to the congregation of the First M. E. church at night.

Speaking to men only in the afternoon at the Y. M. C. A., Bishop Dubs took for his subject, "The Faultless Christ." He declared that after years of research, and study of both the old and new testaments he could find no fault with Christ.

"The word faultlessness expresses more than sinlessness," he said. "Christ was not only sinless, but he never made a mistake; no evil ever came from his heart. He never repented for he had nothing to repent. He had no need of asking anybody's pardon for any thing that he had said or done. There was never a suggestion in his mind of a wrong thing.

"Many men are too meek and without self reliance; they lack symetrical rounded manhood. No so with Christ. He was like a lamb and a lion merged into one.

"There are four standards of faultlessness. The first is based on the actions of a man's life, external. As for instance, the judge deals with what he knows of the man's performances and has no knowledge of what is in the heart. Many a man is in the pen now, who ought to be out, and many are out who ought to be in. Men lack the understanding of each other's souls.

"The second standard is the artistic or aesthetic, and the third takes us into the realm of things that appeal to the sensuous.

"The fourth is the religious, divine standard, and is expressed in the words 'Blessed are the pure in heart.' If the heart is pure the conversation is pure; the lips, hands and feet are pure.

"As the sun reflects its light best in the pure chrystal waters, so God can imprint His reflection of holiness best in the pure heart.

"This is said to be the age of criticism, and the coming topic in Christianity is the subject of Jesus' birth. I find no fault as to his coming in a Jewish family. No nation was ever organized like that of the Jews, which came from one family and I have no fault to find that the oracles of God were committed to their care. What I criticise is that though the entire Bible was written by Jews, they refuse to believe in the new testament.

"I can find no fault with Christ concerning his teaching. He is the only infallible teacher that came from God and his wonderful understanding of each individual man, woman and child, and ability to read their hearts makes him worthy to be the true son of God.

"There are those who claim that the external body is a revelation of the soul, but I tell you all I doubt it. It is not a lack of love which causes men to misjudge each other, but a lack of understanding. Christ alone has this power of seeing into men's souls and therefore no human being could be the redeemer of the world.

"In my library I have all of the books ever written in criticism of Jesus Christ. I read them because I want to know what anyone can possibly find against him, and having absorbed them all my intellect still finds no fault with Christ, or neither does my heart, and I have an intense burning desire, day and night, to do something for Him."

A large audience listened to the noted preacher at the night service in the First Methodist church. His topic, "The Great Depression of St. Paul, and How He was Helped Out of it," was a most interesting account of the apostles persecutions, his two and a half years confinement in jail, and the torturous journey to Rome in the company of a lot of criminals.

The thoughts of what his reception would be at Rome, where he would no doubt be killed, made Paul very gloomy and it was in that distressed condition that his followers had found him, having gone out to meet him on hearing of his coming.

The speaker's description of the arrival of the deputation of good cheer to the discouraged apostle produced a vivid picture in the minds of his hearers, as each mention of the party was brought forward, using

In accordance with a resolution passed at a meeting of the committee composed of the presidents of the School Boards of Union county, appointed by the Union County School Board Association for the purpose of arranging for a permanent organization, a meeting of the Union County Board will be held in the Washington School auditorium, Westfield, Friday night at 8 o'clock.

The committee on consitiution will report, Deputy State Superintendent J. B. Betts, of North Plainfield, will talk on "Teachers' Contracts," and Dr. John J. Cronin, medical inspector, New York, will give an illustrated lecture on "Medical Inspection." State Superintendent C. J. Baxter, members of the State Board of Education, medical inspectors, superinendents and principals of Union county have been invted to be present. County Superintendent J. J. ## MRS. CECELIA JOHNSON OUT OF THE HOSPITAL

Mrs. Cecelia Johnson, the colored woman who was murderously assaulted by her husband, Thomas Johnson, a few weeks ago, was discharged from Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday. While she has not recovered entirely from the injuries received her condition at the present time is quite good. The pistol ball that entered her head affected both eyes but the sight of one has been saved. She will be blind in the other for life, the optic nerve having been destroyed.

Johnson will be brought before Judge Atwater for sentence, Wednesday morning. He declared when first arrested that he intended to kill his wife and was ready to accept the penalty but it is understood that several local men have petitioned in his behalf. On the other hand, prominent residents for whom Mrs. Johnson has worked have told the authorities that Johnson is deserving of no leniency and should be severely punished. They declare that he abused her for years and that all times she was a hard-working woman.

BAPTISTS AND METHODISTS UNITE TO HEAR A BISHOP.

The congregation of the First Baptist church united last evening in the services at the First M. E. church to hear again Bishop Dubs who had spoken in the morning at the former church in the interests of the Young Men's Christian Association. When the hour of service arrived, Dr. Chambliss, the Baptist pastor, suggested to his people that as the inclement weather would greatly diminish both congregations it would doubtless be for the pleasure and profit of all to have one service instead of the two, and proposed that they cross over the street and join their Methodist brethren. This they were the more ready to do, as an effort has been made of late to secure Bishop Dubs for a special address in the evening at the Baptist church, and Dr. McCrea, pastor of the Methodist church, had fraternally suggested that the congregations unite at his church.

Such indications of brotherly spirit between churches of different denominations are most helpful to the cause of religion in the community.

No Successor to Dr. Lewis.

The American Sabbath Tract Society met yesterday at the rooms of the society in the Babcock building and after some discussion it was decided not to appoint at present a successor to the late Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, as field and corresponding secretary. Arrangements were made to have Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, attend to the correspondence work, and later, at a conference with the missionary board, a field secretary will be named.

Father Pleads for Son.

John Lyons, of South Second street, was arrested by Patrolman Meyers, Saturday night, charged by his father with drunkenness and disorderly conduct. When he was arraigned before Judge Runyon, this morning, the father pleaded in his behalf, declaring that he was a good son when he was sober. His Honor suspended sentence with the understanding that Lyons sign the pledge.

Holiday Reception, for Debutante.

Mrs. John Gray Foster, of Mercer avenue, Mrs. Deuse M. Van Vliet and Miss Ruth Gray Van Vliet, of Washington avenue, have issued invitations for a reception on Monday, December 28, from four to seven o'clock at 91 Mercer avenue. Teas will follow Tuesdays in January.

HE BLAMES THE FRIARS

Dr. Stuntz Tells of Progress in Philippines Since American Occupation.

LIQUOR TRAFFIC REGULATED.

New Courts, New Schools, Decent Judges and Decent Police Among Improvements.

The great progress in mission work, together with the urgent need for more help to carry it on, especially in the Philippines, was the basis of an interesting talk by Rev. Dr. Homer C. Stuntz at the First M. E. church, yesterday morning. Dr. Stuntz is the first assistant corresonding secretary of the Methodist Episcopal church, and he has had a world-wide experience in mission work, having labored in China, Europe, South America, Mexico, as well as the Philippines.

By way of introduction he said that yesterday marked the twenty-second anniversary of his ordination as a deacon and elder under the missionary rule at Bloomington, Ill. Immediately afterward he with his wife and child started for India, where he expected to spend his life in mission work. This privilege he was denied, he said, because of physical reasons.

Dr Stuntz briefly recited how the Protestant nations of the world have been led by God to take charge of the great missionary movement, and showed that the Gospel has followed the American flag.

Turning to the Philippines, Dr. Stuntz gave a clear and comprehensive insight into the internal affairs there since the Spanish-American war, by way of comparison with affairs previous to that time. He said that the world missionary movement is closely connected with that in the Philippines.

"Twenty years ago," continued Dr. Stuntz, "I was told to keep my eyes on the Philippines. God did not want the Catholics to control India and the same proved true of the Philippines. I was told that the intolerant attitude of Spanish rule in the Islands would some day be broken, and that it would not be ten years before the doors would be open to the missionary, not by England, but possibly by Germany or Japan. We did not think at that time that America would be called upon to assume the responsibility. But nine years from that date our attention was directed to the Philippines and since then we have been committed to the question.

"I was a pastor in this country then, and I remember how I told my people what would happen in the Philippines, and I am glad that I have never since been compelled to retract one word. God has kept us there and will do so until that whole people is evangelized. Now as a nation what are we doing?

"When the United States took charge of the Islands, a reign of religious intolerance was found. The Catholic friars were in charge of everything. I could stand here by the hour and tell you of the cruelties practiced and the reign of terror instigated by these friars. We then took the hands of the clock and turned them around and gave freedom to every inhabitant. New courts were established, decent judges were appointed, new schools started, a decent police system was organized and through Legislative acts the people were given fair and equitable laws. We have made many mistakes, of course, but more progress.

"You say that not all is righteousness there, but you can say the same of New Jersey. I think that some places in this State could be improved, notably Atlantic City, but thank God you have a Governor who is not only holding the fort, but is taking the fort of the other fellow, as well.

"Before we took charge of the Philippines a liquor license was granted for $2 a year and no questions asked. Since then the fee has been raised to $800 and through the influence of the Taft Commission all saloons were abolished within a radius of two miles of every military post. This movement started in a Methodist prayer-meeting and the good work has been going on."

Dr. Stuntz in closing spoke of the arrival in the Philippines in August, 1901, of 550 school teachers and of their influence there. To show how anxious the natives are to hear the Gospel, the speaker said that on one occasion he preached for four hours to an audience of 2,000 people. Today there are Methodist churches organized in 128 cities and in all there are five hundred preaching places with a church membership of 30,000 and 400 preachers and teachers. At the close of the service subscriptions were received for this work.

Mrs. Sarah Stewart, of this city, has been a guest of Mrs. Euphemia Brown, of Whitehouse.

MRS. W. W. ST. JOHN DIES IN HOSPITAL AT TRENTON

Mrs. Barabara St. John, wife of William W. St. John, the former well known local newspaperman and at one time city editor of The Daily Press, died Saturday afternoon in Mercer Hospital, Trenton. Death was due to a fall which she sustained ten days ago and which injured her severely. She was removed to the hospital at the time but did not improve and sank rapidly until the end came.

Mrs. St. John was twenty-nine years old and was a native of Wallingford, Conn. She was married to Mr. St. John in New York eleven years ago and came to Plainfield immediately afterward. She resided here until two years ago when her husband went to Colorado for the benefit of his health, afterward returning. Mr. St. John is now connected with the True American at Trenton, where he has been living for the past six months. Mrs. St. John is survived by her parents, three sisters and a brother.

The funeral will be held at her late home, 43 Yard avenue, Trenton, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

"JIM" HUMMER VICTIM OF PANAMA EXPLOSION

Included in the fourteen men killed by the premature explosion of twenty-two tons of dynamite on the Panama canal workings at Bas Obispo, Panama, Saturday, was James L. Hummer, a New Market resident and formerly employed in Plainfield. He was employed as a steam shovelman and was buried with 100 others beneath tons of debris. His body was one of the first recovered and will be forwarded at once by the United States officials to New Market. The funeral will be held at the home of his uncle, Henry Hummer, superintendent of the Piscataway township poor farm.

Hummer was a young man and was widely known in this city. He lived with his widowed mother and one brother, Harry Hummer, of New Market. He was known to everyone as "Jim." Before going to Panama he was employed at the Pond Tool Works where his brother holds a position at the present time. He is also survived by a sister, Mrs. George Edmondson, of 646 Forty-fifth street, Brooklyn.

The accident is the worst that has taken place in the Panama canal work since the United States took charge. The blast was already to be set off and it is believed one of the electric wires was "sparked" by the arm of a steam shovel striking it. Beside the fourteen men killed, there were seventy-five injured. A train carrying 500 laborers passed within a hundred feet of the charge three minutes before the explosion.

MUST PAY MEN'S WAGES AND A FINE FOR ASSAULT

G. A. Becker, of South Plainfield, was fined $8.25, including costs, for an assault upon one of his former employes, Anthony Lukovic, and ordered to pay him $60 back wages. He was also ordered to pay Augustus Tomasiska, another man who had worked for him up to the first of the month, $30 in unpaid wages.

The cases were heard before Justice Smith Saturday night at South Plainfield, having been continued from Thursday. In giving his decision the squire commented on the fact that at Thursday's hearing the defendant had stated that he had kept no salary account in his books with the men, but that he now produced such accounts.

Becker paid the fine under protest and has appealed the cases. Mrs. Becker testified that she sometimes paid the men, and named several occasions, one one of which she had paid Lukovic $8 and a quart of whisky, and at another time to Tomasiska, $8 and a pair of shoes. She said that sometimes her husband had paid the men at home and at times in Plainfield.

Both complainants declared that they had not received any money since July, and prior to that only in small dribs, or in merchandise. Their stipulated wage was to have been $16 per month and board but after the first two months had never received more than $10 for any single month.

While they claimed they had been discharged, the defendant was equally certain that they had quit on their own accord, and that therefore they could not claim for December.

—All bills against the city must be in the hands of the city clerk by Wednesday night to insure prompt payment.

HIS BROTHERS BEAT HIM

Dominico Pasquo, Half Starved and Cast Off, is Horribly Treated.

ASSAILANTS ARE ARRESTED.

James and John Pasquo Will Be Given a Hearing Before Justice Mundy Tonight.

Dominico Pasquo, a seventeen-year-old Italian boy livng on upper Mountain avenue, appeared before the borough police last night and related a story of abuse and cruelty that resulted in the arrest of his two brothers, James and John Pasquo. They were taken in custody by Marshal Pope and Constable Pangborn, charged with terribly beating the complainant, and were arraigned before Justice Clark Mundy, the case being out of the borough proper. They waived examination and furnished bail for a hearing tonight.

According to Dominico, he lived at home with his father and brothers and was treated all right while he worked and turned in his wages. Two weeks ago he lost his place in Hand's brick yard and as he had no money to help pay the household expenses he was told to shift for himself. He lived away from home, eking out a hand-to-mouth existence until Saturday when hunger and cold compelled him to go to his relatives for food and shelter. He was told he might have something to eat if he carted some brush wood and did so but when the task was completed he was cuffed over the head and driven from the premises. He slept in a barn Saturday night and yesterday, half starved and shivering, again went to the house for assistance.

When Dominico appeared before his relatives, he says, the two brothers pounced upon and gave him a cruel beating. They not only struck and kicked him but James used a pair of pincers to pound him on the head. The father, the boy declares, stood by all the time and urged his assailants to continued attack. Dominico eventually succeeded in getting away from the place and dragged himself to borough police headquarters. His body was a mass of bruises when he told his story to the police and there were numerous abrasions on his head, evidently caused by the pincers.

Plan Extensive Improvements.

The members of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold an important meeting Wednesday night, when there will be a discussion regarding extensive repairs to the church edifice, making it more up-to-date. ## J. D. LOIZEAUX'S HOME ENTERED BY A BURGLAR

The local police were notified early this morning that a burglar had entered the home of J. D. Loizeaux, on East Second street, near Richmond, during the night. The articles taken included a woman's gold watch, a fur coat belonging to Mrs. Loizeaux, and two craventies. A large amount of silverware and other valuables were within easy reach but were not touched.

An investigation showed that entrance had been effected by raising a window which had been left partially open. The police discovered tracks in the light snow leading from it to a barn on an adjoining property. They furnished a clue that will probably result in the arrest of the burglar, in all probability an amateur. The robbery was committed be wtene10 HOd I lEfill between 10 o'clock last night and 6 this morning.

GOOD USE IS MADE OF HOSPITAL BEQUESTS

Several years ago, when the new hospital buildings were built, the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg resolved to meet a deficit in the amount needed to complete the buildings by appropriating to that purpose certain memorial funds that had been left by will to the institution. The amount of the memorial funds so appropriated was $15,143.38; and, in accordance with the by-laws of the hospital, the tablet was erected last week commemorating the names of the twelve donors whose bequests made the completion of the buildings possible. Among those whose names now stand on that bronze tablet where everyone who enters the hospital may see them, are some of persons in humble stations in life who loved and helped the institution when living, and did not forget it when they died.

All gifts by will to the hospital are permanently invested, and the income only is expended in the maintenance of the work, that course being laid down in the by-laws; and that course was departed from in 1904 only under special stress of circumstances, the buildings and the bronze tablet forming a lasting memorial.

MISS DORA SCHICK IS THE BRIDE OF JOHN KELLY, JR.

Announcement is made of the marriage of John Kelley, Jr., son of John Kelly, of New street, and Miss Dora Schick, of Dunellen avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. B. M. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's church, on Friday night, last, at 7 o'clock in the rectory of St Mary's church.

The attendants were Miss Etta Trembley and Miss Catherine Kelly, the latter a sister of the groom. It was a private wedding, owing to the fact that the bride is not a member of the church. Her home was formerly in Pennsylvania, but she has resided in this city for the past three years. The groom is a machinist and is well-known in this city.

A Sad Mission.

Upon the invitaton of the family, the members of the Loyal Band, Sunday-school class at Trinity Reformed church, of which Miss Henrietta M. Kreitling was the secretary, visted the home on West Front street, yesterday and were permitted to view the remains of their departed member.

Wardner Williams Here.

Wardner Williams, of Denver, Col., was in Plainfield yesterday and attended a meeting of the American Sabbath Tract Society. He is a trustee of Milton College, Milton, Wis., and at one time was in charge of the musical department of the Chicago University, under the late President Harper.

Miss Petrie Returns Home.

Miss Genevieve Petrie, principal of the Irving School, who was a member of the party of school teachers that went abroad several weeks ago, to study school conditions in England, returned home Saturday night, after a delightful trip.

Funeral of Hugh S. Laing.

The private funeral service of Hugh S. Laing will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 o'clock from the home of Will F. Willams, 56 Westervelt avenue. Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, will officate.

MAY LOSE BIG BEQUEST

Sister Seeks to Break Hewitt Will Which Provided $200,000 for Local Charity.

BITTER LITIGATION EXPECTED.

The Netherwood Fresh Air Home Gets Fortune if Mrs. Arnot's Efforts Fail.

Plainfielders generally will be interested in the litigation by which Mrs. Charlotte H. Arnot, an aged and wealthy resident of Elmira, N. Y., will seek to break the will of her brother, Frederick C. Hewitt, an eccentric bachelor of Owego, N. Y. He died on August 30 last, bequeathing large sums of money to various institutions, including the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, as well as the Little Missionary Day Nursery, of New York. The sum of $200,000 was left to the Netherwood Fresh Air Home and $100,000 to the Day Nursery.

The litigation which promises to develop into one of the most bitterly contested legal battles ever waged in New York State will be begun tomorrow in the Surragote's Court of Tioga county, New York. Besides leaving vast sums to different institutions, Mr. Hewitt named the Metropolitan Museum of Art as the residuary legatee of his estate, which has been appraised at more than $5,000,000.

Though no authoritative announcement has yet been made as to the specific grounds on which the contestant is to attempt to set aside the instrument, it is generally believed that the charges will be those of unsound mind and undue influence. It is said that while he remembered many institutions with large sums, he gave amounts not to exceed $100,000 to relatives and cut off his sister, who is his sole surviving near relative.

It is reported that "there is a woman in the case," who influenced Mr. Hewitt. The woman referred to as the one alleged to be responsible for the making of the surprising will is supposed to be Miss Sarah Peck, of Owego, an elderly woman of refinement and intellectual attainment, and the daughter of the late Rev. Philetus B. Peck, who years ago was pastor of the Baptist church there. It was while calling on Miss Peck that the multi-millionaire was fatally stricken with apoplexy. Much to the surprise of everyone in Owego, Miss Peck was not named as a beneficiary of the will.

The case presents several peculiar aspects: For instance, Gordon H. Pumpelly, a nephew of the testator and one of the executors of the will, is placed in an extraordinary position. As executor of the estate he is obliged to defend the contest. In the event of a decision upholding the will Mr. Pumpelly will receive a bequest of $50,000, besides his fees as executor, which will amount to about $40,000 more. If, however, the case is decided in favor of the contestant, Mr. Pumpelly will lose his legacy, and the property will be divided among the sister, niece and two nephews of the dead man. As Mr. Pumpelly is one of the nephews his share of the division would amount to about $1,000,000.

Turner, Rolston & Horan, of New York, will appear at the hearing for the Little Missionary Day Nursery, while Campbell, Harding & Pratt, also of New York, will represent the Netherwood Fresh Air Home. A number of prominent attorneys will appear as representatives of the various interests.

Reform School for Bad Boy.

Franklin Washington, an eleven-year-old colored boy, was arraigned in the city court, this morning, charged by his caretaker, Mrs. Peterson, of West Third street, with incorrigibility. A previous charge of gross misconduct in the Washington School had been made against him last week and Judge Runyon decided it was time for summary action. He accordingly remanded the boy in Mrs. Peterson's care while the police make arrangements to send him to the reform school.

High Schools Meet Today.

When the two high school basketball teams come together this afternoon at Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, there will be one of the hardest fights ever waged in that kind of a contest. It is the second of the interscholastic league championship games and what makes it even more interesting is the intense rivalry between the Plainfield and North Plainfield schools in all athletics The game will be called at 3:30.

Two League Games Tonight.

Two important basketball games will be played tonight at the Y. M. C. A., beginning at 8:15. The Leaders will meet the Auroras, and the Comets play the Meteors, both contests bing in the local league championship series.

OCTAVE THANET'S story of "The Lion's Share" is a thoroughly readable story. It will be found satisfying by the reader who likes a tale of plot and incident sharply and well told. It has good characters and good dialogue. It is entertaining by reason of its abundant puzzle—by the skillful building of this and by the equally skillful dissection and elucidation of it. We have read it with entire and unusual interest and gratification. It is all right. A fine detective story.—New York Sun.

BASEBALL.

Ban Johnson and H. C. Pulliam are going to California immediately to look into the claims of the outlaw league for protection under the national agreement. If it is decided to admit the outlaws to organized baseball Hal Chase will be forced to return to the New York Americans or quit the game. Manager Stallings still insists that he has had no dealings with Chase, but baseball men generally declare that Stallings will have the star first baseman in line when the spring practice begins at Macon. President Hedges of the St. Louis Browns said the other day that Chase is one of the greatest ball players that ever put on a uniform and that even in spite of his erratic temperament he would rather have Chase on first base than anybody else. If Chase decides to apply to the commission for reinstatement he will probably have to pay a fine of $200 or more before he can be eligible to play under Stallings management.

It is a fact that some of the American League club owners were rooting against the Detroits toward the end of the recent pennant race for the reason that they did not care to see them take part in the world's series because of their disastrous defeat at the hands of the Cubs in 1907. These magnates were pulling for either the White Sox or the St. Louis Browns to get into the series with the Chicago Cubs and were undoubtedly disappointed when Detroit won the flag.

Elberfield will not be a member of the New York Americans next year. That has been settled, and the first favorable offer for his services will be accepted. Several managers want the once great shortstop, but they are not willing to give up his equivalent in playing talent.

From all accounts the Boston Americans have picked up a fine young player in Hooper of California. He is 21 years old and is a civil engineer, having been employed for a time on the new Western Pacific Railway. He played his first professional baseball engagement last season as a member of the Sacramento club in the outlaw circuit, but is not on the blacklist as a result. He was the fastest man in the league, batting .341, against such pitchers as Stricklett, Moskiman, Henderson, Brown and others. Hooper is an outfielder, and President John I. Taylor, who discovered and signed him for Boston, says he will make good.

The National League clubs in Brooklyn, Boston and St. Louis are in search of managerial talent. The owners of these clubs have always regarded themselves as expert baseball judges, and for that reason the opinion prevails that managers are not permitted to exercise absolute authority while in their employ. The fact that Boston, Brooklyn and St. Louis have been practically out of the pennant races in recent years shows conclusively that there is something radically wrong.

Matthew Cashin, formerly of this city, but now of Newark, has been visiting friends in town for a short time.

BALLANTINE BARN BURNS, TEN HORSES PERISH.

In a fire in which the $25,000 barn on the Post road, about two miles from Bernardsville, owned by Mrs. J. H. Ballantine, was totally destroyed shortly after 1 o'clock Saturday morning, ten horses were burned to death. Tons of hay, hundreds of bushels of grain with several farm wagons and farming utensils were also lost in the fire.

The crackling of the flames awakened William McGarry, superintendent of the farm, and who lives about two hundred yards from the barn. Hastily arising, the superintendent saw the structure burning fiercely, the blaze lighting up the country for miles around. After sounding the fire alarm, calling the Bernardsville Fire Department, McGarry succeeded in getting several cows out of the barn, but was unable to reach the horses. When the firemen, who were delayed by the bad condition of the roads, arrived the structure was almost in ashes.

How the fire started is a mystery. The barn, which was one of the costliest in the State, stood about two miles from the Ballantine residence and a short distance from the home of Colonel Kuser.

—The December term of the Somerset County Courts will open tomorrow.

—The Councilmanic street committee will meet Thursday night to discuss several matters to be presented at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, Monday night.

WILLIAM IRA GASTON DIES AFTER OPERATION.

William Ira Gaston, cashier at the Jersey Central's Richmond street freight house, died in Muhlenberg Hospital, early this morning, following an operation performed upon him for intestinal trouble a few days ago. He was thirty-four years old and lived at Watchung and Mountain avenues. He is survived by a wife and two children, also his parents, one sister and a brother who reside at Somerville.

Mr. Gaston has been employed by the Central in various capacities for a long time and was only recently promoted to the position of cashier. He was of a genial disposition and had hosts of friends in the city and borough. He was a member of local organizations of the Foresters and Jr. O. U. A. M.

BISHOP DUBS' ADDRESSES

the exact words with which he greeted the venerable Christian prisoner.

Bishop Dubs explained that Paul was an old man and had come to believe that his days of service to his God were at an end, which had added to his sadness. All was changed, however, when the messengers arrived. He said that there was an inclination at the present time to push aside the aged ministers of the gospel and fill their places with young men, but that it was hard for one to quit when he had spent so long a time in the work. It was with them as with the old cavalry horse, which had been retired to service on a farmer's truck cart, but on being near an encampment and hearing the bugle sound, dashed into the ranks, truck, farmer and all. He said that as for him he would rather preach than eat and that the place upon the pulpit was the most precious spot in the world.

"Never be ashamed," the bishop said, "to honor the aged. Revere them for what they have done and go to them as a deputation of cheer."

The bishop's discourse at the Baptist church dwelt principally on the benefits of the Young Men's Christian Association to young men. He believed it to be the greatest agency in working for their good, in the entire world, and declared that the association, together with the young people's societies of the churches, were the fulfillment of the prophecy of his text, "Your sons and your daughters shall prophesy and your young men shall see visions." He held that as Isaiah was the prophet of the redemption by the cross so Joel was the prophet of Pentecost.

Bishop Dubs has no official connection with the association but is one of its most devoted friends, and is often called into its service for sermons and addresses. He is a man of seventy years, perhaps, of large mould physically as well as in heart and mind. He is quite informal in style, makes no effort to be rhetorical or eloquent, uses notes in an easy way, much as a lawyer does his brief before a jury, and never fails to hold the attention of his audience. He is instructive, deeply earnest, sometimes quietly humorous, always impressive.

PERMISSION IS NOW GIVEN TO HOPE.

The makers of the fashions say, hopefully, that there is upon us a season of sensible shoes.

The new shoes are dainty and neat and smart, to be sure—trig little pumps and boots with the new concave Cuban heels. But they are comfortable. Many of them are of suede; many more are of soft gunmetal kid.

They have heavy soles, these new walking shoes, and they are cut in shapes at once pretty and sensible It is no longer the style to wear tight boots.

Also, and perhaps this is the sanest tidings of all, it is no longer the style to wear low shoes in cold weather. The exasperatingly self-assured young person who tells you, proudly, that she "always wear oxfords," oh, yes, all the year round, of course, is no longer considered distingue or well dressed. She is merely considered silly. If she is really smart and modish and trim she wears during the winter months high-buttoned boots.

Not, to be sure, that we are approaching an era of square toes and spring heels. Far from it! But we are learning, it may be, in this matter of footwear, to combine "style" and sense.

Disarmed.

"What did your wife say when you got home at 3 o'clock Wednsday morning?"

"Oh, I fixed it all right. She was sitting on the stairs waiting for me, but as soon as I got the latchkey in place I spoke up before she could say a word and told her I had won seven dollars—and she asked "Who's elected?' and went back to bed."

Early Advantages.

"If the human race was evolved from monkeys, it at least has the satisfaction of knowing that its ancestors were intelligent," said the thoughtful thinker.

"How's that?" querier the dense party.

"They were educated in the highest branches," explained the t. t.—Kansas City Journal.

One Remedy.

"It says here," began the lady who could do more talking in one day than six phonographs and five parrots combined, "that after a balloon has ascended to the height of six miles its occupants dare not open their mouths."

"Will you go up, Maria, if I buy a balloon?" asked her husband, desperately.—Answers.

Different Now.

Enpeck—You don't act like you did before we were married.

Mrs. Enpeck—Why don't I

Enpeck—I don't know why you don't—but you don't. When I first proposed you said "Yes." Now every time I propose anything you say "No."—Chicago News.

THE GIRL AND HER POINT OF VIEW.

So many young girls leave home, says Katherine Moody Spalding, because they are ambitious to do the greater things in the world that they read about others doing. They despise the making of home pleasant for the dear father and mother and looking after the comfort of brothers and sisters.

It is natural for some to be great, but not all can be spared to fill these high places. Duty comes first.

Ambition is commendable, and we are glad when we see it in young folks, but one must not mistake restless spirit or a covetous one, for a worthy ambition. There is a marked difference between them.

Some girls are forced by circumstances to leave home to earn wages. To such we would say, do the best you can, be noble and keep your womanliness and femininity unmarred by the friction with the world Do that which is the most congenial and do it thoroughly and fondly. You will be honored as a brave girl.

But if doing so would it not be better for the daughter to remain home, whose presence in its is a comfort to her family, whose manners are polished until charming by the love she wins for herself by her devotion to her town, we would urge that she be contented to stay right there until Prince Charming claims her for his own kingdom. She will grace it all the more beautifully and be all the dearer to those who come into it for her lifelong training in a home under the wings of a good mother and father.

So many girls fret against the restrictions of home that their parents are glad to get them into some office or business where they will be more contented. Is this fair to their training and tender care during the years of helpless infancy? Does not the girl owe them something beside the privilege of feeding and clothing her?

Perhaps a mother might do well to put some of her household responsibility on her shoulders, so that she may have less leisure in which to get restless. But if doing so would it not be wise to give her some pay for it so that she can have the coveted pin money which makes her chum independent? Get at the girl's point of view. This is a work-a-day world and we need not be surprised that our girls get the fever in their blood and listen impatiently to call of the office. Dishwashing and mending seem very commonplace as compared with being dressed up all day and playing the keys of a typewriter. Girls love pretty things and see thus a way to get them, but if this means sacrificing the home, selfishly leaving work they should do to older and weaker hands, and giving up the pretty charm of the sheltered home girl, is not the cost very great? Can they afford to do this thing for the sake of personal vanity?—The Philadelphia Inquirer.

PATENT LEATHER SHOES IN WINTER TIME.

Have your patent leather shoes cracked yet? It is time to look out for them.

Patent leather shoes are not an economy in cold weather; their life is as precarious as is the new-born kitten's in a cat-hating household.

Unfortunately they are the only kind of shoes worn for most formal afternoon occasions, and the girl who hates cracks and is limited to one pair of dress shoes a season is in a bad fix.

If she is provident, however, she can prolong the life of the leather surprisingly. Here are some rules given by a shoemaker which may help.

Warm the leather by rubbing gently with the palm of the hand before putting on the shoes.

Do not go immediately out-of-doors after donning patent leather.

On bitter cold or snowy days walk around in a room with the windows open for five minutes before going into the street.

Never wear overshoes over patent leather. If it gets wet or muddy wipe it dry as soon as possible.

WAISTS MAY BE MADE OVER.

The waist of last year need not be thrown away as hopelessly out of date.

I saw such a pretty waist the other day that had been made over with so little trouble and expense that I want to describe it.

It was a rose color nun's veiling of last year's design pintucked to yoke depth and three-quarter sleeves

Ten yards of narrow rose color ribbon at five cents a yard worked the transformation, says the New York Evening Telegram. Strands were run from the neck inclosing a group of the tucks and ended below the yoke in a double diamond, the lower one the smaller of the two, the point of the latter ending a few inches above the belt.

Upon each shoulder similar strands were placed, this time ending in one diamond below the yoke.

The full sleeves were made tight-fitting and the scraps cut away were pintucked and then formed into deep cuffs held in place with the ribbon arrangement.

The result was a very pretty afternoon waist, for the glossy ribbon was just what the sombre nun's veiling needed.

ANGER AND THE CONSTITUTION

Every time you give way to impatience or anger you shorten your life by a calculable portion of time. The next time you get very angry just study yourself during the reactionary period. You will notice that you are very depressed and sad, that your blood is sluggish, and that your digestion is all wrong. The reason of this is that in your moment of anger you expended three or four times the ordinary amount of bodily tissue. As a consequence, you cannot be your normal self until the ovedrawn tissue is replaced. You will not that people with very bad tempers never live very long, the excessive drafts upon the physical makeup eventually exhausting the latter. A certain amount of reasonable anger, as occasion may require, often, however acts upon the system as a vertable tonic.

THE EMPIRE ROBE.

Is it to go?

Indeed, no, the empire gown is not declining in favor, and the clever arrangement of this season's fashion will make it more admired than ever. The very short waist is finished with wide plaited shoulder bands, and the little square between the two wide pieces is shirred very full and banded with fine Oriental braid, the same as the shoulder pieces. It has a tiny square neck and shoulder puff sleeves. Last season the prim little short skirt to the empire was was quite the rage, though this type shows a very full skirt and a train. Naturally, the bands are all primly placed. One dress made in this style showed the outlining braid on the shoulders extending in strips to the very hem. The short waist was girdled with a soft fold of silk.

ENORMOUS MUFFS.

Sumptuous is the only word that expresses the newest muffs. Some of them are simply immense in regard to size and all are of the rishest furs. Even the fancy muffs are extremely large.

One on this order fashioned from caracul was made with flaring ends faced with black satin, box-pleated and edged with a ruching, black silk cords adorning the front, a regular granny muff, indeed.

Chinchilla and black lynx muffs resembled veritable pillows and ten pelts of the little ermine went to make a single muff, while a fashionable one in Parisian lamb took as much fur in its construction as a small coatee.

Your Note Paper.

A dainty letter comes like a well-groomed person and it is cordially received. One considers a letter written on cheap linen paper as something very far removed from good taste. It is always a mark of refinement to use good stationery, and good varieties are found at reasonable prices. A paper that is well liked for the correspondence exchanged between friends is a dull, lustreless white, the envelope being almost square and the point of the flap reaching almost to the bottom of the envelope. Comparatively little colored paper is now used, and very few odd-shaped envelopes.

A Handy Blouse.

Hunter's green taffeta is a pretty material for a silk shirt waist to be worn with a green broadcloth skirt. The waist is made very plain with plaits over the shoulders, leg-o'-mutton sleeves, and a smart little white collar and black tie. It is a serviceable waist for a school girl, and may be remodeled at times by the addition of lace sets.

FLAMES DEVOURED NEW BRUNSWICK EDIFICE

Fire destroyed the St. James Methoditt Episcopal church at New Brunswick early yesterday morning. causing a loss estimated at about $25,000, partly covered by insurance.

The fire was discovered by James Quackenboss, one of the trustees of the church, who was passing the edifice. He alarmed the pastor, the Rev. F. C. Uhl, who with his family, lives in the parsonage adjoining the church. All escaped in safety.

Chief John Puerschner summoned all the fire companies in the city. The damage was confined within the heavy stone walls of the building. The lofty steeple was saved. It may have to be torn down for safety.

All of the New Brunswick pastors offered their churches to the congregation, and services will be continued next Sunday, probably in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church.

St. James Methodist Episcopal church was built in 1860 and was first known as the Bayard Street Methodist church. It was the most beautiful church in that city, having fine stained glass windows and being of Gothic design, with a steeple 160 feet high, on which stood a golden cross. The original cost was $75,000. When it had financial trouble years ago James Bishop contributed liberally, and the church was then named St. James.

There is $15,000 insurance on the property.

One of the city fire alarm bells is in this church, and this bell called the firemen.

THE TEMPER AND THE COMPLEXION.

Temper and clear complexion are not on friendly terms.

The girl who has a very quick temper must expect to have trouble with her complexion. Sometimes red spots come out prominently and refuse to be hidden even by powder. Sometimes there is a flush, and when it disappears the skin is quite dry and feels almost painful.

The cause of all this is the excitement of getting angry. Very little can be done for the skin while the temper remains unchecked. Perhaps it would be a good idea for the girl who is worried about her poor complexion to examine herself to find out if a nasty temper is the cause of the mischief. Should this be so, let her set about gaining self-control before she attempts to improve her looks by the application of creams and lotion.

THE HYDRANGEAS.

The half-hardy hydrangeas, that have been out of doors all summer in pots or in the ground, may either be grown along in the house during winter or rested in the cellar until spring.

For house use pot at once, water well and set them in the shade to recover. Those that are already potted must be brought in before frost, or, if they do not seem to be thriving, they may need to be repotted. Keep them in a moderate heat indoors and water regularlq.

If hydrangeas turn yellow after transplanting they can be set in a cold room, where they will not freeze and give less water for a month or more, when they will soon recover.

If the hydrangeas are to rest all winter, keep them in a dark cellar, where they can remain until they begin to grow, when they must be brought into a lighted room, or they will become weak and sickly.

The Street Garb.

The Denise is a smart walking costume of gray tweed with a half length coat opening over the front of the waist, displaying a narrow white cloth vest beneath. The lower portion of the coat is slightly ripped and losed down the front. The skirt is rippled to match the coat, and each seam at the knee line is trimmed with a short horizontal strap finished on the pointed end with a small gray button. The sleeves are moderately full, being the long length sleeve made close with stitched plaits from the elbow to the wrist. A small black cuff finishes the sleeve and outlines the narrow collar, extending to the top of the vest. For a tailor-made costume, this style is very attractive and is something stylish and neat for more than one purpose.

Hopelessly out of Style.

"Peter," said Mrs. Pneuritch, "I want you to have that roof taken off our garage and one of a different kind put on."

"What for?" demanded Mr. Pneuritch. "What's the matter with it."

"I heard an architect say the other day that it's a hip roof. Everybody knows that hips are out of style now."—Chicago Tribune.

Some Ribbons.

The newest ribbons come in styles which have coin dots for tie ends. The pieces are very neat. Often the coin is very flat and smooth, again it is raised and has the appearance of being embosed.

What Girls Do.

Today I read a series of letters written by girls who have "made good." All told of modest beginning, indefatigible efforts to succeed, consideration of details, advancement by observation and by filling in the yawning niches where they needed filling. Some people think it never pays to strive for the very best, that no more can be seen or found at the top than half way, yet these girls, all receiving $1,000 or more a year, started on $4 and $5 a week, and grew with the trade.

Drying Pumpkin.

Prepare a large kettleful as for stewing. Let it boil briskly until all water has evaporated, then boil slowly, stirring often until very dry and slightly brown. Put on plates in a moderate oven to dry. Hang up in cheesecloth bags, wrap in paper or put into tin coffee cans. When wanted for use take a piece the size of an egg and put a quart of warm milk over it and let it soak over night. It will be ready for use the next morning.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Henri Bernstein's great play, "The Thief," will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday night.

Richard Carle is always building up his stage roles. After a long summer in New York, he has in "Mary's Lamb," which is to be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night, a part which shows him at his best. He plays a hen-pecked husband, and since he began appearing in the role he has added lines almost every night, until now practically every sentence he utters is the signal for a laugh. Mr. Carle, however, is not the whole show, for in "Mary's Lamb" he has the support of a lot of principals who are capable of setting him a pace, and his chorus is as showy and nimble an aggregation of girls as any manager ever collected.

Next Saturday's attraction at the New Plainfield theatre will be Arnold Daly in C. M. S. McLellan's play, "The Pickpockets." This play, the latest from the pen of the author of "Leah Kleschna," is based, primarily, upon social problems as evidenced by a paralyzing strike in a Pennsylvania manufacturing town. The hero, David Murray, in which part Mr. Daly will be seen, a powerful, energetic, young business man, has built up a great steel industry along modern business lines, only to be brought to a sudden realization, by this strike, of what these so-called business methods mean when surveyed through the glass of the humanitarian. The struggle between the conflicting parties involved in the particular instance of this strike the struggle of the young capitalist to right conditions he had himself created, all these things go to make the ground-work of a powerful drama, replete in incident and situations, well piled on one another, producing admirable climaxes and a well-constructed play. Mr. Daly has been given the support of a company carefully selected by Messrs. Liebler and Company, his managers, and quite capable of doing justice to this unusual play. He will have a new leading lady in the person of Katharine Kaelred, a young Norwegian girl who has won some name for herself in England as a member of the Benson Shakesperian and Cyril Maude's companies, and in Australia under J. C. Williamson's management. Charles A. Stevenson, Albert Bruening, Gordon Johnstone, Robert McWade, Frank Gheen and Harry von Meter are also members of the cast.

MR ARNOLD DALY

Arnold Daly in "The Pickpockets," at New Plainfield Theatre Saturday Matinee and Night.

Saturday proved the biggest day at the new Proctor theatre. From 3 o'clock until 10:30, there was hardly standing room. It was also the first attempt of the continuous performance in Plainfield and proved on first trial a success. The pictures were also the best while the cameraphone and illustrated songs called for many encores. This afternoon there will be a complete change of pictures, and the leading cameraphone bill will be Mike Donlin, of the New York Giants and Mabel Hite, in their musical skit, "Stealing Home."

THIS IS FOR THE THOUGHTLESS MOTHERS.

Even the babies are not immune from "nerves," not from their own fault, though.

We hear almost too much of nerve rest nowadays, but there is not often much said of giving the baby a nerve rest.

Imagine how you would like to be danced or joggled or made to show off in all your waking hours. Yet that is the fate of the average baby from the time it is big enough to take notice.

Is it any wonder that children develop Saint Vitus dance, or get inflammation of the brain, not to speak of horrid dispositions? What they need is nerve rest.

The more you ignore the baby, the less you treat it as a prodigy, the more comfort it and you will have in years to come.

Do not have your child show off, no matter how much its cunningness may tempt you to share with friends less fortunate.

Make a practise of keeping the baby by itself the greater part of the day. It is surprising how soon, with proper training, the child will be content to lie in its crib, playing happily with a single toy or just looking around.

The Girls Aid the President.

A Western college for girls has barred the "Merry Widow" hat.

A delegation of the young women called upon the grave and reverened president.

"Would you also bar the sheath skirt?" ahey asked him.

"I would want to see more of it before I could decide," he coldly replied.

Whereupon the girls went away gigling.

SOME VAGARIES OF THE PRESENT MODES.

Net is newer than lace for the coffee coat that is so useful an addition to the winter wardrobe; but, as it undoubtedly bids fair to be a fabric with a very popular future before it, in its new square meshed design, lace will probably be preferred by many who are now choosing their models.

A coat design, with a fluch vest of chiffon neatly folded and drawn under the waist-sash, which will be threaded through the coat at the sides so that the fronts are left free, will be found most fraceful and satisfactory.

Though the use of lace and fur in company is condemned in no measured terms by stern critics in dress, who maintain that two such different materials cannot possibly agree, there is no doubt about the fact that they will be used, and do look very rich and fascinating when deftly mingled.
